THANKS SUPPORTERS

President-elect Jimmy Carter thanks his supporters at the World Congress Center in Atlanta early this morning after defeating Gerald Ford in the presidential election.

Industrial North, Old South prove too much for Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter's long, once-solitary journey from Plains, Ga., will carry him to the White House in January with a victory forged from the traditional Democratic party coalition of the Old South and industrial North.

Carter was declared the victor over President Gerald Ford early today when his electoral vote total reached 272, two more than the 270 needed for election. Wisconsin and Mississippi were the states that established the Democratic candidate's majority in The Associated Press tabulation.

Two states — Ohio and Oregon, in both of which Carter held slim leads — remained too close to call. If Ford carried both of them, Carter's victory margin would remain just two electoral votes.

The lead in California passed back and forth through the night with Ford finally declared the winner near daybreak. Later, Maine fell into Ford's cotumn.

The closeness of the vote in many states raised questions today about the status of any uncounted absentee ballots. These ballots are not handled the same way in every state and there was no authoritative count this morning of how many might still be uncounted.

In some states, they are accepted only up until the hour the polls close and they are counted with all other votes on election night. The City of Chicago is one such example.

In others, like Florida, where there are an estimated 150,000 absentee votes, they are not counted until the day after the election.

The New York vote, with its 249,000-vote margin for Carter, was already under challenge by the Republicans over alleged irregularities. However, the state election board said that some 400,000 absenteee ballots had been mailed. Any received by 9 p.m. Tuesday, the hour the polls closed, would have been counted. But a board spokesman said he did not know how many had been counted or how many remained outstanding.

The challenge over alleged irregularities led to impoundment of all 25,000 New York voting machines for the purpose of a recount.

One reaction to Carter's victory came this morning from the New York Stock Exchange, where the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 15.38 points in the first half hour of trading to 950.71. One analyst said the development was "an initial knee-jerk reaction" from traditionally conservative Wall Street.

Returning to Plains from his election headquarters in Atlanta, Carter received a tumultuous, emotional

Carter sobs at sight of friends, old town

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — The man who will become America's 39th president came home at dawn today and the sight of his neighbors and this tiny town reduced him to tears.

"I came all the way through 22 months," Jimmy Carter said, "and I didn't get choked up until I ..."

His voice trailed off. He embraced his wife Rosalynn and the two of them cried openly as 300 of their townsfolk gathered before the depot to welcome him, cheered and called their names.

Carter, the longest long shot political winner in memory, claimed his victory at 4 a.m. in Atlanta, becoming the first son of Dixie since Reconstruction to win the White House.

When his electoral vote total pushed him over the top, Carter leaped from his chair in his hotel suite, clapped his hands and shouted, "All right!"

It was a signal for his family and staff to whoop and hug and kiss, and for 20,000 supporters in the nearby arena waiting out the election to scream deliriously, dance and sing "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Carter, the first man to unseat an incumbent president since Franklin D. Roosevelt defeated Herbert Hoover in 1932, claimed his victory at the arena, forecasting a "new spirit of unity in the nation."

But it was in this little southwest Georgia town that he made his real victory statement.

Carter's entourage arrived just after first light broke over the pine trees.

He climbed to the platform of the old railroad depot, now used as his campaign headquarters, and spoke to the peple whose help and support, he said, had been essential to his long uphill struggle.

L.A. County voters nix mayor proposal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Voters have shotdown a double-barrel plan to change the structure of Los Angeles County government.

Voters rejected, by substantial margins, charter amendments that would have created a county mayor with executive powers and, in conjunction, expanded the county Board of Supervisors to nine members who would be legislators but not administrators.

Under the form of county government in effect since 1912, the five supervisors will continue to wear two hats as administrators and legislators.

With all 7,981 precincts reporting, the vote was 1,213,956 to 908,959 against the county mayor and 1,373,909 to 792,443 against the revamped board of supervisors.

Defeat of the two proposals, Props. A and B, was a victory for present Supervisors James Hayes and Baxter Ward, leaders in the fight against the change.

Ward contended that the county mayor, who would have been given executive powers over all county departments and divisions, would be a "dictator" and that county residents would not have the representation they now have under the supervisors, each of whom represents a specific area.

Ward also claimed that the cost of the proposed mayor-board, similar to what many cities have in a mayor-council form of government, would run as much as $6.5 million a year over present costs.

Proponents of the combined mayor-board system argued that separation of executive and legislative powers would provide a system of checks and balances in keeping with the federal system.

Hayakawa unseats Sen. John Tunney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Republican S.I. Hayakawa, a 70-year-old former college president who made a name for himself eight years ago by battling campus radicals, unseated U.S. Sen. John Tunney early today.

Even for California, where politics and lifestyles often tend to the unusual, the victory was a stunner for the colorful semanticist who switched from Democrat to Republican in 1973.

With 88 per cent of Tuesday's vote counted, Hayakawa had 3,157,332 to Tunney's 3,078,337 — a one per cent margin that was expected to increase as late returns arrived from traditionally Republican areas.

"I've done all right, considering I have no experience," commented Hayakawa, offering a typically dry observation as the returns in the seesaw race tilted in his favor.

It was returns early today from conservative Orange and San Diego counties which finally cemented the win for the GOP challenger. But the loss for Tunney, 42-year-old son of former heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney, was not a total surprise.

Even in a state with a 3-2 Democratic registration edge, Tunney, a former Riverside congressman, never welded a strong political base in the party during his first six-year term. The weakness showed in the difficulty Tunney had standing off former student radical Tom Hayden in a bitter primary battle last June.

In the general election, Hayakawa called Tunney "Senator Flip Flop" and charged he had a poor record of achievement in the Senate — an allegation Tunney denied.

President concedes, pledges support

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford conceded defeat today to Jimmy Carter in the 1976 presidential race.

In a "Dear Jimmy" telegram to the Democratic victor, read for the hoarse President by his wife Betty, Ford pledged a smooth and effective transition. Mrs. Ford said her husband had also telephoned his message to Carter.

"You have my complete and wholehearted support," Ford told Carter.

"It is apparent now that you have won our long and intense struggle," Ford acknowledged. "I congratulate you on your victory."

Before appearing before reporters, Ford underwent medical treatment for a hoarse throat.

Crushing defeat for Propositions 13, 14

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California voters refused to follow their popular governor and rejected a number of issues — including the financial backbone of his housing-for-the-poor program.

Besides coming out 3-2 against the farm labor initiative Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. pushed so hard, voters Tuesday refused to accept two administration-backed bond issues totalling $525 million.

However, one measure Brown opposed—the greyhound racing initiative, Prop. 13 — was given the worst beating of any California ballot proposition in the last 15 years. Seventy-five per cent of the voters rejected Prop. 13.

The Democratic governor and his hefty political ally, Cesar Chavez, saw Prop. 14 fall despite an all-out campaign spearheaded by Brown's television ads.

Rejected were:

—Prop. 1, a $500-million bond proposal to provide funds that the state's new Housing Finance Agency would lend for low and moderate income housing. The HFA recently sold its first bonds, $100 million, and Prop. 1 was to expand the program.

The vote was 57 no to 43 per cent yes.

—Prop. 3, a $25-million bond proposal to provide low-interest loans for home insulation and solar heating and cooling systems. It had the strong endorsement of Brown's Energy Commission.

The vote was 59 per cent against and 41 per cent for.

Prop. 12, a constitutional amendment to allow the low-interest loaning of Prop. 3, money also was trailing 51 per cent to 49 per cent.

Prop. 2 was approved by only about 200,000 votes of some 8 million cast.

On other issues that were not so hotly debated, Californians made it easier to discipline judges — such as Justice Marshall McComb of the state Supreme Court; and again rejected a measure that would increase the interest rate on certain business loans.

By a landslide 83 per cent of the vote, Californians approved Prop. 7, a measure that had no organized opposition. An attorney for the 82-year-old McComb said in one interview that it was designed to get him off the bench.

Backers of Prop. 5 have spent more than $800,000 this year to raise the interest rate allowable on business loans. It was soundly defeated in June, and feel this time by a closer tally — about 47 per cent of the voters approving — when more than $500,000 was spent on the campaign.

The vote was 53 percent for and 47 per cent against.

Voters approved Prop. 4, a measure strongly opposed by the University of California regents which allows the legislature to require that UC construction projects be put up for competitive bids.

The vote on Prop. 4 was 54 to 46 per cent.

Voters decided against giving the governor more time to consider a bill passed by the legislature at the end of the first year of a two-year session. The vote on Prop. 6 was 57 per cent no and 43 per cent yes.

They approved Prop. 9, which requires legislative approval of appointments by the governor to fill vacancies in offices that include lieutenant governor, treasurer and secretary of state. The vote was 66 per cent in favor, 34 per cent opposed.

Uncontroversial propositions that won easily were:

—Prop. 8, which allows non-chartered counties to elect or appoint school superintendents and give the legislature authority to allow two or more counties to form a joint board of education.

—Prop. 10, which prevents a new local government agency from imposing a property tax without approval of a majority of voters if the agency involves more than one county.

—Prop. 11, which would place unsecured property taxes on an equal basis with secured property, by requiring the legislature to adjust the rate if it decides in the future to assess property at full market value instead of 25 per cent.

—Prop. 15, which places two public members on the state Board of Chiropractic Examiners, increasing membership from five to seven members, and makes minor changes in eligibility requirements.

California may surpass 80 per cent

Low voter turnout predictions wiped out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Predictions of low voter turnouts across the state were shattered, with California voters going to their polling places under sunny skies in near record-breaking numbers, the secretary of state said.

California Secretary of State March Fong Eu predicted voter turnout would not exceed 79 per cent early Tuesday, but later revised that estimate to at least 82 per cent. She said the final vote count, to be announced today could approach the record of 88 per cent set in 1960 and 1964.

There are 9,982,115 registered voters in California.

Political pollsters had predicted that a large voter turnout would favor Carter, since Democrats make up 58 per cent of the state's electorate.

Officials in counties throughout California expressed surprise at the heavy voter turnout soon after polls opened, forcing some to revise their estimates of voting in their areas.

At San Clemente, Former President Richard M. Nixon and his wife, Pat, cast absentee ballots. Nixon aide Col. Jack Brennan said the Nixons had originally planned to spend a vacation in Palm Springs at election time, but later cancelled.

U.S. Sen. John Tunney, in his down-to-the-wire race against Republican challenger S.I. Hayakawa, voted in West Los Angeles shortly after the polls opened.

Hayakawa voted at his home in Mill Valley at about 8:30 a.m. then flew to Los Angeles where he awaited the returns.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. voted in West Los Angeles late in the afternoon, and former Gov. Ronald Reagan voted near his Pacific Palisades home with his wife, Nancy.

Asked whether either candidate's winning would affect his plans for the future, Reagan said: "No, I don't see how it would make any difference to my plans."

Reagan, who narrowly missed getting the Republican party Presidential nomination this year over Ford, has not said whether he plans to again seek the presidency in 1980.

CAUSE DEFEATED

Two supporters of Cesar Chavez and Prop. 14, the California farm labor initiative, show the strain of defeat on their faces as they hear Chavez speak about their effort late Tuesday night in Los Angeles. The proposition was easily defeated.

Rousselot overwhelms challenger

Rep. John Rousselot (R-26th Dist.), a former official in the John Birch Society, swept to easy victory for another four-year term Tuesday over challenger Bruce Latta.

Rousselot, whose district includes San Dimas, captured 65.5 per cent of the vote against his opponent's 34.4 per cent. The incumbent congressman had 111,179 votes against Latta's 58,472.

Rousselot did not campaign hard for the win because his district is more Republican than Democratic and he has held onto his seat easily in previous elections.

The vote totals showed that Rousselot of San Marino , a strong conservative, continues to dominate his district. He was first elected in 1961 but was defeated in 1962 and did not return to Congress until 1970.

JOHN ROUSSELOT

Clawson keeps his congressional seat

Rep. Del Clawson, R-33rd Dist., was returned to Congress for an eighth term Tuesday when he received 94,310, or 55 per cent of the votes cast.

His challenger, Ted Snyder, information officer at Rio Hondo College, tallied 77,037, or 45 per cent of the 171,347 voters.

Clawson, a Republican from Whittier, was the victor by an easy margin in spite of the fact that 53.9 per cent of the district's registered voters are Democrats. The district, with 197,612 registered voters, had an 86.7 per cent turnout in the Tueday election.

The district serves Diamond Bar, Walnut, Whittier, La Mirada, Norwalk, Santa Fe Springs and Downey.

DEL CLAWSON

Richardson wins almost 2 to 1

State Sen. H.L.(Bill) Richardson, R-25th Dist., won reelection in a virtual landslide Tuesday, beating challenger Ronald Barbatoe by nearly a two-to-one margin.

Richardson, whose district includes Claremont, San Dimas, La Verne, Glendora, Covina and West Covina, captured 123,358 votes against Barbatoe's 65,652.

The senator's district is strong Republican, with 226,576 registered voters. He has been confident of holding his district, and had done little campaigning.

Richardson, who was in Sacramento this morning, could not be reached for comment on his victory.

H. L. RICHARDSON

Goggin returns to Assembly job

Terry Goggin joined other incumbent assemblymen in successful bids for re-election as he returns to the state legislature with 66 per cent of the votes in the 66th district.

Of the four assembly districts within the valley, three had incumbent candidates who easily won new victories. The 64th Assembly district had no incumbent as William Campbell sought and won election to the recently apportioned 33rd Senatorial District.

Goggin, an attorney from San Bernardino, received 44,963 votes of a total tally of 68,586. Businesswoman Tamara Wolfinbarger of Fontana, the challenger, received 34.4 per cent of the turnout with 23,623 votes.

The total number of registered voters is 75,398 for the 66th District and that figure represents 65 per cent Democrat and 29.8 per cent Republican.

The district serves Alta Loma, Etiwanda, Cucamonga, Mt. Baldy, Wrightwood, Bloomington, Fontana, Rialto, Colton and San Bernardino. Ninety-one per cent of the total registered voters in those communities came to the polls Tuesday.

Upland man booked in burglaries

West End Sheriff's detectives working with Upland and Chino police recovered more than $3,000 in suspected stolen property and arrested a 27-year-old Upland man in connection with a number of recent burglaries in the West End area.

Robert Doran Andrade of 823 W. Ninth St., Upland, was arrested by detectives after he was accused of showing a stolen shotgun to an undercover officer. The undercover officer and detectives obtained a search warrant for Andrade's house as a result of the evidence. During the search of the home officers reported finding television sets, stereo units, record players, guns and jewelry all later identified as stolen.

Andrade was booked in the West End Jail this morning.

Astara plans open forum

The Astara center in Upland has planned an open forum for all members of the community on Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

According to Robert Chaney, co-director of the center, Astara would like to explain its program to the citizens in the valley to clear up some misinformation which has circulated.

"The forum will be a good opportunity to learn what Astara is and how it offers benefits to its members and to all those interested in spiritual growth or inner awareness," Chaney said.

The open discussion will be held in the chapel at the corner of San Antonio Avenue and Arrow Highway in Upland.

Chino City Council hears charges of police brutality and harassment

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Charges of police brutality and harassment were brought before the Chino City Council Tuesday night by a citizens' group which called on the council to investigate the police department.

Councilmen took no immediate action after the request by the Chino Community Action Council, but Mayor Bob McLeod ordered the issue placed on the agenda for the first meeting in December.

"There has been a failure of communications," said McLeod. "I don't know who is right or wrong here, but we appear to be on a down cycle in this . . ."

The CAC had adopted a resolution some weeks ago noting the charges of harassment by the Chino police. The complaints stem from two incidents, the DES Hall riot recently and a disturbance involving a family on 13th Street.

Nick Medina, CAC member, presented the petitions backing the charges to the council and listed seven accusations against the police. They include abusive language, destruction of private property excessive use of force, forcing indignities on arrested citizens, inflicting serious injuries on adults and children alike, inciting a riot and abuse of authority.

"We are requesting the City Council to appoint a committee to investigate these complaints against certain officers. We strongly urge that if these complaints are found valid, in the best interest of the community, that these officers be dismissed from the police force," said Medina.

Councilman Pete Garcia, apparently quite concerned, said complaints are not only coming from the Mexican-American community, "so I know there must be a problem."

Martin Salgado, CAC president, proved there is division within the organization when he defended the police at Tuesday's meeting. "We can testify that in no incidents did officers overreact. We believe it is not the policy of the police to inflict brutality and harassment."

Several other Chino residents including former mayoral candidate Robert Bertschinger and Ronnie James addressed the council and indicated there was a serious problem with the police. James gave a graphic account of beatings by police he alleged had happened at the DES Hall.

Leggett keeps his job despite scandal, probe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rep. Robert Leggett, whose re-election bid was rocked by a sex scandal and bribery probe, squeezed out a 1,200-vote victory early today as Democrats expanded their control over California's House delegation.

Despite strong GOP challenges in several districts, Democrats held on to the 28 seats they had going into Tuesday's election and added the one held by Rep. Burt Talcott, R-Salinas.

Leggett edged Republican Albert Dehr 72,203 to 70,940, or 47 to 46 per cent. Sacramento County Supervisor Ted Sheedy, a Democratic write-in candidate, ran third with 9,816, or one per cent.

Talcott, a seven-term veteran who came within about 2,000 votes of being beaten two years ago, was solidly defeated by Leon Panetta, a former Nixon administration Republican turned Democrat. With 84 per cent of the vote in Panetta led 87,744 to 76,299.

In other key races, two GOP incumbents warded off well-publicized challenges, one by the estranged wife of a congress-man and the other by a former antiwar activist.

And two freshmen Democrats, Jim Lloyd of West Covina and Mark Hannaford of Lakewood held on to districts that had previously been regarded as Republican tertitory.

The two GOP races involved Reps. Paul McCloskey of Menlo Park and Barry Goldwater, Jr. R-Woodland Hills.

McCloskey, a maverick who gained national attention for his opposition to the Vietnam war and his brief challenge of President Nixon in the 1972 GOP primaries, defeated Democrat David Harris.

McCloskey had 117,876 votes to 55,709 for Harris, who served a jail term for refusing to serve in the Vietnam war. He is the former husband of folk singer Joan Baez.

Goldwater trounced Democrat Patti Lear Corman, the estranged wife of Rep. James Corman, D-Encino. Mrs. Corman filed for divorce after her husband said their marriage was over if she challenged Goldwater.

Goldwater, the son of the Arizona senator, had 143,539 to 69,949 for Mrs. Corman, or 67 to 33 per cent.

Hannaford downed Republican Daniel Lungren, the son of President Nixon's personal physician. With 79 per cent of the vote in, Hannaford led Lungren 81,118 to 73,316, or 53 per cent to 47 per cent.

In another key race, the GOP held on to the Los Angeles beach area seat being vacated by Rep. Alphonzo Bell, who ran unsuccessfully in June for the GOP Senate nomination.

Republican Robert Dornan, a former television talk show host, downed Democrat Gary Familian, 112,675 to 93,414, or 55 to 45 per cent.

Democrats won the seat of Rep. Tom Rees of Los Angeles, the only Democratic incumbent not to seek re-election. State Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Los Angeles, defeated Republican in that race.

Leggett's troubles began in February when it was revealed that the Justice Department was investigating allegations that he had accepted bribes from the South Korean government.

Leggett said in September that he was told by federal officials that it might take another three months to complete their probe.

In July Leggett revealed that he had fathered a second family and had forged his wife's name to a deed to turn a house over to his mistress and their two children.

Despite his problems, Leggett was regarded as the favorite by most political observers in his district, which runs roughly north from Vallejo and Sacramento through a stretch of California farm country.

Democrats have a 64-30 per cent Democratic registration edge there, and Leggett, a seven-term veteran, had been regarded as a sure re-election bet before the revelations.

Republicans had hoped to make up for some of their Watergate year losses. They had targeted four or five Democratic seats they hoped to win, including Lloyd's and Hannaford's but they were soundly defeated in all but Leggett's.

Democrats had hoped to win the Bell seat and to knock off Talcott.

Talcott's district, which stretches south along the coast from Santa Cruz to San Luis Obispo, takes in both the agriculture-rich Salinas Valley and the more liberal communities around Monterey Bay.

Talcott has been in increasing trouble there as the area's Democratic registration grew. Democrats now have a 55-37 per cent edge.

Talcott, had been sharply criticized by environmentalists and was on the "dirty dozen" list of congressmen targeted for defeat by Enrivonmental Action, Inc.

Panetta was director of the Office of Civil Rights under Nixon until he was forced out by the White House for pushing equal rights programs too vigorously.

Why Carter?—voters wanted change

NEW YORK (AP) — Voters' desires for a change in Washington overcame their qualms about Jimmy Carter and their respect for Gerald Ford's experience in office, an Associated Press Poll shows.

Carter won by coaxing support from the traditional Democratic blocs, despite their feelings that he has promised more than he can deliver and that he will be a less than excellent president, the survey showed.

The former Georgia governor drew strong support from the lower income groups, labor union members, blacks and the less educated, all the traditional bases of Democratic strength.

Carter's pattern of lukewarm support proved too much for Ford to top with votes from independents and disaffected Democrats, despite the President's backers expressing somewhat greater enthusiasm for their choice.

The AP Poll, a unique cooperative effort of AP members and staffers, interviewed 2,489 voters outside 100 polling places across the country. Fifty-one per cent of the voters surveyed in the poll said they voted for Carter, the percentage of his actual popular vote.

Asked why they voted for Carter, nearly one third of the voters cited this reason:

"It was a tough choice, but I think we need a change."

That desire for a change was mirrored in the voters' personal concerns: Carter voters are dissatisfied with the government's performance in handling the economy and are still skittish about confidence in government.

The Carter backers gave these as the one or two issues that concern them the most:

—Inflation and high prices, 41 per cent;

—Unemployoment and jobs, 41 per cent;

—Trust in government, 19 per cent; and

—Tax reform, 17 per cent.

But Carter's own supporters have their doubts. A quarter of his supporters agreed that the former Georgia governor "promises more than he can deliver as president." And 19 per cent said it is hard to tell where Carter stands on the issues.

Only 22 per cent of Carter's supporters think he will do an excellent job as president, versus 59 per cent who say he will do a pretty good job.

Nearly three in ten of Ford's backers mentioned his experience in government as their first reason for voting to keep him in the White House for four more years.

About 9 per cent of the Ford voters said they had faced a hard decision, but thought the incumbent should be kept in office.

Ford voters also evidenced a great deal of concern over their government and its performance.

More than 39 per cent of the Ford voters said inflation was their top personal worry, with about a quarter saying their top concern is keeping a rein on government spending.

Reflecting the scandals of Watergate and congressional sex exposes, about 17 per cent of Ford's backers also cited "trust in government" as a major concern.

Generally, Ford's voters were more likely to judge their candidate in a favorable light on such issues as honesty, fuzziness on issues and personal compassion than Carter's backers.

The demographic characteristics of this sample closely paralled those of the voting age population. For a sample of this size, it is theorectically possible to say with 95 per cent certainty that the results will vary no more than 2.3 per cent due to sampling variations.

By demographic categories, the nation's voters tended to follow traditional patterns of party split except that Carter did less well with Catholic voters than mot recent Democratic presidential candidates.

Carter won 53 per cent of the Catholic vote, after speculation that there might be some opposition among those of that faith because of his refusal to endorse any constitutional limitation on abortion. Except for George McGovern, recent Democratic candidates have pulled in 60 or 70 per cent or more of the Catholic vote.

Ford garnered about 44 per cent of the Catholic vote and 52 per cent of the Protestant vote.

But Carter actually did better among all those — including Catholics — who favor a consititutional amendment to ban abortions. Carter drew 54 per cent of that group's vote to only 43 per cent for Ford. The candidates split the votes of those who oppose the amendement.

Carter did better among the lower income groups, while Ford drew larger and larger percentages of support with increasing income. For example, Carter drew 60 per cent of the votes from those making less than $10,000 a year, while Ford drew 70 per cent of the votes from those making more than $30,000 a year.

The former Georgia governor took two-thirds of the votes of labor union members and 60 per cent of the votes of those whose husbands or wives are members of labor unions.

Carter took just over 90 per cent of the vote from blacks, leaving a tiny percentage for Ford in that group.

In terms of education, Ford did better among college graduates; Carter did best among those with less education. The only exception to this pattern was in the group of those who have postgraduate degrees. In this group, Ford and Carter split the vote evenly.

Ford held onto Republican votes better than Carter kept the Democratic voters in his corner. About 88 per cent of the GOP partisans voted for Ford, while only 80 per cent of Democratic partisans backed Carter.

Ford also did better among independent voters, taking that group by a 54 per cent to 41 per cent margin. But, Democratic defections, the independent vote and GOP loyalty did not give Ford enough votes to best the massive edge Democrats hold in registration in most areas.

Carter won every age group except one. Those between 45 and 54 gave Ford a four-point edge. But in every other group, Carter took more votes than Ford, including an 11-point edge in the 18-24 age group.

The poll was conducted at 100 scientifically selected polling places around the country by reporters from 50 AP newspaper and broadcast members and by AP staffers and stringers.

The Roper Organization of New York City consulted with the AP staff on the selection of sample precincts and on questionnaire design. Roper also consulted on the training of poll interviewers.

Demos keep control of Congress

The Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats will retain their 62-38 majority in the Senate next year despite a change of party in 14 seats and election of 17 new senators on Tuesday.

The new Senate will have 18 new faces, including the successor to Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn. There is considerable speculation that Gov. Wendell Anderson, a Democrat. will resign to be appointed to Mondale's seat.

Thirty-three seats were at stake in Tuesday's voting. Only the unlikely appointment of a Republican to Mondale's seat could give the GOP more votes in the Senate than they held in the 94th Congress.

The last race decided was in California, where incumbent Democrat John V. Tunney lost a seesaw battle to his 70-year-old GOP opponent, former San Francisco State College President S.I. Hayakawa.

Returns from other states showed Democrats wresting seven seats from Republicans, while GOP candidates took six seats from the Democrats.

Among the election day casualties were four veteran Senate Democrats — Vance Hartke of Indiana, Joseph M. Montoya of New Mexico, Gale W. McGee of Wyoming and Frank E. Moss of Utah.

Four Republican incumbents, all of them first-termers, also were unseated. They were Bill Brock of Tennessee, J. Glenn Beall of Maryland, James L. Buckley of New York and Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio.

The Democrats, who have had majority control of the Senate since the 1954 election, went into Tuesday's election with a 62 to 38 margin over the Republicans.

The Democratic margin counts Harry F. Byrd Jr. of Virginia, who lists himself as an independent, but who votes with the Democrats on organization of the Senate.

Although the party line-up will be little changed in the 95th Congress convening Jan. 4, there will be a good many new and younger members of the Senate.

Aside from the California race, Tuesday's results meant there would be 16 new senators, nine of them Democrats and seven Republicans.

Among the eight senators who did not seek re-election were Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, both in their 70's.

Democratic Rep. John Melcher, 52, a three-term member of the House of Representatives, was elected to Mansfield's seat. And in Pennsylvania, Rep. H. John Heinz III, 37, heir to the catsup fortune, defeated another House member, Rep. William J. Green, for Scott's seat.

Hartke, chairman of the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee; McGee, chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee; and Moss, chairman of the Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee, were all running for a fourth six-year term in the Senate.

The GOP victor over Hartke was former Indianapolis mayor Richard G. Lugar, who ran an unsuccessful race two years ago against Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind. McGee was defeated by state senator Malcolm Wallop, while Moss was unseated by Orrin G. Hatch, a 42-year-old lawyer.

Montoya's re-election bid was turned back by Harrison "Jack" Schmitt, 41, a former astronaut who went to the moon on Apollo 17 in 1972. Schmitt's election gives New Mexico two GOP senators for the first time in 60 years.

It brings a second astronaut to the Senate. The first was Ohio Democrat John Glenn, who defeated then-Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum in the 1974 Democratic primary. But Tuesday, Metzenbaum made a comeback, unseating Taft. The defeats of Taft and McGee probably were the most unexpected outcomes in the Senate races.

Of the other incumbents unseated, Buckley, who ran as a conservative and then joined the ranks of the Republicans after winning an election that split more liberal votes into a variety of factions, fell to the challenge of fiery Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

Moynihan, the former ambassador to the United Nations, was a Democrat among Republicans as he served in the administrations of both Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon.

Brock lost to James Sasser, a former state Democratic chairman, and Beall was the victim of Rep. Paul S. Sarbanes.

Other turnovers were accounted for by the retirement of senators.

In Nebraska, Omaha mayor Edward Zorinsky, who switched allegiance from the Republican to the Democratic party within the last year, became the first Nebraska Democrat elected to the Senate since 1934.

Zorinsky defeated Rep. John Y. McCollister for the seat given up by Republican Sen. Roman L. Hruska.

On the other hand, Missouri Atty. Gen. John Danforth became the first Republican elected to the Senate

The House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are keeping their commanding 2-1 House control intact, a domination that could give President-elect Jimmy Carter solid backing for his programs.

With all but five of the 435 House races decided, Democrats were only two short of the 290-145 control they had in the last Congress and stood a chance of winning 291-144 control.

A Democrat was winning a 289th seat in West Virginia and two incumbent Democrats held narrow leads in races too close to call.

The two Democrats were Reps. Abner J. Mikva in Illinois and Lloyd Meeds in Washington. Election officials say the Meeds race may not be decided until absentee ballots are counted, possibly next week.

In the West Virginia race, Democrat Nick J. Rahall had a healthy 54 per cent of the vote with 94 per cent counted. But Rep. Ken Hechler, who gave up the seat to make a losing bid for governor, tried to get it back with a write-in vote and election officials say they'll make no official count until next week.

Despite polls showing public disenchantment with Washington and Congress in particular, only about a dozen sitting congressmen — including both Republicans and Democrats — were thrown out.

Women suffered a net loss of one of the 19 seats they had in the House. All 17 black members won reelection, but black people gained no new seats.

Two Democrats lost their seats in sex and bribery scandals. Rep. Allan T. Howe, convicted of soliciting sex from police decoy prostitutes, was beaten in Utah, and Democratic Rep. Henry Helstoski, indicted on a bribery charge, was defeated in New Jersey.

Democratic Rep. Robert L. Leggett was losing in California in early returns but began closing the gap. He acknowledged an extramarital affair, and the Justice Department is investigating allegations that he and several other congressmen accepted bribes from South Korean agents.

Nearly 20 other House incumbents accused of sexual or financial misconduct won.

Republicans lost 43 seats to the Democrats in 1974 largely because of Watergate. The pendulum did not swing back this time. Normally, many freshmen are thrown out when they seek re-election. But this time most of the 75 Democratic freshmen who threw out Republicans two years ago kept their seats Tuesday.

Even though the Republican-Democrat lineup stayed the same, the election pumped a big shot of new blood into the House by installing another big crop of freshmen.

Despite polls showing public disenthantment with Washington, and Congress in particular, relatively few congressmen seeking re-election were thrown out.

House Ethic Committee Chairman John J. Flynt, D-Ga., won a tough fight over Republican challenger Newt Gingrich who had charged that Flynt's committee ignored most congressional wrongdoing.

Besides Howe and Helstoski, sitting Democrats thown out included Joseph P. Vigorito of Pennsylvania, J. Edward Roush of Indiana and Edward Mezvinsky of Iowa.

Mezvinsky was a member of the House Judiciary Committee that recommended the impeachment of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Carter victor...

welcome from a crowd that included most of the town's 683 residents. He said he was looking forward to "an enjoyable next four years."

Beaming his now-famous smile, Carter told the crowd, "I told you I didn't intend to lose."

But when he tried to continue speaking, his voice choked, he turned his head and then embraced his wife, Rosalynn, who was sobbing.

"It was a long night," he said when he regained his composure. "But I guarantee you, it's going to be worth it to all of us."

The latest returns showed Carter carrying 22 states and the District of Columbia with 272 electoral votes. Ford had 26 states with 235 electoral votes.

The popular vote totals from 98 per cent of the nation's precincts gave Carter 39,833,427 and Ford 38,041,295.

With more than half the states still not reporting final voting figures, the tabulations indicated that just under 52 per cent of the 150 million American's of voting age went to the polls Tuesday.

The turnout, while far from a record, was greater than the low turnout — 50 per cent or less — some experts had predicted.

In 1972, 55.4 per cent of the voting age population actually voted. In 1968, the turnout was 60.7 per cent; in 1964, it was 61.8 per cent; and in 1960, it was 62.8 per cent.

The 1960 turnout was the highest of any presidential election year since 1920 — when universal suffrage went into effect. The lowest turnout was in 1948, when 51.1 per cent of the voting age population voted.

"I pray that I can live up to your confidence and never disappoint you," Carter told jubilant supporters in Atlanta after the results were clear. "It's time for us to get together, to correct our mistakes, to answer difficult questions and to make our nation great."

How the governor races went

WASHINGTON (AP) — Voters chose governors as diverse as the American landscape, including a Democratic heir to the Rockefeller fortunes who won in West Virginia, a woman scientist in Washington state and a Republican prosecutor who challenged the political boss of Chicago.

In the 14 races Tuesday, there were nine Democratic victors and five Republicans, a split giving the Democrats control in 37 statehouses to 12 for the Republicans and one independent. That meant a net gain of one for the Democrats.

In Missouri, a race not decided until early today, there was an upset.

Incumbent Republican Gov. Christopher Bond had campaigned hard in his heavily-Democratic state and was favored to win. But Kansas City Democratic lawyer Joseph Teasdale, waging an expensive last-minute advertising campaign, defeated him.

Teasdale often campaigned from the back of a pickup truck, successfully attacking Bond's state tax policies.

John D. Rockefeller IV, 39, who first went to West Virgnia as an antipoverty worker 12 years ago, won easily in his second attempt to capture the governor's chair in Charleston.

Rockefeller outspent Republican opponent Cecil H. Underwood by a 10-1 margin and survived recurring charges that he was a carpetbagger with plans to use his state office as a platform to national politics.

Rockefeller is the nephew of Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, himself a former governor of New York. Another uncle, Winthrop, once served as governor of Arkansas.

In Illinois, Republican James Thompson, 40, began as the underdog to Michael J. Howlett, 62, the choice of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Thompson was propelled to political prominence in the state by his role as an aggressive U.S. attorney who successfully prosecuted more than 200 persons on government corruption charges, including more than two dozen associates of the mayor.

Howlett, one of Illinois' biggest statewide vote getters in the past, won in a bitter Democratic primary over incumbent Gov. Daniel Walker, a longtime rival of Daley.

Political professionals in both West Virginia and Illinois were speculating today that Rockefeller and Thompson eventually will run for the White House.

In Washington state, Democrat Dixy Lee Ray, a former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, defeated John Spellman, a popular county executive from Seattle.

The winner, by training a marine biologist, is an advocate of more nuclear power for the state. She also served as an assistant U.S. secretary of state, leaving that post with a blast at Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for allegedly failing to share decision-making power.

In Delaware, another name recalling an American corporate dynasty won the statehouse. Republican U.S. Rep. Pierre S. DuPont, who returned all campaign contributions over $100, won easily over incumbent Democratic Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt, who found himslf enmeshed in deficit problems with the state budget.

By losing, Tribbitt upheld a 20-year-old tradition among Delaware voters of refusing to re-elect an incumbent.

In most other races, the candidates were unknown outside their states.

By winning in North Carolina, Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. restored a firm tradition of Democratic control in the state, defeating David T. Flaherty, a former state secretary of human resources.

In Indiana, Republican Otis R. Bowen, a former small town physician, captured 64 per cent of the vote to become the first governor in the state's history to succeed himself, reflecting a recent change in the Indiana constitution.

Arkansas Gov. David Pryor began the night with an early lead which expanded steadily to give the Democratic candidate a 4 to 1 landslide victory over Republican Leon Griffith, a plumber and contractor making his first try at politics.

The second of two women running for governor, Vermont state treasurer, Stella B. Hackel, lost to GOP State Rep. Richard A. Snelling.

In New Hampshire, Republican incumbent Gov. Meldrim Thomson, an early supporter of Ronald Reagan, had been expected to run a close race with Democrat Harry V. Spanos. But voters gave Thomson another two-year term by a 58 per cent to 42 per cent margin.

In another New England state, Democratic Lt. Gov. Joseph Garrahy won as expected over James L. Taft Jr., the Republican mayor of Cranston. Incumbent Democratic Gov. Philip W. Noel had run unsuccessfully in the state senatorial primary.

To the West, Democratic incumbent Gov. Thomas L. Judge coasted to 2 to 1 electoral victory over Republican Robert L. Woodahl.

North Dakota's Democratic incumbent, Arthur A. Link, defeated Republican Richard Elkin by more than 12,000 votes.

Consortium to hold its 2nd institute

The second institute by the Health Professions Continuing Education Consortium will be held Nov. 16 to 19 at The Teaching Center of Casa Colina Hospital in Pomona.

The four-day interdisciplinary workshop is designed for clinical instructors within nursing and the allied health professions.

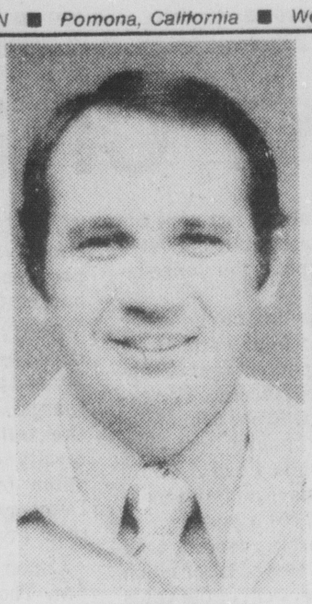
The consortium is a combined effort of the Teacher Preparation Center and Biological Sciences Department of Cal Poly Pomona; Teaching Center of Casa Colina Hospital for Rehabilitative Medicine; School of Allied Health, Loma Linda University; and Mt. San Antonio College.

Faculty from the University of Kentucky and consortium participants will provide group and individualized instruction to help nursing and allied health professionals perfect the expertise required as clinical instructors.

Both academic and continuing education credit are available from Cal Poly. The multi-media workshop is partially funded by the Kellogg Foundation.

Persons interested should contact the program coordinator, Karen Breckenridge, director, Teaching Center, Casa Colina Hospital, 593-7521.

The consortium plans a third institute March 22 to 25 at Loma Linda University Hospital.



BOB WRIGHT

Upland man takes GT job

Bob Wright of Upland has accepted the position of customer service superintendent with the General Telephone Co.'s San Fernando division office.

Wright is presently area control center supervisor in Pomona.

He began his career with General Telephone in 1965 in Dairy Valley as a plant construction installer and later was a special equipment installer in Seal Beach.

Wright entered into the management level with the telephone company in 1972 as an equipment maintenance supervisor in Monrovia and in 1974 moved to Upland when he was named area control center supervisor in Pomona. Wright and his wife, Dawn, have two sons.

Rowland teachers get wage increase okay by trustees

Trustees for the Rowland Unified School District have voted to give teachers a one-step salary increase until the issue of of which teachers union will represent certificated employes has been resolved.

School Supt. Stanley Oswalt recommended the board take the action due to a delay in the election process for teachers representatives. An election is set for Nov. 30.

Oswalt reported that last summer when he recommended that all teachers remain on their current salary schedule until a new contract had been approved he believed a fall election was probable for the selection of a bargaining unit for certificated employes.

"Now we know there will be no negotiating unit for teachers for at least another month, and we can expect the negotiating process to go on for some time after that," he said.

New collective bargaining laws require that if more than one bargaining unit applies to represent teachers that an election must be held to pick an exclusive representative.

In the Rowland district, both the Associated Rowland Educators and the Rowland Federation of Teachers are seeking to represent the certificated staff.

The school board's decision to restore step and column wage increases came after a suit by teachers was rejected by the Los Angeles County Superior Court. The suit accused the district of withholding increases.

Rowland offering upholstery class

A class in upholstery is being offered by the Rowland Unified School District at its adult school.

Instructor James Smythe said those enrolling now will be able to "complete a chair for the Christmas season and save money in the process."

Instruction will be given in upholstery for chairs, sofas, headboards, padded valances and scalloped cornices. Materials can be purchased at the school.

Classes are being offered Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. For further information and immediate registration call the Rowland Adult School office at (213) 965-5975.

Chaparral School to be dedicated Thursday night

The new $3.5 million Chaparral Intermediate School in South Diamond Bar will be dedicated Thursday at 7 p.m. An open house will follow.

The school, at 1405 S. Spruce Tree Drive, opened in September with an enrollment of 630. Roger Skinner is principal.

Architect Bill Davis will present school board President Richard Fallon a symbolic key to the school and an oil painting of the building at the dedication.

Fallon, in turn, will present the articles to Skinner, the staff and the community.

David L. Brown, Walnut district superintendent, will provide historical background of area schools and tell of services to be provided at Chaparral.

The new plant occupies a 21.59-acre site and provides 18 regular and six special classrooms. It currently serves sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

Judge rules in favor of hypnotism

WARDEN, Wash. (AP) — When Municipal Court Judge F. E. Robertson looks you in the eye, you don't take it lightly. He and his wife are professional hypnotists.

And while Robertson says he has enjoyed most of his clients, he admits he's also had "some of the meanest" people in the world to treat.

"A young ornery boy with criminal tendencies was sent to me by authorities who asked me to try to keep him from getting into trouble again," the judge recalled. "After some hypnosis therapy the boy never was in trouble with the law again and went on to become one of the best wrestlers this state ever produced."

Nor has his off-the-bench practice been limited to juvenile delinquents. He said 43 students at Eastern Washington State College in Cheney, more than 80 miles away, came to his Hypnotic Therapy Clinic when they feared they might flunk out of school.

After being hypnotized and told that their interest in school would grow each day, and that they would no longer let outside pressures hinder their concentration, Robertson says, "Every one of them passed."

In fact, he says hypnotism can cure just about anything obesity, alcoholism, chainsmoking and yes, even corns.

"If a person has an ailment somewhere, I tell the body to create the chemicals to heal the wounds," he said.

Robertson, 65, says he was a busy building contractor and was handling 500 court cases a month when a truck accident left him with a broken back.

"The doctor just about gave up on it ever healing and said I would be dead in six months unless I put my faith in God or learned hypnosis to try to heal it," he said.

Choosing the latter course, Robertson and his wife trekked south to Los Angeles to attend a school of hypnosis.

That led to a new career — the clinic at which he says he has treated thousands of persons from all over the country.

However, he says he quit accepting patients recently because of a stroke, all the while maintaining that even the stroke might have been prevented.

"If I had known even 15 minutes before it hit me that the stroke was coming," Robertson said, "I could have stopped it through hypnosis."

Company specializes in finding doctors for communities

LOS ANGELES (AP) — How to keep a doctorless town from dying.

Jeff Merkow, spokesman for a suburban company that specializes in finding doctors for small communities desperate for medical expertise, says the job isn't always easy but it can be rewarding.

"A community that doesn't have a doctor doesn't survive very long," Merkow said. "If people have got to travel some 20 miles to go to the doctor they're going to do their shopping there as well. Commerce can't survive."

He said that's when community leaders or hospital administrators call on his company to find qualified medical people for them.

In an interview, Merkow said, "One doctor we placed in Avoca, Iowa, had 500 people turn out to greet him when he came to town. The high school marching band showed up. They did whatever they could do to make this doctor feel at home and important."

But doctors sometimes have other ideas of where they want to work, he said.

"We don't have a shortage of physicians. It's simply the maldistribution of available medical personnel," he said. "Doctors believe that they can make a tremendous income in the large cities. Many doctors come to us asking to go to San Francisco and Beverly Hills, but they don't need any more doctors."

That can slow down the search and cause problems for the company, the National Health Research Organization of Northridge.

One such problem was the resignation of Roger McLaughlin, an agent who complained the company wasn't supplying doctors fast enough.

"McLaughin started working for us in Audubon, Iowa. He had been the administrator of Audubon County Memorial Hospital before he came to work for us," Merkow said. "He had an extensive background as a hospital administrator in Texas and Colorado and elsewhere."

He said McLaughlin and the firm parted company by mutual agreement. McLaughlin could not be reached immediately for comment.

Clients pay $4,000 per doctor for a contract that guarantees only that the firm will search until the doctor is located, Merkow said.

Sometimes doctors sign up quickly, sometimes not. But he said the firm is performing a needed service with contracts in 30 states.

"In Northern California we have had 18 contracts in the last year, and we fulfilled half of them," he said, adding that two doctors were also placed recently in Rushville, Neb.

He said the firm, founded in 1972 by G. R. Holmes, a biochemist with the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center, employs 12 searchers who travel throughout the nation looking for prospects. They take out advertisements in medical journals, talk to medical school graduates and sound out hospital administrators for doctors who may have expressed a wish to move.

"Most of our doctors are coming from the larger cities where the big medical schools are located," he said, although "medical schools are not our best source, since communities themselves can and do really barrage the residency programs. We have to go an extra step."

LAFC's decision on zones of influence

Montclair supports appeal of decision

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Montclair City Council will support the cities of Fontana and Rialto in their appeal of a decision by the Local Agency Formation Commission which withdrew parts of the cities' zones of influence.

Mayor Harold Hayes reported on the recent action by LAFC which overturned a previous decision several years ago which gave both cities unincorporated sections outside their city limits, or zones of influence, for future annexation into the city.

Hayes reported that LAFC had made a similar threat a year ago to San Bernardino during a conflict between the city and the county. Hayes said there should be grave concern about such obviously political moves by LAFC.

The Local Agency Formation Commission was formed as an agency to establish logical zones for future annexations into cities and to arbitrate boundary disputes between communities. Although it has the right to approve zones of influence, there is no provision that allows LAFC to withdraw zones from a city, according to Hayes.

"We should be concerned about this and voice our opinions to LAFC. We should support the cities. The decision will probably be appealed by the two cities and there is no provision for an appeal process except through the courts," Hayes reported.

The LAFC action against Rialto and Fontana "upsets the pattern of planning and the whole concept of the zone of influence . . . If this is accepted as established procedure, political pressures from other agencies could have an adverse impact. I don't think that was the intent of the law," Hayes said.

City Manager Jack Ratelle of Fontana explained that the controversy centered around a request by the Bloomington Park and Recreation District to allow expansion of that district into the zones of influence of Rialto and Fontana. The unincorporated area of Bloomington was designated partially within the zone of influence of the two cities by LAFC in 1971 and had been considered their spheres of influence since the 1930s.

The LAFC decision about two weeks ago removed four square miles each from both Fontana and Rialto zones of influence, Ratelle explained. So now rather than straight lines for the zones' eastern boundary for Fontana and western boundary for Rialto, there are "clusters of jagged lines going in and out of Fontana and Rialto," Ratelle said.

The Fontana administrator agreed with Hayes that the decision was politically motivated, saying "what it amounts to is catering to special districts." The LAFC action increased the sphere of influence of the Bloomington community, making it coincide with the Bloomington Park and Recreation District, he said.

Ratelle charged that the new boundaries have "no logic" and was in conflict with the LAFC staff recommendation that the Bloomington community boundary stay where it is and that the Park and Recreation District be cut back in territory in order not to go into the spheres of influence of Fontana and Rialto.

He pointed out that it sets a dangerous precedent by LAFC because it caters to personal, political requests rather than considering such boundaries on the technical, logical grounds that was the original intention of LAFC's function.

Thayer murder trial under way

The murder trial of a 37-year-old Alhambra man accused of the execution-style slaying of a La Puente man on Aug. 13, in a vineyard east of Ontario International Airport, has begun in West Valley Superior Court.

Roger Eugene Thayer, accused of the fatal shooting of George Michael Chavez, 23, La Puente, will stand trial in the courtroom of Judge Clifton L. Allen. Thayer is defended by attorney Lawrence E. Clark, with the prosecution being led by Deputy Dist. Atty. Wayne Gomez.

Jury impanelment began about 10 a.m. Monday with the two attorneys having a total of 26 preemptory challenges. Judge Allen told potential jurers the trial will last approximately two weeks.

Thayer was arrested by Ontario police three days after Chavez' body was found naked on a dirt road east of Milliken Avenue near the airport. The body was spotted by an airline pilot flying in to the airport on Aug. 13.

Police said that the slaying may have been committed to avenge the prison conviction of an inmate at the California Men's Colony in San Louis Obispo.

Demand up for Hughes legal news

By BOB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Taylor Moore was up to his beard in files, notebooks and bits of paper as he prepared his biweekly newsletter on the Howard Hughes legal battles.

Moore, a Houston attorney, pointed to a foot-high stack of legal documents on the left corner of his desk and said, "that just arrived yesterday and I have to read it and select what should be included in this edition."

What started out as a hobby has developed to an almost fulltime job for Moore as he sifts through the legal briefs, court transcripts, the depositions and newspaper clippings involving the vast Hughes estate.

The newsletter, usually a four-page publication, is sold to attorneys who want to keep abreast of the latest legal moves, those who may think they could be heirs, and those with just an interest in the proceedings.

Moore says he charges $3,000 a year for his service but refuses to disclose the number of clients.

Moore says he had been collecting information on Hughes "long before his death" because "I was just interested in this man."

Now he attends court hearings in Houston—and in other states when time is available— and collects copies of all legal matters from Nevada to California to Texas.

He picks out pertinent details and rewrites the briefs or court opinions so both laymen and attorneys have a condensed version of what is going on.

Moore is hesitant to give an opinion on any of the matters pending in court because "I have clients from all the various sides and I attempt to remain completely fair in the matter.

"I will say from what I know that Howard Hughes never intended to leave money to his relatives but instead for medical research," he said.

"This case is covered in secrecy," Moore said. "It is one of the great mystery stories of all time and the more I study, the more mysterious it becomes."

Death sentence for Nazi aide

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet citizen who allegedly worked with the Nazis in two Byelorussian prisons during World War II was sentenced to death today by a Smolensk court, Tass reported.

A. I. Sikhachev was accused of aiding the Nazis in the execution of some 10,000 persons held in the prisons when the Germans occupied the region.

from his state in 30 years. He won easily over former Democratic Gov. Warren Hearnes, capturing the seat from which Sen. Stuart Symington is retiring.

Democrats, however, won the seats of retiring Republican Sens. Paul J. Fannin of Arizona and Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii.

In Arizona, former Pima County (Tucson) attorney Dennis DeConcini, member of a prominent Democratic family, beat GOP Rep. Sam Steiger, a 10-year House veteran. In Hawaii, Rep. Spark M. Matsunaga, a Democratic liberal, defeated former GOP Gov. William F. Quinn.

But in Rhode Island, former Gov. John H. Chafee, who served as secretary of the Navy in the Nixon administration, captured for the Republicans the seat from which Democratic Sen. John O. Pastore is retiring. Chafee defeated wealthy automobile dealer Richard Lorber, winner of a close and bitter Democratic primary battle.

In Michigan, Rep. Donald W. Riegle Jr., a Republican turned Democrat who had strong labor backing, defeated another House member, GOP Rep. Marvin Esch, for the seat given up by Democratic Sen. Philip A. Hart.

Of the 33 Senate seats at stake, Democrats held 22 and the GOP 11. Thirteen Democrats running for reelection, including Virginia's Byrd, won handily. Two of them, Democratic whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, had no opposition.

Other Democratic winners were Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Henry Jackson of Washington, William Proxmire of Wisconsin, Harrison A. Williams Jr. of New Jersey, Howard Cannon of Nevada, Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, Lawton Chiles of Florida and Quentin Burdick of North Dakota.

Three GOP senators won reelection — Lowell Weicker of Connecticut, Delaware's William Roth Jr. and Vermont's Robert T. Stafford.

IRS to provide more phone lines for people requesting tax forms

The Internal Revenue Service has inaugurated a new service for Southern California taxpayers which provides additional telephone lines reserved exclusively for requesting federal tax forms and publications.

Although there will not be a great demand for tax forms until the 1976 tax packages arrive in the mail next January, the IRS announced the new service now because the forms-ordering telephone numbers are not yet in all Southern California telephone directories.

The new service was instituted to free the IRS telephone lines used to answer Southern Californias' federal tax questions. The numbers to call for answers to those questions are listed in the white pages of all local telephone directories under "U.S. Government, Internal Revenue Service, Federal Tax Information."

IRS officials emphasized the best way to order federal tax forms and publications is by the forms-order blank that comes with the tax packages each year. They also said tax questions cannot be answered on the new forms-ordering telephone lines.

The new service is available 24 hours each day, including weekends.

During weekdays, from 8 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., IRS employees are on hand to personally take the requests. After 4:45 p.m. and on weekends, taxpayers' forms orders will be automatically recorded. Callers will be asked to provide their name, address (including zip code) and the title, number and quantity of the form or forms desired.

Approximately two weeks are required for delivery of the forms by mail. To request only IRS forms and publications, persons calling from area 213 telephones should dial 572-7814.

From Area Codes 714 and 805, the numbers are 1-800-242-4585 or 1-800-242-4586.

Ontario book sale

Donations are requested at the earliest possible date for the annual Friends of the Ontario Library book sale to be held in the garden room of the library on Dec. 3 and 4.

Individuals or firms making donations may call 984-2758 extension 38 to have them taken directly from the automobile or truck at the rear of the library. If desired, pickup of donated items will be picked up at the home, office or firm.

Items sought are books, magazines, recordings, cassettes, paintings and objects of art deemed appropriate for the sale.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for projects such as reading fundamental programs for children having difficulties in learning to read, a cold water drinking fountain and eventually a piano for the development of musical programs in the multipurpose room of the library.

Cat identification tags

The Humane Society of Pomona Valley is offering cat owners a voluntary cat identification tag for their pet. The tag will cost $5 each and will give the cat a life time tag for a one time fee.

Last year the society received over 6,000 cats found in the streets and brought to the shelter. Only two cats were wearing identification tags that allowed officials to call the owners.

Hundreds of cat owners in the valley lose their cats each year but don't become concerned until the cats have been missing for two weeks or longer. Then they visit the animal shelter and ask if officials have seen their cat, and by that time it is often too late, said Bruce Richards, executive director.

The tag will be lightweight and will carry the society's phone number and the ownership identification number. This system will allow the society to call the owner immediately. For cats with the tags there will be no boarding fee charge to the owner.

Genealogical speaker

Dr. Williston Wirt of Claremont will give a talk on the pioneers of revolutionary days to the Pomona Valley Genealogical Society.

The speaker is a retired minister, librarian, and student of New England history. The meeting will be held Nov. 8 at 7 p.m. in the Conference room of the Pomona Public Library. It is open to the public.

Veterans training

Veterans enrolled in GI Bill training are eligible for up to an additional nine months training, said Director John G. Miller of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Los Angeles.

The Veterans Education and Employment Assistance Act of 1976, signed into law Oct. 15, increased the training entitlement for thousands of veterans who have not reached their 10-year delimiting date.

The new law which went into effect Oct. 1, extended entitlement to 45 months for veterans if they have served at least 18 months on continuous active duty after Jan. 31, 1955. The extension is no longer limited to undergraduate training.

Previously, basic entitlement was 36 months. An additional nine months was available only if the GI Bill student was pursuing an undergraduate college degree.

Unchanged is the 10-year delimiting date. Veterans retain eligibility for 10 years after release from active duty or until Dec. 31, 1989, whichever is earlier.

The new law also provided an 8 per cent increase in monthly allowances for all training offered by the GI Bill except flight training, effective Oct. 1. A single veteran attending school full time receives $292 monthly. If the student has one dependent, the rate is $347; two dependents, $396. For each additional dependent, the monthly rate is increased by $24.

Entitlement for correspondence training is charged at the rate of one month for each $292 paid. Entitlement for flight training was continued at the rate of one month for each $270 paid.

Needlecraft class

Beginning Friday, the needlecraft class of the Ontario Library will begin its annual yuletide project for the development of ideas and gifts. The class is held in the garden room of the library each Friday from 11 a.m. to noon.

The classes are free, enrollment is not necessary and those who want to participate may join the class any Friday. Participants are required to bring their own materials and equipment.

Instructors are Gertrude Case of Upland and Mrs. Clara Anderson of Ontario. They specialize in crochet, crewel, needle-point and embroidery.

Back to school

Parents will be sitting in for their children Wednesday Nov. 17, when they attend Rowland High School for the annual "Back to School" night.

After a brief general meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium where Principal Tom Aney and other district personnel will make introductory remarks, parents will follow their children's class schedules for six, 12-minute periods.

Following the class visits, refreshments will be served in the school's multi-purpose room where parents and teachers can visit informally until 10 p.m.

Kaiser work begins

A 33-ton structural steel column was set in place recently at Kaiser Steel Fontana steel mill marking the first erection in the company's $233 million modernization program.

The column, eight feet wide and 117 feet high, is the first of 102 columns which will be the skeleton of the 18-story-high basic oxygen process steelmaking shop, the major project in the modernization. The program is currently 11 per cent complete. At its peak, 800 people will be employed on the project.

The modernization program is the largest construction project currently underway on the West Coast.

The building will house two 225-ton capacity basic oxygen furnaces scheduled to begin production in April 1978. This furnace shop will be equipped with efficient environmental control facilities available. It will replace the existing open hearth steelmaking capacity.

"The program represents our best effort to improve environmental controls, lower operating costs and supply our customers with more of the high-quality steel they need," said William R. Roesch, vice chairman and chief executive officer. "Our Fontana plant, already one of the cleanest in the nation from an environmental standpoint, will be made even cleaner through the improved control technology incorporated in this modern steelmaking equipment."

Also included in the program are a continuous slab casting machine, external hot metal desulfurization, modification of raw material handling and storage facilities, plus the necessary utilities equipment and supportive services.

Lions rummage sale

The Cucamonga Lions annual rummage sale will begin at 7 a.m. Saturday at the Bank of America parking lot in Cucamonga.

All proceeds will go to the Aid for The Blind program. Eye glasses for needy children, Southern California Eye Institute, City of Hope, and local youth support.

Workshop participant

Eileen Gunn of 122 Serrano Place, La Verne, participated recently in a science fiction writing workshop held at Michigan University.

The six-week seminar concentrated on writing, with criticism provided by authors who led the workshops.

The La Verne resident is a 1967 graduate of Emmanuel College in Boston, Mass.

Rotary Club speaker

Dr. Terry Lepper, treasurer of the La Verne Rotary Club, will be his club's program speaker Thursday noon at the Castaway Restaurant.

Dr. Lepper, a veterinarian, will speak on the topic, "Animals I Have Known."

Branch manager named

Gary Charlebois, a graduate of Cal Poly Pomona, has been named branch manager of the Encino office of Kelly Services, a temporary help firm.

Pomona woman retires from GT

Birdie McCoy of Pomona has retired from the General Telephone Company following a 31-year career with the utility.

A native of Geary, Okla., Mrs. McCoy joined the telephone company in 1945 as an operator and worked as a teller prior to returning to the position of operator in 1956 in Pomona.

Mrs. McCoy and her husband, John, have a married daughter and are expecting their first grandchild.

Rainbow Girls cancel charters over vote to admit black to order

INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) —The International Order of the Rainbow, a service organization for young girls, canceled the charters of all 136 Iowa chapters after one of them voted to admit a girl whose mother is black.

"It hit us like a bolt out of the blue," said Carol Holdsworth, grand deputy for Rainbow assemblies in an area of south central Iowa that includes Indianola.

She and other Rainbow officials said they learned Monday that the order had expelled Iowa's assemblies, with a membership of 5,000 girls, because the Indianola branch voted in October to admit Michelle Palmer, 12.

"The kids balloted and they wanted Michelle," said Mrs. Holdsworth. "They did the right thing."

Michelle's father, Dwaine Palmer, who is white, said he was "stunned by the whole thing. Nothing like this has happened to us before."

Helen Kline, supreme inspector of the Rainbow Order in Iowa, said the revocation was ordered by the supreme assembly of the International Order of the Rainbow for Girls in accordance with a 54-year-old "unwritten law" prohibiting blacks from becoming members.

"I can't get over it — it's just tragic," said Mrs. Kline, of Malvern.

Asked whether she considered that the revocation implied a policy of racial discrimination, Mrs. Kline said, "We call it selective membership."

The Rainbow organization, which includes preteen and high school-age girls, is affiliated with the Masons and its women's auxiliary, the Order of the Eastern Star.

At the organization's headquarters in McAlester, Okla., Herbert Grout, supreme inspector of the Rainbow Girls, said he had no comment on the matter.

The head of the Iowa Masonic organization issued a statement repudiating the canceling of the charters.

"From this date on, no Rainbow assembly which is affiliated with the international supreme council will be permitted to use the facilities of any Masonic Lodge under our jurisdiction," said W. Ross McCulla, grand master of Masons in Iowa.

McCulla, of Brooklyn, said, "The Grand Lodge of Iowa has a policy of nondiscimination by reason of race, creed, color or national origin."

Mrs. Kline said the issue of Michelle's joining the Rainbow Girls came up in September, but that the Indianola assembly delayed a vote for one month after some adults questioned whether national policy would permit blacks to join.

She said she ruled last month that the assembly could vote on admitting Michelle, pending a final ruling by the national organization.

Slayer awaits firing squad

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Gary Mark Gilmore, a 35-year-old convicted murderer, may go before a Utah firing squad on Nov. 15. If so, he would become the first person executed in the United States in nine years.

Gilmore, who has spent 18 of the last 21 years in jail, said after losing a bid for a new trial Monday that he would not appeal the execution order for the murder of a motel clerk last July. Utah's capital punishment law gives condemned murderers a choice of death by hanging or firing squad, and Gilmore has said he would prefer to be shot.

"It's my own decision. I was not influenced by anything but the fact that I don't want to spend the rest of my life in jail," he told District Court Judge J. Robert Bullock. "You sentenced me to die. Unless it's a joke or something, I want to go ahead and do it."

Bullock told Gilmore he still could change his mind and appeal, and an attorney for Gilmore said he would prepare papers. Appeal of a death sentence is mandatory in some states, but not in Utah.

Unless he appeals, or unless the courts or the governor intervene, Gilmore would go before the firing squad on schedule, according to his attorneys and Utah County Atty. Noall T. Wootten, whose office prosecuted the case.

Judge Bullock had scheduled Monday's hearing on Gilmore's request for a new trial in the slaying of motel clerk Bennie Bushnell, 25, on July 22. Gilmore was found guilty Oct. 6 by a jury that ordered the death penalty.

Gilmore, of Springville, Utah, is scheduled for another trial beginning Monday in the July 21 shooting death of a service station attendant. Bullock said he would decide by Wednesday on a defense request for a one-week delay of the trial.

Bullock ordered Gilmore to undergo a psychiatric evaluation to be completed within five days.

No one has been executed in the United States since June 2, 1967, when Luis Monge died in a Colorado gas chamber.

The last Utah execution was in 1960, when James W. Rodgers died before a firing squad for killing a fellow miner in San Juan County.

Utah is among states to pass new laws after a 1972 U.S. Supreme Court ruling that the death penalty was unconstitutional as applied in some states. The high court recently upheld some of the new state laws and rejected others. But it was not asked to rule on Utah's.

Claims 10,000-vote win over Brutocao

Lloyd wins second term in Congress

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-West Covina, will return for a second term in Congress following an 89 per cent voter turnout Tuesday in the district resulting in a more than 10,000-vote victory for the former mayor.

His Republican opponent, Louis Brutocao of Covina, spurted ahead in early returns, but when final returns were counted, Lloyd had received 86,858 votes to Brutocao's 76,110.

Lloyd received 53.2 per cent of the vote; Brutocao, 46.7 per cent.

In the Los Angeles County side of the district, Lloyd received 50,826 votes to Brutocao's 48,236. In the section of the district in San Bernardino County, Lloyd received 36,032 votes and Brutocao, 27,874.

Lloyd ran well ahead of Brutocao in both counties.

This 35th Congressional District campaign had been hard fought and closely watched, particularly in its final days when it seemed that Brutocao was receiving extensive support from the Republican party and out-of-state political action organizations.

Lloyd, contacted at his home this morning, said he had felt he had won re-election by 2 a.m. and had gone to bed. He learned the final count this morning.

"I think, first of all, that my entire staff deserves the credit over the last two years," Lloyd said. "I think we won on just plain service to the people in the district.

"Beyond that, people were able to distinguish a clean campaign." He was, of course, referring to personal attacks on him made by his opponent.

"And lastly, my family has done a tremendous job. My wife, Jackie, has worked very hard. Together, we ran a good, clean campaign."

Lloyd said that when all financial statements are finalized he thinks they will show Brutocao spending some $300,000 compared to his less than $100,000.

"I want the people to know that I'm going to continue doing what I've done the past two years," Lloyd said. "We'll work hard to keep communication with the constituents in the district open, and we will do our best to be the best office in Washington getting things done for people."

This district includes Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, Walnut, Covina, West Covina, Ontario, Montclair, Upland and Chino.

McVittie to begin 2nd term

Incumbent William McVittie of Upland captured two more years in the state legislature Tuesday as he received 63 per cent of the total votes cast in the 65th Assembly District.

McVittie, an attorney, beat challenger Clyde Stephens out with 46,860 votes. Stephens, an engineer from Pomona, received only 27,295 or nearly 37 per cent of the total 74,155 votes cast.

The 65th Assembly District race was typical of election turnouts throughout the nation with 89 per cent of the total 83,013 registered voters in the district going to the polls.

McVittie probably took party votes away from his Republican contender since Democrats represent 55.2 per cent of the registered voters in the district and Republicans represent 40.2 per cent. The district serves Pomona, Claremont, Upland, Ontario, Montclair and Chino.

"I am very flattered with the huge margin of victory. I have worked hard the past two years and I will continue that same kind of hard work the next two years," McVittie said in an early morning victory statement today.

The assemblyman is now anxious to get on with the business of legislative action and listed the need for property tax relief as most critical at this time.

"It now is critical that we all reach consensus on property tax relief so the legislature can enact reform measures at the earliest possible time. The senior citizens especially are being adversely affected by the latest batch of property tax bills received," McVittie said.

McVittie said he will return to Sacramento on Dec. 1 and until that time he will continue to meet with constituents and perhaps take his first vacation in six years. Tentative plans include 10 days at Lake Tahoe with his wife, Chris.

Lancaster returns for third term

Voters in the 62nd Assembly District returned Republican Bill Lancaster to Sacramento for a third term Tuesday.

Lancaster scored a convincing victory over Democratic challenger Sandy Baldonado, a former school teacher from West Covina.

With 84 per cent of the district's registered voters going to the polls, Lancaster gained 51,500 votes — 53.7 per cent of those voting.

Mrs. Baldonado received 44,373 votes.

Although the campaign between Lancaster and Mrs. Baldonado was controversial at times, it never appeared the challenger could seriously erode Lancaster's popularity in the district where he received 59 per cent of the vote two years ago.

While registered Democrats slightly outnumber Republicans in the district, it is a basically conservative area serving the communities of Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Glendora, Covina and West Covina.

Lancaster campaigned on the bread and butter conservative issues — tax reform, welfare reform and controlling state government spending.

Lancaster, who was originally elected to the Assembly in a special election in June of 1972, was not available for comment this morning.

Campbell wins himself job in new 33rd District

Republican William Campbell of Hacienda Heights won the seat in the new 33rd Senatorial District in the California legislature by receiving 54.3 per cent of the votes cast Tuesday.

Campbell, who relinquished his 64th Assembly District seat to campaign for the new post, received 98,831 votes against Democrat Betty Wilson, a member of the Santa Fe City Council, who received 83,106, or 45.6 of the votes.

Campbell said this morning "We campaigned hard on the issues. There is no doubt that immediate property tax relief is the key issue.

"I still think the legislature should meet immediately in a special session and provide some immediate tax relief from the surplus the state has.

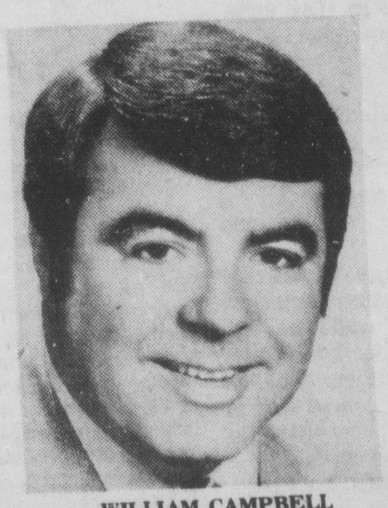
"Then when the regular session convenes in December, the legislature could come to grips with the other aspects of tax relief needed."

The district serves Diamond Bar, Walnut, Whittier, La Mirada, Norwalk, Artesia, Cerritos and Downey.

Of the 210,184 registered voters, 181,937, or 86.5 per cent, cast votes in the new district election.

The district is 54 per cent Democrat and 40.5 per cent Republican, according to registration figures.

Campbell has served four terms in the Assembly. His seat will be filled by David Stirling, a Republican attorney from Hacienda Heights.



WILLIAM CAMPBELL

Stirling wins big for 64th Assembly seat

Republican candidate David Stirling, a Hacienda Heights attorney, scored a surprisingly wide victory Tuesday to capture the 64th Assembly District seat vacated by Republican Bill Campbell, who was elected to the California Senate.

In a race that was forecast as very close, Stirling garnered 53.1 per cent of the vote in defeating Democratic candidate James Gonsalves of La Mirada.

Final vote count today gave Stirling 49,837 votes to Gonsalves' 43,647. Of the district's 112,559 registered voters, 83 per cent turned out to cast their ballots.

Stirling, weary from the night-long watch of the vote count, said this morning he was "very gratified" with his support among conservative Democrats in the district, which has a narrow Democratic majority.

"The first order of business in Sacramento, as far as I'm concerned, will be property tax relief," said Stirling, adding that the key to that issue will be school financing.

Stirling, who had campaigned for a tougher criminal justice system, said he hoped to be appointed to the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

"Outside of property tax reform, there is no issue more significant to California than crime," he said.

The 64th Assembly District includes the areas of Hacienda Heights, Rowland Heights, Diamond Bar, Walnut, La Mirada, South Whittier, Whittier and Industry.

Pomona teachers to vote

Pomona's public school teachers were to meet at 4 p.m. today in Ganesha Park to take another strike vote should mediation fail to produce a settlement of the 1976-77 contract with Pomona Unified School District.

Associated Pomona Teachers (APT) executive director Delbert Pfeifer said APT'S Representatives Council was to recommend a "withdrawal of services" within five days "after failure of the mediation process."

Pfeifer said teachers would be able to cast ballots in the park until 6 p.m. then the voting procedure would be moved back to APT offices and continued until 7 p.m.

Today was the third day representatives from the teachers and the district had met in closed sessions with a state mediator in attempts to negotiate a contract. "So far," said Pfeifer, "there has been no progress."

Schools Supt. Charles C. Carpenter said mediation was to continue tonight at 7 p.m. He said the major area of difference was assigning pupil ratios to counselors, psychologists, speech specialists and nurses.

Some 75 per cent of the classroom teachers walked out last Thursday to protest what Pfeifer described as "failure" by the district to negotiate an acceptable contract.

Pomona man shot outside his home

A Pomona man was seriously wounded late Tuesday morning when he was shot while walking outside his home, police reported.

The victim, Elias Lee Alvarado, 32, was shot in his lower right side by one occupant of a passing car. He was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he underwent surgery. His condition this morning was termed serious.

Police said Alvarado probably was shot with a .38-caliber revolver. He told officers he was walking outside his home at 1146 W. Third St. when a 1964-model black Chevrolet passed and he was shot by an occupant holding a nickel-plated pistol.

The car was driven away westbound in Third Street and Alvarado managed to reach a neighbor's door and ask for help.

Police did not speculate on a motive for the incident.

Robbery suspect nabbed

A Pomona service station owner was robbed Tuesday morning by three young men and police later booked a 19-year-old suspect in connection with the holdup.

The victim, Roger L. Schneiders, 32, said the three approached while he was in the back room of the Shell station at 2105 N. Towne Ave. One confronted him inside the room, pulling a small-caliber revolver and demanding money. After obtaining the cash, all three ran to a car parked at the rear of the station and drove away.

Police later arrested a suspect identified as Timothy Wayne Thomas, 19, of Pomona. He was still in custody this morning.

Four holdups

Four armed robberies within a 12-hour period were reported in the West End area Tuesday night and Wednesday morning according to police and sheriff's deputies.

The first robbery occurred Tuesday at 8:50 p.m. when a man entered the Spirit Shoppe, 8760 Baseline Road in Alta Loma and pulled a pistol on clerk Callie Kessler. The gunman, wearing a green army field jacket, metal framed mirrored sunglasses, and a white stocking cap, ordered the clerk to place all the cash in a paper bag and fled out the door.

West End Sheriff's deputies said the robber escaped with a moderate amount of cash. The robber was described as a white, 20, 6 feet 1, 155 pounds, with brown hair and a beard.

The same robber was suspected in the robbery of the Euclid Liquor Store at 140 S. Euclid Ave. in Upland 23 minutes later.

Upland police said the robber, also wearing a green fatigue jacket and mirrored glasses, walked into the store and confronted clerk David Born. The robber told Born to hand over the cash from the register and place it in a paper bag. The robber then fled out the door, to a waiting motorcyle ridden by a second man, according to the clerk.

Upland police said the robber matched the general description of the Alta Loma robber.

At 9:20 p.m. Tuesday Montclair police were called to the rear of the Penney's store in the Montclair Plaza where a shopper walking back to his car was robbed by two men, both holding handguns. The two men, both described as Latins, 14 to 18 years of age took the cash from shopper Carl Gray's wallet and fled on foot.

Police said the robbers escaped with a very small amount of cash.

Then at 7:30 a.m. today two men, both described as blacks, in their late teens or early 20's robbed the Chevron Service Station at 428 S. Euclid Ave. in Ontario. Police said the two robbers escaped. Further details were unavailable this morning.

Four seized in holdup

A service station in Claremont was robbed shortly after 8 o'clock this morning and four suspects were seized a few minutes later after being observed by La Verne officers in Pomona.

The holdup was at the Union station at Foothill Boulevard and Mills Avenue. Early reports were sketchy, but indications were that two young men obtained money there at gunpoint before fleeing in a car containing others.

A few minutes later, La Verne officers noticed a car matching the description of the auto used in the holdup. With the assistance of Pomona police, the driver was stopped at Garey Avenue south of Foothill Boulevard. The names of those arrested as suspects were not immediately available.

Claremont residents vote for annexation

By a vote of 141 to 102, residents living in an area northeast of the city of Claremont have chosen to be annexed to the city.

Residents had requested the annexation election in order to insure the rural character of their homes. Most of the homes are secluded, surrounded by citrus groves, nurseries, and small ranches.

The area, that will now become part of the city of Claremont is bounded on the north by the intersection of two Mt. Baldy roads, on the east by the county line, and on the south and west by the present irregular city boundary.

Childbirth classes

A new series of classes in prepared childbirth will begin Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at Inter-Community Hospital at Covina.

The classes, conducted by Chris Wied, will consist of seven two-hour sessions. Prepared childbirth is a method of preparation for expectant mothers and provides them with methods of dealing with the discomforts of pregnancy through exercises and good body mechanics.

Breathing and relaxing techniques will be taught and discussions will cover various aspects of pregnancy and parenthood. Husbands are urged to attend.

Persons wanting information concerning the classes may phone (213) 447-3159.

West End Resource Board

Incumbents, Mrs. Treadway elected

Two incumbents were returned and a woman was elected to the West End Resource Conservation District (RCD) by voters of San Bernardino County Tuesday.

Thomas Carnesi of Upland and Bernard D. (Nino) Galleano of Mira were returned as directors for four-year terms.

Elected as the third member was Mrs. Joan A. Treadway of Ontario. The wife of Ontario Mayor Paul Treadway, she is a teacher of conservation courses at Imperial Junior High School.

Mrs. Treadway replaces Paul B. Hofer of Ontario who did not run for re-election.

The vote tabulation was Mrs. Treadway, 59,437; Carnesi, 54,912; Galleano, 44,603; and the fourth contestant who lost, Edward Hamilton, 43,377.

Formerly known as the West End Soil and Water Conservation District, RCD is an advisory, not a regulatory, agency. Directors are volunteers who meet on a monthly basis.

RCD is authorized by the State Public Resources Code to conduct research and advise agencies and individuals in the fields of land use planning, pollution control, and the conservation of soil, water, woodlands and wildlife.

The district covers approximately 500 square miles and encompasses the entire West End from the San Bernardino Mountains to the Santa Ana River and from the Los Angeles County line to Colton and San Bernardino.

Flu vaccines a waste?

The $135 million Congress appropriated for the nationwide swine flu inoculation program could be one of the best investments the country ever made. Or it could turn out to have been the biggest medical false alarm in recent history.

It depends, of course, on whether swine flu does break out this winter. So far, not a single case has been reported anywhere in the world since it was identified in five recruits at Ft. Dix. N.J.. last February, and some medical experts continue to question the wisdom of trying to immunize 200 million people against something that may never occur.

Why the alarm in the first place?

For one reason, the appearance of a new strain of influenza has always resulted in a worldwide pandemic simply because most people have no immunity to it, and the Ft. Dix strain was new in that it hadn't been seen in human beings since early in the century.

For another, news of the discovery immediately recalled the devastating flu pandemic of 1918-19, which involved a similar virus and which killed 20 million people worldwide, including some 500,000 in the United States.

Thus no one disputed the need to begin developing and producing a swine flu vaccine. The question was whether the vaccine should be administered on a universal scale or merely stockpiled in case mass inoculation became necessary.

One of those who favored the stockpile approach was the doctor who identified the Ft. Dix virus, Martin Goldfield, assistant commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Health.

"I thought it was unwise," he is quofed in a publication of Boston University Medical Center, "to prepare irrevocably to immunize an entire population before knowing the frequency or severity of side effects and efficacy of the vaccine . . . I recommended manufacturing the vaccine and preparing to deliver it if needed."

Proponents of vaccination argued, however, that stockpiling would be useless because influenza could spread faster than people could be immunized. It takes about two weeks for an inoculation to develop full immunity, and millions could be infected in that time. The only safe course was to assume the worst — that there would be a swine flu epidemic — and to take steps to prevent it.

This was the opinion which prevailed on President Ford, who called for the mass inoculation program last March. Interestingly enough, just the opposite decision was later made by Canadian health authorities who after a similar controversy decided to stockpile the vaccine and to offer it on a voluntary basis only to certain high-risk groups.

The matter has become further confused in the mind of the public because of the unfortunate deaths of a number of elderly people at the beginning of the inoculation program. Even though medical authorities are agreed that the vaccine had nothing to do with the deaths. the program was temporarily suspended in many areas and has yet to pick up full steam.

As things appear now, most Americans will be inoculated against swine flu in the coming weeks. The coming weeks will also tell whether it was a wise and necessary precaution or a tremendous waste of money and effort. But even if a waste, it will have been so only in the sense that fire insurance is a waste if your house never catches on fire.

Goldfield, however, raises another disturbing question.

What happens, he asks, if we immunize everybody in the fall and swine flu appears the following spring, after immunization has worn off and we've run out of vaccine?

We hope this is one question about the great swine flu puzzle that will not have to be answered.

Think on these things

It is amazing how many people you like when you really get to know them. Someone who seemed to be the most unlikeable turns out to be the very one you most enjoy — and the secret was in getting to know them.

Taking time for people who do not strike us as outgoing right from the beginning is something we often fail to do. We pass by them easily, not realizing their shyness or reluctance to push themselves forward and it robs us of meeting someone really worth knowing. Just a little effort in reaching out to draw someone to us can be one of our most rewarding acts. Friendship is a two-way street and we each have half the responsibility.

Thought

We intend that no one should blame us about this liberal gift which we are administering, for we aim at what is honorable not only in the Lord's sight but also -n the sight of men. — II Cor. 8:20,21.

"You don't have to preach honesty to men with creative purpose. Let a human being throw the engines of his soul into the making of something, and the instinct of workmanship will take care of his honesty." — Walter Lippmann, American journalist.

Tax rate decrease overlooked

Dear Editor:

I was extremely concerned to read the incorrect front page headline in the Progress Bulletin edition of Oct. 27 stating, "Claremont Again Has Highest Tax Rate in County."

There are several unincorporated portions of the county (eight to be specific) which have a higher total tax rate than Claremont, some by as much as $1 per $100 assessed valuation. The supporting article properly qualified the statement by indicating that Claremont had the highest rate for city areas in Los Angeles County. I think it is extremely unfortunate that a fallacious headline was placed over a factual article.

I also regret that the article featured the "worst" news and did not mention at all the "best" news — that Claremont residents experienced the largest tax rate decrease of any area in Los Angeles County. In other words, even though the total Claremont city rate remained comparatively high, it dropped more than in any other area of the county. The very large tax reduction made by the Claremont Unified School District should receive the greatest credit for achieving this significant tax rate decrease. I believe that having the largest tax rate decrease in Los Angeles County is quite significant, and I am disturbed that this fact was entirely overlooked.

SAVAK copies CIA tricks

WASHINGTON — Documents from the files of the dreaded Iranian secret police, SAVAK, reveal that its agents are given intensive training in such underworld skills as wiretapping, illegal break-ins and forgery.

Trusted sources obtained the SAVAK papers, and other reliable sources have verified their authenticity. We have had them translated twice from the original Persian as a doublecheck for accuracy.

The documents show that SAVAK, which was organized and trained by our own Central Intelligence Agency, has learned its lessons well. Their bags of tricks are virtually identical.

One document, stamped "Confidential," discusses "secret entrance to the subject's homes." The "secret break-ins," it states, "should be accompanied with an operational plan (such as complete information about the subject, location of his or her residence, time of her or his leaving home and returning, emergency outlet exits in case of unpredicted incidents, etc.)."

All plans for break-ins, the document advises, should be "sent to headquarters" for approval before they are "applied."

Another document gives instructions for making molds to duplicate stolen keys. The "mold must be laid horizontally and filled smoothly with a special substance called Plastilin," the directions state.

The document, complete with diagrams, also gives instructions on "four tools used to open door locks" and "two bent wire tools to open simple locks."

Another document reveals that SAVAK agents in Geneva dispatched a Swiss passport to their home office in Teheran to be used as a model for forgeries. "The 'Swiss Confederation' is printed on the back of the cover," states the accompanying cable. "The first page contains the last and first names of the passport owner, as well as the passport serial number."

Most of SAVAK's dirty tricks are directed against Iranian students who oppose the shah's imperial rule. One document, marked "SECRET," states that "all branches should send . . . information regarding demonstrations of dissident Iranians, strikes, suspicious traffic, students' calls to the imperial embassies and consulates, holding of meetings, publishing of publications, conventions and seminars."

This information, declares the memo, "should be typed on unmarked paper without any signature or signs of SAVAK."

But SAVAK agents do not restrict their attention solely to Iranians. One memo, classified "Confidential," contains orders to recruit "new agents" to "penetrate the Arab student community."

Another document, this one labeled "Classified," discusses the "activities of Kurds residing in Europe" who had taken on "some nationalistic tendencies."

The secret papers contain no specific evidence that SAVAK agents are using their criminal training in the United States. Reliable sources say, however, that they have violated U.S. laws.

Scores of SAVAK secret police operate in this country. They are supervised by Mansur Rafizadeh, who claims to be an "attache" with the Iranian mission to the United Nations.

WHITE HOUSE BUGS? — Richard Nixon was a man haunted by dark secrets, which he feared might leak out and drive him from the White House. In seeking to shut off the leaks, his staff chief, H.R. Haldeman, once talked of bugging the entire top staff to make sure they were loyal to Nixon.

Whether the secretive Haldeman ever carried out the plan cannot be established. But a senior White House official of the Nixon era, while requesting anonymity, has confirmed that Haldeman told him about the massive bugging scheme in late 1971.

"You could never tell if Haldeman was serious," said the former aide, "but this was after the Oval Office was wired, so I took him seriously."

This was also at the same time that the notorious White House plumbers were trying everything from wiretaps to poison plots to shut off embarrassing news. Some senior aides also required their subordinates to report all calls from inquiring reporters.

In addition, an intelligence source has told us that about this time, the White House transferred funds to the Navy to buy 200 micro-transmitters. Our source doesn't know what Nixon intended to do with them, but does recall that the order was on White House letterhead.

The alleged purchase of the 200 "bugs" was supposed to be made through the Naval Research Laboratory, a crack research unit which does top secret electronic and scientific work for the Navy.

In our talks with Nixon era officials, none would confirm the story of the "bugs." Spokesmen for both the Navy and Secret Service said they had no knowledge of the alleged "bugs."

PRODIGAL PEDAGOGUES: Buried in the vast federal bureaucracy are agencies that routinely escape public attention but spend the taxpayers' millions with all the reckless abandon of the bigger bureaus.

Rep. John Moss. D.-Calif., tries to keep his eye on these unnoticed agencies. He has recently been taking a look at the little-known National Institute of Education (NIE).

Moss learned that the NIE, an agency of the mammoth Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, is riddled with strife and is wasting much of its $70 million annual budget.

His findings are backed up by the Civil Service Commission, which also gave the NIE the once over. The Commissions' report, intended for official eyes only, has been secreted away in government file cabinets for months. But we have obtained a copy and can report these highlights:

— The NIE is afflicted with "unusually and needlessly high payroll costs." Employe morale is poor and there is "no assurance that the work being performed is necessary."

— Hundreds of promotions have been made which are in violation of the law. Over one 18-month period, the NIE made 112 promotions — all of which broke Civil Service regulations. The NIE has also performed poorly in civil rights.

— Overall, the institute is plagued with a lack of organization. "Some employes are overworked, while others have nothing to do."

Footnote: An NIE spokesman acknowledged that genuine problems exist but insisted they have been corrected. Moss, however, disagrees.

The hypochondriacs

There is someone in your acquaintance who tends to dramatize every minor ailment.

Usually, though not always, it's a man.

If he has a headache, he wants the Mayo Clinic flown in right now!

With the slightest sniffle he runs to the doctor and/or the druggist and stuffs himself with medication.

We call him a "hypochondriac."

He's a chronic worrier about his health.

Now a wise doctor recognizes that this fellow must never be told the truth — that there's "nothing wrong" with him.

He'd only switch doctors.

So the doctor listens patiently to his or her complaints, then prescribes some placebo so the patient will believe he is getting proper medical attention.

And usually his symptoms will respond to the sugar pill.

But if that patient, for his imagined or exaggerated ills, demands the entire spectrum of the physician's antibiotic arsenal — he becomes a danger to himself.

Similarly, there are some individuals who demand massive medication for the slightest economic discomfort.

Nobody likes to be pinched in the pocketbook.

Most of us have learned to expect and accept periods when an overheated economy, after a long climb, has to pause to catch its breath.

But when it pauses to catch its breath during the fever of a political campaign, we hear demands for instant remedies.

American medicine has gone full cycle in the treatment of the so-called common cold.

Grandmother's generation believed that we should keep the patient warm and let the fever "break" itself.

Mother's generation discovered that aspirin could "hold the fever down," and that seemed to make sense.

Now the consensus is that even aspirin can be bad for colds.

And the passion for antibiotics has been diminished as we learn that strong medicines for minor ailments may diminish the effects of those medicines when they are needed for serious diseases.

Similarly, if American politicians — for the selfish purpose of making us "feel better" until after the election — should demand a massive money hypo from the Fed, they could lay us open to a post-election complication too dismal to contemplate.

Most campaigners are aware of these economic facts of life so their demands for "freer credit" and "fuller employment" are a cheap shot.

Inflation is not yet under control. That "fever" is half what it was a year ago; our debilitated dollar is "getting well," and a restoration of sound money is the best medicine for our country and the whole world right now.

It would be most unfortunate if the public, demanding a "quick fix," should prod the medicine men to overdose us.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Sixty years ago the price of a shoe shine was 10 cents but you could get a slap dash job from the cut rate kid on the corner for a nickel.

Today the economy shoe shine costs 50 cents and the deluxe treatment from $2.50 to $3. — Sixty years ago, if you paid more than $3.50 for a pair of shoes, you would have been looked upon as a spendthrift trying to pass yourself off as a big city dude. — Sixty years ago a haircut cost two bits and you could get a barber shop shave for 15 cents.

In those days there were such things as a good 5 cent cigar, a 5 cent loaf of bread and a 5 cent cup of coffee which included any number of refills. — However, before we get to feeling sorry for ourselves because we have to put up with today's exorbitant prices, let's always remember that 60 years ago a safety razor, like the one we get today free with the purchase of a package of blades, cost $5.

A phonograph which had to be wound up by hand sold for right around $100. — And even though an appendicitis operation cost only about one-tenth of what it costs today, one had something less than a 50 per cent chance of coming through it alive.

Just for good measure, it can also be pointed out that even though in the good old days we could get a free lunch when we ordered a 5 cent mug of beer, we couldn't get hair implants or a sex change operation. — All of which, of course, proves little or nothing. But even though comparisons are odious, they do give us something a lot more interesting to argue about than the political mishmash that is taking up so much of our time these days.

The right of privacy

By EARL G. WATERS

Nowhere does the fallacy of a governor substituting his judgment for that of 120 members of the Legislature show so glaringly as in Governor Jerry Brown's veto of the Privacy Law authored by Senator David Roberti. In this instance the governor was taken in by the bureaucrats who fantasized estimated costs in their deliberate and successful efforts to thwart legislative policy.

Ignoring the positive purpose of the bill to protect the privacy of citizens, who are compelled to give information to the government about their personal affairs, from the prying eyes of busybodies, the governor dismissed the measure by declaring "The bill costs too much."

Admittedly the prime purpose of the veto power is to ward against unbridled spending by an irresponsible Legislature. But the Roberti bill carried no appropriation and any costs involved in complying with the law were nebulous and could only have been nominal, for the most part resulting from failures to comply.

In what can only be a complete recognition of the need for the legislation the governor immediately turned around and issued an executive order which he erroneously stated "will do most of what is essential in this bill at a fraction of the cost."

If there is any cost in complying with the designs of the executive order it will be no different than compliance with a statute. But the executive order does not come close to providing the protections to the public which were contained in the Roberti bill.

First off it can have no power over those agencies of government not under the direct authority of the governor. These include the Department of Justice, the Controller, the Department of Education, Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, Treasurer, and Secretary of State. Neither does it include the University of California, State Colleges, Public Utilities Commission and the State Personnel Board.

Furthermore an executive order is meaningless if the governor chooses to ignore failures to comply by his subordinates. And he can amend it in whole or in part to suit his convenience.

The Roberti measure was carefully worked out over a period of two years. Its history covered an even greater period for it was initially proposed by Senator George Moscone before he left to take office as mayor of San Francisco. Moscone had demonstrated a great interest in public records, desiring to keep government open and above board while at the same time protecting the privacy of individuals. He authored substantial improvements in the public records act but didn't complete the privacy legislation.

Had the governor been sincere in a desire to protect that privacy he would have worked with Roberti in devising the legislation instead of sitting back until the bill had passed the Legislature and then substituting his hastily drafted executive order as a sop to his veto.

As Roberti, with understandable anger, has pointed out the substitution is far short of providing the public adequate protection against bureaucratic treatment of personal information compiled. It doesn't even permit the citizens to know what information is being kept let alone give them a right to review and get corrections of inaccurate documents.

The Roberti measure would have required every state agency to file with the Secretary of State notice of the existance and character of the records being kept. It specifically spelled out the circumstances under which information could be used and provided penalties for persons obtaining individual records under false pretenses as well as for those who willfully disclosed information unlawfully.

Ann Landers

Their attitude is showing

Dear Ann Landers: May I join those who get the anger out of their systems by unloading their pet peeves on you? Mine is the "Drop Dead" attitude of many small business people toward their customers and clients.

Within the past week I have experienced the following:

My hairdresser booked me for 9:00 a.m. I was on time. She arrived ten minutes late, put on the coffee pot, proceeded to wipe the chairs and shampoo bowls, then made a couple of personal phone calls, oblivious to the fact I was fuming.

A shop across the street from my office advertised a big sale. I used my coffee break to run over to pick up some bargains. There was only one clerk in the place to handle the customers. The phone was ringing off the wall. While I was tapping my foot impatiently, two customers came in and walked out. So did I. The salesperson was too busy answering phone calls to wait on me.

A pretty little gift shop opened near my home. I dropped in yesterday. The young owners had brought their collie dog and angora cat to work. ("Hate to leave them alone all day.") I have a serious allergy to all kinds of animal fibers and had to leave immediately lest the presence of those two hairy creatures bring on an attack.

Am I picky-picky? What do you think? — Judge Me

Dear J.M.: I think you were poorly treated on all counts. I hope the small business people who read this will pay close attention to your complaints. They are valid — and not uncommon these days.

Dear Ann Landers: Just a thought regarding organ donations. Our beautiful 21-year-old son was killed by a drunk driver. I wish to God someone had mentioned donating his kidneys or eyes at the time. No one did. Neither my husband nor I thought of it.

Our son was the kind of person who would have wanted to do such a thing. And I would have felt so much better about the horrible tragedy knowing someone had been given added years or sight because of our boy. The whole ordeal would have been less painful had I known his death had helped someone in some way. — San Bernardino Mother

Dear Mother: Thank you so much for your generous letter. It provides me with an opportunity to mention the Uniform Donor Card One more time.

Anyone interested in obtaining such a card should write to the National Kidney Foundation, Box 800, New York, New York 10010.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 31 years old and have been dating the same man for five years. His parents would like us to get married. MY parents would like us to get married. I want to get married. Our friends think we make a wonderful couple. The only person who isn't in favor of the idea is HIM.

I've talked to the guy several times about setting a date. All he does is shrug his shoulders and say, "I'm not ready yet." He doesn't want to break up, either. I've suggested it.

I could use some advice, Ann. — Not Getting Any Younger

Dear Not Getting: Are you willing to go with the guy for the rest of your life? If you are he'll let you do it.

If it's marriage you want, make a clean break and tell Speedy Gonzales not to call you unless he is ready to set the date. In the meantime, go out with others and let the chips fall where they may. (P.S. I'm betting Speedy comes through.)

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Tie pattern best seller

Young fellow, would you like to wear a homemade shirt fashioned just for you by the girlfriend of your choice? No doubt, no doubt. It's merely a rhetorical query put forth to point out how notions change. Not many years ago a lad of distinction loathed the necessity of climbing into home-sewn threads. There was nothing tasty about it then. All this comes to mind because I note that recently one of the best-selling patterns of all time was for a man's tie.

In the old collective noun game, don't forget that a swarm of bees is also known as a grist, a group of leopards as a leap, a bunch of goats as a tribe, and a crowd of bears as a sleuth.

Add to that lengthening list of never-die one-liners: "Old duck pluckers never die, they just get down in the mouth."

SHORTEST WAR

Q. "I know the longest war in history was the 100 Year War from 1338 to 1453, but what was the shortest of all wars?"

A. Believe that was the 38-minute conflict between the British Navy and the self-proclaimed Sultan of Zanzibar on Aug. 27,1896. Zanzibar's recognized Sultan ate something that made him sick to death. Two days later, his cousin jumped up to say he was the new Sultan. But the island was a British Protectorate, and the British said, Oh no you're not, or words to that effect, giving the ambitious fellow until 9 a.m. to get his cohorts out of the palace. Nothing doing. So the British warships opened fire, wounded or killed about 500 men, sustained one casualty, and installed in the top job the son of the recently deceased legitimate Sultan. Incidentally, as for the longest war, how about the 195 years of Crusades, from 1096 to 1291, most commonly known as The Holy War?

OPEN WINDOW

Rare is the Seasoned Citizen who does not hold the conviction that it's healthier to sleep in a room with a window open. That's wrong, the science boys now say. Not just because there's so little left of that thing called fresh air. It was wrong, they insist, even when there was fresh air.

List violinists, too, among those professionals inclined to suffer from that ailment known as tennis elbow . . . That age at which a girl is most apt to incur fatal injuries in an auto smashup is 18 . . . Still another pair of nominees for the Proper Job Club are pianists William and Patricia Medley who give concerts together in Iowa . . . Those places in the neighborhood of a supermarket wherefrom police are most likely to recover stolen merchandise are the garbage cans out back . . . Not one city boy in 10,000 knows that a "gilt" is a virginal female pig.

Dr. Miller

Airedale a ropewalker

DEAR DR. MILLER: Somebody who's bred Airedales before says my Ruffy is a ropewalker, whatever that means. What does it mean? — D.M.

DEAR D.M.: Ropewalking is a descriptive term indicating that when Ruffy is moving forward in a straight line, the non-weight-bearing foot is swung forward, out around, and then placed directly in front of the other foot as it begins to bear weight. In other words, the feet would be continually placed down on a straight line or, if he'd been so trained, a rope. Compared to a straight gait, ropewalking is undesireable (except in the unlikely event he actually IS ropewalking), since when exaggerated, it's inefficient and more tiring to the legs.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Black and White, my pet goats, spend a lot of their days in a brush patch under some high power lines. I read about a Russian report which indicated electrical discharge from such power lines can be dangerous to your health. Do you think I should leave Black and White out in that brush patch? They come in at night anyway. They really enjoy it out there, but now I'm worried about what that electricity might be doing to them. — S.N.

DEAR S.N.: All the answers are not yet in on this highly-charged controversy. Considering the fact that your goats are out of this high intensity electrical zone at night anyway, and on the basis of currently available facts, I'd look at it this way: If Black and White have other equally enjoyable and nutritious browse available elsewhere, then move them. If they are subject to some particular stress such as pregnancy or illness, move them. But if neither of the above applies, then barring future signs of overloading or blown fuses, I'd let them continue to enjoy their daily supercharged chomping site.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Would one of these floor-to-ceiling cat trees, those padded things with shelves and so on, keep my Siamese cat from climbing up on everything else? Right now, her favorite trick is climbing the draperies, and they're beginning to look like it. Don't tell me to keep her nails clipped, I do. She manages somehow to climb anyway. — S.D.

DEAR S.D.: A cat tree should be worth "planting." By continually encouraging its use and by discouraging cat-climbing expeditions in other areas of the house, your Siamese should spend most of her perching time on her tree.

Joe Firman

What's good, good buddy?

Some years ago when I arrived as the "new boy" at a small but select school for delinquents in upper New York State, I struck up a lasting friendship with One-Lap-Behind Phillips, so-called from his lateness to classes, his inability to catch on to jokes, and his habit of forgetting when book reports were due.

At the end of my first year, I was known as One-Lap-Behind-Phillips Firman. What with a broken wrist watch, difficulty in tying my shoes, and intermittent amnesia in the classroom, I could never quite catch up with the world I never made. It wasn't "Stop the World, I Want To Get Off" — it was "Stop the World, I Want To Get ON!"

When my classmates were mooning over Claudette Colbert, I was still starry-eyed over Laura La Plante. When they were playing "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" on their windup phonographs, I was singing "Alice Blue Gown" in the shower. By the time I heard about panty raids, the girls were all wearing pantyhose. (I still call the refrigerator "the ice box" and my record-player will always be "the Victrola.")

It comes, then, as no surprise to my small coterie of friends and loved ones that I have only recently discovered Citizen's Band radio, that chatterbox network that apparently links most of the truck drivers, hunters, campers, cowboys and highway patrolmen in the world.

Being connected by radio to 40 million gabby Americans must be about as much fun as being shut in a phone booth with Howard Cosell, but I must admit that the CB jargon has a certain colorful quality — terse, imaginative and rugged, a compendium of police codes, trucker talk, poetry and gibberish. "Ten-four" is okay for "Okay," but why say "Lay an eye on" for "See," or "Peanut butter in ears" for "Not listening."

Much of the CB lingo centers around highway patrol officers whom speeding truckers are anxious to avoid. These are called "Smokeys" and "Bears" and "County Mounties." The big semis are "Eighteen wheelers." A "chicken-choker" is a poultry truck; a "reefer" is a refrigeration truck," and a "thermos bottle" is any tank truck. A "draggin' wagon" is a tow truck.

CBers are not all out on the highway, of course. There are many base stations where farmers, businessmen, housewives and other peasantry break (cut in) to ratchet jaw (never stops talking) with friends and relations on weekend vacations. Much of the chatter is trivial, idle, frequently scatological or profane. There are few Hamlets on the highway, and you read the mail (listen in) at your own risk.

Let's try it. "Breaker! Breaker! This is good buddy Screamin' Eagle out on the boulevard with the front porch clean. I'm fixin' to blow the doors off a dead pedal pregnant roller skate, and there's seat covers in a green wrapper over my shoulder. I'll be putting the hammer down on this bodacious eighteen wheeler, so beat the bushes and holler on the Smokeys so I don't have to feed the bears if they catch me over the double nickles."

Rough translation: "Anyone listening, this is Screamin' Eagle (handle, or nickname) out on interstate highway with no highway patrol in sight. I'm fixin' to pass a slowmoving VW, and there's girls in a green car behind me. I'll be speeding this powerful rig, so look out for the police and warn me so I won't have to pay a ticket if they catch me over the 55 mph speed limit."

It seems to me that this picturesque patois is more trouble than it's worth, but if CBers have fun with it, that's ten-four with me.

For now this is good buddy Pencil Pusher saying clear and eights and seventy-threes. (Final transmission, goodbye and best of luck.)

Dr. Lamb

Diet disease growing problem

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 13. A couple of months ago I went on a starvation diet. Now everytime I put food in my stomach I get very bad pains in my sides, back and stomach. I went to the doctor and he said I had an infection of the urinary tract. Do you think the infection is causing the pain or do you think the problem is in my stomach?

DEAR READER — My tentative answer is no to both questions. Your letter disturbs me because young girls your age are susceptible to a condition called anorexia nervosa. The problem begins with the girl thinking she is overweight and going on a severe diet — as you have done — or even inducing vomiting after eating to "become thin."

The girl loses proper perspective of her own body image and imagines she is fatter than she really is. With her very real distortion of the facts she persists on a starvation diet and gradually becomes emaciated and has a severe disturbance in normal hormonal development. Such a girl may not have normal menstruation. In fact, menses may be totally absent.

Unfortunately the victim is sufficiently out of touch with the realities of the situation that she seldom accepts facts and frequently cannot manage her own case. She needs professional help.

I would wonder if your starvation diet was not the beginning of this problem for you. It centers around the problems of endocrine changes and puberty, involving psychological aspects of development. Having a physical reaction to eating when you think eating is going to make you fat, even if you are not fat, may well be the cause of your pain.

I don't doubt that you have a urinary tract infection. Your resistance to infection may be lowered.

Let me urge you to make a factual appraisal of whether or not you have lost weight. If you have lost quite a few pounds I hope you will make arrangements to get some professional counseling in a mental health clinic. A review of the possibility of your having anorexia nervosa or related psychological problems in that instance will be essential to your future health.

Meanwhile, I am sending you The Health Letter, number 2-2, Low Carbohydrate Diet Fads to give you more information on the harmful effects of unwise dieting. That includes fasting. Others who want this information on the Atkins' diet and other low carbohydrate fads can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

For Thursday, Nov. 4, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could get a warm welcome by someone important to you. This person may have been difficult to reach previously.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others will help you in a situation in which you felt deserted. Their intervention will buoy your spirits and solve the problem.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can be a better friend to one you're fond of if you lift some responsibilities from her shoulders. Your good deed for today!

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Material goals will be important today. Chances to gain them will be much better if you're not overly aggressive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be conscientious about things today, but don' let this spill over into fun areas. It shouldn't be all work and no play.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you'll be more interested in doing things for someone you love than you will for yourself. You'll succeed where this person would have failed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Before making any important decisions today, weigh the pros and cons. Don't commit yourself unless they're in balance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions are promising at this time where your work or career is concerned, provided you're not afraid of a little responsibility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You can get others to do things today by kidding them into it. Put your wit and know-how to work. Turn on the charm!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When dealing with those you love today, try to give more than you expect to receive. Your joy comes from doing things for others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're planning something social today, make it a point to invite an old friend you've neglected lately. This person is sad because you haven't called.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your chances for personal gain look rather good today. Two possible channels are open at the present time if you keep your eyes peeled.

Your Birthday, Nov. 4, 1976

Improved conditions in your work or career are likely this year. Your chances for advancement in your chosen field look very good.

Release unwanted clutter

In England you can see huge barges loaded with the refuse of the cities. These barges, loaded with garbage, are pushed with tugs until they are far off in the sea. There the bottoms of the barges are opened and the garbage is dropped into the depths of the sea! The bottomless black pit of the ocean swallows the waste.

Likewise you and I must learn to release the unwanted clutter of our lives on a regular basis. So it makes sense to have prayers every night!

Ventilate every night. Empty out the accumulated misfortunes of the day. Don't hang on to them. Get rid of them through faith. God is eager to forgive you.

Imagine Christ opening the windows of your mind; the foul air blows out; fresh, clean air from the beautiful sea blows in! Crisp, moist and clean!

Says who?

Hearst retrial hearing set Nov. 11

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A hearing on convicted bank robber Patricia Hearst's request for a new trial was scheduled Tuesday for Nov. 11 in federal court.

U.S. District Court Judge William Orrick Jr. will hear a motion at the same time seeking bail while her conviction is being appealed to the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Miss Hearst was sentenced to a seven year term by Orrick on Sept. 24 for her participation in the Symbionese Liberation Army robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco on April 15, 1974.

In filing motions for a new trial, defense attorney Albert Johnson claimed that the government had suppressed evidence favorable to Miss Hearst and knowingly used "false and misleading evidence."

The defense declared that on the basis of "newly discovered evidence the defendant avers she was substantially prejudiced and deprived of a fair trial."

The government in its reply denied claims that it had suppressed evidence favorable to Miss Hearst and contended that her new trial motion contained glaring errors.

As to the bail request, U.S. Atty. James Browning said that not only does Miss Hearst "fail to acknowledge her guilt but that she believes that her conviction was unjustly obtained by the government."

The defense claims that there were two witnesses whose testimony at a Los Angeles County grand jury hearing contradicts that given by a government trial witness about a Los Angeles sporting goods shooting incident. It said it was not made aware of this exculpatory information. Browning contends the grand jury testimony was not exculpatory.

Miami's buzzards to roost in peace

MIAMI (AP) — After 50 years, Miami has given up the battle of the buzzards. Turkey vultures who have made the city their winter home will no longer be chased from their favorite perch atop the Dade County Courthouse.

Scarecrows, shouts, thrown objects and low-voltage wires all have failed to discourage hundreds of vultures from settling each autumn on the pyramid-shaped roof of the 26-story courthouse.

"They really don't do any harm if we clean up the feathers," building supervisor Sam Griffith said Monday in announcing that he was giving up the fight. "And even if they are gruesome close up, they are graceful in the sky."

Besides, he added, "they are conversation pieces for the tour groups."

The feathers, shed by the vultures during molting, have to be cleaned up or they will clog the building drains, Griffith said. He said that in 1972 the upper floors suffered some water damage.

The vultures, who have a penchant for eating carrion and a legendary reputation as harbingers of death, began roosting in the building soon after it was built about 50 years ago.

"No other major city in the country has a turkey vulture population," said Oscar Owre, professor of ornithology at the University of Miami.

Owre said that about 1,200 vultures come to Miami from Northern states every fall and leave every May. Some of Miami's other tall buildings have attracted groups smaller than the courthouse flock.

The vultures apparently find sustenance in the metropolitan area, dining on dead fish along the Atlantic Ocean shore and frequenting garbage dumps.

The courthouse roof, because of its shape and height, provides "an ideal place for sunning," said Owre.

Other experts say the birds, awkward on land, find it convenient just to spread their wings and step into the updraft that almost constantly blows from the city streets.

Smaller families help reduce welfare rolls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government said Tuesday that the nation's welfare rolls dipped last June to the lowest level in 18 months, due in part to the shrinking size of the American family.

The announcement by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said there were 11,247,679 persons receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children in June, the latest month for which figures are available.

That was the lowest since January 1975, when there were 11,175,000 AFDC recipients. The number of AFDC families increased during the 18 months from 3,379,559 in January 1975 to 3,554,311 last June.

Robert Fulton, administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service, said welfare rolls have been declining because of smaller families, a stronger economy, the drive to weed out ineligible recipients, and the year-old campaign to collect support payments from absent parents.

HEW said the size of the average AFDC family has decreased from 4.1 persons to 3.2 persons during the last decade.

The June rolls were 62,244 recipients below the previous month. Cash payments during the month totaled $818.8 million, more than a $2 million decline from May.

HEW said that while the number of recipients last June was one-half of one per cent below a year earlier, the number of welfare families had increased 2.2 per cent.

Georgia led the 28 states registering a 12-month decline in AFDC rolls, down 88,575. Other states or jurisdictions with large decreases were Texas, down 48,383; Illinois, down 21,224; Puerto Rico, down 19,009; Maine, down 18,345; and Florida down 15,225.

The largest increase in AFDC rolls was recorded in California. Other states with higher rolls included Kentucky, Michigan, New York, Ohio, and Wisconsin.

Eighty per cent of the increase in those six states occurred in families headed by unemployed fathers, HEW said.

Nonfederal welfare rolls called general assistance also hit an 18-month low of 916,866 persons in June.

Glass gaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Glass is gaining a larger share of the container market, the Glass Packaging Institute says.

For the first time in over 15 years, in 1975, glass container shipments rose nearly 2 per cent while the packaging industry's total container shipments declined more than 3 per cent.

Peru buys planes from Russ

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Peru's air force has bought 36 sweptwing supersonic fighter planes from the Soviet Union, the government announced Tuesday. It is the first such purchase by a Latin-American country other than Cuba.

Foreign Minister Jose de la Puente told a news conference that the Soviets made the "most attractive" offer during arms-suppliers' bidding from the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Britain.

Usually well informed sources said the planes cost some $250 million under lenient credit terms, but the foreign minister gave no details on the cost or delivery date.

"Planes have no ideology or flag," said de la Puente, apparently denying that the planes have any significance beyond the renewal of obsolete aircraft.

Yellowing disease affecting coconut palms

DAVIE, Fla. (AP) — Agricultural officials say they haven't given up trying to save the few remaining coconut palms from the rapidly spreading lethal yellowing disease, but they are testing a new tree as a replacement for the stately symbols of Florida.

Ninety percent of the big coconut palms in the Miami area have been killed or are dying from the disease believed caused by bacteria carried by insects.

"We're working on it stronger than ever," said Dr. Henry M. Donselman, ornamental horticulturalist and a member of a scientific team at the University of Florida's Agricultural Research Center.

"But unless we come up with a miracle cure in the next year or two, the rest of them are going to be wiped out," he said.

So scientists are turning much of their attention to the Maypan, a new and graceful palm tree that may replace the coconut palms. Donselman said the Maypan is a cross between the female Malayan dwarf palm and the male Panama tall palm.

"It was developed in Jamaica and they can't spare very many of them," Donselman said. "But we got some seeds and we have about 150 of them growing here."

Donselman said the Maypan is similar in appearance to the coconut palm, but it has an 86 per cent resistance to lethal yellowing.

"We're going to take the seedlings next spring and distribute them to research centers and botanical gardens around south and central Florida," he said. "We'll give some very good care and let others fend for themselves. We want to see how well they'll adapt."

But Donselman said that under the best circumstances, the Maypan won't be available to the general public for at least five years.

Lethal yellowing first was found in the Florida Keys in the 1950s. In 1972, it reached the Miami suburb of Coral Gables and quickly spread throughout the region.

"So far, it's killed 90 per cent of the coconut palms in Dade County (Miami) and 50 per cent on the whole East Coast," he said. "And it's not just killing coconut palms, it's getting 18 different varieties."

He said injections of the anitbiotic tentracycline help prevent the disease, but is recommended only for use as a delaying tactic until new trees are grown.

"We're still working on lethal yellowing because coconuts are listed in the top five economic plants around the world," Donselman said. "Anything we find here will be of terrific importance elsewhere."

Displaced by center of art, culture

Refugees: 'We're luckier than some older people—we found a place...'

By DAVE ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Living above the three-story public baths was like presiding over a chateau for custodian Maurice Noyelle, his 71-year-old widowed mother, their pet fox, a dog and 12 birds. Now they have to vacate, joining a stream of families displaced by The Georges Pompidou National Center of Art and Culture.

The center, to cost $180 million, is nearing completion in one of Paris' most prized old neighborhoods, the Marais, once home of French kings and the sprawling Paris food market of Les Halles, torn down several years ago and now little more than a crater. Yearly operating costs for the center are an estimated $26 million.

It has found few defenders, and even the local church is upset.

"We've been here seven years and we're used to the neighborhood," Noyelle, 37, said in an interview in his two-bedroom apartment above the baths, where in return for keeping the water hot and the 55 showers in good running order he lived rent-free.

"Where else could you have all this," he said with a gesture meant to encompass the entire 46-year-old red-brick building just across the street from the cultural center. "It was like having a chateau.

"But if you have to move, then you have to. We were luckier than some of the older people, though. We found a place and we're getting ready to move. Some of the others haven't found anything."

Hundreds of families have been uprooted by the building program, which began five years ago and covers five acres, including a vast vehicle-free pedestrian mall. But official figures on the precise number of those displaced are not available.

The baths are to be transformed into auxiliary offices for the cultural center, which itself will have a library, an art gallery, a theater, an industrial design center, a music research institute and exhibit halls.

Other buildings surrounding the center are either being knocked down or renovated as studios for artists whose works will be displayed in the center's modern art gallery.

The center is 540 feet long, 195 feet wide and has six floors, each 23 feet high. The architects, Renzo Piano of Italy and Richard Rogers of Britain, deliberately left parts of the heating, plumbing and air conditioning systems visible and had them painted bright red, blue, green, yellow and orange to accentuate the building's functional design.

There are also white enameled steel struts crisscrossing the outside of the building and a staircase snaking up the length of the center's exterior, adding to the utilitarian feeling that the architects tried to evoke. The architects were chosen by a committee in an international competition but without consultation with the local community.

Both Noyelle and his mother said they were not too impressed by the center's looks but recalled philosophically that the Eiffel Tower also had its enemies and that maybe the new building fell into this category. Others in the neighborhood, however, took a stronger view.

"We were never asked about the design of the center," said Father Jean-Claude Thomas of the nearby 16th century Saint Merry Church. "The decision was taken at some remote level, like the operation of some big machine of the state.

"Personally, I think it's well adapted to its function but not to the neighborhood. Many in the parish view it as a monster that has disrupted their lives, something generally negative, aberrant and incongruous."

Pedestrians interviewed on four blocks surrounding the center were not happy about the center.

"It's frightful, completely ridiculous and has horrid colors," one well-tailored woman said. "It's especially absurd in this old quarter."

An old man said he fought in World War I and II and had nothing against the late President Georges Pompidou, the center's prime mover and namesake, "but why did he make it look like an oil refinery?"

Another man said the center "must have been designed by madmen. Everything's exposed and painted those hideous colors. All those millions wasted. It's a scandal."

Still another called it "vulgar and tasteless," than added with nationalistic malice: "The English did it. One of the architects is English, you know."

Glass waste rescue studied

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The glass bottle you throw out today may become the street you drive on or a brick for your new house next year if research into refuse-derived glass pays off.

Every six weeks, a 50-pound sack of ground up rubbish from Washington, D.C., arrives at the University of San Diego, where a scientist puts it through "froth flotation" in search of glass particles.

What Dr. Donald B. Peterson is trying to do is match the way nature separates the original sand crystals that go into glass from other materials.

"Froth flotation has been an important process in the cleaning of naturally occurring glass sands for many years," said Peterson. "More recently, it has been applied to recovery of glass from municipal solid waste."

Peterson's work is a small segment of large-scale national research on how to handle the mountains of refuse generated by Americans and recover metal and other elements which presently get dumped.

His studies so far show it is possible to isolate glass from such items as bone and pebbles which show up in rubbish and to derive a product that can be used in making of new glass, as a substitute for asphalt or in manufacture of bricks.

The investigation by Peterson, a chemist and acting dean of the university's college of arts and sciences, is under auspices of the National Center for Resources Recovery, Inc., in Washington. That's why the ground-up trash comes from there.

Actually, Peterson only receives the glass-pebble-bone residue remaining after the lab in Washington has removed paper, metals and oils by means of other recovery systems.

Some meats, butter

Supermarket shoppers finding a few bargains

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Thanksgiving came early for supermarket shoppers this year. An Associated Press marketbasket survey showed lower prices for some meats and butter caused grocery bills to decline during last month.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed the marketbasket bill dropped in October at the checklist store in 11 cities, down an average 2.5 per cent. The bill increased in only two cities — Los Angeles and Providence, R.I. — with an average rise of 1.9 per cent. Overall, the marketbasket bill at the checklist store decreased 1.8 per cent last month.

The picture contrasted with what happened in September when the marketbasket bill increased at the checklist store in nine cities, for an overall boost of 2 per cent.

Comparing prices at the start of November with those a year earlier, the AP found the marketbasket bill was up at the checklist store in nine cities and down in four, with an overall rise of 2 per cent.

The AP survey covered both food and nonfood items, but seemed to indicate that price increases are in line with government predictions that food costs alone will rise 3 to 4 per cent this year.

Not all the news was good. Coffee drinkers — whether they take it black or with milk — paid higher prices.

The cost of a pound of coffee went up at the checklist store during October in six cities, with increases ranging from five to 19 per cent. The price of coffee was unchanged in four cities and decreased in two. The requested size and brand of coffee was not available at the checklist store in the 13th city.

The coffee price increases were the latest in a series of boosts blamed on a frost in Brazil last summer. Coffee processors have been increasing wholesale prices ever since the news of the frost and the boosts started filtering through to consumers earlier this year.

Milk price increases also stemmed from boosts at the wholesale level. The price of a quart of whole milk increased during October at the checklist store in eight cities and was unchanged in five. Last month, milk went up at the checklist store in nine cities.

On the bright side, pork prices continued to decline, dropping in eight cities, with several special sales that cut the per-pound price by up to $1. Butter prices, which had been rising steadily for several months, also decreased.

The price of a pound of butter declined at the checklist store in eight cities. The price increased in only one city — Los Angeles — and the rise was a small one, from $1.14 to $1.16 a pound. Butter prices were unchanged at the checklist store in four cities.

Beef prices remained fairly steady or decreased in most areas, but the government has said the good news won't last. Retail beef prices are expected to increase again this winter, although there will be no sharp jumps before the spring.

The reason for the expected increase is a decline in the number of cattle now in feedlots being fattened for market. On Oct. 1, there were 25 per cent fewer cattle being fed on grain than there were on Jan. 1. The statistics also show that in the third quarter of 1976, marketings exceeded placements by 9 per cent. That means that the number of grain-fed animals being sold for slaughter was greater than the number of young cows and calves being sent to feedlots.

The cattlemen have been complaining that they are losing money because large supplies drove down prices. They also claimed that retailers were not passing on all of the savings to consumers.

A look at the over-all number of items in the AP survey showed about fewer increases during October than in September. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

	Sep.	Oct.
Up	30.3	25.6
Down	22.6	21.5
Unchanged	44.6	50.3
Unavailable	2.5	2.6

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what per cent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not attempt to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that cookies cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 per cent in one city and 6 per cent in another.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. It includes 65 retail items of U.S. farm-produced foods in amounts that theoretically could supply a household of 3.2 persons for one year. The department, which draws on information from 1,500 supermarkets in compiling its report, says the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in costs.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Thailand military tough on Vietnamese

NONG KHAI, Thailand (AP) — The new martial law regime is cracking down on the large Vietnamese community in Thailand. It claims the actions are designed to control areas of potential Communist subversion.

"It looks like we Vietnamese will have no more freedom in this country," said one of the nearly 100 Vietnamese arrested in Nong Khai. "The government is getting tougher and tougher on us."

Police here say they have seized about 3,000 documents they describe as Communist in nature, pictures of the late President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam and private correspondence between Vietnamese in Thailand and Vietnam.

Nong Khai, a town of about 50,000 people, is stirring with border patrol police, special forces units and troops of the Thai army's 3rd division. Searches of Vietnamese homes are every day occurrences.

With more than 4,000 to 5,000 old-time Vietnamese residents and 16,000 refugees from Communist-governed Laos across the Mekong River from here, the area is considered by Thai authorities a potential hotbed of Communist subversion.

There is another reason for increased police and army surveillance in Nong Khai, a Mekong River crossing point into Laos. The provincial governor says that more than 300 leftist Thai students, politicians and Vietnamese subversives have fled to Laos since the military took power in Thailand in a coup Oct. 6.

Some Thais and Vietnamese confided that a few of their friends either had swum the half-mile-wide Mekong or crossed the swift currents in small boats since the military seized power and began a sweep of what it considers potential subversives.

"I was sitting in my house. Suddenly three policemen came in and began searching through every room," said the Vietnamese prisoner, Tran Van Linh, in an interview in jail. "They took portraits of Ho Chi Minh from the wall and private correspondence with friends of mine in Hanoi. Of course I have friends in Vietnam, but I'm not a subversive."

Linh, a merchant who has lived in Thailand for 19 years, said he is ready to return to Vietnam if Hanoi and Bangkok reached an agreement.

Thailand's Vietnamese minority, living chiefly in the northeast and numbering some 60,000, has been a source of tension between Vietnam and Thailand since the early 1950s, when thousands fled their homeland in the wake of the French-Indochina war.

Numerous efforts at repatriation have proved fruitless. With the growth of Thailand's Communist insurgency, the economically influential Vietnamese community has been regarded by many as a breeding ground for guerrillas and a channel for Hanoi's support of the rebellion.

One of the first announcements of the new government was to accuse "Vietnamese Communists" of agitating student demonstrations in Bangkok which led to bloody street

Official Vietnamese media responded with propaganda blasts at Bangkok, accusing the new regime of persecuting the Vietnamese minority.

Opinions vary whether the anti-Vietnamese mood will escalate into real persecutions. Some knowledgeable observers say the leaders in Bangkok know that violence against the Vietnamese could bring a confrontation with Hanoi, something Thailand wishes to avoid. There also are indications that some of the tough talk and police actions are designed partly for "home consumption."

Linh and others protest that hanging up portraits of Ho Chi Minh shows only respect for the man and not an allegiance to Communism.

There is also fear among the Vietnamese that their considerable economic power in northeastern Thailand could be shattered by the military regime. The community, which includes large numbers of merchants and shopkeepers, controls much of the movement, distribution and pricing of food and other commodities in many areas.

In the past, most Vietnamese were little inclined to return home. This could change, or Laos might become a haven.

One international refugee official recently remarked, "Soon we may be taking care of both refugees from Laotian communism in Thailand and refugees from the Thai military in Laos."

Fire in closet near chief's office

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A woman employe thought she smelled smoke when she walked by a closet outside Fire Chief Marvin Drake's office. She opened the closet door and smoke poured out.

"Fire!" she screamed.

Drake and another department employe quickly found the problem: an overheated amplifier on fire radio equipment in the closet.

They carried the apparatus to an open window and let it cool off.

Black degree

Acupuncture for sterility:

It's no bull, but pins treating old No. 154 to new pregnancy

By LYNDA FILLMORE
Associated Press Writer

CITY OF INDUSTRY, Calif. (AP) — Forget that smug old service bull, placidly chewing grass out in Alta-Dena Dairy pastureland.

It's Rob Elson's injured ankle that gets credit for making Cow No. 154, previously sterile, pregnant.

Two years ago, Rob, a former running back at Corona del Mar High School, suffered severe pain in one of his ankles every time he did any brokenfield running. Normal treatments didn't help and doctors ruled out surgery.

As a last resort, the youth went to UCLA's Acupuncture Research Clinic and started taking twice-weekly treatments at $25 a shot. After five treatments, he came home and told his veterinarian father that the ankle no longer hurt.

Dr. Berton E. Elson immediately signed up for a continuing education course at UCLA in veterinary acupuncture, and later for another one at the National Association for Veterinary Acupuncture in Anaheim.

Today, Elson, 61, says he is the only veterinarian in the country using acupuncture to treat cows for sterility. So far, he says, he's had good success.

"Dairy cows," said Elson, "have a tendency to become sterile because of lack of exercise."

This creates problems for multi-million-dollar dairies such as Alta-Dena. Cows without calfs give much less milk than pregnant ones, so dairies prefer to keep their cows with calf for one nine-month gestation period out of every year, if possible.

"The milk production of a cow without a calf tapers off from the optimum 6-to-10 tons per year and she becomes just a hayburner," said Elson, Alta-Dena's chief veterinarian. "Eats almost 1,000 pounds of hay a month and hay costs almost $100 a ton."

Elson began sticking needles in sterile cows.

He said that he inserts the needles almost an inch into the upper part of what's called the bladder meridian of a sterile cow, which runs from the front of the face along the spinal cord and down the rear leg. He then gently twists the needle and leaves it in about 10 minutes.

"The cow doesn't feel a thing," Elson claimed. "And that's where my books tell me to treat sterility."

Elson first tried his acupuncture method on a cow last March and she conceived — via the normal dairy method of artificial insemination — the following month.

"Cows, like humans — like the earth — have meridians," he says. "Meridians are — how should I say it — pathways of energy. It has to do with autonomic nerves. Heck, why does your heart beat? I can't explain it — all I can do is say it works.

"I guarantee it doesn't hurt the cow," he adds with a laugh. "Some of my best friends are cows and I wouldn't hurt any of them..."

The veterinarian glanced at Cow No. 176 and explained that she had dislocated her left femur, or thigh bone, and that he was contemplating treating it by acupuncture. He has never before used the ancient Chinese art for treating anything but bovine sterility.

"Face it," he said. "She's probably headed for where all good cows eventually go. You just can't be bothered wasting time and money on a dairy cow. If it was a $30,000 racehorse, you'd try X-rays or traction."

Probe for power to focus on hydrogen

By Alton Blakeslee
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — John H. Perry, Jr. is an inventor who developed a small fleet of two-man and four-man submarines now helping to draw oil from beneath ocean floors. Now he has turned his attention to another source of fuel.

The little subs can make onsite inspections of drilling equipment thrusting into hidden pools of oil. They can send out divers to work on pipelines, join parts together, or perform other tasks. Some now are at work in the North Sea.

But one day all the oil in the world will run out. So, in time, will the coal.

People will need other sources of energy to run their machines and factories, light and heat their homes, help grow their food, propel their trains and cars and airplanes and buses.

Such alternate sources may be developed long before the end of the coal and oil and natural gas. The sun is one such potential source. So is wind power. And nuclear energy. And a scheme to tap energy from temperature differences in ocean water.

And another is simple hydrogen, the lightest of all the chemical elements, and one of the most abundant To Perry, it now is one of the most inviting candidates for energy.

Hydrogen can be produced from water, by an electrical process that separates the hydrogen (two atoms) from oxygen (one atom) in the water molecule of H2-0. And water covers 70 per cent of all the earth's surface.

Hydrogen burns to provide heat or energy with no residue of pollutants, unlike coal or oil, and can produce energy at higher efficiency.

The federal Energy Research and Development Administration is sponsoring wide research into hydrogen energy. Perry is one of many researchers looking into applications and techniques on his own.

In one such beginning step, Perry says Perry Oceanographics, Inc., of Riviera Beach, Fla., and Hydrogen Research, Inc., of Stillwater Okla., have used hydrogen gas to operate a diesel engine under high compression, at an efficiency 50 to 100 per cent higher than that achieved with diesel fuel.

"The engine complements our work toward developing a hydrogen economy — which in effect means a renewable, nonpolluting energy system," Perry says. "It opens options to using hydrogen for power, while the oxygen from electrolysis can be used as a life support medium in our submarines and diving chambers."

The new tests used an aircooled, single cylinder diesel which is part of an engine-generator set that can deliver 2.5 kilowatts of electricity. Hydrogen Research, Inc., used its patented direct cylinder injection process to convert the stock diesel engine to burn hydrogen gas.

Perry plans to use it on a 600-acre island in the Bahamas in further development of the "hydrogen economy."

Peso devaluation hurts cities along the border

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Two peso devaluations in the midst of Mexico's worst monetary crisis in decades have brought deep hardship to an estimated 10 million Americans and Mexicans who live and trade on both sides of the border.

Official figures show retail sales from Brownsville and Matamorros to Chula Vista and Tijuana have dropped 5 to 26 per cent, depending on the area. Merchants in dozens of border communities in Mexico and the United States either went broke or are about to fold. Enrique Moreno Alvarez, general manager of the Ciudad Juarez Chamber of Commerce, predicts unemployment here will rise another 25-30 per cent if remedies are not found. Presently one of every five of this city's 100,000-member labor force is out of work.

Since Aug. 31, President Luis Echeverria's administration has been forced to devalue the peso 100 per cent from 12.50 to 25 to $1 in an attempt to halt the flight of capital.

About the only thing the devaluations did was to break a huge smuggling industry from the United States to Mexico, estimated by Mexican banking sources at $1 billion to $3

The negative effects all along the 1,966-mile border are so acute that President Ford last week promised federal assistance to 36 counties on the U.S. side. Ford told reporters on the campaign trail in San Diego, Calif., last Monday that he is moving to designate the counties in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas as the Southwest border Economic Region — a move that merchants catering to the Mexican trade have been demanding for weeks.

For many years, Mexicans shopped American because the goods were cheaper and better. The devaluations suddenly reversed that, making American goods twice as expensive for the peso-earning Mexican and many Mexican goods twice as cheap for American visitors with dollars to spend.

This killed smuggling but also the daily shopping that hundreds of thousands of Mexicans did legally in the United States. Now hundreds of thousands of Americans cross the border daily to take advantage of the lower prices in Mexico. They go to get a haircut, to the beauty parlor, to get their dental work done, buy eyeglasses, beef, cooking oil, sugar, some types of canned goods, rum and tequila.

But Mexican community leaders claim the influx of American shoppers is not enough to offset the depression brought by the devaluations Aug. 31 and last Wednesday.

They say many Mexican merchants with dollar debts and Mexican currency income are going broke, and point out that since goods are cheap in dollar terms they do not bring in enough dollars to compensate.

A typical example of how the devaluation hit people is El Paso, a city of nearly half a million with an economy closely tied to Ciudad Juarez. About a million Mexicans used to do a fifth of their shopping in El Paso, mostly for furniture, home appliances, TV and radio sets, automobiles, clothing, toys, milk and groceries. Much of it was done through dollar instalment plans.

"Now we don't go anymore," said Rosalia Hernandez, a Ciudad Juarez divorcee. "It's twice as expensive, even though Mexican goods have also gone up in price but not as much. My teenage son and I used to go on weekends and have dinner and see a movie too."

The El Paso Chamber of Commerce reported a 5 per cent drop in retail sales after the first devaluation — a loss to merchants of $5 million a month out of $100 million average. But firms catering to the Mexican trade lost 60 to 90 per cent, it said. The chamber doesn't have figures on how much sales dropped since the second devaluation.

"But no doubt about it, it has dropped," says the chamber's general manager, Mark T. Miles.

El Paso's Plaza Hotel reported bookings down by more than a third. An Italian restaurant across the street said its business dropped more than 40 per cent. Herbert Schartz of the Popular, a three-outlet department store, said sales are down 18 to 25 per cent. Working hours were reduced and overtime was cut after the first devaluation.

The number of persons crossing the Rio Grande from Ciudad Juarez to El Paso dropped 50 per cent to a million in September, while crossings the other way increased 30 to 40 per cent, according to the local Mexican tourism director, Jose Quevedo Treviso. But Moreno Alvarez says the money tourists and American shoppers are spending is not half enough to cover losses suffered by Ciudad Juarez merchants as the result of the devaluations.

Stores are reporting sales are up 40 to 50 per cent but many still have dollar debts to pay for their American merchandise. In addition they have new salary increases and higher costs to meet.

"The first devaluation — although it shook us like nothing before — was probably beneficial," said one of the score or so of merchants who went out of business here. "The second just sent us under."

"For a whole year Juarez banks fearing devaluation refused people credits in pesos," Moreno Alvarez said. "They made only dollar loans."

"When the devaluation hit, a lot of merchants who had sold only in pesos and many on instalment got caught with terrible debts in dollars. Others sold in dollars, but customers now just cannot meet their monthly payments."

The average monthly wage in Ciudad Juarez is 4,000 pesos, which was the equivalent of $320 before the first devaluation, and $245 after it. With last Wednesday's devaluation, it dwindled to $160.

"It's the same all along the border, more or less," Moreno Alvarez said.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 3, the 308th day of 1976. There are 58 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal got a vote of confidence at the polls. Republican presidential candidate Alf Landon carried only Maine and Vermont.

On this date —

In 561, Julian became Emperor of Rome on the death of Emperor Constantine.

In 1796, John Adams was elected the second President of the United States.

In 1868, the Republican candidate for President, General Ulysses S. Grant, was elected over Horatio Seymour.

In 1903, the Republic of Panama was proclaimed.

In 1964, President Lyndon B. Johnson swamped Republican Barry Goldwater in a presidential election.

In 1970, a Marxist, Salvador Allende, became president of Chile.

Ten years ago: The United Nations Command in South Korea charged that a North Korean "killer group" had murdered and mutilated six Americans in an ambush near the truce line.

Five years ago: Roman Catholic bishops meeting in Rome overwhelmingly upheld the Church rule that priests could not be permitted to marry and remain in the ministry.

One year ago: President Ford named Donald Rumsfeld as Secretary of Defense, Elliot Richardson as Secretary of Commerce and George Bush as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Senator Russell Long of Louisiana is 58. Former French Culture Minister Andre Malraux is 75.

Thought for today: You know how it is in an election year. They pick a President and then for four years they pick on him. — Adlai Stevenson, 1900-1965.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, General George Washington, facing British forces north of New York City, issued stern orders against American army desertions, which had become widespread.

Deviled Ham Frittata wizardry conjures snacks

Progress Bulletin
Food
Pomona, California ■ Wednesday, November 3, 1976

One of the trickiest situations in your busy fall schedule is that occasion when you and your guests arrive home at the same time. Returning from a long day spent working on a political campaign, a late night movie or that important football game, you all squeeze through the front door together. If you are groping for elegant but relatively effortless food ideas, don't fret! Dazzle your guests with a last minute wizardry of these mouth-watering snacks. They are very simple to prepare, requiring about 15-20 minutes from start to finish. And they make imaginative use of many ingredients a good cook keeps handy-eggs, cheese, onions, and convenient canned meat spreads.

Don't be afraid to tackle an omelet in front of guests. Try this version of a classic Italian dish, Deviled Ham Frittata. It's a scrumptious, thick omelet that literally cooks itself. No delicate folding is required-a last five minutes in the oven sets the eggs. This fluffy mixture is seasoned with onion, green pepper, Mozzarella cheese and spoonfuls of deviled ham. The lovely thing about omelets is that last minute additions of whatever you may have on hand serves to make them that much more creative! Add a tossed salad with a wine vinegar dressing and crusty Italian bread (a loaf kept in the freezer will defrost deliciously in the oven in a few minutes). Suddenly, you have a fancy late-night supper with a minimum of fuss.

On a more casual note, try Hot Chicken-Berry Wiches. Spread one slice of bread with a crunchy filling of chopped celery, walnuts and chunky chicken spread and the other with whole cranberry sauce. Put together and dip the whole thing in an egg mixture. Grill for a flavorful French toast finish. Or surprise guests with the hearty taste of Beef 'n Cheese Biscuits. Hot baked biscuits (the refrigerator type) are split and filled with sliced tomato and roast beef spread, then sauced with Cheddar cheese soup.

DEVILED HAM FRITTATA

6 eggs
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (4½ ounces) deviled ham
½ cup grated Mozzarella cheese

Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. In a bowl, beat together eggs and milk. Stir in onion and green pepper. Melt butter in an 8-inch skillet over low heat. Tilt pan to coat bottom and sides evenly. Pour in egg mixture. Drop deviled ham by teaspoonfuls into egg mixture. Cook 10 minutes. Sprinkle cheese on top and place in oven 4-5 minutes until cheese is melted and egg mixture is set.

Makes: 4-6 servings.

HOT CHICKEN BERRY WICHES

1 can (4¾ ounces) chunky chicken spread
2 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped walnuts
8 slices white bread
1 can (8 ounces) whole berry cranberry sauce
2 beaten eggs
3 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

In a bowl, mix together chicken spread, celery, onion and walnuts. Spread evenly on four slices bread. Spread cranberry sauce on four remaining slices bread and close sandwiches fitting sides together. In a shallow bowl beat eggs and milk together. In a skillet, melt butter over medium high heat. Dip sandwiches in egg mixture. Brown 6-8 minutes turning once.

Makes: 4 sandwiches.

BEEF 'N CHEESE BISCUITS

1 package (10 ounces) refrigerated buttermilk biscuits
2 cans (4¾ ounces each) roast beef spread
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
10 slices tomato
1 can (11 ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
1/3 cup milk

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Bake biscuits according to package directions. Meanwhile in a bowl, mix together roast beef spread, onion and green pepper. Split hot biscuits in half horizontally. Place a slice of tomato on each bottom half. Spread with roast beef mixture. Place in oven for 5 minutes. In a saucepan, mix together soup and milk. Heat 5 minutes. Pour over sandwiches.

Makes: 10 sandwiches.

Turkey roast mapped

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Turkey for Thanksgiving has been a favorite of Americans since the Colonials first savored the native wild turkey 200 years ago. This is one tradition that stirs memories in those of all ages. There is nothing like the impatient waiting as the head of the household skillfully carves slice after slice from the handsomely browned bird. Soon the plates are heaped with Thanksgiving specialties — perhaps a favorite family stuffing or a variation combining dry bread cubes, coarse corn bread crumbs, raisins and ham. A quick gravy made from the drippings and browned bits in the roasting pan tops off the biscuits and whipped potatoes.

In saucepan, brown ham and cook onion with poultry seasoning and sage in butter until onion is tender. Add one-half cup gravy. Toss lightly with bread cubes, corn bread crumbs, egg and raisins. Fill body and neck cavities of turkey with stuffing; secure with skewers. Fasten legs by tying with string. Tuck wings behind shoulders. Place in roasting pan, cover loosely with foil. Roast at 325 degrees for about 4 hours (25 minutes per pound or until internal temperature reaches 185 degrees and leg moves easily). Uncover last hour to brown. Baste occasionally. Remove turkey from pan. Spoon off fat, saving 6 tablespoons drippings. On top of range, in roasting pan, combine remaining gravy and drippings. Heat, stirring to loosen browned bits. Serve with turkey and stuffing. Makes 8 to 10 servings, about 2 cups gravy.

In saucepan, cook celery and onion with allspice in butter until tender. Blend in cornstarch, cocktail vegetable juice, water and marmalade. Cook, stirring until thickened. Add carrots; heat. Makes about two and one-half cups, 4 servings.

Cookies

Crisp, colorful autumn weather perks up appetites — especially after school. Keep the cookie jar filled, and let the kids help themselves. Make the batter before time and let the children help with the baking, or let them mix up a quick and easy bar cookie in a matter of minutes.

Cranberry mincemeat cake tasteful creation

With fresh cranberries crimson-ripe and abundant, it is timely indeed to consider the variety of ways one can preserve this piquant fruit so that you and your family may have the pleasures of its unique flavor for months to come. Beyond that, homemade preserves make splendidly thoughtful gifts at holiday time. So don't wait, preserve those berries now!

Here are a number of ideas for preserving cranberries. All are easy to do, and each will carry that special, country kitchen goodness that only can be created at home. Everyone will be worthy for you to boast about. And, if you do give some as presents, wrap them gaily and attach your "secret" recipe along with your season's greetings. They'll be doubly appreciated by the recipients.

"Cranberry Mincemeat Cake" is a decidedly tasteful creation made in a mold. The ingredients combine quickly and baking time takes only an hour. After it's cooled simply wrap well and store in a cool, dry place. The flavor essence of this cake mellows with aging, and will be simply delicious when you're ready to serve it.

The delights of old-fashioned cooking know-how are truly found in "Mini Berry Steamed Puddings." Rather than one large pudding, these are made in individual cup size molds and then steam baked. Bake a quantity, and serve some to your family that evening. The remainder can be wrapped and placed in your freezer. Whenever you plan to serve them again, simply thaw and steam for thirty minutes. As with the cake, these are even more flavorsome when kept in reserve for some time.

CRANBERRY MINCEMEAT CAKE

Both pretty, pink "Cranberry Hard Sauce" or "Candied Cranberries" are perfect toppings for both the cranberry cake and steamed puddings. It's a snap to prepare the hard sauce days ahead of time by blending confectioners' sugar, butter, rum flavoring and fresh cranberries. Make a large amount and keep it refrigerated. "Candied Cranberries" can also be made ahead of time and reheated.

Sweet 'n tart "Cranberry Fruitful Conserve" is a perfect accompaniment to serve with poultry, game hens, duckling, spareribs, pork and lamb. It's a marvelous mix of fresh cranberries, apricots, figs, lemon, orange, raisins, sugar, cinnamon and almonds. Fill up as many jars as you can as you are sure to enjoy having this treat on hand even when summer barbecues beckon again.

Delectably spicy, "Pickled Cranberries" will add dash to many a meal. Serve it along with potted, stewed, or roasted beef, steaks, and chops, as well as game and even fish. For a simple sandwich or hamburger lunch, it will bring both color and zest to your menu.

Lastly, "Cranberry Wine Jelly" with its subtly savory taste can be served not only with meats, poultry and game, but will add a flavor highlight to many a breakfast and brunch when topped on toast, muffins, pancakes and such.

The pleasures of preserving as you see are certainly many, but perhaps most of all is that particular sense of accomplishment when one fills their pantry shelves with a variety of good foods produced in their very own kitchen.

CRANBERRY MINCEMEAT CAKE

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1½ cups sugar
- 3 eggs
- ¾ cup milk
- 1½ cups prepared mincemeat
- 1½ cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
- 3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt

In a bowl, cream butter until fluffy. Beat in sugar and eggs. Stir in milk, mincemeat and cranberries. Stir in remaining ingredients. Stir until well blended. Spoon dough into a greased and floured 1½ quart mold. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour or 1 hour and 20 minutes, tap to loosen and unmold on a rack. Cool thoroughly. Wrap and store in a cool dry place until needed.

MINI BERRY STEAMED PUDDINGS

- 2 cups ground suet (8 ounces)
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 2 cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
- 3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg
- 2 eggs
- 1½ cups milk
- 1½ cups molasses

Topped with Hard Sauce or Candied Cranberries for garnish

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl and stir until well blended. Pour mixture into 10 greased individual 1 cup molds. Cover molds with greased foil. Place molds into a large pan and add enough water to the depth of 1 inch. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 to 45 minutes or until firm to the touch in the center. Cool, in pans for 5 minutes. Serve unmolded and hot with Cranberry Hard Sauce spooned over each serving. If desired, keep puddings in molds and freeze covered. When ready to serve, place molds, thawed, covered into a pan with simmering water and simmer for 30 minutes or until hot again.

CRANBERRY HARD SAUCE

- 1 pound confectioners' sugar
- ½ pound sweet butter, softened
- 1 tablespoon rum flavoring
- ½ cup Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, coarsely chopped

In a bowl, mix confectioners' sugar with sweet butter, rum flavoring and cramberries. Chill until ready to serve. May be made several days ahead and refrigerated.

CANDIED CRANBERRIES

- 2 cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Dash of ground cloves

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Spread cranberries in a single layer in a shallow baking pan. Combine sugar and spices; sprinkle mixture evenly over the top of the cranberries. Cover with foil or a lid and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 to 50 minutes. Shake pan occasionally to coat berries in sugar syrup. Chill before serving.

CRANBERRY WINE JELLY

- 2 pounds Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
- 2 cups water
- 2 cups port wine
- 7 cups sugar
- 1 bottle liquid pectin (6 ounces)

In a large saucepan, or Dutch oven mix cranberries and water. Bring to a boil and boil for 10 minutes. Press mixture through a strainer. Replace strained juice in saucepan and stir in wine and sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil. Stir in pectin and bring to a full rolling boil again. Boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon. Pour quickly while hot into sterilized jars. Seal and cool. Store in a cool dry place until needed.

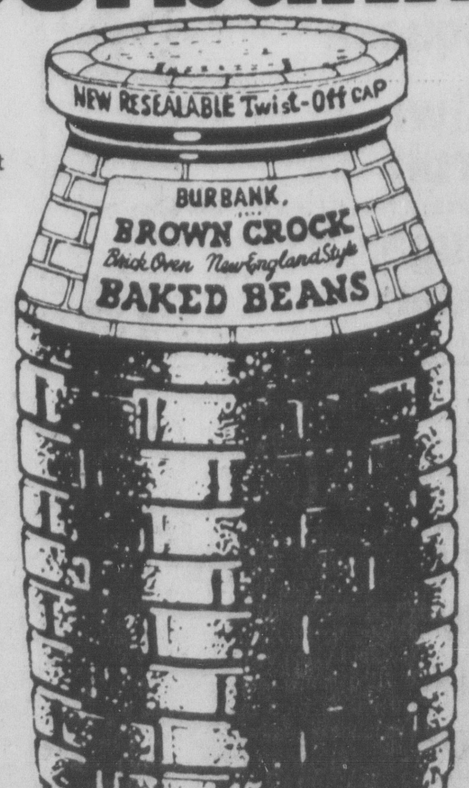
The little baked beans with big ideas. Burbank.



The twist off cap makes it easier to get to the great tasting beans inside. It also makes the jar resealable—and reuseable. Handy for eat-and-runners.

Burbank wants you to see how rich and thick our sauce is, so we put our beans in a brown glass jar. It looks like a bean crock.

Burbank uses only first quality small white beans. Because they're little, they're a little more tender than some other brands.

Then we use our special recipe and bake them in real brick ovens. All natural appetizing ingredients.

Burbank Brown Crock New England Style Baked Beans aren't the best known baked beans—yet. But you and your family just might say they're the best-baked beans you've ever tasted. That's the big idea.

Burbank Brown Crock Baked Beans

Shrimp cocktail calla romana from Mamma's menu

A Festival of Liqueurs, held at Mamma Leone's, New York's most famous Italian restaurant, marked the recent introduction of two new Italian cordials, Leroux Sambuca and Chocolate Amaretto.

A wide variety of food and drink ranging from pastas to pastries and ice cold aperitivos to hot spiked coffee was offered at tables decorated to resemble the traditional carts and stands of Italian street fairs.

Even if you don't have strolling musicians to entertain your guests, the next time you are planning a special occasion you may care to try some of these recipes, created by Tina Bellusci of Mamma Leone's for the Festival of Luqueurs:

SHRIMP COCKTAIL ALLA ROMANA

3 egg yolks, hard boiled
1 tsp. brown mustard
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. black pepper, freshly ground
½ tsp. paprika
3 tbsp. olive oil
2 tbsp. minced parsley
Juice of 1 lemon
4 tbsp. tomato ketchup
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
3 tbsp. Leroux Sambuca (a liquorice flavor combined with the freshness of elderbush)
2 tbsp. heavy cream
1 head romaine lettuce
1/4 lbs. shrimp, chilled

Mash egg yolks in bowl, add mustard, salt, pepper, paprika, parsley, olive oil and ¼ of the lemon juice. Mix well, then add ketchup, Worcestershire sauce, Leroux Sambuca, heavy cream and the remaining lemon juice. Mix well. Discard outer romaine leaves then wash remaining lettuce, pat dry and use to line serving bowl. Add shrimp and top with sauce.

RAGU ALL'ANICE

Sambuca flavored meat sauce to serve over pasta or rice:

1½ oz. white raisins
½ cup Leroux Sambuca
½ stick salted butter
¼ cup olive oil
1 large onion, minced
1 celery heart, chopped
½ pound ground beef
1 lb. canned, peeled, tomatoes packed in heavy puree
Salt to taste
1 tsp. fennel seeds

Steep raisins in Leroux Sambuca at least 2 hours before using.

Melt butter and oil in large, heavy saucepan. Brown onion and celery, stirring often. Add ground beef and brown. Drain raisins, reserving the Sambuca, then add to beef mixture and cook for 5 minutes. Add tomatoes and puree. Cook until sauce is reduced and the tomatoes look glazed. Add water to saucepan until an inch from the top. Bring to a boil, lower flame, cover and simmer until the water has reduced considerably and the sauce is thick. Add salt and stir. Add Sambuca and fennel seeds. Cook for another 10 minutes, remove from heat and stand ½ hour before serving.

CHOCOLATE ALMOND CREAM

5½ oz. sugar
3¾ oz. almond macarrons, crushed
5½ oz. blanched almonds, chopped
5½ oz. butter, softened at room temperature
1¾ oz. cocoa
4 egg yolks
4 oz. Leroux Chocolate Amaretto (the flavor of freshly ground almonds enhanced with a hint of chocolate)
Grated chocolate, for decoration

Place all ingredients, except the grated chocolate, in an electric blender. Mix at medium speed for two minutes, then at high speed for another 3 or 4 minutes. Distribute equally between four large wine glasses, decorate with grated chocolate and serve.

GIOVANNINO

1/3 heavy cream
1/3 brandy
1/3 Leroux Chocolate Amaretto

Shake with ice, strain and serve in cocktail glass.

NEGRONI AL CIOCCOLATO

1/3 bitter Campari
1/3 vodka
1/3 Leroux Chocolate Amaretto

Pour over ice in tall glass. Fill with soda water and stir. Garnish with ½ slice of orange and serve.

SAMBUCA DORATA

1/3 Leroux Sambuca
2/3 vodka

Pour over ice in tall glass. Fill with chilled grapefruit juice. Stir and serve.

Jelly can also be covered with a ¼ inch deep layer of melted paraffin and cooled.

CRANBERRY FRUITFUL CONSERVE

1½ pounds Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
1 pound dried apricots, chopped
1½ pounds figs, chopped
1 package (15 ounces) raisins
1 lemon, chopped
1 orange, chopped
4 cups sugar
6 cups water
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 can (4 ounces) slivered almonds

Combine all ingredients in a large saucepan or Dutch oven and simmer for 20 to 25 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. Spoon while hot into sterilized jars. Seal and cool. Store in a cool dry place. A conserve is a preserve made with the addition of nuts and raisins.

PICKLED CRANBERRIES

2 cinnamon sticks
2 tablespoons whole cloves
2 tablespoons whole allspice
6 cups sugar
3 cups white vinegar
3 cups water
2 pounds fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
1 bag (20 ounces) frozen baby whole onions, thawed

In a large saucepan, or Dutch oven combine cinnamon, cloves, allspice, sugar, vinegar and water and boil for 5 minutes. Layer cranberries and onion in sterilized jars. Fill jars to the top with hot vinegar mixture, adding some of whole spices to each jar. Seal and cool. Store in a cool dry place.

Poultry consumption

Consumers in 1975 spent about five per cent of their total $159 billion food budget ($7.652 billion) on poultry, according to economists in the United States Department of Agriculture.

This was 10 per cent above the $6.945 billion spent on poultry in 1974 and only slightly below the record $7.763 billion expended in 1973.

About four-fifths of the poultry consumed in 1975 was estimated to be broiler-fryer, amounting to some $6.16 billion in sales.

Cheese casseroles highly rated, distinctive flavor

When it comes to convenience, cheese filled oven casseroles are the greatest! For little effort and expense, the busy consumer can turn out entrees that practically make, cook and serve themselves in less than an hour. Distinctive taste and outstanding flavor is assured in main dishes that feature wholesome natural cheeses. Every kind of natural cheese has its own special merits and attractions. In the delicious recipes given here, two or more varieties are used together with doubly delicious results.

Fans of mexican cooking will appreciate a tasty one step casserole that's a snap to mix up. Simply combine canned corn, green chiles and corn meal with dairy sour cream, monterey jack and mozzarella. During baking the diary ingredients melt and blend together adding mellow smoothness to the spicier additions. The other hearty dish is on the italian side. It combines pasta, ground beef, tomatoes, italian seasonings and appropriate cheeses — ricotta, mozzarella and romano. It's practically a whole meal in itself. Simply accompany either of these cheese entrees with salad and bread for a balanced easy do menu.

Natural cheeses make excellent cooking ingredients as well as fabulous slicing and eating cheeses. Note that the cheeses used here are either diced or grated for smooth and easy blending with other ingredients. Besides the jack and italian varieties mentioned above, provolone, parmesan, brie and camembert are also available for your cooking and eating pleasure. All kinds should be kept well wrapped and refrigerated. Except for the soft varieties, cheese should be served at room temperature for fullest flavor. Odds and ends of cheese can be put to good use by grating and storing in a covered jar. Place near the front of the refrigerator as a reminder to use as soon as possible.

SPECIAL MOSTACCIOLI DINNER

- ½ pound lean ground beef
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 1 (1 pound) can stewed tomatoes
- 1 (6 ounce) can tomato paste
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- ½ teaspoon fennel seed, crushed
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1½ cups mostaccioli
- 1 cup ricotta cheese
- 2 cups grated mozzarella cheese (8 ounces)
- ½ cup grated romano cheese

Saute beef, onion and garlic, stirring often, until browned. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, parsley, oregano, fennel seed, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Simmer uncovered 15 minutes, stirring often. Meanwhile, drop mostaccioli into boiling salted water. Return to boil and cook 9 minutes. Drain. Spoon a little sauce into bottom of wide, shallow 2-quart baking dish to coat lightly. Turn mostaccioli into dish. Top with half of tomato sauce. Dollop with ricotta and half the mozzarella and romano cheeses. Add remaining sauce then remaining cheese. Bake uncovered in 400 degree oven 40 minutes or until hot in center. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CHILI CHEESE AND CORN CASSEROLE

- 1 (17 ounce) can cream style corn
- 1 (4 ounce) can diced green chiles
- 1 (4 ounce) jar diced pimiento, drained
- ½ cup butter, melted
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup yellow corn meal
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 2 cups diced monterey jack cheese

Combine all ingredients. Turn into buttered shallow 1½ quart baking dish. Bake uncovered in 375 degree oven 40 minutes or until set in center. Makes 4 servings.

Or 1 cup EACH diced monterey jack cheese and mozzarella cheese.

Peanut bundt cake rated high by cooks

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

If you have a bundt cake pan tucked away in a cupboard and use it only with cake mixes, dig it out. Here is a start - from - scratch recipe using wholesome, old-fashioned ingredients such as peanut butter, buttermilk and apple butter.

These ingredients make a moist cake and it requires no frosting. You may dust it with confectioners' sugar for eye-appeal and an added touch of sweetness. This recipe also turns out well when baked in a tube pan.

Another treat to try and one that school children will enjoy is a french toasted peanut butter sandwich. This variation also has sliced fruit as part of the filling. It makes a complete meal when served with milk.

In a bowl mix peanut butter and butter until fluffy. Stir in sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in apple butter and buttermilk. Stir in remaining ingredients. Beat until well blended. Pour mixture into a greased and floured bundt cake pan or 10x4-inch tube pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour and 15 to 20 minutes.

Cool in pan for 5 minutes, tap to loosen and unmold onto a cake rack. Cool thoroughly before slicing. Serve dusted with confectioners' sugar.

Makes one bundt cake or one 10x4-inch tube cake.

Cut bread with a serrated knife into three-fourth-inch thick diagonal slices. Spread half of the slices with peanut butter. Top peanut butter with fruit. Top with remaining bread slices. In a bowl, beat eggs with milk, sugar and vanilla. Dip sandwiches into egg mixture using slotted spoon or spatula. Heat butter and oil in a large skillet or griddle and fry sandwiches until golden brown on both sides. Serve warm. Makes 6 servings.

Canned ham

You'll need to leave a three-pound canned ham in a moderate oven for about an hour if you want to heat it thoroughly.

For work-a-day psyche

Irresistible smell of home baked bread continues to rise

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Baking of breads at home continues on the rise, so to speak. There are many reasons given for this. Recipes are easier and results more reliable. Men, especially, find kneading dough on weekends and presenting something they have created a boost to their work-a-day psyche and control of ingredients used such as whole grain cereals and less sugar and salt interests those into "health" foods and better nutrition.

Overriding all these reasons for baking bread is the basic fact that good, homemade bread wafts an aroma through the kitchen which one never forgets and few persons can resist. As the holidays approach, everyone looks for something special to prepare. Here is a recipe for a marzipan brioche that is as satisfying to make as it is to serve and eat.

In a large bowl thoroughly mix three-fourths cup flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and undissolved active dry yeast.

Combine one-fourth cup milk, water and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120-130 degrees). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Meanwhile beat together almond paste, one-fourth cup sugar, 1 egg and 1 tablespoon milk; set aside.

Punch dough down, turn out onto lightly floured board. Roll out into 9 by 16-inch rectangle. Cut into 3 strips 16 inches long. Spread almond paste mixture along center of each strip. Roll each up from long side as for jelly roll. Punch seams to seal. Braid rolls together; pinch ends to seal. Place on large greased baking sheet.

Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Beat together egg yolk and 1 tablespoon milk. Brush over braid. Sprinkle with almonds and sugar. Bake at 375 degrees 20 to 25 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheet and cool on wire rack. Makes 1 coffee cake.

Holiday 'Party Starters' classes slated Nov. 9-11

Appetizers and hors d'oeuvers . . . plus eye-dazzling ways to serve them for the holidays..will be featured in the eighth annual "Holiday Party Starters" cooking class at Los Angeles based Lawry's California Center on Avenue 26 at San Fernando Road. Two very talented instructors, Ann Lett Graham and Hillary Guild, will unfold their portfolios of truly festive recipes for holiday entertaining in their November class.

The three-hour demonstration will be presented on November 8 at 7:00 p.m., then repeated on November 9 and 10 with sessions offered at 1:00 or 7:00 p.m. and again on November 11 at 1:00 p.m.

After each session, appetizer sampling and wine sipping will be enjoyed in an adjoining courtyard. Fee for class, including sampling, is $8.00 per person.

Worldly and wise is Ann Graham's brand of cooking. She's a native of Czechoslovakia, a graduate of the Cordon Bleu in Paris and former resident of Hong Kong, B.C.C., where she presented television cooking shows and authored many articles on cookery.

Since moving to the U.S., Ann has taught at universities, served as Executive Chef for a large corporation, and is presently serving as Supervisor of Catering for the Sunshine Spirits and Food Co. of Valencia. But Ann's travel bug still persists, and she'll bring to class many new recipes she collected on a recent trip to Europe. Some of these worldly favorites will be Crab Canapes from Austria and Caviar Delight from Russia.

Hillary Guild is an accomplished woman who was Equipment Home Economist for the So. Cal. Edison Co. prior to initiating her own kitchen consulting firm. She also founded The Test Kitchen, which develops and tests recipes for equipment and food accounts. Hillary is a frequent guest lecturer to colleges, civic and professional groups, as well as a popular demonstrator of easy-to-prepare and prepare-ahead foods. Hillary's recipes are geared for the host or hostess who wants to enjoy the party along with the guests. Two of the many recipes she will be sharing are Mushroom Quiche and a Hearty Vegetable Dip and Spread.

A sell-out class every year, the public is urged to enroll early in "Holiday Party Starters." Make check payable and mail to Lawry's Foods, Inc., c/o Public Programs Dept., P.O. Box 2983, Los Angeles 90051. Specify date and class time selected. Class enrollment is limited and confirmed in order of paid reservations received.

Reservation payments refundable until November 5. For further information, telephone (213) 225-2491, ext. 299.

Slim trim baked potatoes make good diet food

Potatoes, when you're on a weight-reducing diet? They're well worth the consideration. Versatile Idaho potatoes can be plenty delicious even without the high-calorie butter or dairy sour cream.

Our versions, Slim-Trim Baked Potato Coeur D'Alene have all the flavor goodness a dieter wants with a sensible amount of calories. Just one five-ounce potato, baked in its own skin, costs only 90 calories and in return you get a hearty, satisfying food that's nutritious too.

Start with Idaho potatoes, grown in the state Nature fortified for top quality potato production. The dark, rich volcanic soil, clear mountain streams, pure air and cool nights are the ingredients that go into the cultivation of the world famous Idaho potato, known for its light, mealy texture and distinctive earthy taste.

These two simple dieter's baked potatoes are so delicious you'll be enjoying them long after the scale stops at the weight you want to be. The flavor secrets are in the toppings. Slim-Trim Baked Potatoes at 180 calories per serving, are topped with a seasoned, tomato, onion and vegetable mixture that can be made while potatoes are baking. And Baked Potato Coeur D'Alene, with a creamy, rich tasting topping that's simply whirred in an electric blender, will have even non-dieters raving over the snappy blue cheese taste. It's a flavor feast at a mere 125 calories per serving.

Dieting or not, take advantage of the good supplies of fresh Idaho potatoes in your market now. They're easy to prepare, easy to serve, and welcome by most everybody.

SLIM-TRIM BAKED POTATOES

- 4 Idaho potatoes
- 1 teaspoon butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped peeled tomato
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon dried leaf oregano
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Scrub potatoes, dry and prick with a fork. Bake in 425 degree F. oven 55 to 65 minutes, until soft. While potatoes are baking, melt butter in a small saucepan, add onion and cook until tender. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 10 minutes. Keep warm until potatoes are cooked. When potatoes are cooked, remove from oven and cut an "X" in the top with a fork. Then push some of the potato up with slight pressure of the fingers on the side of the potato. Spoon 2 tablespoons topping over each potato.

YIELD: 4 servings. 125 calories per serving, 35 calories for topping.

BAKED POTATO COEUR D'ALENE

- 4 Idaho potatoes
- ½ cup creamed cottage cheese
- 1½ teaspoons blue cheese
- 1½ teaspoons chopped parsley
- 1½ teaspoons chopped chives
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Scrub potatoes, dry and prick with a fork. Bake in 425 degree F. oven 55 to 65 minutes, until soft. While potatoes are baking, place remaining ingredients in container of electric blender. Cover and process until smooth. When potatoes are cooked, remove from oven and cut an "X" in the top with a fork. Then push some of the potato up with slight pressure of the fingers on the side of the potato. Spoon 2 tablespoons topping over each potato.

YIELD: 4 servings. 108 calories per serving, 18 calories for topping.

Instant soup to debut

The Nestle Company, Inc. announces its entry into the instant soup market by introducing Souptime, a ten second instant soup. Nestle's Souptime is a full-flavored instant soup containing unique home style soupstock. The soupstock brings out the true flavor of all the meat and vegetable ingredients which one will taste in Souptime.

Nestle's Souptime flavors are Chicken Noodle, Beef Noodle, Cream of Chicken, Cream of Mushroom, Tomato, Green Pea and French Onion. As an instant soup, the seven flavors of Souptime will be available in distinctive flip-top box containing one 6 oz. serving. Each package shows a different person enjoying Souptime, and the reverse side shows a picture of the soup itself.

Because of the special process which results in Nestle's unique home style soupstock, each package carries a patent number. Souptime mixes quickly and completely so that the flavor does not get lost in the bottom of the cup.

Souptime flavors are excellent as cooking ingredients. Inside each of the seven packages is one of the 21 recipes utilizing Souptime. In addition, Cream of Chicken, Cream of Mushroom and French Onion have recipes for gravy, sauces and dips on the reverse side of the package.

Souptime is now available in the soup section of local food stores.

Prune the Pie

Apples in the fall means pies! There's nothing quite the same as the fragrance of an apple pie fresh from the oven. Add a special treat to your next deep-dish apple pie. Sprinkle snippets of sun-sweetened prunes over the top of the apples; then, season and bake as usual. The naturally sweet flavor and moistness of the prunes combines so well with the tangy apples and spices.

Eight varieties of English cheese imported locally

The English have never been modest about their cheese. And they can't keep such a good thing to themselves. Therefore, here in Southern California, we're now importing eight varieties of some of the world's finest cheeses from England.

They are by name (Farmer's Wife) Caerphilly, Cheshire, Derby, Double Gloucester, Lancashire, Leicester, Stilton and Wensleydale.

There are other varieties, but these are the most representative. The English cheese family goes back to the 12 century. And the various cheeses have developed individual characters as traditional.

All of these new English cheese varieties may be found in the cheese section of delicatessen cases in the markets that handle them as well as the service delicatessen department in those markets that have such a feature. There is one exception, the Stilton cheese, which comes only in seven pound wheels and cut to order only in service delicatessens. All of the other cheeses are hygenically vacuum packaged in smaller bricks.

All the cheeses described are natural cheeses and made from cow's milk.

CAERPHILLY: Not actually an English cheese, as any loyal Welshman will tell you, gentle Caerphilly was born in the little Glamorgan village that gives it its name. Originally a miner's cheese, taken down to the coalface by pitmen and enjoyed for its moistness, Caerphilly is now produced in many neighboring English counties. Creamy and white, Caerphilly has a mild, delicate falvor, especially popular with children, excellent for sandwiches, good with wine and beer, makes a delicate fondue and a fine celery stuffing.

CHESHIRE: Renowned as the oldest of English cheeses, Cheshire was first produced in the 12th century and found favor under Elizabeth Tudor. Its mild, salty flavor is said to derive from the salty deposits in the Cheshire pastures. This mellow, crumbly, open textured cheese may be enjoyed in cooking such as in Welsh rarebit. It is also delicious as snacks and with beer or wine.

DERBY: They breed a stalwart, close knit rather secretive people in Derbyshire and, not surprisingly, Derby cheese has the same qualities. With a pale honey color, Derby starts life mild, but develops a distinctive, rich flavor when mature, that can only be described as delicious. Like all English cheeses, Derby was for centuries a farmhouse product. But, when cheese was produced on a larger scale, more than a century ago, the first English cheesemaking plant was established at Derby. Its yellow body is mild and pleasant, especially good as a dessert when served with wine and fruit. Also excellent for salads and snacks.

DOUBLE GLOUCESTER: A close relative of Cheddar, but with a slightly sharper flavor Double Gloucester is a smooth, velvety, mature cheese. It used to be garlanded with flowers and carried in May Day festivities in Gloucestershire. The famous essayist, Charles Lamb, considered it without rival as a supper cheese. A gorgeous harvest gold in color, Double Gloucester combines well with beer, or surprisingly, as well with fresh fruit salad or fruit pies.

LANCASHIRE: Unique among English cheese, with its soft texture, Lancashire is a mild cheese when young, but a full flavor develops as it matures. Splendid with crackers or biscuits or for topping soups, Lancashire, because of its consistency, proves an ideal cheese for toasting. Its flavor is similar to Cheddar, but it has a white body and stronger flavor. Excellent for sauces, rerebits, spreading for canapes or sandwiches.

LEICESTER: When young Leicester has an exceptionally light, flaky texture. When you prepare a cheese board, be sure and include Leicester with its handsome russet coloring. You'll find Leicester tastes as good as it looks. With its mild, mellow flavor, Leicester makes the perfect dessert cheese. It melts well, so try it in sauces, rerebits and other cooking.

STILTON: Not without good reason is Stilton renowned as the King of cheese. This connoisseur's cheese, with its close texture, blue veins and rich tangy flavor, has perhaps been more praised than any other English cheese. It comes from the area around Melton Mowbray, where even experts confess it is not easy to make. You'll find though that this blue cheese is only too easy to enjoy! It took its name from the Bell Inn in Stilton in Huntingdonshire in the early 1800's. Serve on crackers with Port.

WENSLEYDALE: The monks of Jervaulx Abbey in Yorkshire long ago invented the recipe for Wensleydale. After persecution, they fled, leaving the precious recipe in the hands of the local farmer's wives. This creamy cheese, of pale parchment color, has a flaky texture and a most subtle nippy flavor. It leaves a delicious honeyed after-taste redolent of the lush pastureland that produces it. Wensleydale is a great favorite of Northerners in England, who love it with apple pie. An ideal dessert cheese with fruit, delicious as an appetizer with beverages.

BARBECUED BRISKET

3½ pound boneless lean beef brisket, thick cut
½ cup catchup
½ cup water
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1½ teaspoons bottled white horseradish
1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Place beef, fat side up, in a heavy 4-quart casserole. Stir together the remaining ingredients and pour over beef. Bake in a 300-degree oven, tightly covered, until tender — 3 to 3½ hours. Chill beef and sauce separately. Thinly slice as much of the beef as you want to serve. Remove hardened fat from sauce. Heat sliced beef in a generous amount of the sauce.

8 or 10-ounce package frozen Brussels sprouts
Bacon

Cook sprouts according to package directions; drain. Wrap a piece of bacon (½ of a slice cut crosswise) around each sprout; fasten each with a toothpick. Arrange on a rack in a broiler pan and broil about 4 inches from high heat, turning once, until bacon is cooked — about 4 minutes on each side. Remove picks. (Cut any very large sprouts in half lengthwise before wrapping). Makes 1 dozen or more.

SURPRISE

New Orleans star Pete Maravich appears startled to come up with the ball between Boston's Jo Jo White (10) and Charlie Scott as Jazz won, 115-97, in Superdome Tuesday.

Oakland A's ready for self-destruction

NEW YORK (AP) — The Oakland A's, winners of consecutive world championships in 1972, 1973 and 1974 and five straight American League West Division titles from 1971-1975, are about to self-destruct.

The process will take place Thursday when 24 players who won free-agent status by playing the 1976 season without signed contracts will be selected in baseball's first re-entry draft.

Eight of them come from Oakland, and six of those eight—catcher Gene Tenace, outfielders Joe Rudi and Don Baylor, infielders Sal Bando and Bert Campaneris, and relief pitcher Rollie Fingers— form the heart and soul of the A's. All are expected to be chosen early and often in the draft.

The other two Oakland free agents are veteran first basemen Nate Colbert and Willie McCovey, who figure to be in somewhat less demand.

The Oakland eight form the largest single club contribution to the draft pool. Baltimore has four players available and three of them—slugging outfielder Reggie Jackson, second baseman Bobby Grich and 20-game winner Wayne Garland— are among the top names. The other available Oriole is minor league outfielder Royle Stillman.

Also up for grabs are the opposing starting pitchers in the opening game of the 1976 World Series—Don Gullett of the Cincinnati Reds and Doyle Alexander of the New York Yankees.

Others on the list of eligibles are regulars like Pittsburgh third baseman Richie Hebner, outfielder Gary Matthews of San Francisco, second baseman Dave Cash of Philadelphia, and second baseman Tito Fuentes of San Diego. Starter Steve Stone of the Chicago Cubs and relief ace Bill Campbell of the Minnesota Twins complete the list of pitchers available.

The Twins also have infielder Eric Soderholm in the pool. California has contributed three minor league infielders—Billy Smith, Tim Nordbrook and Paul Dade.

Each player may be drafted by 12 teams. His old team then would join that dozen to negotiate with him. Jackson is expected to carry the biggest price but some of the others, including Rudi, Fingers, Gullett and Grich, should bring bids close to the top figure.

The re-entry draft will last a maximum of 12 rounds. Then National League clubs will begin pursuit of the free agent picks. Meanwhile, the American League teams will spend another day in town, conducting the expansion draft to stock the new Toronto and Seattle franchises.

The expansion draft will supply each of the new teams with 30 players, each carrying a price tag of $175,000. That's considerably less than the free agents will cost, but the talent available in this draft is not as awesome as the re-entry superstars.

Each of the 12 AL teams has been allowed to protect 15 players from Seattle and Toronto. The balance of their 40-man rosters plus most minor leaguers under control of the major league teams are eligible. The exceptions are minor leaguers who signed their first professional contracts in either 1975 or 1976.

Seattle has the opening selection in the first and third rounds and Toronto gets the first pick in the second and fourth rounds. The opening pick in the fifth round will be determined by lot.

Each expansion team will pick six players in each of the five rounds and each established club will lose five players. After the first three rounds, the established teams will be permitted to add three more players to their protected lists. After the fourth round, they will each remove two more players from the draft list.

Jones to seek new contract

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Randy Jones says now that he's won the Cy Young Award, he ought to be the highest paid San Diego Padre and intends to bargain for a three-year contract.

"It's like a boyhood dream come true. It shows I'm for real. It hasn't really sunk in yet," said Jones, 26, at a news conference Tuesday shortly after learning he was the winner of baseball's highest award for a pitcher.

"I felt all along that I would win, but I thought it would be very close," said the left-handed hurler who received 15 of the 24 first-place votes in this year's balloting.

Jones, who won 22 games for the Padres this season, narrowly lost the Cy Young award to Tom Seaver last year.

"Last year, I knew I had to beat Tom Seaver. This year, I felt they (other candidates) had to beat Randy Jones," he said.

Jones was named somewhere on all 24 ballots cast by a committee composed of two baseball writers from each of the 12 National League cities. Six second-place votes and three for third gave him a total of 96 points. The writers cast 69½ points for New York Mets lefthander Jerry Koosman and 25½ points for Don Sutton, the Los Angeles Dodgers righthander.

Bengals scaring Knox

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — At the start of this 1976 National Football League season, the Los Angeles Rams were known as a running team and the Cincinnati Bengals as a passing outfit.

Don't count on that Monday night when the two divisional leaders meet in Cincinnati in the nationally televised game.

"They have been a team that relied on passing," Rams' coach Chuck Knox said of the Bengals. "But now they're running a lot more. They've come back to a more balanced attack.

"We're gone up to passing more."

Knox said that with Archie Griffin and Boobie Clark in the backfield, the Bengals have a dangerous running attack to augment the passing of Ken Anderson to such speeders as Isaac Curtis and Billy Brooks.

Knox is happy that quarterback James Harris has recovered from the shoulder injury that sidelined him two games. The No. 1 signal caller returned to action last Sunday and hit 14 of 25 passes for 208 yards and two first-half touchdowns.

The Rams beat Seattle 45-6 but Knox said he told his team, "We're not as good as we looked and the Seahawks are not as bad."

As for Harris returning, the coach commented, "Any time our quarterbacks plays in there and stays in there, we have more stability."

Knox said Ron Jaworski had talked with him on Monday, but hadn't expressed unhappiness that he hadn't played against Seattle. After that game, Jaworski had said, "It's like going from the penthouse to the basement" since he had started the previous week.

When Harris came out in the fourth quarter, it was Rookie Pat Haden who took over.

"Fortunately, we've got three quarterbacks we've been able to play with and win with," said Knox of his triumverate. Each has been a starter in a league game and each has been benched with injuries.

Running backs Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti also have been hurt but Knox told the newsmen at his Tuesday breaksfast session that both were expected to start at Cincinnati.

The Rams go into that game with a 6-1-1 record and the lead in the National Football Conference West while Cincinnati at 62 heads the American Football Conference Central division.

Asked what being in first place means, Knox replied in characteristic style, "It's always nice to be in first place, but the thing to be in first place when the season is over."

San Francisco, which whipped Los Angeles 16-0, is one-half game behind them in the West. Knox says Cincinnati could present as great a problem as did the 49ers.

Penguins get well at Kings' expense

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Penguins have their first victory in eight games and the National Hockey League club figures it finally is putting things together.

"Tonight we got off on top with two first-period goals and then we didn't make any mistakes the rest of the way," said Syl Apps, after contributing two goals and an assist in a 7-1 triumph over the Los Angeles Kings Tuesday night. "We were skating very well and the defense was very good."

The Penguins, who had three losses and four ties in their previous seven games, were helped in their victory by strong goaltending by Dunc Wilson.

"When Wilson had to make saves, he stopped everything they could throw at him," said Pittsburgh Coach Ken Schinkel. "He made several key saves in the first period which might have turned the game around had he been unable to handle them."

Rick Kehoe added two goals and an assist, as the Penguins moved within seven points of the second-place Kings in the Norris Division.

Pierre Larouche scored in the first 15 seconds and Pittsburgh dominated the game thereafter. The Penguins scored one shorthanded goal and four power play goals, the latter tying a team record.

USC expects exciting game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The fourth-ranked Southern California Trojans are, as is usually the case, favored to whip Stanford when the two Pacific-8 foes clash Saturday.

The annual battle between the Trojans and Cardinals more often than not, however, turns out to be a cliff-hanging donnybrook.

"It always seems like it's a big game up there," Trojans Coach John Robinson said Tuesday in anticipation of his team's trip north this weekend.

"The Stanford-USC game is one of the big games in college football and is always one of the most exciting games of the year," said the Trojans' first-year coach.

"Stanford's chances for the Rose Bowl are remote, but that doesn't affect this game. They're playing very well now. Guy Benjamin (Cardinal quarterback) is very hot right now," Robinson continued.

"He is not as precise a thrower as is Joe Roth of Cal, but he is more of a scrambler. We tried to force Roth off his mark when he was setting up, but Benjamin does well throwing off-balance.

"He will be more difficult to defense and we'll have to try to contain him."

The Trojans did a good job on Roth in last Saturday's victory over the olden Bears, holding Cal to two field goals in the 20-6 USC Triumph.

The Trojans take a 4-0 Pac-8 record — good for a share of the lead with UCLA — and a 61 overall mark into the fray against the Cardinals, who are 3-1 in conference play and 4-4 including non-league play.

Robinson obviously is most concerned with Stanford's passing game, although he's not overlooking the Cardinals' running attack.

"Stanford has a better running attack than does California," the USC coach said. "But it is still supplemental to their passing game.

"Stanford is capable of scoring 35 points on us. We must keep constant pressure on Benjamin. No one is looking past Stanford. It will be an extremely exciting game played with great emotion.

Saints, Braves ready for Hacienda League crucial

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

The Hacienda League's game of the year is coming up this Friday night, when San Dimas High clashes with Alta Loma High at Chaffey College.

The fact that those two schools should be playing to decide the Hacienda title has to be regarded as something of a surprise.

Going into the season, last year's tri-champions and traditional Hacienda powers, Walnut, Bonita and Royal Oak, were rated as the favorites to win the loop's title.

However, San Dimas will be taking a perfect 5-0 league mark into Friday's clash, with Alta Loma right behind with a 4-1 loop ledger. Both teams stand at 6-1 for the year and have been rated among the top ten squads in the CIF 2A Division.

San Dimas could virtually wrap up the title with a win Friday. The Saints have only one game remaining in league after Friday, that one with also-ran Ontario.

However, a Brave victory Friday evening could really throw things into chaos. An Alta Loma win, coupled with a Walnut triumph over Ontario, would result in a three-way tie at the top of the Hacienda standings going into the final week of the regular season.

"Yes, this game appears to be for the championship," noted Saint skipper Bob Baiz. "We have a slight advantage, being a game in front of Alta Loma, but I still look on it as a must-win situation for us.

"We played and beat three fine teams already in Walnut, Bonita and Royal Oak, but I feel that Alta Loma will be as fine a team as we will face all year. The have some outstanding kids."

Baiz is particularly concerned with stopping the Brave Power "I" offense.

"They have been getting good quarterbacking and have four or five very good running backs they can throw at you," the veteran S.D. mentor said. "They also have good size up front, and have the best depth in our league."

The two teams are quite similar statistically and in other departments. Both prefer to run the ball, and throw only when necessary. Both have aggressive defensive units which pursue well.

"We are both basically running teams but they go about it somewhat differently from us," Baiz said. "Our quarterback, Don Hargett, hasn't thrown the ball quite as much as theirs (Dave Silva), but he's still made us go on offense. If a team has the outside shut off, Hargett has been very good about turning the play upfield. If they try to key on him, he pitches to one of our backs. He's really done a great job.

"Even with Fred Carter out, our running game has been just as effective. Bob Pleasant has done a super job, he rushed for 117 yards on only five carries against Sierra Vista last week, we did not play him the second half of the game so he would be fresh and ready to go against Alta Loma.

"Perry Aris has also done real well, he's a super athlete.

"On defense, we have been strong up the middle all year, with Sonny LaFargue on the line and linebackers Doug Gates and Mike Nunley. Our defensive ends, Keith Smith and John Seltun, are also standouts.

"We have 26 quarterback sacks on the year, and 16 pass interceptions, which I think is exceptional for a high school team. We just hope we can keep it up against Alta Loma."

Statistics on the two teams are indeed most impressive.

San Dimas, in seven games, has rushed for 1,867 yards on 255 carries, an average of over eight yards per pop. Fullback Pleasant leads that ground game with 717 yards on 73 carries and 10 touchdowns, and is averaging an amazing 9.8 yards per attempt.

The stat which best sums up the S.D. defense is the fact that that unit has allowed only 15 points in five league outings.

Garey, Ganesha to renew grid rivalry

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Football games between any two of the three Pomona high schools — Ganesha, Garey and Pomona — are seldom dull. The intracity rivalries involved serve to make such games spirited regardless of the teams' positions in the league standings.

But Friday night's game between Ganesha and Garey at Mt. San Antonio College will have an added dash of significance — the Giants and Vikings are two of the three squads in the running for the San Antonio League championship.

Garey is currently tied with Damien for the league lead with four wins in four league outings. But Ganesha is right behind with a 4-1 mark.

It's been a while since any of the leaders lost. Ganesha has won four straight since dropping its first three games. Garey has won four in a row since tying La Sierra and is the valley's only undefeated team (5-0-1). And Damien has captured five straight since losing its opener to San Dimas.

"But," said coach Lawson Bush of Garey, "the records don't mean anything in a game like this. It'll be a donnybrook, I'm sure."

Though the Vikings' offense is sound, the primary reason for their success thus far has been the defensive unit, which is extremely quick at just about every position.

"We used a lot of misdirection plays against Garey," said Claremont coach Esper Keiser, whose Wolfpack lost to the Vikings last week, 20-6. "It worked in the sense that we'd have them starting the wrong way. But they're so quick that they'd recover and come over and tackle us anyway."

But the Viking defenders will be up against the league's best rushing duo in Ganesha halfbacks Floyd Eddings and Bennie Gooden. Eddings has carried 104 times this year for 664 yards, tops in the SAL, and Gooden, only a junior, has 411 yards on 74 tries.

Garey employs a more varied running attack, with senior Ralph Dixon (351 yards) and juniors Elijah Turner (279), Roosevelt Lett (178) and Doug Brissette (125) all seeing action in the backfield.

The Vikings throw more, though both teams have highly capable quarterbacks. Garey's Al Clay has 676 yards passing and seven touchdowns while Ganesha's Joe Madrigal has 435 yards and two TDs.

"We'll throw a lot," said Bush. "They've got a good defense, but if they move up close to stop our run like most teams have, we'll be throwing."

Ganesha coach Garry Norvell knows his strength lies in his running game. "We're going to try to make it a very dull game and win it," he said. "We're primarily interested in avoiding mistakes."

Will he do anything special to counteract Garey's speed on defense? "We'll just have to do everything a little faster," he quipped.

"Ganesha has three outstanding defensive ballplayers," said Bush. "They have two fine halfbacks and a fine quarterback. But they don't scare me. They get most of their yardage when the other team misses tackles, and we don't miss many tackles."

One thing is clear: since Ganesha has scored 14 touchdowns by the run in its five SAL games and Garey has surrendered just one TD on the ground in its four league contests, something's got to give!

In the other three SAL games this week, Damien will host Chino, Claremont will celebrate its Homecoming against Upland at Citrus College and Pomona will visit Montclair. All four SAL games are scheduled for Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The Damien-Chino contest will be a rematch of the game last year in which the Cowboys knocked off a previously unbeaten Spartan team for a share of the league championship. This time, however, Damien (4-0, 5-1) is a clear favorite over Chino (2-3, 2-4-1).

"But they've won two in a row," said Damien coach Dick Larson, "so they must be getting better. And they'll probably play their best game against us like just about everybody else has. It's traditional to try to knock off the leader, but if they've been giving it their best shot and we've been taking it, I guess we're doing okay."

Chino coach Jim Rawls was quite pleased with his Cowboys'

Hoople picks Ganesha

By AMOS B. HOOPLE
Wizard of Odds

Major Hoople's Football Forecast

Har-rumph! Does your favorite pigskin prophet have some stunners for you this week? You'd better believe I do!

A number of league titles go squarely on the line this weekend, and our local teams will be right in the middle of the excitement. However, the news is mixed for valley grid squads.

Taking that exciting San Antonio League chase first, look for Damien to stay atop the heap with a hard-fought 16-12 victory over Chino. However, Garey will find itself in a real dogfight with cross-town rival Ganesha, and the net result will find the Giants scoring a 23-21 upset of the unbeaten Vikings. Remember — kaff-kaff — anything can happen when the three Pomona high schools tangle with one another!

Other SAL results among the also-rans will see Claremont best Upland 13-7 and Montclair down Pomona 18-14.

In that "biggie" in the Hacienda League, the Hoople method has tabbed San Dimas a winner over Alta Loma 21-13 in what should decide the H.L. title once and for all.

Walnut will keep its CIF playoff hopes very much alive with a 21-14 win over surprisingly tough Ontario, while Bonita will also have to struggle to beat winless Gladstone, 17-14.

Chaffey High and Ontario Christian will continue on their successful courses to prep titles. Chaffey will near the Citrus Belt League crown with a 42-6 belting of hapless Pacific, while OCHS will remain atop the Olympic League with a 24-12 win at Bell-Jeff.

Onward to the colleges. In a crucial in the SCIAC, look for Claremont-Mudd's Stags to run out of magic, as the locals will just miss another upset, falling to mighty Redlands by a 26-23 count in a game which figures to decide that conference's title.

Cal Poly will continue its modest winning steak with a narrow 21-16 win over host Cal State Northridge, while also in the four-year ranks locally look for La Verne to take care of poor Pomona-Pitzer by a 44-14 tally.

Among the local JCs, Citrus will remain the team to beat in the Mission Conference, downing Southwestern 20-13. However, Mt. San Antonio College will fall by the wayside in South Coast Conference action, dropping a high-scoring 30-24 affair to the potent Fullerton Hornets. Egad, sorry 'bout that, Mounties!

On the national scene, here we are with a whole month of the season to go and undefeated and untied teams are as scarce as the proverbial chicken's teeth. And, truth to tell, by the end of the Thanksgiving weekend we may not have a single team with a clean record — har-rumph!

This Saturday all of the top 20 teams will see action with several of the games having important bearing on the final outcome of conference races. The Southern California Trojans — Stanford encounter at the Cardinals Stadium is the major attraction on the West Coast. The Cardinals have shown flashes of brilliance but they will be no match for Ricky Bell and Co., and we look for a Trojan triumph, 35 — 18, in the 54th repeat of this California classic.

A couple of big ones in the Southwestern Conference will find Texas and Houston butting heads in Austin and when it's all over the Texas Longhorns will own a narrow 23 — 21 victory over the Cougars. Also in the Southwestern, in a very even matchup, Baylor will take the measure of Arkansas, 34 — 28.

The Big Eight, the nation's top conference, has four more excellent engagements on tap, all of which are worth the price of admission — heh-heh! Not necessarily, in the order of their importance, here is how

Guy Benjamin key for Stanford

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — In a roundabout way, Coach Jack Christiansen calls Guy Benjamin the key to Stanford's hopes of upsetting fourth-ranked Southern California.

"If I had to pick the one player who has to have a great game, I'd say the quarterback," the coach said Tuesday.

"If Benjamin has a great game, it will mean that the offensive line did a good job blocking, giving him time to throw, and that our runners had a good game, breaking some tackles and gaining yards to keep the pressure off the passing game," he explained.

Benjamin, the junior from Los Angeles who is college football's second-ranking passer, had one of his better games last Saturday when he threw three touchdown passes in the 24-3 victory over Oregon State which kept Stanford alive in the Pacific-8 race.

But he said later, "If we could just stop making mental errors, we'd have an awesome attack. We should have scored 50 or 60 points."

Stanford's best receiver, Tony Hill, feels the same way.

"I think, to beat USC, it's more important that our offense have a great day," he said. "That's because my philosophy is that whoever outscores the other team is going to win."

Christiansen expects the Trojans' defensive backs to put double coverage on Hill and other wide receivers most of the time when the Cards' pass-oriented offense tries to outscore the USC ground game featuring Ricky Bell.

"Against Missouri in their opener they used a lot of single coverage. I haven't seen them use it since," the Stanford coach reported from his film reviewing.

Since losing 46-25 to Missouri, the Trojans have won six straight games and allowed a total of 33 points.

"We've seen a lot of double coverage the past few weeks, and that's why we've thrown so much to our running backs," added Christiansen.

"I almost expect double coverage in every game we play," said Hill.

On the first of two touchdown catches last Saturday, Hill broke away from two defenders and had almost 10 yards of empty space around him when he caught a Benjamin pass in the end zone. Since recovering from a sprained ankle, the receiver from Long Beach has caught 22 passes in four games.

"I hope I'm not just a decoy Saturday," said Hill.

Although the Cards' offense may show a conservative look early, the big-gain plays will be up Benjamin's sleeves, Hill added.

"But it's a matter of strategy," he said. "We'd better call those plays at the right time because if they don't work, we probably won't get second chances."

Cal Poly harriers run in CCAA meet

Cal Poly's cross country team will be running in the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) Championships at 11 a.m. Saturday at Cal State Northridge.

The championship meet should mark the return of the Broncos' top runner, Mark Lotich, who has been suffering with a strained left foot.

Last Saturday, the Broncos finished third in the Biola College Invitational Meet with 112 total points, one behind second-place University of Nevada-Las Vegas with 111.

The top squad was Point Loma College with 48 points. The third place Poly finish was impressive, considering that a total of 15 teams were participating in the highly competitive meet.

Poly's leading harrier was freshman David Edds, Who placed 14th in the NCAA Division II section of the race. The Broncos' second man across the line was Bill Avila, who finished 17th.

"I was tremendously pleased and excited with David Edds' performance," said Broncos' head cross country coach Jim George. "He gets better and better every week. I really feel that his future is unlimited."

George commented on the team's success at Biola by saying, "I thought Avila ran very well. Naturally I was pleased to beat UC Riverside (the Highlanders had 120 points) and I thought that we had the University of Nevada, Las Vegas beat, but we lost only a point to them."

Volleyball win for Pomona

The Pomona High girls volleyball team won its first match of the San Antonio League season Tuesday afternoon, downing host Montclair by scores of 15-3, 15-2.

Sabina Davila, with nine straight points in the first game, paced the win for Pomona.

In other SAL volleyball matches, Upland bested Ganesha in varsity 10-15, 15-3, 15-9 and in junior varsity, 15-4, 15-3. Claremont defeated Pomona Catholic on the varsity level, 15-3, 17-15, and also won the J.V. contest, 17-15, 15-8.

Pomona is now 1-4 in varsity action while Montclair is 0-5. Upland continues to lead the varsity standings with a perfect 5-0 mark, while Claremont and Pomona Catholic are second with identical 4-1 records.

In a girls volleyball tilt in the Hacienda League, Bonita took rival San Dimas by scores of 10-15, 15-13, 15-6 on the varsity level and also won in J.V.s, 15-2, 15-5. Bonita is now 4-2 in league on both levels.

SAL matches on tap for Thursday have Claremont visiting league-leading Upland, Ganesha at Montclair, and Chino at Pomona. H.L. match on Thursday has Bonita visiting Gladstone.

Kickers take 7-0 shutout

The Diamond Bar Kickers extended their unbeaten record in the Pacific Soccer League Juniors last week by blanking the South Bay Arsenals, 7-0, in Torrance.

Paul Caligiuri and Henry Gonzales scored two goals apiece for the Kickers while Alan Pitts, Guy Pagan and Rusty Lansford tallied one apiece. Mike Spurrier, Rocky Crisp and Jeff Ratajczak were the top defensive players.

Diamond Bar will host the West Covina Royals at 1 p.m. Saturday at El Roble Intermediate School in Claremont.

Haase takes triple win

Kathie Haase was the top placer for the Mt. Baldy Aquatics Club with a triple win at the East Los Angeles Aquatics Invitational.

Haase placed third in the 100-yard individual medley with a 1:30.4, added a third place finish in the butterfly with a time of 17.1 and took a fourth in the 25-yard freestyle with 15.9.

Jacki Easton also won a ribbon with her time of 38.6 in the 50-yard backstroke.

Area swimmers interested in joining the club may contact Delores Weck at 982-3430 or Carolyn Easton at 987-2886.

Upland nabs net victory

The Upland High girls' tennis team scored a 6-0 win over Ganesha Tuesday afternoon in San Antonio League varsity net action.

The Scot girls also won the J.V. match, 5-0. Upland is now 8-1 on the season.

In a Hacienda League match, Bonita downed San Dimas 17½-5 in varsity action and 19½-3 in J.V.s. Bonita is now 6-0 in Hacienda League outings.

Upland's doubles team of Beth Bracey and Nan Fowler scored a narrow 10-8 win over Ganesha's Sue Halderman and Linda Jobbins to spark that win. Bonita singles player Mary Boyd and the doubles team of Sherry Branam and Marsha Huss pepped the Bearkitten girls past San Dimas.

Upland will host Claremont in a SAL match on Thursday, while on the same day the Bonita netters will be at home vs. Gladstone (also 6-0) in a key Hacienda League affair.

Lakers pick up two forwards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forwards Marvin Roberts and Tom Abernethy were added to the Los Angeles Lakers roster Tuesday with forward Connie Warner and forward-guard Allen Murphy placed on waivers.

Roberts, a 6-8 former American Basketball Association player, was signed while Abernethy, 6-7, was activated from the injured list. He had missed the first six games with a groin pull.

Saints, Braves to meet

Alta Loma's defense has been equally strong, as the Braves have permitted only 345 yards on the ground in seven outings, limiting opponents to less than two yards per rushing attempt.

A fleet of four running backs have done most of the offensive damage for the Braves. Leading that group is senior Bill Pisciurno with 416 yards on the ground. Super swift halfback Rob Ward has added 265 yards rushing, while Mike Munoz has 336 yards. Mike Sloan hasn't played as extensively as the other three Brave runners but still has 190 ground yards.

Quarterback Silva has not done a great deal of running or passing this season, but has passed for 317 yards and two touchdowns, with Mark Anderson hauling in 12 of those completions good for 259 yards.

"Monster Man" Jerry Barba has led the Brave defense, which has surrendered only five TDs in seven games. Barba has been especially effective stopping the run.

Vikings, Giants ready for clash

defensive efforts in last week's 14-0 blanking of Pomona. "We're the only team to shut out Pomona this year," he said. "Pat Krzysiak, Alton Rivera and Steve Erlanson were all outstanding, but Rivera hurt his neck (strain) and I don't know if he'll play this week."

Sophomore running back Ferrell Johnson was the offensive spark for the Cowboys with touchdown runs of 77 and 60 yards.

"We'd like to do what we did to Damien last year," Rawls said, "but we'd have to play over our heads to do it. Damien is an impressive team. They're very big, which we're not."

For example, Chino's starting fullback in an offensive backfield that consists entirely of juniors and sophomores is Bill Young, a junior who stands 5-foot-7 and weighs 148 pounds.

Damien's outstanding junior running back, Jason Wight, gained 115 yards on 15 carries last week after missing two weeks with a bruised thigh.

Claremont's Keiser expressed concern over the prospects of playing Upland (1-4, 1-6). "They did better than we did against Montclair and Garey," he said.

Upland turned in its first big ground game of the year last week against Damien, with Kelly Reifel rushing for 96 yards and Paul Lindsey adding 86.

Keiser has been pleased with the play of Robbie Poling, Robert Villanueva, Grant Villanueva, Grant Warhurst and Chris Pruitt.

Claremont (2-3, 2-5), Chino (2-3, 2-4-1) and Montclair (2-3, 3-4), which will meet winless Pomona Friday, are all tied for fourth place. Mathematically, any of the three could finish the league season as high as tied for second place, but the prospect seems unlikely.

AN OPEN LETTER
TO THE CITIZENS OF
POMONA UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT:

Members of the Board of Education of the Pomona Unified School District are elected to represent you and your neighbors in the governing of the District. We are accountable to you to guarantee that the educational program and the security of our students are maintained. We are accountable to you to be fiscally responsible and to spend within the limits of our income.

It is true that the Board wishes to negotiate a contract that:

- provides a 7.2% salary increase, one of the highest to date in Los Angeles County — the average teachers' salary will be increased from $15,000 to $16,500.
- provides that no class can exceed a set number of students — one of the few districts in California to do this. (In Elementary, the average will be 30 or less, but in no case more than 32 in any one class.)
- requires teachers to be available to children and parents at least 20 minutes before and 30 minutes after school.
- provides for a safety program that protects the students and employees.
- limits the number of people who can go on sabbatical (leave for travel or study at half pay)
- provides released time for Association members to engage in association activities.
- gives the teachers an opportunity to appeal to the Board or to an outside binding arbitrator.
- specifies that teachers will not go on strike.

It is true that the Board will not:

- pay time-and-a-half to teachers for attending parent conferences, PTA meetings and the like.
- require teachers to join the Association or pay a fee as a condition of employment.
- allows the Association to make the decisions which are the right and responsibility, by law, of an elected Board to make.
- take away the rights of the individual employee to take a grievance to arbitration.
- give away the Board's legal responsibility to direct, manage and control the District to the full extent of the law.

All other provisions of the California law relative to tenure, safety, personnel files, paid sick leave, paid maternity leave, paid bereavement leave, paid personal necessity leave, the right to consult on curriculum, textbooks, course content and educational objectives are still in full force and effect. They are not in any way reduced or changed by the Board's proposals.

IF YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS, PLEASE CALL THE SUPERINTENDENT, THE ASSOCIATE SUPERINTENDENT, ANY PRINCIPAL, OR THE COMMUNITY INFORMATION OFFICER.

Dean refused library card—had no friends

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — Watergate figure John Dean was turned down the first time he applied for a library card in this well-to-do suburb because he said he had no friends to list as references, according to a librarian who didn't recognize him.

Gladys Zweiback, head librarian in Beverly Hills, said Dean came into the library shortly after moving to the city about a year ago and filled out forms for a card.

But when the clerk checked the application, she noticed that he had left blank the line asking for a personal reference.

Told that he must list a personal reference or a card could not be issued, Dean reportedly replied:

"But I don't have any friends."

Pressed by the clerk to think of just one friend, Dean said:

"I don't have a friend. If I ever get one, I'll come back."

He then tore up the form and walked away.

After he had left, another librarian who thought she recognized Dean mentioned it to the card clerk, and they pieced the application back together. The name on it was John Wesley Dean III.

Mrs. Zweiback said the clerk, who was standing nearby during a telephone interview with The Associated Press Monday, did not want her name revealed to the press.

Asked if she were embarrassed because she had failed to recognize Dean, the clerk replied, "That doesn't help."

Dean did return a few weeks later with the name of a friend and was issued a library card.

Carmaker announces record stock dividend

DETROIT (AP) — A prospering General Motors Corp. has announced a record year-end common stock dividend of $3 per share.

The payout, which will total about $859 million, brings the year's total dividend to $5.55, also the largest in the firm's 68-year history.

In 1975, GM common stock dividends totaled $2.40. It was the first time since 1946 that dividends were down from the year before. The other big auto makers, also hit by sales slumps, had similar declines.

The latest GM dividend is payable Dec. 10 to about 1.25 million common stock holders.

GM common stock closed at $74.87½ on the New York Stock Exchange Monday, a new high for the year. Earlier this year it was available at $57.75.

"The dividends declared by General Motors in 1976 reflect the improvement in the over-all economic situation and GM's improved earnings and capital position," said Thomas Murphy, GM's board chairman, and GM President Elliott M. Estes in a joint statement.

The dividend was announced at a meeting of the board of directors in New York.

The nation's largest auto maker has had a profitable year, including record-breaking earnings in the second and third quarters. In the year's first nine months, GM profits totaled $2.1 billion — more than three times the amount it made in all of 1975.

Exec panel says corporations should do more to aid cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of top business executives says corporations should do more to rescue the nation's cities.

The proposal, the product of a year-long study, was welcomed by Mayor Kenneth Gibson, head of the U.S. Conference of Mayors. Gibson said it was "a significant step forward" and represented a new commitment from the business community.

The executive group, called the Business Roundtable, said Monday that corporate aid could include the direct loan of personnel, as well as technical advice on city projects.

The Roundtable, comprised of many of the nation's top corporate officers, recommended creation of local economic growth commissions, as well as a federal commission to study welfare reform and revenue-sharing.

"It is simply good business to maintain and strengthen the essential infrastructure and the mass markets that exist in the metropolitan areas of our country," the organization said.

The Roundtable said corporate assistance might be able to boost productivity in city government, streamline services and reduce costs.

Citing key trouble areas such as declining tax bases, crime, mass transit, limited job opportunities, deteriorating schools and budget deficits, the Roundtable said corporations have the expertise and competence to help.

A report by the Roundtable's Task Force on Municipalities headed by General Motors Chairman Thomas Murphy concludes that because the "troubles of the cities have multiplied and become more evident," corporations must offer more "widespread and sophisticated" expertise to city governments than ever before.

Bridge by Jacobys

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

West's club opening is the sort of psychic that is still tried by some bridge players. This time it caused South, instead of North to be declarer at the good heart slam, but also alerted South to the danger of a bad club break.

West opened the seven of spades and South went right up with dummy's ace. Then he looked around for the safest way to make his slam and found one that just about was ironclad.

At trick two he led a diamond to his ace. Then he came back to dummy with a trump and cashed the king of diamonds in order to get rid of one losing spade. Then he led dummy's last diamond and ruffed in his hand. Next he led his last spade to dummy's queen.

East won and led a trump which was won in dummy. The last spade was led and ruffed by his ace of trumps, and South had to lead a club to get back to dummy.

He was a trifle nervous. West might have held six clubs for his psychic opening, but when East had to follow all was sunshine. He drew the remaining trumps and the dummy was good.

It is proper to ask for a review of the bidding any time it is your turn to bid or when the bidding is over and before the opening lead is made. It is improper to ask for it at any other time and particularly so when it is your partner's turn to bid.

Public may get chance to hear Nixon tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon's Watergate conversations with his associates were quoted extensively in print and made headlines during the 1974 cover-up trial. Now, the public may be allowed to hear those incriminating and sometimes-earthy tapes.

A court ruling recently to allow copying, broadcast and sale of 30 White House tapes used as trial evidence displeased Nixon's lawyer.

"The effect of the (U.S. Circuit) Court of Appeals decision is to permit the commercial exploitation of the recordings of presidential conversations subpoenaed for use in a criminal trial," Herbert J. Miller said. "Accordingly, we will appeal that decision."

The court noted that "the tapes already have been played in a public forum" and said Nixon's claim of "intrusion on the sensibilities of those whose voices appear on the tapes" is groundless.

"The tapes at issue are not recordings of bedroom or other intimate conversations," the court said. "The embarrassment Mr. Nixon fears is not republication of highly personal matters. Rather, we deal with conversations between business associates admitted into evidence as proof of criminal misconduct.

"The embarrassment Mr. Nixon anticipates is largely that which results whenever misconduct or questionable conduct is exposed."

The tapes involved cover 18 to 22 hours of conversations in the Oval Office and Nixon's Executive Office Building hideaway, including the June 23, 1972, presidential order to derail the FBI's investigation of the Watergate break-in that occurred six days earlier.

Nixon had fought through the courts to withhold that tape and 63 others from Watergate prosecutors. When the Supreme Court finally ordered him to provide them as evidence, Nixon made the contents of several June 23 conversations public and resigned three days later.

Also among the recordings is a Sept. 15, 1972 conversation among Nixon, counsel John Dean and others, involving instructions to be given to then-House Minority Leader Gerald Ford to curtail an early Watergate investigation. Ford was not there.

"Jerry's really got to lead on this. He's really got to lead," Nixon is heard to say. Later in the conversation he tells his aides "this is big, big play. I'm getting into this, so that he — he's got to know that it comes from the top."

Ford has denied he ever talked to Nixon or his principal aides about the investigation proposed by committee Chairman Wright Patman. Ford said he was approached by Republican members of Patman's Banking and Currency Committee to discuss how to deal with the Democratic majority's plans to investigate the Watergate break-in.

The appeals court ruled 2 to 1 that the common-law right to inspect and copy judicial records extends to exhibits, such as the tapes.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who presided over the Watergate cover-up trial, had blocked public release of the tapes until the convicted defendants had gone through the appeals process.

The appeals court recently upheld the convictions of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman and former domestic counselor John D. Ehrlichman. Their convictions, however, are being appealed to the Supreme Court.

Sirica was told by the appeals court to work out a plan for releasing the tapes and that "distribution should be prompt, and on an equal basis to all persons desiring copies."

Broadcasting networks, a broadcast-news directors group and a maker of phonograph records had sued for the right to copy the tapes.

Celebrating 40 Years Service to the Valley.

Remember way back in 1936? That's the year Adolf Hitler started his campaign of conquest, Lou Gehrig helped the Yankees win the World Series and First Federal Savings and Loan Association of San Gabriel Valley was established. Our office was modest and total assets amounted to only $11,904.50. But we offered a safe, convenient place for Valley people to save and made home ownership possible.

During the past 40 years, we have continued to encourage thrift and to re-invest in the Valley, helping it grow and prosper. In the process, we too have grown and now have assets over $70 million. We want to thank all of our Valley friends who have made this growth possible and look forward to the next 40 years of service to our home community.

Consumer Affairs veto sustained

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The city council has failed to override Mayor Tom Bradley's veto of funds for the city's 4-year-old Bureau of Consumer Affairs, thereby assuring an end to its operations.

With 10 votes required to override the veto, the council's vote Monday was six to six.

Bradley had vetoed a $356,556 appropriation that would have kept the bureau functioning until the end of the fiscal year. The office closed last Friday.

Bradley said he had been assured by Shirley Goldinger, director of the new county Department of Consumer Affairs, that her staff would provide consumer protection for city residents after the the BCA offices were closed.

Iran intends to buy 160 F16 fighters

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Iran has signed a letter of intent to purchase up to 160 F16 combat fighter planes from General Dynamics Corp., the firm says.

The letter, delivered to U.S. government representatives in Tehran, makes Iran the sixth country to add the planes to its arsenal.

The F16 is a single-engine, high performance, air-to-air, air-to-surface plane. It was selected by the U.S. Air Force for purchase in January 1975.

Initial deliveries of the aircraft will be in the early 1980s and will conclude about four years later, the firm said.

Memories of flood still haunt children

For the children of the Big Thompson Elementary School, the flood that crushed many of their homes last July 31 is a nightmare.

At least 139 persons died when rain swelled the normally placid Big Thompson River and forced a wall of water as high as 19 feet through the canyon. Millions of dollars in property was destroyed.

Heavy rains still spook the children of this Rocky Mountain community, said the elementary school principal, Dr. Dave Mathias. "When it clouds up, I have several little kids come running in here," he said.

The school — called Big T — lost seven children to the water, Mathias said. The other 360 remember their dead classmates, but they don't say a lot about them. "I heard one kid say, 'Ricky used to sit there,' but that's about it," Mathias said. Ricky Mares and his family drowned. Mathias is emotional when he remembers his first meeting with young Adams, who lost his father in the flood:

"He came in to register himself. He came up to me, stuck out his hand and said, 'I'm Rory Adams. I lost my dad.' He put his arms around me and said: 'Would you be my dad.'"

Even with Mathias' help, it has been a tough adjustment for Rory. "Me, my Mom and brother, we cry a lot for him at night," the blond fifth-grader said, clutching a battered saxophone case. "We sometimes think we aren't going to make it without him."

The chunky youngster lived in the flatlands just outside the mouth of the Big Thompson Canyon.

"We had just got back from seeing the movie 'Noah's Ark,'" he recalled. "We heard the police cars warning everybody to get out. He was trying to herd our cow and cattle back. I didn't know it would be the last time I'd see him.

"It's been pretty bad. My mom's just had an operation. We're Christians. I guess it was what God wanted."

Kevin Bray lost his girl friend, Theresa Graham, to the floodwaters.

"She was my girl friend all last year," the thin fourth-grader said. "I think about her when it rains. I found a new girl friend, but I still think about her."

Doug Nolde's tale is different.

"Me and my dad helped carry out bodies," the 9-year-old Cub Scout recounted. "I had to be a brace underneath one. It was a nightmare.

"I think about it. One time it rained here, I thought it would flood again. But it doesn't bother me anymore."

The youngster's brave tones were undermined by nervous fidgeting with the silver wolf badge on his blue uniform.

The experience has matured many of the children beyond their years, Mathias said, and their emotional needs have rubbed off on one another. The kids are visibly close, whether romping on the playground or walking through halls. Hands hold hands. Arms drape affectionately around shoulders.

"Our kids need a lot of love," Mathias said.

Two get life for attempted murder

REDDING (AP) — Two young men have been sentenced to life imprisonment without possibility of parole for attempted murder of four college students.

Steven Caswell, 19, of Anaheim, and David Englund, 21, of Central Point, Ore., were sentenced Monday by Superior Court Judge Curtis Wetter in connection with the incident May 20 near Shasta Lake.

The two defendants, also convicted of kidnaping and robbing the four college students, were tried and convicted of shooting three of them and pushing a fourth over a cliff.

Neither man said anything when the judge announced his sentence. They have 60 days to appeal the judge's decision.

The college students have recovered from their wounds.

Nuclear plant sites sought in Mexico

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego Gas & Electric says it is even looking at Baja California and Mexico's Coronado Islands for sites for nuclear power plants.

The information was revealed recently by Harold F. Perla, a nuclear consultant for the utility, who said efforts were being made to set up meetings with Mexican officials on the possible construction of SDG&E nuclear plants in that country.

The state Energy Commission has been conducting hearings this week on plans by the utility for the controversial Sundesert plant near Blythe.

Officials from both Imperial and Riverside counties have protested against granting a permit for the Sundesert project and SDG&E has revealed it does have other sites under consideration.

The hearings brought out that the utility has been seeking an inland site at Camp Pendleton for a plant.

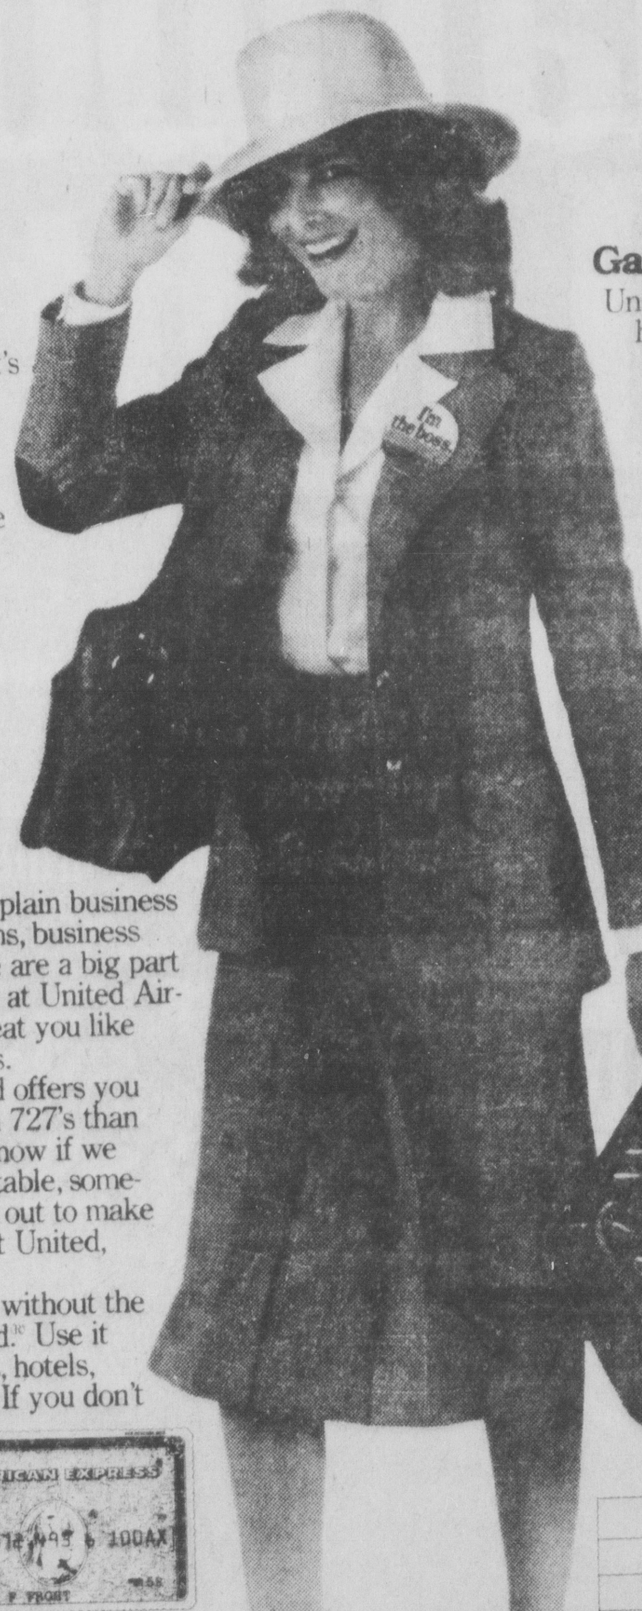
We give the boss more space for her carry-on luggage.
So when we land, the boss takes off.



Overhead compartments.
Right above your seat. It's a place to put your hat, or leave your carry-on bag. Handy for articles you might need during the flight. Helpful for the quick getaway.

Garment bag closets.
United has plenty of room for hang-up bags. Because bags that contain the boss' clothes shouldn't be thrown into a corner.

New baggage shelves.
United is adding more space for carry-on baggage on their 727's, just to accommodate the boss. If you're traveling light, you might not have to check any baggage at all.

You're the boss.

In plain business terms, business people are a big part of our bread and butter at United Airlines. So we'd better treat you like what you are: Our Boss.

That's why United offers you more carry-on space on 727's than any other airline. We know if we can't make you comfortable, someone else will. We go all out to make you happy—because at United, you're the boss.

Holiday bazaar planned

Theme for the annual Christmas bazaar, "Holiday Magic," to be presented by Westmont United Methodist Women on Friday and Saturday will be carried out in all decorating.

Handcrafted items suitable for holiday giving will be offered, as well as homemade foods and plants. There will be a dessert and coffee booth.

Hours on Friday will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the church social hall at 1781 W 9th St., Pomona. Proceeds will go for church-related projects.

LEANN MOSLEY

Mosley and Clark rites set

Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Mosley of Chino announce the engagement of their daughter Leann Marie to Robert L. Clark of Riverside.

The bride-to-be will graduate in March from the University of California at Riverside. She is a 1973 graduate of Chaffey High School.

Mr. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip N. Clark of Walnut Creek, is employed at Pomona Valley Community Hospital in the physical therapy department. He is a 1974 graduate of UC Riverside with a BA in biology.

The couple will be married in April at Pomona First Baptist Church in Pomona.

Lutheran women will meet

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Pomona will meet at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, in the church hall.

Pastor Thomas Hendry will present a program of slides taken when he was serving several congregations in Brazil. Pastor Hendry served in Brazil for two years as a mission project financed by Concordia Seminary students. He is currently minister at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

The program and devotions have been arranged by Mrs. William Koch, Mrs. Wilford Binder and Mrs. Carl Halverson. In charge of the social hour will be Mrs. Carwyn Singleton, Mrs. Dale Reeves and Miss Hannah Tyndall.

MRS. BARBARA PRICE

President named by Lutherans

Mrs. Barbara Price, a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Pomona, was elected president of the Pacific Southwest Lutheran Church Women at their 15th annual convention held last week at the Asilomar Conference Grounds, Pacific Grove.

Pacific Southwest Lutheran Church Women is the official auxiliary of the Lutheran Church in America. Elected to the unit's executive board was Mrs. Diane M. Nelson, a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, also.

Over 250 congregations make up the Pacific Southwest unit which encompasses all of the states of California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and Hawaii. By virtue of her position as president of Lutheran Church Women Mrs. Price also becomes a regent of California Lutheran College in Thousand Oaks.

Mrs. Price has served as secretary of the Pacific Southwest Lutheran Church Women for the past three years. Prior to that time she was a member of the executive board for four years. She is employed locally as an accountant with Garey Penfield Corporation.

Mrs. Price is the widow of the Rev. Harold C. Price who was pastor for eight years at Trinity Lutheran Church, 787 S. Hamilton Blvd., Pomona. Pastor Price, who died of a heart attack one year ago, was very active in civic and community affairs. He was chairman of the Community Life Commission at the time of his death. Mrs. Price has three sons, Richard of Claremont, Robert of La Verne and Mark of Pomona.

Parish guild dance set

The Harvest Moon Ball is the name chosen for the parish dance to be sponsored by the St. Anthony's Guild of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Upland.

The affair will be held from 9 p.m. Saturday to 1 a.m. Sunday at the Father Joseph Mackey Memorial Hall of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Montclair. The hall is located at 5303 Orchard St., Montclair.

Music for the event will be presented by the Berger Brothers.

Mrs. John Sulluvan is dance chairman, assisted by Mmes. Ben DeFrank, tickets; Wallace Paprocki and William Ziese, decorations; Jack Firestone and Howard Moran, refreshments; Robert Tsuchiyama, arrangements; and Robert Monroe, publicity.

All parishioners and their friends are invited. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Q. "WHY DO BIRDS SING?"

JAMES KAVANAUGH
EGGERTSVILLE, NY

A. USUALLY, THE MALE BIRD SINGS TO ATTRACT A MATE AND TO WARN OTHER MALE BIRDS AWAY FROM ITS NESTING TERRITORY.

People who know about birds tell us that birds sing as a way of communicating with other birds.

Birds do most of their singing during the mating and nesting season. Male birds do almost all of the singing.

Usually, the male bird sings to warn other male birds to stay away from his nesting territory. The same song may be used in courtship to attract the attention of the female bird.

Sometimes birds seem to sing just for the joy of making music. Each kind of singing bird has its own song.

Thrushes and song sparrows are among the best singers, and many other birds also have beautiful songs.

Not all birds sing well. Crows, loons, and blue jays, for examples, have unpleasant voices.

Birds often make sounds other than singing. A mother hen clucks to keep her chicks from scattering. She gives another call that warns them of danger.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

PURTY TALK — Ali Hakim (Tyler Learned) tries to sweet talk Ado Annie (Dee Dee Jernigan) in the Gallery Theater production of "Oklahoma!" The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical plays at the theater, C Street and Lemon Avenue, Ontario, at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays. Reservations can be made by calling 982-5357.

Players to offer 'Electra'

The Four Colleges Players of Claremont will present an unusual contemporary version of Euripides' "Electra" in Balch Auditorium, Scripps College, at 8 p.m. Nov. 17-21. Tickets are $3, general, $1 for students and senior citizens.

Starring in the Greek tragedy are Dey Young, Electra; Michael Mareneck, Orestes; Victoria Podesta, Clytemnestra; Jim Murtha, Messenger, and Ted Shay, Old Man.

Michael Bloom of the Scripps drama faculty is directing from an original translation by John Chioles of Stanford University. The abstract style, carried out through stark properties and costuming, stresses the psychological compulsiveness of the characters.

The choral odes will be in Greek. Bloom said, "It fits the abstraction of the play."

ERIC CLAPTON will headline a show at the Forum in Inglewood at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 22. Clapton's new album for RSO Records, "No Reason To Cry," was released last month.

Cal Poly to present original play with music

The Cal Poly drama department will present "In and Out ," an original play with music, in the University Theater at 8 p.m. Nov. 12, 13, 18, 19 and 20 and Dec. 2, 3 and 4.

"In and Out" was conceived and directed by Robert L. Gilbert and Robert Ernst. It employs sound, music, vocal effects and movement, all integrated into a theatrical concept. Gilbert says, "It's like an experimental musical, with emphasis on experiment."

Bob Wilson, guest designer from Pomona College, has designed the sets, costumes and lighting, and Steve Morris has contributed dialogue.

Gilbert is chairman of the drama department, and Ernst is guest faculty member. They were founding members of the Center for New Performing Arts which was funded by Rockefeller grants.

Members of the cast are Diana Hamblin, Scott Hawkins, Kathryn Burns, Lucinda Dronberger, Jeffry Harrison and Jane Kellogg.

Tickets are $2.50 general admission, $2 for students.

Marble bust

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bust of Louis XVI has been acquired by the National Gallery of Art.

The bust was executed by the 18th-century royal sculptor, Simon-Louis Boizot. It was a gift to the gallery from the Versailles Foundation.

'Coal Miner's Daughter'

C-W star looks back

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — It's a long way from Butcher Holler, in Eastern Kentucky, to a suite in the Century Plaza Hotel here, but Loretta Lynn has made it. As the uncrowned queen of country music, she's made a lot more, too.

But there's still a lot of the backwoods girl in Loretta Lynn, and chances are that's the way she'll stay. She paddles around her room barefoot (although her toenails are polished) and she peppers her speech with a lot of Kentucky phrases.

She's short, dark-haired, stocky. She's unpretentious and friendly. And, on the strength of her way with a country ballad, she's also very rich.

She even owns a whole town — Hurricane Mills, in Tennessee. That's far from all. Being the uncrowned queen of country music is a financially rewarding position.

"I have a chain of western stores in Tennessee," she says. "A dude ranch. I own some of Memphis' electricity and Knoxville's water. Oh, Lordy, I can't remember what all."

Besides her home in Tennessee, Lynn has a "place" in Mexico, about 80 miles from Mazatlan. But she rarely sees either home. Most of her life is spent travelling around in her $200,000 bus, going from engagement to engagement.

The back part of the bus has been converted into a room for her, but most nights she sleeps in motels. She only sleeps in the bus when they have to travel at night to make the next engagement.

She's been doing this for years, averaging a few nights a month at home, the rest of the time out on the road. The pace is beginning to tell.

"I think," she says, "that I can only take it another two, three years. The pace is too much, being away from home and from my kids. I'd like to quit now, but I feel an obligation to keep at it some more."

There are, she explains, two obligations. One is to her fans, who want to see her in person. The other is to the people who booked her in her early years, when she was struggling up the country music ladder. They helped her when she needed help. She figures now, when she can return the favor, she owes them a debt.

So Lynn keeps on singing, keeps on travelling around in her bus, keeps on making millions. Strangely, she spends very little on herself.

"I deny myself things," she says. "I'll go into a dress shop with a girl, one of the back-up singers on my show. The girl will spend a lot of money on her gowns, but I'll buy the cheaper ones. The girl will buy $10 eyelashes and I'll buy $1.50 eyelashes.

"That's just the way I am. When you're dirt poor as a child, it comes hard to spend money later on, even when you have it."

But, she says, she denies her family nothing. She'll buy her husband, Doo, expensive gifts and the same for her children.

She tells the story of her impoverished childhood in graphic terms in her autobiography (with George Vecsey) called "Loretta Lynn: Coal Miner's Daughter."

She married at 14, quickly had the first four of her six children. At 16, she was picking strawberries in Washington state. And it was there, a few years later, that she first sang professionally — for $12.

"I had no education," she says. "A lot of horse sense but no book learning. I wish now that I had gone to school some more. I liked what little schooling I had."

Perhaps her biggest disappointment is that her children, who could have gone on to higher education, never did. She could have afforded to send them anywhere.

"I'm very disappointed in my kids," she says, "because of that. Only one of them — Cissy — finished high school. If I'd of had their chance, I would have studied. But when I was young, there was no high school in Butcher Holler — the nearest one was 12 miles away and there were no cars in Butcher Holler then."

She always sang, as a child, but never thought to turn professional until her husband pushed her into it. She likes all kinds of music, even opera, and believes maybe, if she'd grown up in another world, a world removed from Butcher Holler, she might have studied classical voice.

"I've sung duets with Roberta Peters of the Metropolitan Opera," she says. "We sang together at the Grand Ole Opry — she sang grand opera and I sang grand ole opry."

But country music is, of course, Lynn's first love. And she believes it is stronger now than it ever has been. It is spreading, too, she says.

"Me and Conway (Twitty) just broke a record in Washington, D.C.," she says. "And I was in a place in Pennsylvania and they had to turn people away. I've sung four times in Madison Square Garden in Manhattan and I always did well.

"And there are always teen-agers in the crowd, everywhere. I think today's kids like all kinds of music, not just rock. They're like me, in that. I enjoy music as long as it's good — country, rock, pop, opera."

Even though she's thinking of retiring, it's not from any disenchantment with singing. She enjoys singing as much today as she ever has.

"The only time I don't enjoy it," she says, "is when I have a cold and I know I won't be at my best.

"When you get to the top, it's hard. The folks always expect you to be the best. So I try and I'm disappointed when I'm not. I just can't understand people who get on drugs and sometimes can't even go on."

There's some talk of making a movie based on her book, a biographical film of her life.

"The fellows in my band tease me," she says. "They say that when they make that movie, my role ought to be played by Phyllis Diller."

Brink's guard robbed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police are searching for a gunman who robbed a Brink's guard of $51,000 in front of a Hollywood store, then ran through a crowd of shoppers, out a side door, and escaped in a waiting car.

Police said the guard was just leaving the Sears and Roebuck store after making a Monday afternoon cash pickup when he was robbed by the waiting bandit, armed with an automatic pistol.

Eyewitnesses to the robbery described the man as between 25 and 30 years old, about 5-feet-9, with blond hair and wearing a burgundy-colored shirt.

Doctor says 'toss coin' for flu shot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dr. Erwin Braff, director of disease control for the city Department of Health, says it's a 50-50 decision whether healthy persons under 60 should get inoculations against swine flu.

"You can toss a coin as well as I," Dr. Braff responded recently at a news conference when asked if such persons should get swine flu shots when they won't protect against Victoria flu.

Braff said earlier that recent Victoria flu epidemics of "significant proportions" have occurred in the southern hemisphere, making it "almost certain" that the Victoria-type of flu will hit California in winter.

Swine flu broke out in Ft. Dix, N.J., last winter. Epidemic experts decided that virus was a great threat for the coming winter.

Man booked for slaying

GOLETA (AP) — Santa Barbara County Sheriff's deputies have arrested a 21-year-old male wanted for questioning in connection with the bludgeoning death of a 71-year-old Las Vegas woman.

Sheriff's deputies said they arrested Brian Scott Pickworth for allegedly being under the influence of drugs, and then found jewelry in the young man's pocket believed to have belonged to the slain woman.

Pickworth was being held for Las Vegas police.

Tire picker

VIENNA (AP) — A mobile device that roams the streets picking up and recycling some of the 500,000 tires discarded annually in and around Vienna was purchased recently by the city administration.

Griswold's, LVC plan eight-week film fete

Griswold's Old School House and La Verne College will sponsor an eight-week film festival at the Claremont Playhouse starting Monday. All profits will go to the college theater program.

The festival will offer foreign films Monday nights, science fiction movies Tuesday nights, musicals and light comedy-dramas at the Wednesday matinees, and American classics Wednesday nights. Evening performances are at 8, matinees at 2. Tickets are $1.20 per performance.

The series will start Monday night with Francois Truffaut's "The 400 Blows," winner of the Cannes Film Festival and N.Y. Drama Critics awards. Vincent Price's "The House of Wax" will be shown Tuesday night. "Top Hat," with Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, will screen at both the matinee and evening shows next Wednesday.

The remaining schedule:

Nov. 15 — "Jules and Jim," with Jeanne Moreau and Oskar Werner.

Nov. 16 — Edgar Allen Poe's "The Pit and the Pendulum."

Nov. 17 (matinee) — "The Four Poster," with Lilli Palmer and Rex Harrison. (Evening) "Wuthering Heights," with Laurence Olivier and Merle Oberon.

Nov. 22 — The Japanese Oscar-winning film, "Rashomon."

Nov. 23 — "Donovan's Brain," with Lew Ayres.

Nov. 24 (Matinee) — "State Fair," with Dana Andrews, Jeanne Crain and Dick Haymes. (Evening) Orson Welles in "Macbeth."

Nov. 29 — Laurence Olivier in "Richard III."

Nov. 30 — "The Raven," with Boris Karloff, Peter Lorre and Vincent Price.

Dec. 1 (Matinee) — Agatha Christie's "And Then There Were None," with Barry Fitzgerald and Walter Huston. (Evening) John Ford's Academy Award-winning "The Long Voyage Home," with John Wayne, Thomas Mitchell, Ian Hunter and Ward Bond.

Dec. 13 — Ingmar Bergman's "The Seventh Seal."

Dec. 14 — "The Mind of Mr. Soames," starring Terrance Stamp.

Dec. 15 (Matinee) — Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." (Evening) Same.

Dec. 20 — Truffaut's "Shoot the Piano Player."

Dec. 21 — "The Fly," featuring Price and Herbert Marshall.

Dec. 22 (Matinee) — "Oliver!" the musical version of Dickens' "Oliver Twist." (Evening) Alfred Hitchcock's "Dial M for Murder," with Ray Milland and Grace Kelly.

Dec. 27 — Bergman's "The Virgin Spring."

Dec. 28 — Price in "The Last Man on Earth."

MIKE AULDRIDGE, celebrated Dobro player and recording artist, will headline a bluegrass festival at Lion Country Safari Sunday.

THANKS SUPPORTERS

President-elect Jimmy Carter thanks his supporters at the World Congress Center in Atlanta early this morning after defeating Gerald Ford in the presidential election.

Industrial North, Old South prove too much for Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter's long, once-solitary journey from Plains, Ga., will carry him to the White House in January with a victory forged from the traditional Democratic party coalition of the Old South and industrial North.

Carter was declared the victor over President Gerald Ford early today when his electoral vote total reached 272, two more than the 270 needed for election. Wisconsin and Mississippi were the states that established the Democratic candidate's majority in The Associated Press tabulation.

Two states — Ohio and Oregon, in both of which Carter held slim leads — remained too close to call. If Ford carried both of them, Carter's victory margin would remain just two electoral votes.

The lead in California passed back and forth through the night with Ford finally declared the winner near daybreak. Later, Maine fell into Ford's column.

The closeness of the vote in many states raised questions today about the status of any uncounted absentee ballots. These ballots are not handled the same way in every state and there was no authoritative count this morning of how many might still be uncounted.

In some states, they are accepted only up until the hour the polls close and they are counted with all other votes on election night. The City of Chicago is one such example.

In others, like Florida, where there are an estimated 150,000 absentee votes, they are not counted until the day after the election.

The New York vote, with its 249,000-vote margin for Carter, was already under challenge by the Republicans over alleged irregularities. However, the state election board said that some 400,000 absenteee ballots had been mailed. Any received by 9 p.m. Tuesday, the hour the polls closed, would have been counted. But a board spokesman said he did not know how many had been counted or how many remained outstanding.

The challenge over alleged irregularities led to impoundment of all 25,000 New York voting machines for the purpose of a recount.

One reaction to Carter's victory came this morning from the New York Stock Exchange, where the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 15.38 points in the first half hour of trading to 950.71. One analyst said the development was "an initial knee-jerk reaction" from traditionally conservative Wall Street.

Returning to Plains from his election headquarters in Atlanta, Carter received a tumultuous, emotional

Carter sobs at sight of friends, old town

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — The man who will become America's 39th president came home at dawn today and the sight of his neighbors and this tiny town reduced him to tears.

"I came all the way through 22 months," Jimmy Carter said, "and I didn't get choked up until I ..."

His voice trailed off. He embraced his wife Rosalynn and the two of them cried openly as 300 of their townsfolk gathered before the depot to welcome him, cheered and called their names.

Carter, the longest long shot political winner in memory, claimed his victory at 4 a.m. in Atlanta, becoming the first son of Dixie since Reconstruction to win the White House.

When his electoral vote total pushed him over the top, Carter leaped from his chair in his hotel suite, clapped his hands and shouted, "All right!"

It was a signal for his family and staff to whoop and hug and kiss, and for 20,000 supporters in the nearby arena waiting out the election to scream deliriously, dance and sing "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Carter, the first man to unseat an incumbent president since Franklin D. Roosevelt defeated Herbert Hoover in 1932, claimed his victory at the arena, forecasting a "new spirit of unity in the nation."

But it was in this little southwest Georgia town that he made his real victory statement.

Carter's entourage arrived just after first light broke over the pine trees.

He climbed to the platform of the old railroad depot, now used as his campaign headquarters, and spoke to the peple whose help and support, he said, had been essential to his long uphill struggle.

L.A. County voters nix mayor proposal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Voters have shotdown a double-barrel plan to change the structure of Los Angeles County government.

Voters rejected, by substantial margins, charter amendments that would have created a county mayor with executive powers and, in conjunction, expanded the county Board of Supervisors to nine members who would be legislators but not administrators.

Under the form of county government in effect since 1912, the five supervisors will continue to wear two hats as administrators and legislators.

With all 7,981 precincts reporting, the vote was 1,213,956 to 908,959 against the county mayor and 1,373,909 to 792,443 against the revamped board of supervisors.

Defeat of the two proposals, Props. A and B, was a victory for present Supervisors James Hayes and Baxter Ward, leaders in the fight against the change.

Ward contended that the county mayor, who would have been given executive powers over all county departments and divisions, would be a "dictator" and that county residents would not have the representation they now have under the supervisors, each of whom represents a specific area.

Ward also claimed that the cost of the proposed mayor-board, similar to what many cities have in a mayor-council form of government, would run as much as $6.5 million a year over present costs.

Proponents of the combined mayor-board system argued that separation of executive and legislative powers would provide a system of checks and balances in keeping with the federal system.

Hayakawa unseats Sen. John Tunney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Republican S.I. Hayakawa, a 70-year-old former college president who made a name for himself eight years ago by battling campus radicals, unseated U.S. Sen. John Tunney early today.

Even for California, where politics and lifestyles often tend to the unusual, the victory was a stunner for the colorful semanticist who switched from Democrat to Republican in 1973.

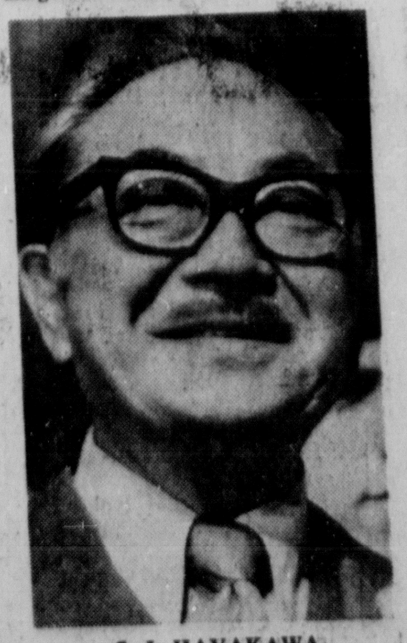
With 88 per cent of Tuesday's vote counted, Hayakawa had 3,157,332 to Tunney's 3,078,337 — a one per cent margin that was expected to increase as late returns arrived from traditionally Republican areas.

"I've done all right, considering I have no experience," commented Hayakawa, offering a typically dry observation as the returns in the seesaw race tilted in his favor.

It was returns early today from conservative Orange and San Diego counties which finally cemented the win for the GOP challenger. But the loss for Tunney, 42-year-old son of former heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney, was not a total surprise.

Even in a state with a 3-2 Democratic registration edge, Tunney, a former Riverside congressman, never welded a strong political base in the party during his first six-year term. The weakness showed in the difficulty Tunney had standing off former student radical Tom Hayden in a bitter primary battle last June.

In the general election, Hayakawa called Tunney "Senator Flip Flop" and charged he had a poor record of achievement in the Senate — an allegation Tunney denied.



S. I. HAYAKAWA

President concedes, pledges support

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford conceded defeat today to Jimmy Carter in the 1976 presidential race.

In a "Dear Jimmy" telegram to the Democratic victor, read for the hoarse President by his wife Betty, Ford pledged a smooth and effective transition. Mrs. Ford said her husband had also telephoned his message to Carter.

"You have my complete and wholehearted support," Ford told Carter.

"It is apparent now that you have won our long and intense struggle," Ford acknowledged. "I congratulate you on your victory."

Before appearing before reporters, Ford underwent medical treatment for a hoarse throat.

Crushing defeat for Propositions 13, 14

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California voters refused to follow their popular governor and rejected a number of issues — including the financial backbone of his housing-for-the-poor program.

Besides coming out 3-2 against the farm labor initiative Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. pushed so hard, voters Tuesday refused to accept two administration-backed bond issues totalling $525 million.

However, one measure Brown opposed—the greyhound racing initiative, Prop. 13 — was given the worst beating of any California ballot proposition in the last 15 years. Seventy-five per cent of the voters rejected Prop. 13.

The Democratic governor and his hefty political ally, Cesar Chavez, saw Prop. 14 fall despite an all-out campaign spearheaded by Brown's television ads.

Rejected were:

—Prop. 1, a $500-million bond proposal to provide funds that the state's new Housing Finance Agency would lend for low and moderate income housing. The HFA recently sold its first bonds, $100 million, and Prop. 1 was to expand the program.

The vote was 57 no to 43 per cent yes.

—Prop. 3, a $25-million bond proposal to provide low-interest loans for home insulation and solar heating and cooling systems. It had the strong endorsement of Brown's Energy Commission.

The vote was 59 per cent against and 41 per cent for.

Prop. 12, a constitutional amendment to allow the low-interest loaning of Prop. 3, money also was trailing 51 per cent to 49 per cent.

Prop. 2 was approved by only about 200,000 votes of some 8 million cast.

On other issues that were not so hotly debated, Californians made it easier to discipline judges — such as Justice Marshall McComb of the state Supreme Court; and again rejected a measure that would increase the interest rate on certain business loans.

By a landslide 83 per cent of the vote, Californians approved Prop. 7, a measure that had no organized opposition. An attorney for the 82-year-old McComb said in one interview that it was designed to get him off the bench.

Backers of Prop. 5 have spent more than $800,000 this year to raise the interest rate allowable on business loans. It was soundly defeated in June, and feel this time by a closer tally — about 47 per cent of the voters approving — when more than $500,000 was spent on the campaign.

The vote was 53 percent for and 47 per cent against.

Voters approved Prop. 4, a measure strongly opposed by the University of California regents which allows the legislature to require that UC construction projects be put up for competitive bids.

The vote on Prop. 4 was 54 to 46 per cent.

Voters decided against giving the governor more time to consider a bill passed by the legislature at the end of the first year of a two-year session. The vote on Prop. 6 was 57 per cent no and 43 per cent yes.

They approved Prop. 9, which requires legislative approval of appointments by the governor to fill vacancies in offices that include lieutenant governor, treasurer and secretary of state. The vote was 66 per cent in favor, 34 per cent opposed.

Uncontroversial propositions that won easily were:

—Prop. 8, which allows nonchartered counties to elect or appoint school superintendents and give the legislature authority to allow two or more counties to form a joint board of education.

—Prop. 10, which prevents a new local government agency from imposing a property tax without approval of a majority of voters if the agency involves more than one county.

—Prop. 11, which would place unsecured property taxes on an equal basis with secured property, by requiring the legislature to adjust the rate if it decides in the future to assess property at full market value instead of 25 per cent.

—Prop. 15, which places two public members on the state Board of Chiropractic Examiners, increasing membership from five to seven members, and makes minor changes in eligibility requirements.

California may surpass 80 per cent

Low voter turnout predictions wiped out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Predictions of low voter turnouts across the state were shattered, with California voters going to their polling places under sunny skies in near record-breaking numbers, the secretary of state said.

California Secretary of State March Fong Eu predicted voter turnout would not exceed 79 per cent early Tuesday, but later revised that estimate to at least 82 per cent. She said the final vote count, to be announced today could approach the record of 88 per cent set in 1960 and 1964.

There are 9,982,115 registered voters in California.

Political pollsters had predicted that a large voter turnout would favor Carter, since Democrats make up 58 per cent of the state's electorate.

Officials in counties throughout California expressed surprise at the heavy voter turnout soon after polls opened, forcing some to revise their estimates of voting in their areas.

At San Clemente, Former President Richard M. Nixon and his wife, Pat, cast absentee ballots. Nixon aide Col. Jack Brennan said the Nixons had originally planned to spend a vacation in Palm Springs at election time, but later cancelled.

U.S. Sen. John Tunney, in his down-to-the-wire race against Republican challenger S.I. Hayakawa, voted in West Los Angeles shortly after the polls opened.

Hayakawa voted at his home in Mill Valley at about 8:30 a.m. then flew to Los Angeles where he awaited the returns.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. voted in West Los Angeles late in the afternoon, and former Gov. Ronald Reagan voted near his Pacific Palisades home with his wife, Nancy.

Asked whether either candidate's winning would affect his plans for the future, Reagan said: "No, I don't see how it would make any difference to my plans."

Reagan, who narrowly missed getting the Republican party Presidential nomination this year over Ford, has not said whether he plans to again seek the presidency in 1980.

CAUSE DEFEATED

Two supporters of Cesar Chavez and Prop. 14, the California farm labor initiative, show the strain of defeat on their faces as they hear Chavez speak about their effort late Tuesday night in Los Angeles. The proposition was easily defeated.

Rousselot overwhelms challenger

Rep. John Rousselot (R-26th Dist.), a former official in the John Birch Society, swept to easy victory for another four-year term Tuesday over challenger Bruce Latta.

Rousselot, whose district includes San Dimas, captured 65.5 per cent of the vote against his opponent's 34.4 per cent. The incumbent congressman had 111,179 votes against Latta's 58,472.

Rousselot did not campaign hard for the win because his district is more Republican than Democratic and he has held onto his seat easily in previous elections.

The vote totals showed that Rousselot of San Marino , a strong conservative, continues to dominate his district. He was first elected in 1961 but was defeated in 1962 and did not return to Congress until 1970.

JOHN ROUSSELOT

Clawson keeps his congressional seat

Rep. Del Clawson, R-33rd Dist., was returned to Congress for an eighth term Tuesday when he received 94,310, or 55 per cent of the votes cast.

His challenger, Ted Snyder, information officer at Rio Hondo College, tallied 77,037, or 45 per cent of the 171,347 voters.

Clawson, a Republican from Whittier, was the victor by an easy margin in spite of the fact that 53.9 per cent of the district's registered voters are Democrats. The district, with 197,612 registered voters, had an 86.7 per cent turnout in the Tueday election.

The district serves Diamond Bar, Walnut, Whittier, La Mirada, Norwalk, Santa Fe Springs and Downey.

DEL CLAWSON

Richardson wins almost 2 to 1

State Sen. H.L.(Bill) Richardson, R-25th Dist., won reelection in a virtual landslide Tuesday, beating challenger Ronald Barbatoe by nearly a two-to-one margin.

Richardson, whose district includes Claremont, San Dimas, La Verne, Glendora, Covina and West Covina, captured 123,358 votes against Barbatoe's 65,652.

The senator's district is strong Republican, with 226,576 registered voters. He has been confident of holding his district, and had done little campaigning.

Richardson, who was in Sacramento this morning, could not be reached for comment on his victory.

Goggin returns to Assembly job

Terry Goggin joined other incumbent assemblymen in successful bids for re-election as he returns to the state legislature with 66 per cent of the votes in the 66th district.

Of the four assembly districts within the valley, three had incumbent candidates who easily won new victories. The 64th Assembly district had no incumbent as William Campbell sought and won election to the recently apportioned 33rd Senatorial District.

Goggin, an attorney from San Bernardino, received 44,963 votes of a total tally of 68,586. Businesswoman Tamara Wolfinbarger of Fontana, the challenger, received 34.4 per cent of the turnout with 23,623 votes.

The total number of registered voters is 75,398 for the 66th District and that figure represents 65 per cent Democrat and 29.8 per cent Republican.

The district serves Alta Loma, Etiwanda, Cucamonga, Mt. Baldy, Wrightwood, Bloomington, Fontana, Rialto, Colton and San Bernardino. Ninety-one per cent of the total registered voters in those communities came to the polls Tuesday.

Upland man booked in burglaries

West End Sheriff's detectives working with Upland and Chino police recovered more than $3,000 in suspected stolen property and arrested a 27-year-old Upland man in connection with a number of recent burglaries in the West End area.

Robert Doran Andrade of 823 W. Ninth St., Upland, was arrested by detectives after he was accused of showing a stolen shotgun to an undercover officer. The undercover officer and detectives obtained a search warrant for Andrade's house as a result of the evidence. During the search of the home officers reported finding television sets, stereo units, record players, guns and jewelry all later identified as stolen.

Andrade was booked in the West End Jail this morning.

Astara plans open forum

The Astara center in Upland has planned an open forum for all members of the community on Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

According to Robert Chaney, co-director of the center, Astara would like to explain its program to the citizens in the valley to clear up some misinformation which has circulated.

"The forum will be a good opportunity to learn what Astara is and how it offers benefits to its members and to all those interested in spiritual growth or inner awareness," Chaney said.

The open discussion will be held in the chapel at the corner of San Antonio Avenue and Arrow Highway in Upland.

Top speech winners were Ed Secore, table topics, Herb Stampf, best evening speaker and Rudy Rangel, evaluator.

Toastmasters is a program designed to develop self-confidence and leadership abilities through better speech. Persons are invited to attend the meetings held the first and third Thursday's of the month.

Chino City Council hears charges of police brutality and harassment

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Charges of police brutality and harassment were brought before the Chino City Council Tuesday night by a citizens' group which called on the council to investigate the police department.

Councilmen took no immediate action after the request by the Chino Community Action Council, but Mayor Bob McLeod ordered the issue placed on the agenda for the first meeting in December.

"There has been a failure of communications," said McLeod. "I don't know who is right or wrong here, but we appear to be on a down cycle in this . . ."

The CAC had adopted a resolution some weeks ago noting the charges of harassment by the Chino police. The complaints stem from two incidents, the DES Hall riot recently and a disturbance involving a family on 13th Street.

Nick Medina, CAC member, presented the petitions backing the charges to the council and listed seven accusations against the police. They include abusive language, destruction of private property excessive use of force, forcing indignities on arrested citizens, inflicting serious injuries on adults and children alike, inciting a riot and abuse of authority.

"We are requesting the City Council to appoint a committee to investigate these complaints against certain officers. We strongly urge that if these complaints are found valid, in the best interest of the community, that these officers be dismissed from the police force," said Medina.

Councilman Pete Garcia, apparently quite concerned, said complaints are not only coming from the Mexican-American community, "so I know there must be a problem."

Martin Salgado, CAC president, proved there is division within the organization when he defended the police at Tuesday's meeting. "We can testify that in no incidents did officers overreact. We believe it is not the policy of the police to inflict brutality and harassment."

Several other Chino residents including former mayoral candidate Robert Bertschinger and Ronnie James addressed the council and indicated there was a serious problem with the police. James gave a graphic account of beatings by police he alleged had happened at the DES Hall.

Congressional roundup

Leggett keeps his job despite scandal, probe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rep. Robert Leggett, whose re-election bid was rocked by a sex scandal and bribery probe, squeezed out a 1,200-vote victory early today as Democrats expanded their control over California's House delegation.

Despite strong GOP challenges in several districts, Democrats held on to the 28 seats they had going into Tuesday's election and added the one held by Rep. Burt Talcott, R-Salinas.

Leggett edged Republican Albert Dehr 72,203 to 70,940, or 47 to 46 per cent. Sacramento County Supervisor Ted Sheedy, a Democratic write-in candidate, ran third with 9,816, or one per cent.

Talcott, a seven-term veteran who came within about 2,000 votes of being beaten two years ago, was solidly defeated by Leon Panetta, a former Nixon administration Republican turned Democrat. With 84 per cent of the vote in Panetta led 87,744 to 76,299.

In other key races, two GOP incumbents warded off well-publicized challenges, one by the estranged wife of a congress-man and the other by a former antiwar activist.

And two freshmen Democrats, Jim Lloyd of West Covina and Mark Hannaford of Lakewood held on to districts that had previously been regarded as Republican tertitory.

The two GOP races involved Reps. Paul McCloskey of Menlo Park and Barry Goldwater, Jr. R-Woodland Hills.

McCloskey, a maverick who gained national attention for his opposition to the Vietnam war and his brief challenge of President Nixon in the 1972 GOP primaries, defeated Democrat David Harris.

McCloskey had 117,876 votes to 55,709 for Harris, who served a jail term for refusing to serve in the Vietnam war. He is the former husband of folk singer Joan Baez.

Goldwater trounced Democrat Patti Lear Corman, the estranged wife of Rep. James Corman, D-Encino. Mrs. Corman filed for divorce after her husband said their marriage was over if she challenged Goldwater.

Goldwater, the son of the Arizona senator, had 143,539 to 69,949 for Mrs. Corman, or 67 to 33 per cent.

Hannaford downed Republican Daniel Lungren, the son of President Nixon's personal physician. With 79 per cent of the vote in, Hannaford led Lungren 81,118 to 73,316, or 53 per cent to 47 per cent.

In another key race, the GOP held on to the Los Angeles beach area seat being vacated by Rep. Alphonzo Bell, who ran unsuccessfully in June for the GOP Senate nomination.

Republican Robert Dornan, a former television talk show host, downed Democrat Gary Familian, 112,675 to 93,414, or 55 to 45 per cent.

Democrats won the seat of Rep. Tom Rees of Los Angeles, the only Democratic incumbent not to seek re-election. State Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Los Angeles, defeated Republican in that race.

Leggett's troubles began in February when it was revealed that the Justice Department was investigating allegations that he had accepted bribes from the South Korean government.

Leggett said in September that he was told by federal officials that it might take another three months to complete their probe.

In July Leggett revealed that he had fathered a second family and had forged his wife's name to a deed to turn a house over to his mistress and their two children.

Despite his problems, Leggett was regarded as the favorite by most political observers in his district, which runs roughly north from Vallejo and Sacramento through a stretch of California farm country.

Democrats have a 64-30 per cent Democratic registration edge there, and Leggett, a seven-term veteran, had been regarded as a sure re-election bet before the revelations.

Republicans had hoped to make up for some of their Watergate year losses. They had targeted four or five Democratic seats they hoped to win, including Lloyd's and Hannaford's but they were soundly defeated in all but Leggett's.

Democrats had hoped to win the Bell seat and to knock off Talcott.

Talcott's district, which stretches south along the coast from Santa Cruz to San Luis Obispo, takes in both the agriculture-rich Salinas Valley and the more liberal communities around Monterey Bay.

Talcott has been in increasing trouble there as the area's Democratic registration grew. Democrats now have a 55-37 per cent edge.

Talcott, had been sharply criticized by environmentalists and was on the "dirty dozen" list of congressmen targeted for defeat by Enrivonmental Action, Inc.

Panetta was director of the Office of Civil Rights under Nixon until he was forced out by the White House for pushing equal rights programs too vigorously.

Why Carter?—voters wanted change

NEW YORK (AP) — Voters' desires for a change in Washington overcame their qualms about Jimmy Carter and their respect for Gerald Ford's experience in office, an Associated Press Poll shows.

Carter won by coaxing support from the traditional Democratic blocs, despite their feelings that he has promised more than he can deliver and that he will be a less than excellent president, the survey showed.

The former Georgia governor drew strong support from the lower income groups, labor union members, blacks and the less educated, all the traditional bases of Democratic strength.

Carter's pattern of lukewarm support proved too much for Ford to top with votes from independents and disaffected Democrats, despite the President's backers expressing somewhat greater enthusiasm for their choice.

The AP Poll, a unique cooperative effort of AP members and staffers, interviewed 2,489 voters outside 100 polling places across the country. Fifty-one per cent of the voters surveyed in the poll said they voted for Carter, the percentage of his actual popular vote.

Asked why they voted for Carter, nearly one third of the voters cited this reason:

"It was a tough choice, but I think we need a change."

That desire for a change was mirrored in the voters' personal concerns: Carter voters are dissatisfied with the government's performance in handling the economy and are still skittish about confidence in government.

The Carter backers gave these as the one or two issues that concern them the most:

—Inflation and high prices, 41 per cent;

—Unemployoment and jobs, 41 per cent;

—Trust in government, 19 per cent; and

—Tax reform, 17 per cent.

But Carter's own supporters have their doubts. A quarter of his supporters agreed that the former Georgia governor "promises more than he can deliver as president." And 19 per cent said it is hard to tell where Carter stands on the issues.

Only 22 per cent of Carter's supporters think he will do an excellent job as president, versus 59 per cent who say he will do a pretty good job.

Nearly three in ten of Ford's backers mentioned his experience in government as their first reason for voting to keep him in the White House for four more years.

About 9 per cent of the Ford voters said they had faced a hard decision, but thought the incumbent should be kept in office.

Ford voters also evidenced a great deal of concern over their government and its performance.

More than 39 per cent of the Ford voters said inflation was their top personal worry, with about a quarter saying their top concern is keeping a rein on government spending.

Reflecting the scandals of Watergate and congressional sex exposes, about 17 per cent of Ford's backers also cited "trust in government" as a major concern.

Generally, Ford's voters were more likely to judge their candidate in a favorable light on such issues as honesty, fuzziness on issues and personal compassion than Carter's backers.

The demographic characteristics of this sample closely paralled those of the voting age population. For a sample of this size, it is theorectically possible to say with 95 per cent certainty that the results will vary no more than 2.3 per cent due to sampling variations.

By demographic categories, the nation's voters tended to follow traditional patterns of party split except that Carter did less well with Catholic voters than mot recent Democratic presidential candidates.

Carter won 53 per cent of the Catholic vote, after speculation that there might be some opposition among those of that faith because of his refusal to endorse any constitutional limitation on abortion. Except for George McGovern, recent Democratic candidates have pulled in 60 or 70 per cent or more of the Catholic vote.

Ford garnered about 44 per cent of the Catholic vote and 52 per cent of the Protestant vote.

But Carter actually did better among all those — including Catholics — who favor a consititutional amendment to ban abortions. Carter drew 54 per cent of that group's vote to only 43 per cent for Ford. The candidates split the votes of those who oppose the amendement.

Carter did better among the lower income groups, while Ford drew larger and larger percentages of support with increasing income. For example, Carter drew 60 per cent of the votes from those making less than $10,000 a year, while Ford drew 70 per cent of the votes from those making more than $30,000 a year.

The former Georgia governor took two-thirds of the votes of labor union members and 60 per cent of the votes of those whose husbands or wives are members of labor unions.

Carter took just over 90 per cent of the vote from blacks, leaving a tiny percentage for Ford in that group.

In terms of education, Ford did better among college graduates; Carter did best among those with less education. The only exception to this pattern was in the group of those who have postgraduate degrees. In this group, Ford and Carter split the vote evenly.

Ford held onto Republican votes better than Carter kept the Democratic voters in his corner. About 88 per cent of the GOP partisans voted for Ford, while only 80 per cent of Democratic partisans backed Carter.

Ford also did better among independent voters, taking that group by a 54 per cent to 41 per cent margin. But, Democratic defections, the independent vote and GOP loyalty did not give Ford enough votes to best the massive edge Democrats hold in registration in most areas.

Carter won every age group except one. Those between 45 and 54 gave Ford a four-point edge. But in every other group, Carter took more votes than Ford, including an 11-point edge in the 18-24 age group.

The poll was conducted at 100 scientifically selected polling places around the country by reporters from 50 AP newspaper and broadcast members and by AP staffers and stringers.

The Roper Organization of New York City consulted with the AP staff on the selection of sample precincts and on questionnaire design. Roper also consulted on the training of poll interviewers.

Demos keep control of Congress

The Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats will retain their 62-38 majority in the Senate next year despite a change of party in 14 seats and election of 17 new senators on Tuesday.

The new Senate will have 18 new faces, including the successor to Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn. There is considerable speculation that Gov. Wendell Anderson, a Democrat, will resign to be appointed to Mondale's seat.

Thirty-three seats were at stake in Tuesday's voting. Only the unlikely appointment of a Republican to Mondale's seat could give the GOP more votes in the Senate than they held in the 94th Congress.

The last race decided was in California, where incumbent Democrat John V. Tunney lost a seesaw battle to his 70-year-old GOP opponent, former San Francisco State College President S.I. Hayakawa.

Returns from other states showed Democrats wresting seven seats from Republicans, while GOP candidates took six seats from the Democrats.

Among the election day casualties were four veteran Senate Democrats — Vance Hartke of Indiana, Joseph M. Montoya of New Mexico, Gale W. McGee of Wyoming and Frank E. Moss of Utah.

Four Republican incumbents, all of them first-termers, also were unseated. They were Bill Brock of Tennessee, J. Glenn Beall of Maryland, James L. Buckley of New York and Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio.

The Democrats, who have had majority control of the Senate since the 1954 election, went into Tuesday's election with a 62 to 38 margin over the Republicans.

The Democratic margin counts Harry F. Byrd Jr. of Virginia, who lists himself as an independent, but who votes with the Democrats on organization of the Senate.

Although the party line-up will be little changed in the 95th Congress convening Jan. 4, there will be a good many new and younger members of the Senate.

Aside from the California race, Tuesday's results meant there would be 16 new senators, nine of them Democrats and seven Republicans.

Among the eight senators who did not seek re-election were Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, both in their 70's.

Democratic Rep. John Melcher, 52, a three-term member of the House of Representatives, was elected to Mansfield's seat. And in Pennsylvania, Rep. H. John Heinz III, 37, heir to the catsup fortune, defeated another House member, Rep. William J. Green, for Scott's seat.

Hartke, chairman of the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee; McGee, chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee; and Moss, chairman of the Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee, were all running for a fourth six-year term in the Senate.

The GOP victor over Hartke was former Indianapolis mayor Richard G. Lugar, who ran an unsuccessful race two years ago against Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind. McGee was defeated by state senator Malcolm Wallop, while Moss was unseated by Orrin G. Hatch, a 42-year-old lawyer.

Montoya's re-election bid was turned back by Harrison "Jack" Schmitt, 41, a former astronaut who went to the moon on Apollo 17 in 1972. Schmitt's election gives New Mexico two GOP senators for the first time in 60 years.

It brings a second astronaut to the Senate. The first was Ohio Democrat John Glenn, who defeated then-Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum in the 1974 Democratic primary. But Tuesday, Metzenbaum made a comeback, unseating Taft. The defeats of Taft and McGee probably were the most unexpected outcomes in the Senate races.

Of the other incumbents unseated, Buckley, who ran as a conservative and then joined the ranks of the Republicans after winning an election that split more liberal votes into a variety of factions, fell to the challenge of fiery Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

Moynihan, the former ambassador to the United Nations, was a Democrat among Republicans as he served in the administrations of both Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon.

Brock lost to James Sasser, a former state Democratic chairman, and Beall was the victim of Rep. Paul S. Sarbanes.

Other turnovers were accounted for by the retirement of senators.

In Nebraska, Omaha mayor Edward Zorinsky, who switched allegiance from the Republican to the Democratic party within the last year, became the first Nebraska Democrat elected to the Senate since 1934.

Zorinsky defeated Rep. John Y. McCollister for the seat given up by Republican Sen. Roman L. Hruska.

On the other hand, Missouri Atty. Gen. John Danforth became the first Republican elected to the Senate

The House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are keeping their commanding 2-1 House control intact, a domination that could give President-elect Jimmy Carter solid backing for his programs.

With all but five of the 435 House races decided, Democrats were only two short of the 290-145 control they had in the last Congress and stood a chance of winning 291-144 control.

A Democrat was winning a 289th seat in West Virginia and two incumbent Democrats held narrow leads in races too close to call.

The two Democrats were Reps. Abner J. Mikva in Illinois and Lloyd Meeds in Washington. Election officials say the Meeds race may not be decided until absentee ballots are counted, possibly next week.

In the West Virginia race, Democrat Nick J. Rahall had a healthy 54 per cent of the vote with 94 per cent counted. But Rep. Ken Hechler, who gave up the seat to make a losing bid for governor, tried to get it back with a write-in vote and election officials say they'll make no official count until next week.

Despite polls showing public disenchantment with Washington and Congress in particular, only about a dozen sitting congressmen — including both Republicans and Democrats — were thrown out.

Women suffered a net loss of one of the 19 seats they had in the House. All 17 black members won reelection, but black people gained no new seats.

Two Democrats lost their seats in sex and bribery scandals. Rep. Allan T. Howe, convicted of soliciting sex from police decoy prostitutes, was beaten in Utah, and Democratic Rep. Henry Helstoski, indicted on a bribery charge, was defeated in New Jersey.

Democratic Rep. Robert L. Leggett was losing in California in early returns but began closing the gap. He acknowledged an extramarital affair, and the Justice Department is investigating allegations that he and several other congressmen accepted bribes from South Korean agents.

Nearly 20 other House incumbents accused of sexual or financial misconduct won.

Republicans lost 43 seats to the Democrats in 1974 largely because of Watergate. The pendulum did not swing back this time. Normally, many freshmen are thrown out when they seek re-election. But this time most of the 75 Democratic freshmen who threw out Republicans two years ago kept their seats Tuesday.

Even though the Republican-Democrat lineup stayed the same, the election pumped a big shot of new blood into the House by installing another big crop of freshmen.

Despite polls showing public disenthantment with Washington, and Congress in particular, relatively few congressmen seeking re-election were thrown out.

House Ethic Committee Chairman John J. Flynt, D-Ga., won a tough fight over Republican challenger Newt Gingrich who had charged that Flynt's committee ignored most congressional wrongdoing.

Besides Howe and Helstoski, sitting Democrats thown out included Joseph P. Vigorito of Pennsylvania, J. Edward Roush of Indiana and Edward Mezvinsky of Iowa.

Mezvinsky was a member of the House Judiciary Committee that recommended the impeachment of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Carter victor...

welcome from a crowd that included most of the town's 683 residents. He said he was looking forward to "an enjoyable next four years."

Beaming his now-famous smile, Carter told the crowd, "I told you I didn't intend to lose."

But when he tried to continue speaking, his voice choked, he turned his head and then embraced his wife, Rosalynn, who was sobbing.

"It was a long night," he said when he regained his composure. "But I guarantee you, it's going to be worth it to all of us."

The latest returns showed Carter carrying 22 states and the District of Columbia with 272 electoral votes. Ford had 26 states with 235 electoral votes.

The popular vote totals from 98 per cent of the nation's precincts gave Carter 39,833,427 and Ford 38,041,295.

With more than half the states still not reporting final voting figures, the tabulations indicated that just under 52 per cent of the 150 million American's of voting age went to the polls Tuesday.

The turnout, while far from a record, was greater than the low turnout — 50 per cent or less — some experts had predicted.

In 1972, 55.4 per cent of the voting age population actually voted. In 1968, the turnout was 60.7 per cent; in 1964, it was 61.8 per cent; and in 1960, it was 62.8 per cent.

The 1960 turnout was the highest of any presidential election year since 1920 — when universal suffrage went into effect. The lowest turnout was in 1948, when 51.1 per cent of the voting age population voted.

"I pray that I can live up to your confidence and never disappoint you," Carter told jubilant supporters in Atlanta after the results were clear. "It's time for us to get together, to correct our mistakes, to answer difficult questions and to make our nation great."

How the governor races went

WASHINGTON (AP) — Voters chose governors as diverse as the American landscape, including a Democratic heir to the Rockefeller fortunes who won in West Virginia, a woman scientist in Washington state and a Republican prosecutor who challenged the political boss of Chicago.

In the 14 races Tuesday, there were nine Democratic victors and five Republicans, a split giving the Democrats control in 37 statehouses to 12 for the Republicans and one independent. That meant a net gain of one for the Democrats.

In Missouri, a race not decided until early today, there was an upset.

Incumbent Republican Gov. Christopher Bond had campaigned hard in his heavily-Democratic state and was favored to win. But Kansas City Democratic lawyer Joseph Teasdale, waging an expensive last-minute advertising campaign, defeated him.

Teasdale often campaigned from the back of a pickup truck, successfully attacking Bond's state tax policies.

John D. Rockefeller IV, 39, who first went to West Virgnia as an antipoverty worker 12 years ago, won easily in his second attempt to capture the governor's chair in Charleston.

Rockefeller outspent Republican opponent Cecil H. Underwood by a 10-1 margin and survived recurring charges that he was a carpetbagger with plans to use his state office as a platform to national politics.

Rockefeller is the nephew of Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, himself a former governor of New York. Another uncle, Winthrop, once served as governor of Arkansas.

In Illinois, Republican James Thompson, 40, began as the underdog to Michael J. Howlett, 62, the choice of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Thompson was propelled to political prominence in the state by his role as an aggressive U.S. attorney who successfully prosecuted more than 200 persons on government corruption charges, including more than two dozen associates of the mayor.

Howlett, one of Illinois' biggest statewide vote getters in the past, won in a bitter Democratic primary over incumbent Gov. Daniel Walker, a longtime rival of Daley.

Political professionals in both West Virginia and Illinois were speculating today that Rockefeller and Thompson eventually will run for the White House.

In Washington state, Democrat Dixy Lee Ray, a former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, defeated John Spellman, a popular county executive from Seattle.

The winner, by training a marine biologist, is an advocate of more nuclear power for the state. She also served as an assistant U.S. secretary of state, leaving that post with a blast at Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for allegedly failing to share decision-making power.

In Delaware, another name recalling an American corporate dynasty won the statehouse. Republican U.S. Rep. Pierre S. DuPont, who returned all campaign contributions over $100, won easily over incumbent Democratic Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt, who found himslf enmeshed in deficit problems with the state budget.

By losing, Tribbitt upheld a 20-year-old tradition among Delaware voters of refusing to re-elect an incumbent.

In most other races, the candidates were unknown outside their states.

By winning in North Carolina, Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. restored a firm tradition of Democratic control in the state, defeating David T. Flaherty, a former state secretary of human resources.

In Indiana, Republican Otis R. Bowen, a former small town physician, captured 64 per cent of the vote to become the first governor in the state's history to succeed himself, reflecting a recent change in the Indiana constitution.

Arkansas Gov. David Pryor began the night with an early lead which expanded steadily to give the Democratic candidate a 4 to 1 landslide victory over Republican Leon Griffith, a plumber and contractor making his first try at politics.

The second of two women running for governor, Vermont state treasurer, Stella B. Hackel, lost to GOP State Rep. Richard A. Snelling.

In New Hampshire, Republican incumbent Gov. Meldrim Thomson, an early supporter of Ronald Reagan, had been expected to run a close race with Democrat Harry V. Spanos. But voters gave Thomson another two-year term by a 58 per cent to 42 per cent margin.

In another New England state, Democratic Lt. Gov. Joseph Garrahy won as expected over James L. Taft Jr., the Republican mayor of Cranston. Incumbent Democratic Gov. Philip W. Noel had run unsuccessfully in the state senatorial primary.

To the West, Democratic incumbent Gov. Thomas L. Judge coasted to 2 to 1 electoral victory over Republican Robert L. Woodahl.

North Dakota's Democratic incumbent, Arthur A. Link, defeated Republican Richard Elkin by more than 12,000 votes.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Six homeowners have burned their property tax bills, and one of the protesters says he intends to mail the ashes to the "biggest spender" in government if he can find out who that is.

State-by-state rundown on Tuesday's election

By The Associated Press

Here is a state-by-state summary of Tuesday's election results.

In addition to the presidential race, major contests included 14 governorships and 33 seats in the U.S. Senate.

ALABAMA

Carter won 56 per cent of the vote.

ALASKA

Ford won almost two-thirds of the vote.

ARIZONA

Ford won 56 per cent of the vote.

Senate: Democrat Dennis DeConcini defeated Republican Rep. Sam Steiger in the race for the seat of retiring Republican Paul Fannin.

Consortium to hold its 2nd institute

The second institute by the Health Professions Continuing Education Consortium will be held Nov. 16 to 19 at The Teaching Center of Casa Colina Hospital in Pomona.

The four-day interdisciplinary workshop is designed for clinical instructors within nursing and the allied health professions.

The consortium is a combined effort of the Teacher Preparation Center and Biological Sciences Department of Cal Poly Pomona; Teaching Center of Casa Colina Hospital for Rehabilitative Medicine; School of Allied Health, Loma Linda University; and Mt. San Antonio College.

Faculty from the University of Kentucky and consortium participants will provide group and individualized instruction to help nursing and allied health professionals perfect the expertise required as clinical instructors.

Both academic and continuing education credit are available from Cal Poly. The multi-media workshop is partially funded by the Kellogg Foundation.

Persons interested should contact the program coordinator, Karen Breckenridge, director, Teaching Center, Casa Colina Hospital, 393-7521.

The consortium plans a third institute March 22 to 25 at Loma Linda University Hospital.

BOB WRIGHT

Upland man takes GT job

Bob Wright of Upland has accepted the position of customer service superintendent with the General Telephone Co.'s San Fernando division office.

Wright is presently area control center supervisor in Pomona.

He began his career with General Telephone in 1965 in Dairy Valley as a plant construction installer and later was a special equipment installer in Seal Beach.

Wright entered into the management level with the telephone company in 1972 as an equipment maintenance supervisor in Monrovia and in 1974 moved to Upland when he was named area control center supervisor in Pomona. Wright and his wife, Dawn, have two sons.

Rowland teachers get wage increase okay by trustees

Trustees for the Rowland Unified School District have voted to give teachers a one-step salary increase until the issue of which teachers union will represent certificated employes has been resolved.

School Supt. Stanley Oswalt recommended the board take the action due to a delay in the election process for teachers representatives. An election is set for Nov. 30.

Oswalt reported that last summer when he recommended that all teachers remain on their current salary schedule until a new contract had been approved he believed a fall election was probable for the selection of a bargaining unit for certificated employes.

"Now we know there will be no negotiating unit for teachers for at least another month, and we can expect the negotiating process to go on for some time after that," he said.

New collective bargaining laws require that if more than one bargaining unit applies to represent teachers that an election must be held to pick an exclusive representative.

In the Rowland district, both the Associated Rowland Educators and the Rowland Federation of Teachers are seeking to represent the certificated staff.

The school board's decision to restore step and column wage increases came after a suit by teachers was rejected by the Los Angeles County Superior Court. The suit accused the district of withholding increases.

Appointment

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Bruce W. Chambers was recently named assistant director for curatorial services at the Memorial Art Gallery of the University of Rochester.

Chambers succeeded Robert Henning Jr., who became curator of the Museum of Fine Arts, Springfield, Mass.

Rowland offering upholstery class

A class in upholstery is being offered by the Rowland Unified School District at its adult school.

Instructor James Smythe said those enrolling now will be able to "complete a chair for the Christmas season and save money in the process."

Instruction will be given in upholstery for chairs, sofas, headboards, padded valances and scalloped cornices. Materials can be purchased at the school.

Classes are being offered Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. For further information and immediate registration call the Rowland Adult School office at (213) 965-5975.

Chaparral School to be dedicated Thursday night

The new $3.5 million Chaparral Intermediate School in South Diamond Bar will be dedicated Thursday at 7 p.m. An open house will follow.

The school, at 1405 S. Spruce Tree Drive, opened in September with an enrollment of 630. Roger Skinner is principal.

Architect Bill Davis will present school board President Richard Fallon a symbolic key to the school and an oil painting of the building at the dedication.

Fallon, in turn, will present the articles to Skinner, the staff and the community.

David L. Brown, Walnut district superintendent, will provide historical background of area schools and tell of services to be provided at Chaparral.

The new plant occupies a 21.59-acre site and provides 18 regular and six special classrooms. It currently serves sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

Judge rules in favor of hypnotism

WARDEN, Wash. (AP) — When Municipal Court Judge F. E. Robertson looks you in the eye, you don't take it lightly. He and his wife are professional hypnotists.

And while Robertson says he has enjoyed most of his clients, he admits he's also had "some of the meanest" people in the world to treat.

"A young ornery boy with criminal tendencies was sent to me by authorities who asked me to try to keep him from getting into trouble again," the judge recalled. "After some hypnosis therapy the boy never was in trouble with the law again and went on to become one of the best wrestlers this state ever produced."

Nor has his off-the-bench practice been limited to juvenile delinquents. He said 43 students at Eastern Washington State College in Cheney, more than 80 miles away, came to his Hypnotic Therapy Clinic when they feared they might flunk out of school.

After being hypnotized and told that their interest in school would grow each day, and that they would no longer let outside pressures hinder their concentration, Robertson says, "Every one of them passed."

In fact, he says hypnotism can cure just about anything obesity, alcoholism, chainsmoking and yes, even corns.

"If a person has an ailment somewhere, I tell the body to create the chemicals to heal the wounds," he said.

Robertson, 65, says he was a busy building contractor and was handling 500 court cases a month when a truck accident left him with a broken back.

"The doctor just about gave up on it ever healing and said I would be dead in six months unless I put my faith in God or learned hypnosis to try to heal it," he said.

Choosing the latter course, Robertson and his wife trekked south to Los Angeles to attend a school of hypnosis.

That led to a new career — the clinic at which he says he has treated thousands of persons from all over the country.

However, he says he quit accepting patients recently because of a stroke, all the while maintaining that even the stroke might have been prevented.

"If I had known even 15 minutes before it hit me that the stroke was coming," Robertson said, "I could have stopped it through hypnosis."

Company specializes in finding doctors for communities

LOS ANGELES (AP) — How to keep a doctorless town from dying.

Jeff Merkow, spokesman for a suburban company that specializes in finding doctors for small communities desperate for medical expertise, says the job isn't always easy but it can be rewarding.

"A community that doesn't have a doctor doesn't survive very long," Merkow said. "If people have got to travel some 20 miles to go to the doctor they're going to do their shopping there as well. Commerce can't survive."

He said that's when community leaders or hospital administrators call on his company to find qualified medical people for them.

In an interview, Merkow said, "One doctor we placed in Avoca, Iowa, had 500 people turn out to greet him when he came to town. The high school marching band showed up. They did whatever they could do to make this doctor feel at home and important."

But doctors sometimes have other ideas of where they want to work, he said.

"We don't have a shortage of physicians. It's simply the maldistribution of available medical personnel," he said. "Doctors believe that they can make a tremendous income in the large cities. Many doctors come to us asking to go to San Francisco and Beverly Hills, but they don't need any more doctors."

That can slow down the search and cause problems for the company, the National Health Research Organization of Northridge.

One such problem was the resignation of Roger McLaughlin, an agent who complained the company wasn't supplying doctors fast enough.

"McLaughlin started working for us in Audubon, Iowa. He had been the administrator of Audubon County Memorial Hospital before he came to work for us," Merkow said. "He had an extensive background as a hospital administrator in Texas and Colorado and elsewhere."

He said McLaughlin and the firm parted company by mutual agreement. McLaughlin could not be reached immediately for comment.

Clients pay $4,000 per doctor for a contract that guarantees only that the firm will search until the doctor is located, Merkow said.

Sometimes doctors sign up quickly, sometimes not. But he said the firm is performing a needed service with contracts in 30 states.

"In Northern California we have had 18 contracts in the last year, and we fulfilled half of them," he said, adding that two doctors were also placed recently in Rushville, Neb.

He said the firm, founded in 1972 by G. R. Holmes, a biochemist with the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center, employs 12 searchers who travel throughout the nation looking for prospects. They take out advertisements in medical journals, talk to medical school graduates and sound out hospital administrators for doctors who may have expressed a wish to move.

"Most of our doctors are coming from the larger cities where the big medical schools are located," he said, although "medical schools are not our best source, since communities themselves can and do really barrage the residency programs. We have to go an extra step."

LAFC's decision on zones of influence

Montclair supports appeal of decision

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Montclair City Council will support the cities of Fontana and Rialto in their appeal of a decision by the Local Agency Formation Commission which withdrew parts of the cities' zones of influence.

Mayor Harold Hayes reported on the recent action by LAFC which overturned a previous decision several years ago which gave both cities unincorporated sections outside their city limits, or zones of influence, for future annexation into the city.

Hayes reported that LAFC had made a similar threat a year ago to San Bernardino during a conflict between the city and the county. Hayes said there should be grave concern about such obviously political moves by LAFC.

The Local Agency Formation Commission was formed as an agency to establish logical zones for future annexations into cities and to arbitrate boundary disputes between communities. Although it has the right to approve zones of influence, there is no provision that allows LAFC to withdraw zones from a city, according to Hayes.

"We should be concerned about this and voice our opinions to LAFC. We should support the cities. The decision will probably be appealed by the two cities and there is no provision for an appeal process except through the courts," Hayes reported.

The LAFC action against Rialto and Fontana "upsets the pattern of planning and the whole concept of the zone of influence . . . If this is accepted as established procedure, political pressures from other agencies could have an adverse impact. I don't think that was the intent of the law," Hayes said.

City Manager Jack Ratelle of Fontana explained that the controversy centered around a request by the Bloomington Park and Recreation District to allow expansion of that district into the zones of influence of Rialto and Fontana. The unincorporated area of Bloomington was designated partially within the zone of influence of the two cities by LAFC in 1971 and had been considered their spheres of influence since the 1930s.

The LAFC decision about two weeks ago removed four square miles each from both Fontana and Rialto zones of influence, Ratelle explained. So now rather than straight lines for the zones' eastern boundary for Fontana and western boundary for Rialto, there are "clusters of jagged lines going in and out of Fontana and Rialto," Ratelle said.

The Fontana administrator agreed with Hayes that the decision was politically motivated, saying "what it amounts to is catering to special districts." The LAFC action increased the sphere of influence of the Bloomington community, making it coincide with the Bloomington Park and Recreation District, he said.

Ratelle charged that the new boundaries have "no logic" and was in conflict with the LAFC staff recommendation that the Bloomington community boundary stay where it is and that the Park and Recreation District be cut back in territory in order not to go into the spheres of influence of Fontana and Rialto.

He pointed out that it sets a dangerous precedent by LAFC because it caters to personal, political requests rather than considering such boundaries on the technical, logical grounds that was the original intention of LAFC's function.

Thayer murder trial under way

The murder trial of a 37-year-old Alhambra man accused of the execution-style slaying of a La Puente man on Aug. 13, in a vineyard east of Ontario International Airport, has begun in West Valley Superior Court.

Roger Eugene Thayer, accused of the fatal shooting of George Michael Chavez, 23, La Puente, will stand trial in the courtroom of Judge Clifton L. Allen. Thayer is defended by attorney Lawrence E. Clark, with the prosecution being led by Deputy Dist. Atty. Wayne Gomez.

Jury impanelment began about 10 a.m. Monday with the two attorneys having a total of 26 preemptory challenges. Judge Allen told potential jurers the trial will last approximately two weeks.

Thayer was arrested by Ontario police three days after Chavez' body was found naked on a dirt road east of Milliken Avenue near the airport. The body was spotted by an airline pilot flying in to the airport on Aug. 13.

Police said that the slaying may have been committed to avenge the prison conviction of an inmate at the California Men's Colony in San Louis Obispo.

Demand up for Hughes legal news

By BOB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Taylor Moore was up to his beard in files, notebooks and bits of paper as he prepared his biweekly newsletter on the Howard Hughes legal battles.

Moore, a Houston attorney, pointed to a foot-high stack of legal documents on the left corner of his desk and said, "that just arrived yesterday and I have to read it and select what should be included in this edition."

What started out as a hobby has developed to an almost fulltime job for Moore as he sifts through the legal briefs, court transcripts, the depositions and newspaper clippings involving the vast Hughes estate.

The newsletter, usually a four-page publication, is sold to attorneys who want to keep abreast of the latest legal moves, those who may think they could be heirs, and those with just an interest in the proceedings.

Moore says he charges $3,000 a year for his service but refuses to disclose the number of clients.

Moore says he had been collecting information on Hughes "long before his death" because "I was just interested in this man."

Now he attends court hearings in Houston—and in other states when time is available— and collects copies of all legal matters from Nevada to California to Texas.

He picks out pertinent details and rewrites the briefs or court opinions so both laymen and attorneys have a condensed version of what is going on.

Moore is hesitant to give an opinion on any of the matters pending in court because "I have clients from all the various sides and I attempt to remain completely fair in the matter.

"I will say from what I know that Howard Hughes never intended to leave money to his relatives but instead for medical research," he said.

"This case is covered in secrecy," Moore said. "It is one of the great mystery stories of all time and the more I study, the more mysterious it becomes."

Death sentence for Nazi aide

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet citizen who allegedly worked with the Nazis in two Byelorussian prisons during World War II was sentenced to death today by a Smolensk court, Tass reported.

A. I. Sikhachev was accused of aiding the Nazis in the execution of some 10,000 persons held in the prisons when the Germans occupied the region.

from his state in 30 years. He won easily over former Democratic Gov. Warren Hearnes, capturing the seat from which Sen. Stuart Symington is retiring.

Democrats, however, won the seats of retiring Republican Sens. Paul J. Fannin of Arizona and Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii.

In Arizona, former Pima County (Tucson) attorney Dennis DeConcini, member of a prominent Democratic family, beat GOP Rep. Sam Steiger, a 10-year House veteran. In Hawaii, Rep. Spark M. Matsunaga, a Democratic liberal, defeated former GOP Gov. William F. Quinn.

But in Rhode Island, former Gov. John H. Chafee, who served as secretary of the Navy in the Nixon administration, captured for the Republicans the seat from which Democratic Sen. John O. Pastore is retiring. Chafee defeated wealthy automobile dealer Richard Lorber, winner of a close and bitter Democratic primary battle.

In Michigan, Rep. Donald W. Riegle Jr., a Republican turned Democrat who had strong labor backing, defeated another House member, GOP Rep. Marvin Esch, for the seat given up by Democratic Sen. Philip A. Hart.

Of the 33 Senate seats at stake, Democrats held 22 and the GOP 11. Thirteen Democrats running for re-election, including Virginia's Byrd, won handily. Two of them, Democratic whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, had no opposition.

Other Democratic winners were Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Henry Jackson of Washington, William Proxmire of Wisconsin, Harrison A. Williams Jr. of New Jersey, Howard Cannon of Nevada, Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, Lawton Chiles of Florida and Quentin Burdick of North Dakota.

Three GOP senators won re-election — Lowell Weicker of Connecticut, Delaware's William Roth Jr. and Vermont's Robert T. Stafford.

IRS to provide more phone lines for people requesting tax forms

The Internal Revenue Service has inaugurated a new service for Southern California taxpayers which provides additional telephone lines reserved exclusively for requesting federal tax forms and publications.

Although there will not be a great demand for tax forms until the 1976 tax packages arrive in the mail next January, the IRS announced the new service now because the forms-ordering telephone numbers are not yet in all Southern California telephone directories.

The new service was instituted to free the IRS telephone lines used to answer Southern Californias' federal tax questions. The numbers to call for answers to those questions are listed in the white pages of all local telephone directories under "U.S. Government, Internal Revenue Service, Federal Tax Information."

IRS officials emphasized the best way to order federal tax forms and publications is by the forms-order blank that comes with the tax packages each year. They also said tax questions cannot be answered on the new forms-ordering telephone lines.

The new service is available 24 hours each day, including weekends.

During weekdays, from 8 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., IRS employees are on hand to personally take the requests. After 4:45 p.m. and on weekends, taxpayers' forms orders will be automatically recorded. Callers will be asked to provide their name, address (including zip code) and the title, number and quantity of the form or forms desired.

Approximately two weeks are required for delivery of the forms by mail. To request only IRS forms and publications, persons calling from area 213 telephones should dial 572-7814.

From Area Codes 714 and 805, the numbers are 1-800-242-4585 or 1-800-242-4586.

Ontario book sale

Donations are requested at the earliest possible date for the annual Friends of the Ontario Library book sale to be held in the garden room of the library on Dec. 3 and 4.

Individuals or firms making donations may call 984-2758 extension 38 to have them taken directly from the automobile or truck at the rear of the library. If desired, pickup of donated items will be picked up at the home, office or firm.

Items sought are books, magazines, recordings, cassettes, paintings and objects of art deemed appropriate for the sale.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for projects such as reading fundamental programs for children having difficulties in learning to read, a cold water drinking fountain and eventually a piano for the development of musical programs in the multipurpose room of the library.

Cat identification tags

The Humane Society of Pomona Valley is offering cat owners a voluntary cat identification tag for their pet. The tag will cost $5 each and will give the cat a life time tag for a one time fee.

Last year the society received over 6,000 cats found in the streets and brought to the shelter. Only two cats were wearing identification tags that allowed officials to call the owners.

Hundreds of cat owners in the valley lose their cats each year but don't become concerned until the cats have been missing for two weeks or longer. Then they visit the animal shelter and ask if officials have seen their cat, and by that time it is often too late, said Bruce Richards, executive director.

The tag will be lightweight and will carry the society's phone number and the ownership identification number. This system will allow the society to call the owner immediately. For cats with the tags there will be no boarding fee charge to the owner.

Genealogical speaker

Dr. Williston Wirt of Claremont will give a talk on the pioneers of revolutionary days to the Pomona Valley Genealogical Society.

The speaker is a retired minister, librarian, and student of New England history. The meeting will be held Nov. 8 at 7 p.m. in the Conference room of the Pomona Public Library. It is open to the public.

Veterans training

Veterans enrolled in GI Bill training are eligible for up to an additional nine months training, said Director John G. Miller of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Los Angeles.

The Veterans Education and Employment Assistance Act of 1976, signed into law Oct. 15, increased the training entitlement for thousands of veterans who have not reached their 10-year delimiting date.

The new law which went into effect Oct. 1, extended entitlement to 45 months for veterans if they have served at least 18 months on continuous active duty after Jan. 31, 1955. The extension is no longer limited to undergraduate training.

Previously, basic entitlement was 36 months. An additional nine months was available only if the GI Bill student was pursuing an undergraduate college degree.

Unchanged is the 10-year delimiting date. Veterans retain eligibility for 10 years after release from active duty or until Dec. 31, 1989, whichever is earlier.

The new law also provided an 8 per cent increase in monthly allowances for all training offered by the GI Bill except flight training, effective Oct. 1. A single veteran attending school full time receives $292 monthly. If the student has one dependent, the rate is $347; two dependents, $396. For each additional dependent, the monthly rate is increased by $24.

Entitlement for correspondence training is charged at the rate of one month for each $292 paid. Entitlement for flight training was continued at the rate of one month for each $270 paid.

Needlecraft class

Beginning Friday, the needlecraft class of the Ontario Library will begin its annual yuletide project for the development of ideas and gifts. The class is held in the garden room of the library each Friday from 11 a.m. to noon.

The classes are free, enrollment is not necessary and those who want to participate may join the class any Friday. Participants are required to bring their own materials and equipment.

Instructors are Gertrude Case of Upland and Mrs. Clara Anderson of Ontario. They specialize in crochet, crewel, needle-point and embroidery.

Back to school

Parents will be sitting in for their children Wednesday Nov. 17, when they attend Rowland High School for the annual "Back to School" night.

After a brief general meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium where Principal Tom Aney and other district personnel will make introductory remarks, parents will follow their children's class schedules for six, 12-minute periods.

Following the class visits, refreshments will be served in the school's multi-purpose room where parents and teachers can visit informally until 10 p.m.

Kaiser work begins

A 33-ton structural steel column was set in place recently at Kaiser Steel Fontana steel mill marking the first erection in the company's $233 million modernization program.

The column, eight feet wide and 117 feet high, is the first of 102 columns which will be the skeleton of the 18-story-high basic oxygen process steelmaking shop, the major project in the modernization. The program is currently 11 per cent complete. At its peak, 800 people will be employed on the project.

The modernization program is the largest construction project currently underway on the West Coast.

The building will house two 225-ton capacity basic oxygen furnaces scheduled to begin production in April 1978. This furnace shop will be equipped with efficient environmental control facilities available. It will replace the existing open hearth steelmaking capacity.

"The program represents our best effort to improve environmental controls, lower operating costs and supply our customers with more of the high-quality steel they need," said William R. Roesch, vice chairman and chief executive officer. "Our Fontana plant, already one of the cleanest in the nation from an environmental standpoint, will be made even cleaner through the improved control technology incorporated in this modern steelmaking equipment."

Also included in the program are a continuous slab casting machine, external hot metal desulfurization, modification of raw material handling and storage facilities, plus the necessary utilities equipment and supportive services.

Lions rummage sale

The Cucamonga Lions annual rummage sale will begin at 7 a.m. Saturday at the Bank of America parking lot in Cucamonga.

All proceeds will go to the Aid for The Blind program. Eye glasses for needy children, Southern California Eye Institute, City of Hope, and local youth support.

Rainbow Girls cancel charters over vote to admit black to order

INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) —The International Order of the Rainbow, a service organization for young girls, canceled the charters of all 136 Iowa chapters after one of them voted to admit a girl whose mother is black.

"It hit us like a bolt out of the blue," said Carol Holdsworth, grand deputy for Rainbow assemblies in an area of south central Iowa that includes Indianola.

She and other Rainbow officials said they learned Monday that the order had expelled Iowa's assemblies, with a membership of 5,000 girls, because the Indianola branch voted in October to admit Michelle Palmer, 12.

"The kids balloted and they wanted Michelle," said Mrs. Holdsworth. "They did the right thing."

Michelle's father, Dwaine Palmer, who is white, said he was "stunned by the whole thing. Nothing like this has happened to us before."

Helen Kline, supreme inspector of the Rainbow Order in Iowa, said the revocation was ordered by the supreme assembly of the International Order of the Rainbow for Girls in accordance with a 54-year-old "unwritten law" prohibiting blacks from becoming members.

"I can't get over it — it's just tragic," said Mrs. Kline, of Malvern.

Asked whether she considered that the revocation implied a policy of racial discrimination, Mrs. Kline said, "We call it selective membership."

The Rainbow organization, which includes preteen and high school-age girls, is affiliated with the Masons and its women's auxiliary, the Order of the Eastern Star.

At the organization's headquarters in McAlester, Okla., Herbert Grout, supreme inspector of the Rainbow Girls, said he had no comment on the matter.

The head of the Iowa Masonic organization issued a statement repudiating the canceling of the charters.

"From this date on, no Rainbow assembly which is affiliated with the international supreme council will be permitted to use the facilities of any Masonic Lodge under our jurisdiction," said W. Ross McCulla, grand master of Masons in Iowa.

McCulla, of Brooklyn, said, "The Grand Lodge of Iowa has a policy of nondiscimination by reason of race, creed, color or national origin."

Mrs. Kline said the issue of Michelle's joining the Rainbow Girls came up in September, but that the Indianola assembly delayed a vote for one month after some adults questioned whether national policy would permit blacks to join.

She said she ruled last month that the assembly could vote on admitting Michelle, pending a final ruling by the national organization.

Slayer awaits firing squad

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Gary Mark Gilmore, a 35-year-old convicted murderer, may go before a Utah firing squad on Nov. 15. If so, he would become the first person executed in the United States in nine years.

Gilmore, who has spent 18 of the last 21 years in jail, said after losing a bid for a new trial Monday that he would not appeal the execution order for the murder of a motel clerk last July. Utah's capital punishment law gives condemned murderers a choice of death by hanging or firing squad, and Gilmore has said he would prefer to be shot.

"It's my own decision. I was not influenced by anything but the fact that I don't want to spend the rest of my life in jail," he told District Court Judge J. Robert Bullock. "You sentenced me to die. Unless it's a joke or something, I want to go ahead and do it."

Bullock told Gilmore he still could change his mind and appeal, and an attorney for Gilmore said he would prepare papers. Appeal of a death sentence is mandatory in some states, but not in Utah.

Unless he appeals, or unless the courts or the governor intervene, Gilmore would go before the firing squad on schedule, according to his attorneys and Utah County Atty. Noall T. Wootten, whose office prosecuted the case.

Judge Bullock had scheduled Monday's hearing on Gilmore's request for a new trial in the slaying of motel clerk Bennie Bushnell, 25, on July 22. Gilmore was found guilty Oct. 6 by a jury that ordered the death penalty.

Gilmore, of Springville, Utah, is scheduled for another trial beginning Monday in the July 21 shooting death of a service station attendant. Bullock said he would decide by Wednesday on a defense request for a one-week delay of the trial.

Bullock ordered Gilmore to undergo a psychiatric evaluation to be completed within five days.

No one has been executed in the United States since June 2, 1967, when Luis Monge died in a Colorado gas chamber.

The last Utah execution was in 1960, when James W. Rodgers died before a firing squad for killing a fellow miner in San Juan County.

Utah is among states to pass new laws after a 1972 U.S. Supreme Court ruling that the death penalty was unconstitutional as applied in some states. The high court recently upheld some of the new state laws and rejected others. But it was not asked to rule on Utah's.

McVittie to begin 2nd term

Incumbent William McVittie of Upland captured two more years in the state legislature Tuesday as he received 63 per cent of the total votes cast in the 65th Assembly District.

McVittie, an attorney, beat challenger Clyde Stephens out with 46,860 votes. Stephens, an engineer from Pomona, received only 27,295 or nearly 37 per cent of the total 74,155 votes cast.

The 65th Assembly District race was typical of election turnouts throughout the nation with 89 per cent of the total 83,013 registered voters in the district going to the polls.

McVittie probably took party votes away from his Republican contender since Democrats represent 55.2 per cent of the registered voters in the district and Republicans represent 40.2 per cent. The district serves Pomona, Claremont, Upland, Ontario, Montclair and Chino.

"I am very flattered with the huge margin of victory. I have worked hard the past two years and I will continue that same kind of hard work the next two years," McVittie said in an early morning victory statement today.

The assemblyman is now anxious to get on with the business of legislative action and listed the need for property tax relief as most critical at this time.

"It now is critical that we all reach consensus on property tax relief so the legislature can enact reform measures at the earliest possible time. The senior citizens especially are being adversely affected by the latest batch of property tax bills received," McVittie said.

McVittie said he will return to Sacramento on Dec. 1 and until that time he will continue to meet with constituents and perhaps take his first vacation in six years. Tentative plans include 10 days at Lake Tahoe with his wife, Chris.

Claremont residents vote for annexation

By a vote of 141 to 102, residents living in an area northeast of the city of Claremont have chosen to be annexed to the city.

Residents had requested the annexation election in order to insure the rural character of their homes. Most of the homes are secluded, surrounded by citrus groves, nurseries, and small ranches.

The area, that will now become part of the city of Claremont is bounded on the north by the intersection of two Mt. Baldy roads, on the east by the county line, and on the south and west by the present irregular city boundary.

Claims 10,000-vote win over Brutocao

Lloyd wins second term in Congress

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-West Covina, will return for a second term in Congress following an 89 per cent voter turnout Tuesday in the district resulting in a more than 10,000-vote victory for the former mayor.

His Republican opponent, Louis Brutocao of Covina, spurted ahead in early returns, but when final returns were counted, Lloyd had received 86,858 votes to Brutocao's 76,110.

Lloyd received 53.2 per cent of the vote; Brutocao, 46.7 per cent.

In the Los Angeles County side of the district, Lloyd received 50,826 votes to Brutocao's 48,236. In the section of the district in San Bernardino County, Lloyd received 36,032 votes and Brutocao, 27,874.

Lloyd ran well ahead of Brutocao in both counties.

This 35th Congressional District campaign had been hard fought and closely watched, particularly in its final days when it seemed that Brutocao was receiving extensive support from the Republican party and out-of-state political action organizations.

Lloyd, contacted at his home this morning, said he had felt he had won re-election by 2 a.m. and had gone to bed. He learned the final count this morning.

"I think, first of all, that my entire staff deserves the credit over the last two years," Lloyd said. "I think we won on just plain service to the people in the district.

"Beyond that, people were able to distinguish a clean campaign." He was, of course, referring to personal attacks on him made by his opponent.

"And lastly, my family has done a tremendous job. My wife, Jackie, has worked very hard. Together, we ran a good, clean campaign."

Lloyd said that when all financial statements are finalized he thinks they will show Brutocao spending some $300,000 compared to his less than $100,000.

"I want the people to know that I'm going to continue doing what I've done the past two years," Lloyd said. "We'll work hard to keep communication with the constituents in the district open, and we will do our best to be the best office in Washington getting things done for people."

This district includes Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, Walnut, Covina, West Covina, Ontario, Montclair, Upland and Chino.

Lancaster returns for third term

Voters in the 62nd Assembly District returned Republican Bill Lancaster to Sacramento for a third term Tuesday.

Lancaster scored a convincing victory over Democratic challenger Sandy Baldonado, a former school teacher from West Covina.

With 84 per cent of the district's registered voters going to the polls, Lancaster gained 51,500 votes — 53.7 per cent of those voting.

Mrs. Baldonado received 44,373 votes.

Although the campaign between Lancaster and Mrs. Baldonado was controversial at times, it never appeared the challenger could seriously erode Lancaster's popularity in the district where he received 59 per cent of the vote two years ago.

While registered Democrats slightly outnumber Republicans in the district, it is a basically conservative area serving the communities of Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Glendora, Covina and West Covina.

Lancaster campaigned on the bread and butter conservative issues — tax reform, welfare reform and controlling state government spending.

Lancaster, who was originally elected to the Assembly in a special election in June of 1972, was not available for comment this morning.

Campbell wins himself job in new 33rd District

Republican William Campbell of Hacienda Heights won the seat in the new 33rd Senatorial District in the California legislature by receiving 54.3 per cent of the votes cast Tuesday.

Campbell, who relinquished his 64th Assembly District seat to campaign for the new post, received 98,831 votes against Democrat Betty Wilson, a member of the Santa Fe City Council, who received 83,106, or 45.6 of the votes.

Campbell said this morning "We campaigned hard on the issues. There is no doubt that immediate property tax relief is the key issue.

"I still think the legislature should meet immediately in a special session and provide some immediate tax relief from the surplus the state has.

"Then when the regular session convenes in December, the legislature could come to grips with the other aspects of tax relief needed."

The district serves Diamond Bar, Walnut, Whittier, La Mirada, Norwalk, Artesia, Cerritos and Downey.

Of the 210,184 registered voters, 181,937, or 86.5 per cent, cast votes in the new district election.

The district is 54 per cent Democrat and 40.5 per cent Republican, according to registration figures.

Campbell has served four terms in the Assembly. His seat will be filled by David Stirling, a Republican attorney from Hacienda Heights.

Stirling wins big for 64th Assembly seat

Republican candidate David Stirling, a Hacienda Heights attorney, scored a surprisingly wide victory Tuesday to capture the 64th Assembly District seat vacated by Republican Bill Campbell, who was elected to the California Senate.

In a race that was forecast as very close, Stirling garnered 53.1 per cent of the vote in defeating Democratic candidate James Gonsalves of La Mirada.

Final vote count today gave Stirling 49,837 votes to Gonsalves' 43,647. Of the district's 112,559 registered voters, 83 per cent turned out to cast their ballots.

Stirling, weary from the night-long watch of the vote count, said this morning he was "very gratified" with his support among conservative Democrats in the district, which has a narrow Democratic majority.

"The first order of business in Sacramento, as far as I'm concerned, will be property tax relief," said Stirling, adding that the key to that issue will be school financing.

Stirling, who had campaigned for a tougher criminal justice system, said he hoped to be appointed to the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

"Outside of property tax reform, there is no issue more significant to California than crime," he said.

The 64th Assembly District includes the areas of Hacienda Heights, Rowland Heights, Diamond Bar, Walnut, La Mirada, South Whittier, Whittier and Industry.

Pomona teachers to vote

Pomona's public school teachers were to meet at 4 p.m. today in Ganesha Park to take another strike vote should mediation fail to produce a settlement of the 1976-77 contract with Pomona Unified School District.

Associated Pomona Teachers (APT) executive director Delbert Pfeifer said APT'S Representatives Council was to recommend a "withdrawal of services" within five days "after failure of the mediation process."

Pfeifer said teachers would be able to cast ballots in the park until 6 p.m. then the voting procedure would be moved back to APT offices and continued until 7 p.m.

Today was the third day representatives from the teachers and the district had met in closed sessions with a state mediator in attempts to negotiate a contract. "So far," said Pfeifer, "there has been no progress."

Schools Supt. Charles C. Carpenter said mediation was to continue tonight at 7 p.m. He said the major area of difference was assigning pupil ratios to counselors, psychologists, speech specialists and nurses.

Some 75 per cent of the classroom teachers walked out last Thursday to protest what Pfeifer described as "failure" by the district to negotiate an acceptable contract.

Pomona man shot outside his home

A Pomona man was seriously wounded late Tuesday morning when he was shot while walking outside his home, police reported.

The victim, Elias Lee Alvarado, 32, was shot in his lower right side by one occupant of a passing car. He was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he underwent surgery. His condition this morning was termed serious.

Police said Alvarado probably was shot with a .38-caliber revolver. He told officers he was walking outside his home at 1146 W. Third St. when a 1964-model black Chevrolet passed and he was shot by an occupant holding a nickel-plated pistol.

The car was driven away westbound in Third Street and Alvarado managed to reach a neighbor's door and ask for help.

Police did not speculate on a motive for the incident.

Robbery suspect nabbed

A Pomona service station owner was robbed Tuesday morning by three young men and police later booked a 19-year-old suspect in connection with the holdup.

The victim, Roger L. Schneiders, 32, said the three approached while he was in the back room of the Shell station at 2105 N. Towne Ave. One confronted him inside the room, pulling a small-caliber revolver and demanding money. After obtaining the cash, all three ran to a car parked at the rear of the station and drove away.

Police later arrested a suspect identified as Timothy Wayne Thomas, 19, of Pomona. He was still in custody this morning.

Four holdups

Four armed robberies within a 12-hour period were reported in the West End area Tuesday night and Wednesday morning according to police and sheriff's deputies.

The first robbery occurred Tuesday at 8:50 p.m. when a man entered the Spirit Shoppe, 8760 Baseline Road in Alta Loma and pulled a pistol on clerk Callie Kessler. The gunman, wearing a green army field jacket, metal framed mirrored sunglasses, and a white stocking cap, ordered the clerk to place all the cash in a paper bag and fled out the door.

West End Sheriff's deputies said the robber escaped with a moderate amount of cash. The robber was described as a white, 20, 6 feet 1, 155 pounds, with brown hair and a beard.

The same robber was suspected in the robbery of the Euclid Liquor Store at 140 S. Euclid Ave. in Upland 23 minutes later.

Upland police said the robber, also wearing a green fatigue jacket and mirrored glasses, walked into the store and confronted clerk David Born. The robber told Born to hand over the cash from the register and place it in a paper bag. The robber then fled out the door, to a waiting motorcyle ridden by a second man, according to the clerk.

Upland police said the robber matched the general description of the Alta Loma robber.

At 9:20 p.m. Tuesday Montclair police were called to the rear of the Penney's store in the Montclair Plaza where a shopper walking back to his car was robbed by two men, both holding handguns. The two men, both described as Latins, 14 to 18 years of age took the cash from shopper Carl Gray's wallet and fled on foot.

Police said the robbers escaped with a very small amount of cash.

Then at 7:30 a.m. today two men, both described as blacks, in their late teens or early 20's robbed the Chevron Service Station at 428 S. Euclid Ave. in Ontario. Police said the two robbers escaped. Further details were unavailable this morning.

Four seized in holdup

A service station in Claremont was robbed shortly after 8 o'clock this morning and four suspects were seized a few minutes later after being observed by La Verne officers in Pomona.

The holdup was at the Union station at Foothill Boulevard and Mills Avenue. Early reports were sketchy, but indications were that two young men obtained money there at gunpoint before fleeing in a car containing others.

A few minutes later, La Verne officers noticed a car matching the description of the auto used in the holdup. With the assistance of Pomona police, the driver was stopped at Garey Avenue south of Foothill Boulevard. The names of those arrested as suspects were not immediately available.

Childbirth classes

A new series of classes in prepared childbirth will begin Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at Inter-Community Hospital at Covina.

The classes, conducted by Chris Wied, will consist of seven two-hour sessions. Prepared childbirth is a method of preparation for expectant mothers and provides them with methods of dealing with the discomforts of pregnancy through exercises and good body mechanics.

Breathing and relaxing techniques will be taught and discussions will cover various aspects of pregnancy and parenthood. Husbands are urged to attend.

Persons wanting information concerning the classes may phone (213) 447-3159.

West End Resource Board

Incumbents, Mrs. Treadway elected

Two incumbents were returned and a woman was elected to the West End Resource Conservation District (RCD) by voters of San Bernardino County Tuesday.

Thomas Carnesi of Upland and Bernard D. (Nino) Galleano of Mira were returned as directors for four-year terms.

Elected as the third member was Mrs. Joan A. Treadway of Ontario. The wife of Ontario Mayor Paul Treadway, she is a teacher of conservation courses at Imperial Junior High School.

Mrs. Treadway replaces Paul B. Hofer of Ontario who did not run for re-election.

The vote tabulation was Mrs. Treadway, 59,437; Carnesi, 54,912; Galleano, 44,603; and the fourth contestant who lost, Edward Hamilton, 43,377.

Formerly known as the West End Soil and Water Conservation District, RCD is an advisory, not a regulatory, agency. Directors are volunteers who meet on a monthly basis.

RCD is authorized by the State Public Resources Code to conduct research and advise agencies and individuals in the fields of land use planning, pollution control, and the conservation of soil, water, woodlands and wildlife.

The district covers approximately 500 square miles and encompasses the entire West End from the San Bernardino Mountains to the Santa Ana River and from the Los Angeles County line to Colton and San Bernardino.

Flu vaccines a waste?

The $135 million Congress appropriated for the nationwide swine flu inoculation program could be one of the best investments the country ever made. Or it could turn out to have been the biggest medical false alarm in recent history.

It depends, of course, on whether swine flu does break out this winter. So far, not a single case has been reported anywhere in the world since it was identified in five recruits at Ft. Dix. N.J.. last February, and some medical experts continue to question the wisdom of trying to immunize 200 million people against something that may never occur.

Why the alarm in the first place?

For one reason, the appearance of a new strain of influenza has always resulted in a worldwide pandemic simply because most people have no immunity to it, and the Ft. Dix strain was new in that it hadn't been seen in human beings since early in the century.

For another, news of the discovery immediately recalled the devastating flu pandemic of 1918-19, which involved a similar virus and which killed 20 million people worldwide, including some 500,000 in the United States.

Thus no one disputed the need to begin developing and producing a swine flu vaccine. The question was whether the vaccine should be administered on a universal scale or merely stockpiled in case mass inoculation became necessary.

One of those who favored the stockpile approach was the doctor who identified the Ft. Dix virus, Martin Goldfield, assistant commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Health.

"I thought it was unwise," he is quofed in a publication of Boston University Medical Center, "to prepare irrevocably to immunize an entire population before knowing the frequency or severity of side effects and efficacy of the vaccine . . . I recommended manufacturing the vaccine and preparing to deliver it if needed."

Proponents of vaccination argued, however, that stockpiling would be useless because influenza could spread faster than people could be immunized. It takes about two weeks for an inoculation to develop full immunity, and millions could be infected in that time. The only safe course was to assume the worst — that there would be a swine flu epidemic — and to take steps to prevent it.

This was the opinion which prevailed on President Ford, who called for the mass inoculation program last March. Interestingly enough, just the opposite decision was later made by Canadian health authorities who after a similar controversy decided to stockpile the vaccine and to offer it on a voluntary basis only to certain high-risk groups.

The matter has become further confused in the mind of the public because of the unfortunate deaths of a number of elderly people at the beginning of the inoculation program. Even though medical authorities are agreed that the vaccine had nothing to do with the deaths. the program was temporarily suspended in many areas and has yet to pick up full steam.

As things appear now, most Americans will be inoculated against swine flu in the coming weeks. The coming weeks will also tell whether it was a wise and necessary precaution or a tremendous waste of money and effort. But even if a waste, it will have been so only in the sense that fire insurance is a waste if your house never catches on fire.

Goldfield, however, raises another disturbing question.

What happens, he asks, if we immunize everybody in the fall and swine flu appears the following spring, after immunization has worn off and we've run out of vaccine?

We hope this is one question about the great swine flu puzzle that will not have to be answered.

Think on these things

It is amazing how many people you like when you really get to know them. Someone who seemed to be the most unlikeable turns out to be the very one you most enjoy — and the secret was in getting to know them.

Taking time for people who do not strike us as outgoing right from the beginning is something we often fail to do. We pass by them easily, not realizing their shyness or reluctance to push themselves forward and it robs us of meeting someone really worth knowing. Just a little effort in reaching out to draw someone to us can be one of our most rewarding acts. Friendship is a two-way street and we each have half the responsibility.

Thought

We intend that no one should blame us about this liberal gift which we are administering, for we aim at what is honorable not only in the Lord's sight but also -n the sight of men. — II Cor. 8:20,21.

"You don't have to preach honesty to men with creative purpose. Let a human being throw the engines of his soul into the making of something, and the instinct of workmanship will take care of his honesty." — Walter Lippmann, American journalist.

Tax rate decrease overlooked

Dear Editor:

I was extremely concerned to read the incorrect front page headline in the Progress Bulletin edition of Oct. 27 stating, "Claremont Again Has Highest Tax Rate in County."

There are several unincorporated portions of the county (eight to be specific) which have a higher total tax rate than Claremont, some by as much as $1 per $100 assessed valuation. The supporting article properly qualified the statement by indicating that Claremont had the highest rate for city areas in Los Angeles County. I think it is extremely unfortunate that a fallacious headline was placed over a factual article.

I also regret that the article featured the "worst" news and did not mention at all the "best" news — that Claremont residents experienced the largest tax rate decrease of any area in Los Angeles County. In other words, even though the total Claremont city rate remained comparatively high, it dropped more than in any other area of the county. The very large tax reduction made by the Claremont Unified School District should receive the greatest credit for achieving this significant tax rate decrease. I believe that having the largest tax rate decrease in Los Angeles County is quite significant, and I am disturbed that this fact was entirely overlooked.

SAVAK copies CIA tricks

WASHINGTON — Documents from the files of the dreaded Iranian secret police, SAVAK, reveal that its agents are given intensive training in such underworld skills as wiretapping, illegal break-ins and forgery.

Trusted sources obtained the SAVAK papers, and other reliable sources have verified their authenticity. We have had them translated twice from the original Persian as a doublecheck for accuracy.

The documents show that SAVAK, which was organized and trained by our own Central Intelligence Agency, has learned its lessons well. Their bags of tricks are virtually identical.

One document, stamped "Confidential," discusses "secret entrance to the subject's homes." The "secret break-ins," it states, "should be accompanied with an operational plan (such as complete information about the subject, location of his or her residence, time of her or his leaving home and returning, emergency outlet exits in case of unpredicted incidents, etc.)."

All plans for break-ins, the document advises, should be "sent to headquarters" for approval before they are "applied."

Another document gives instructions for making molds to duplicate stolen keys. The "mold must be laid horizontally and filled smoothly with a special substance called Plastilin," the directions state.

The document, complete with diagrams, also gives instructions on "four tools used to open door locks" and "two bent wire tools to open simple locks."

Another document reveals that SAVAK agents in Geneva dispatched a Swiss passport to their home office in Teheran to be used as a model for forgeries. "The 'Swiss Confederation' is printed on the back of the cover," states the accompanying cable. "The first page contains the last and first names of the passport owner, as well as the passport serial number."

Most of SAVAK's dirty tricks are directed against Iranian students who oppose the shah's imperial rule. One document, marked "SECRET," states that "all branches should send . . . information regarding demonstrations of dissident Iranians, strikes, suspicious traffic, students' calls to the imperial embassies and consulates, holding of meetings, publishing of publications, conventions and seminars."

This information, declares the memo, "should be typed on unmarked paper without any signature or signs of SAVAK."

But SAVAK agents do not restrict their attention solely to Iranians. One memo, classified "Confidential," contains orders to recruit "new agents" to "penetrate the Arab student community."

Another document, this one labeled "Classified," discusses the "activities of Kurds residing in Europe" who had taken on "some nationalistic tendencies."

The secret papers contain no specific evidence that SAVAK agents are using their criminal training in the United States. Reliable sources say, however, that they have violated U.S. laws.

Scores of SAVAK secret police operate in this country. They are supervised by Mansur Rafizadeh, who claims to be an "attache" with the Iranian mission to the United Nations.

WHITE HOUSE BUGS? — Richard Nixon was a man haunted by dark secrets, which he feared might leak out and drive him from the White House. In seeking to shut off the leaks, his staff chief, H.R. Haldeman, once talked of bugging the entire top staff to make sure they were loyal to Nixon.

Whether the secretive Haldeman ever carried out the plan cannot be established. But a senior White House official of the Nixon era, while requesting anonymity, has confirmed that Haldeman told him about the massive bugging scheme in late 1971.

"You could never tell if Haldeman was serious," said the former aide, "but this was after the Oval Office was wired, so I took him seriously."

This was also at the same time that the notorious White House plumbers were trying everything from wiretaps to poison plots to shut off embarrassing news. Some senior aides also required their subordinates to report all calls from inquiring reporters.

In addition, an intelligence source has told us that about this time, the White House transferred funds to the Navy to buy 200 micro-transmitters. Our source doesn't know what Nixon intended to do with them, but does recall that the order was on White House letterhead.

The alleged purchase of the 200 "bugs" was supposed to be made through the Naval Research Laboratory, a crack research unit which does top secret electronic and scientific work for the Navy.

In our talks with Nixon era officials, none would confirm the story of the "bugs." Spokesmen for both the Navy and Secret Service said they had no knowledge of the alleged "bugs."

PRODIGAL PEDAGOGUES: Buried in the vast federal bureaucracy are agencies that routinely escape public attention but spend the taxpayers' millions with all the reckless abandon of the bigger bureaus.

Rep. John Moss. D.-Calif., tries to keep his eye on these unnoticed agencies. He has recently been taking a look at the little-known National Institute of Education (NIE).

Moss learned that the NIE, an agency of the mammoth Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, is riddled with strife and is wasting much of its $70 million annual budget.

His findings are backed up by the Civil Service Commission, which also gave the NIE the once over. The Commissions' report, intended for official eyes only, has been secreted away in government file cabinets for months. But we have obtained a copy and can report these highlights:

— The NIE is afflicted with "unusually and needlessly high payroll costs." Employe morale is poor and there is "no assurance that the work being performed is necessary."

— Hundreds of promotions have been made which are in violation of the law. Over one 18-month period, the NIE made 112 promotions — all of which broke Civil Service regulations. The NIE has also performed poorly in civil rights.

— Overall, the institute is plagued with a lack of organization. "Some employes are overworked, while others have nothing to do."

Footnote: An NIE spokesman acknowledged that genuine problems exist but insisted they have been corrected. Moss, however, disagrees.

The hypochondriacs

There is someone in your acquaintance who tends to dramatize every minor ailment.

Usually, though not always, it's a man.

If he has a headache, he wants the Mayo Clinic flown in right now!

With the slightest sniffle he runs to the doctor and/or the druggist and stuffs himself with medication.

We call him a "hypochondriac."

He's a chronic worrier about his health.

Now a wise doctor recognizes that this fellow must never be told the truth — that there's "nothing wrong" with him.

He'd only switch doctors.

So the doctor listens patiently to his or her complaints, then prescribes some placebo so the patient will believe he is getting proper medical attention.

And usually his symptoms will respond to the sugar pill.

But if that patient, for his imagined or exaggerated ills, demands the entire spectrum of the physician's antibiotic arsenal — he becomes a danger to himself.

Similarly, there are some individuals who demand massive medication for the slightest economic discomfort.

Nobody likes to be pinched in the pocketbook.

Most of us have learned to expect and accept periods when an overheated economy, after a long climb, has to pause to catch its breath.

But when it pauses to catch its breath during the fever of a political campaign, we hear demands for instant remedies.

American medicine has gone full cycle in the treatment of the so-called common cold.

Grandmother's generation believed that we should keep the patient warm and let the fever "break" itself.

Mother's generation discovered that aspirin could "hold the fever down," and that seemed to make sense.

Now the consensus is that even aspirin can be bad for colds.

And the passion for antibiotics has been diminished as we learn that strong medicines for minor ailments may diminish the effects of those medicines when they are needed for serious diseases.

Similarly, if American politicians — for the selfish purpose of making us "feel better" until after the election — should demand a massive money hypo from the Fed, they could lay us open to a post-election complication too dismal to contemplate.

Most campaigners are aware of these economic facts of life so their demands for "freer credit" and "fuller employment" are a cheap shot.

Inflation is not yet under control. That "fever" is half what it was a year ago; our debilitated dollar is "getting well," and a restoration of sound money is the best medicine for our country and the whole world right now.

It would be most unfortunate if the public, demanding a "quick fix," should prod the medicine men to overdose us.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Sixty years ago the price of a shoe shine was 10 cents but you could get a slap dash job from the cut rate kid on the corner for a nickel.

Today the economy shoe shine costs 50 cents and the deluxe treatment from $2.50 to $3. — Sixty years ago, if you paid more than $3.50 for a pair of shoes, you would have been looked upon as a spendthrift trying to pass yourself off as a big city dude. — Sixty years ago a haircut cost two bits and you could get a barber shop shave for 15 cents.

In those days there were such things as a good 5 cent cigar, a 5 cent loaf of bread and a 5 cent cup of coffee which included any number of refills. — However, before we get to feeling sorry for ourselves because we have to put up with today's exorbitant prices, let's always remember that 60 years ago a safety razor, like the one we get today free with the purchase of a package of blades, cost $5.

A phonograph which had to be wound up by hand sold for right around $100. — And even though an appendicitis operation cost only about one-tenth of what it costs today, one had something less than a 50 per cent chance of coming through it alive.

Just for good measure, it can also be pointed out that even though in the good old days we could get a free lunch when we ordered a 5 cent mug of beer, we couldn't get hair implants or a sex change operation. — All of which, of course, proves little or nothing. But even though comparisons are odious, they do give us something a lot more interesting to argue about than the political mishmash that is taking up so much of our time these days.

The right of privacy

By EARL G. WATERS

Nowhere does the fallacy of a governor substituting his judgment for that of 120 members of the Legislature show so glaringly as in Governor Jerry Brown's veto of the Privacy Law authored by Senator David Roberti. In this instance the governor was taken in by the bureaucrats who fantasized estimated costs in their deliberate and successful efforts to thwart legislative policy.

Ignoring the positive purpose of the bill to protect the privacy of citizens, who are compelled to give information to the government about their personal affairs, from the prying eyes of busybodies, the governor dismissed the measure by declaring "The bill costs too much."

Admittedly the prime purpose of the veto power is to ward against unbridled spending by an irresponsible Legislature. But the Roberti bill carried no appropriation and any costs involved in complying with the law were nebulous and could only have been nominal, for the most part resulting from failures to comply.

In what can only be a complete recognition of the need for the legislation the governor immediately turned around and issued an executive order which he erroneously stated "will do most of what is essential in this bill at a fraction of the cost."

If there is any cost in complying with the designs of the executive order it will be no different than compliance with a statute. But the executive order does not come close to providing the protections to the public which were contained in the Roberti bill.

First off it can have no power over those agencies of government not under the direct authority of the governor. These include the Department of Justice, the Controller, the Department of Education, Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, Treasurer, and Secretary of State. Neither does it include the University of California, State Colleges, Public Utilities Commission and the State Personnel Board.

Furthermore an executive order is meaningless if the governor chooses to ignore failures to comply by his subordinates. And he can amend it in whole or in part to suit his convenience.

The Roberti measure was carefully worked out over a period of two years. Its history covered an even greater period for it was initially proposed by Senator George Moscone before he left to take office as mayor of San Francisco. Moscone had demonstrated a great interest in public records, desiring to keep government open and above board while at the same time protecting the privacy of individuals. He authored substantial improvements in the public records act but didn't complete the privacy legislation.

Had the governor been sincere in a desire to protect that privacy he would have worked with Roberti in devising the legislation instead of sitting back until the bill had passed the Legislature and then substituting his hastily drafted executive order as a sop to his veto.

As Roberti, with understandable anger, has pointed out the substitution is far short of providing the public adequate protection against bureaucratic treatment of personal information compiled. It doesn't even permit the citizens to know what information is being kept let alone give them a right to review and get corrections of inaccurate documents.

The Roberti measure would have required every state agency to file with the Secretary of State notice of the existance and character of the records being kept. It specifically spelled out the circumstances under which information could be used and provided penalties for persons obtaining individual records under false pretenses as well as for those who willfully disclosed information unlawfully.

Dr. Miller

Airedale a ropewalker

DEAR DR. MILLER: Somebody who's bred Airedales before says my Ruffy is a ropewalker, whatever that means. What does it mean? — D.M.

DEAR D.M.: Ropewalking is a descriptive term indicating that when Ruffy is moving forward in a straight line, the non-weight-bearing foot is swung forward, out around, and then placed directly in front of the other foot as it begins to bear weight. In other words, the feet would be continually placed down on a straight line or, if he'd been so trained, a rope. Compared to a straight gait, ropewalking is undesireable (except in the unlikely event he actually IS ropewalking), since when exaggerated, it's inefficient and more tiring to the legs.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Black and White, my pet goats, spend a lot of their days in a brush patch under some high power lines. I read about a Russian report which indicated electrical discharge from such power lines can be dangerous to your health. Do you think I should leave Black and White out in that brush patch? They come in at night anyway. They really enjoy it out there, but now I'm worried about what that electricity might be doing to them. — S.N.

DEAR S.N.: All the answers are not yet in on this highly-charged controversy. Considering the fact that your goats are out of this high intensity electrical zone at night anyway, and on the basis of currently available facts, I'd look at it this way: If Black and White have other equally enjoyable and nutritious browse available elsewhere, then move them. If they are subject to some particular stress such as pregnancy or illness, move them. But if neither of the above applies, then barring future signs of overloading or blown fuses, I'd let them continue to enjoy their daily supercharged chomping site.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Would one of these floor-to-ceiling cat trees, those padded things with shelves and so on, keep my Siamese cat from climbing up on everything else? Right now, her favorite trick is climbing the draperies, and they're beginning to look like it. Don't tell me to keep her nails clipped, I do. She manages somehow to climb anyway. — S.D.

DEAR S.D.: A cat tree should be worth "planting." By continually encouraging its use and by discouraging cat-climbing expeditions in other areas of the house, your Siamese should spend most of her perching time on her tree.

What people say

Astrographs

For Thursday, Nov. 4, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could get a warm welcome by someone important to you. This person may have been difficult to reach previously.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others will help you in a situation in which you felt deserted. Their intervention will buoy your spirits and solve the problem.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can be a better friend to one you're fond of if you lift some responsibilities from her shoulders. Your good deed for today!

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Material goals will be important today. Chances to gain them will be much better if you're not overly aggressive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be conscientious about things today, but don' let this spill over into fun areas. It shouldn't be all work and no play.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you'll be more interested in doing things for someone you love than you will for yourself. You'll succeed where this person would have failed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Before making any important decisions today, weigh the pros and cons. Don't commit yourself unless they're in balance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions are promising at this time where your work or career is concerned, provided you're not afraid of a little responsibility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You can get others to do things today by kidding them into it. Put your wit and know-how to work. Turn on the charm!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When dealing with those you love today, try to give more than you expect to receive. Your joy comes from doing things for others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're planning something social today, make it a point to invite an old friend you've neglected lately. This person is sad because you haven't called.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your chances for personal gain look rather good today. Two possible channels are open at the present time if you keep your eyes peeled.

Your Birthday, Nov. 4, 1976

Improved conditions in your work or career are likely this year. Your chances for advancement in your chosen field look very good.

Ann Landers

Their attitude is showing

Dear Ann Landers: May I join those who get the anger out of their systems by unloading their pet peeves on you? Mine is the "Drop Dead" attitude of many small business people toward their customers and clients.

Within the past week I have experienced the following:

My hairdresser booked me for 9:00 a.m. I was on time. She arrived ten minutes late, put on the coffee pot, proceeded to wipe the chairs and shampoo bowls, then made a couple of personal phone calls, oblivious to the fact I was fuming.

A shop across the street from my office advertised a big sale. I used my coffee break to run over to pick up some bargains. There was only one clerk in the place to handle the customers. The phone was ringing off the wall. While I was tapping my foot impatiently, two customers came in and walked out. So did I. The salesperson was too busy answering phone calls to wait on me.

A pretty little gift shop opened near my home. I dropped in yesterday. The young owners had brought their collie dog and angora cat to work. ("Hate to leave them alone all day.") I have a serious allergy to all kinds of animal fibers and had to leave immediately lest the presence of those two hairy creatures bring on an attack.

Am I picky-picky? What do you think? — Judge Me

Dear J.M.: I think you were poorly treated on all counts. I hope the small business people who read this will pay close attention to your complaints. They are valid — and not uncommon these days.

Dear Ann Landers: Just a thought regarding organ donations. Our beautiful 21-year-old son was killed by a drunk driver. I wish to God someone had mentioned donating his kidneys or eyes at the time. No one did. Neither my husband nor I thought of it.

Our son was the kind of person who would have wanted to do such a thing. And I would have felt so much better about the horrible tragedy knowing someone had been given added years or sight because of our boy. The whole ordeal would have been less painful had I known his death had helped someone in some way. — San Bernardino Mother

Dear Mother: Thank you so much for your generous letter. It provides me with an opportunity to mention the Uniform Donor Card One more time.

Anyone interested in obtaining such a card should write to the National Kidney Foundation, Box 800, New York, New York 10010.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 31 years old and have been dating the same man for five years. His parents would like us to get married. MY parents would like us to get married. I want to get married. Our friends think we make a wonderful couple. The only person who isn't in favor of the idea is HIM.

I've talked to the guy several times about setting a date. All he does is shrug his shoulders and say, "I'm not ready yet." He doesn't want to break up, either. I've suggested it.

I could use some advice, Ann. — Not Getting Any Younger

Dear Not Getting: Are you willing to go with the guy for the rest of your life? If you are he'll let you do it.

If it's marriage you want, make a clean break and tell Speedy Gonzales not to call you unless he is ready to set the date. In the meantime, go out with others and let the chips fall where they may. (P.S. I'm betting Speedy comes through.)

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Joe Firman

What's good, good buddy?

Some years ago when I arrived as the "new boy" at a small but select school for delinquents in upper New York State, I struck up a lasting friendship with One-Lap-Behind Phillips, so-called from his lateness to classes, his inability to catch on to jokes, and his habit of forgetting when book reports were due.

At the end of my first year, I was known as One-Lap-Behind-Phillips Firman. What with a broken wrist watch, difficulty in tying my shoes, and intermittent amnesia in the classroom, I could never quite catch up with the world I never made. It wasn't "Stop the World, I Want To Get Off" — it was "Stop the World, I Want To Get ON!"

When my classmates were mooning over Claudette Colbert, I was still starry-eyed over Laura La Plante. When they were playing "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" on their windup phonographs, I was singing "Alice Blue Gown" in the shower. By the time I heard about panty raids, the girls were all wearing pantyhose. (I still call the refrigerator "the ice box" and my record-player will always be "the Victrola.")

It comes, then, as no surprise to my small coterie of friends and loved ones that I have only recently discovered Citizen's Band radio, that chatterbox network that apparently links most of the truck drivers, hunters, campers, cowboys and highway patrolmen in the world.

Being connected by radio to 40 million gabby Americans must be about as much fun as being shut in a phone booth with Howard Cosell, but I must admit that the CB jargon has a certain colorful quality — terse, imaginative and rugged, a compendium of police codes, trucker talk, poetry and gibberish. "Ten-four" is okay for "Okay," but why say "Lay an eye on" for "See," or "Peanut butter in ears" for "Not listening."

Much of the CB lingo centers around highway patrol officers whom speeding truckers are anxious to avoid. These are called "Smokeys" and "Bears" and "County Mounties." The big semis are "Eighteen wheelers." A "chicken-choker" is a poultry truck; a "reefer" is a refrigeration truck," and a "thermos bottle" is any tank truck. A "draggin' wagon" is a tow truck.

CBers are not all out on the highway, of course. There are many base stations where farmers, businessmen, housewives and other peasantry break (cut in) to ratchet jaw (never stops talking) with friends and relations on weekend vacations. Much of the chatter is trivial, idle, frequently scatological or profane. There are few Hamlets on the highway, and you read the mail (listen in) at your own risk.

Let's try it. "Breaker! Breaker! This is good buddy Screamin' Eagle out on the boulevard with the front porch clean. I'm fixin' to blow the doors off a dead pedal pregnant roller skate, and there's seat covers in a green wrapper over my shoulder. I'll be putting the hammer down on this bodacious eighteen wheeler, so beat the bushes and holler on the Smokeys so I don't have to feed the bears if they catch me over the double nickles."

Rough translation: "Anyone listening, this is Screamin' Eagle (handle, or nickname) out on interstate highway with no highway patrol in sight. I'm fixin' to pass a slowmoving VW, and there's girls in a green car behind me. I'll be speeding this powerful rig, so look out for the police and warn me so I won't have to pay a ticket if they catch me over the 55 mph speed limit."

It seems to me that this picturesque patois is more trouble than it's worth, but if CBers have fun with it, that's ten-four with me.

For now this is good buddy Pencil Pusher saying clear and eights and seventy-threes. (Final transmission, goodbye and best of luck.)

Dr. Lamb

Diet disease growing problem

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 13. A couple of months ago I went on a starvation diet. Now everytime I put food in my stomach I get very bad pains in my sides, back and stomach. I went to the doctor and he said I had an infection of the urinary tract. Do you think the infection is causing the pain or do you think the problem is in my stomach?

DEAR READER — My tentative answer is no to both questions. Your letter disturbs me because young girls your age are susceptible to a condition called anorexia nervosa. The problem begins with the girl thinking she is overweight and going on a severe diet — as you have done — or even inducing vomiting after eating to "become thin."

The girl loses proper perspective of her own body image and imagines she is fatter than she really is. With her very real distortion of the facts she persists on a starvation diet and gradually becomes emaciated and has a severe disturbance in normal hormonal development. Such a girl may not have normal menstruation. In fact, menses may be totally absent.

Unfortunately the victim is sufficiently out of touch with the realities of the situation that she seldom accepts facts and frequently cannot manage her own case. She needs professional help.

I would wonder if your starvation diet was not the beginning of this problem for you. It centers around the problems of endocrine changes and puberty, involving psychological aspects of development. Having a physical reaction to eating when you think eating is going to make you fat, even if you are not fat, may well be the cause of your pain.

I don't doubt that you have a urinary tract infection. Your resistance to infection may be lowered.

Let me urge you to make a factual appraisal of whether or not you have lost weight. If you have lost quite a few pounds I hope you will make arrangements to get some professional counseling in a mental health clinic. A review of the possibility of your having anorexia nervosa or related psychological problems in that instance will be essential to your future health.

Meanwhile, I am sending you The Health Letter, number 2-2, Low Carbohydrate Diet Fads to give you more information on the harmful effects of unwise dieting. That includes fasting. Others who want this information on the Atkins' diet and other low carbohydrate fads can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Release unwanted clutter

In England you can see huge barges loaded with the refuse of the cities. These barges, loaded with garbage, are pushed with tugs until they are far off in the sea. There the bottoms of the barges are opened and the garbage is dropped into the depths of the sea! The bottomless black pit of the ocean swallows the waste.

Likewise you and I must learn to release the unwanted clutter of our lives on a regular basis. So it makes sense to have prayers every night!

Ventilate every night. Empty out the accumulated misfortunes of the day. Don't hang on to them. Get rid of them through faith. God is eager to forgive you.

Imagine Christ opening the windows of your mind; the foul air blows out; fresh, clean air from the beautiful sea blows in! Crisp, moist and clean!

Tie pattern best seller

Young fellow, would you like to wear a homemade shirt fashioned just for you by the girlfriend of your choice? No doubt, no doubt. It's merely a rhetorical query put forth to point out how notions change. Not many years ago a lad of distinction loathed the necessity of climbing into home-sewn threads. There was nothing tasty about it then. All this comes to mind because I note that recently one of the best-selling patterns of all time was for a man's tie.

In the old collective noun game, don't forget that a swarm of bees is also known as a grist, a group of leopards as a leap, a bunch of goats as a tribe, and a crowd of bears as a sleuth.

Add to that lengthening list of never-die one-liners: "Old duck pluckers never die, they just get down in the mouth."

SHORTEST WAR

Q. "I know the longest war in history was the 100 Year War from 1338 to 1453, but what was the shortest of all wars?"

A. Believe that was the 38-minute conflict between the British Navy and the self-proclaimed Sultan of Zanzibar on Aug. 27,1896. Zanzibar's recognized Sultan ate something that made him sick to death. Two days later, his cousin jumped up to say he was the new Sultan. But the island was a British Protectorate, and the British said, Oh no you're not, or words to that effect, giving the ambitious fellow until 9 a.m. to get his cohorts out of the palace. Nothing doing. So the British warships opened fire, wounded or killed about 500 men, sustained one casualty, and installed in the top job the son of the recently deceased legitimate Sultan. Incidentally, as for the longest war, how about the 195 years of Crusades, from 1096 to 1291, most commonly known as The Holy War?

OPEN WINDOW

Rare is the Seasoned Citizen who does not hold the conviction that it's healthier to sleep in a room with a window open. That's wrong, the science boys now say. Not just because there's so little left of that thing called fresh air. It was wrong, they insist, even when there was fresh air.

Hearst retrial hearing set Nov. 11

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A hearing on convicted bank robber Patricia Hearst's request for a new trial was scheduled Tuesday for Nov. 11 in federal court.

U.S. District Court Judge William Orrick Jr. will hear a motion at the same time seeking bail while her conviction is being appealed to the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Miss Hearst was sentenced to a seven year term by Orrick on Sept. 24 for her participation in the Symbionese Liberation Army robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco on April 15, 1974.

In filing motions for a new trial, defense attorney Albert Johnson claimed that the government had suppressed evidence favorable to Miss Hearst and knowingly used "false and misleading evidence."

The defense declared that on the basis of "newly discovered evidence the defendant avers she was substantially prejudiced and deprived of a fair trial."

The government in its reply denied claims that it had suppressed evidence favorable to Miss Hearst and contended that her new trial motion contained glaring errors.

As to the bail request, U.S. Atty. James Browning said that not only does Miss Hearst "fail to acknowledge her guilt but that she believes that her conviction was unjustly obtained by the government."

The defense claims that there were two witnesses whose testimony at a Los Angeles County grand jury hearing contradicts that given by a government trial witness about a Los Angeles sporting goods shooting incident. It said it was not made aware of this exculpatory information. Browning contends the grand jury testimony was not exculpatory.

Miami's buzzards to roost in peace

MIAMI (AP) — After 50 years, Miami has given up the battle of the buzzards. Turkey vultures who have made the city their winter home will no longer be chased from their favorite perch atop the Dade County Courthouse.

Scarecrows, shouts, thrown objects and low-voltage wires all have failed to discourage hundreds of vultures from settling each autumn on the pyramid-shaped roof of the 26-story courthouse.

"They really don't do any harm if we clean up the feathers," building supervisor Sam Griffith said Monday in announcing that he was giving up the fight. "And even if they are gruesome close up, they are graceful in the sky."

Besides, he added, "they are conversation pieces for the tour groups."

The feathers, shed by the vultures during molting, have to be cleaned up or they will clog the building drains, Griffith said. He said that in 1972 the upper floors suffered some water damage.

The vultures, who have a penchant for eating carrion and a legendary reputation as harbingers of death, began roosting in the building soon after it was built about 50 years ago.

"No other major city in the country has a turkey vulture population," said Oscar Owre, professor of ornithology at the University of Miami.

Owre said that about 1,200 vultures come to Miami from Northern states every fall and leave every May. Some of Miami's other tall buildings have attracted groups smaller than the courthouse flock.

The vultures apparently find sustenance in the metropolitan area, dining on dead fish along the Atlantic Ocean shore and frequenting garbage dumps.

The courthouse roof, because of its shape and height, provides "an ideal place for sunning," said Owre.

Other experts say the birds, awkward on land, find it convenient just to spread their wings and step into the updraft that almost constantly blows from the city streets.

Smaller families help reduce welfare rolls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government said Tuesday that the nation's welfare rolls dipped last June to the lowest level in 18 months, due in part to the shrinking size of the American family.

The announcement by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said there were 11,247,679 persons receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children in June, the latest month for which figures are available.

That was the lowest since January 1975, when there were 11,175,000 AFDC recipients. The number of AFDC families increased during the 18 months from 3,379,559 in January 1975 to 3,554,311 last June.

Robert Fulton, administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service, said welfare rolls have been declining because of smaller families, a stronger economy, the drive to weed out ineligible recipients, and the year-old campaign to collect support payments from absent parents.

HEW said the size of the average AFDC family has decreased from 4.1 persons to 3.2 persons during the last decade.

The June rolls were 62,244 recipients below the previous month. Cash payments during the month totaled $818.8 million, more than a $2 million decline from May.

HEW said that while the number of recipients last June was one-half of one per cent below a year earlier, the number of welfare families had increased 2.2 per cent.

Georgia led the 28 states registering a 12-month decline in AFDC rolls, down 88,575. Other states or jurisdictions with large decreases were Texas, down 48,383; Illinois, down 21,224; Puerto Rico, down 19,009; Maine, down 18,345; and Florida down 15,225.

The largest increase in AFDC rolls was recorded in California. Other states with higher rolls included Kentucky, Michigan, New York, Ohio, and Wisconsin.

Eighty per cent of the increase in those six states occurred in families headed by unemployed fathers, HEW said.

Nonfederal welfare rolls called general assistance also hit an 18-month low of 916,866 persons in June.

Glass gaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Glass is gaining a larger share of the container market, the Glass Packaging Institute says.

For the first time in over 15 years, in 1975, glass container shipments rose nearly 2 per cent while the packaging industry's total container shipments declined more than 3 per cent.

Peru buys planes from Russ

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Peru's air force has bought 36 sweptwing supersonic fighter planes from the Soviet Union, the government announced Tuesday. It is the first such purchase by a Latin-American country other than Cuba.

Foreign Minister Jose de la Puente told a news conference that the Soviets made the "most attractive" offer during arms-suppliers' bidding from the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Britain.

Usually well informed sources said the planes cost some $250 million under lenient credit terms, but the foreign minister gave no details on the cost or delivery date.

"Planes have no ideology or flag," said de la Puente, apparently denying that the planes have any significance beyond the renewal of obsolete aircraft.

Yellowing disease affecting coconut palms

DAVIE, Fla. (AP) — Agricultural officials say they haven't given up trying to save the few remaining coconut palms from the rapidly spreading lethal yellowing disease, but they are testing a new tree as a replacement for the stately symbols of Florida.

Ninety percent of the big coconut palms in the Miami area have been killed or are dying from the disease believed caused by bacteria carried by insects.

"We're working on it stronger than ever," said Dr. Henry M. Donselman, ornamental horticulturalist and a member of a scientific team at the University of Florida's Agricultural Research Center.

"But unless we come up with a miracle cure in the next year or two, the rest of them are going to be wiped out," he said.

So scientists are turning much of their attention to the Maypan, a new and graceful palm tree that may replace the coconut palms. Donselman said the Maypan is a cross between the female Malayan dwarf palm and the male Panama tall palm.

"It was developed in Jamaica and they can't spare very many of them," Donselman said. "But we got some seeds and we have about 150 of them growing here."

Donselman said the Maypan is similar in appearance to the coconut palm, but it has an 86 per cent resistance to lethal yellowing.

"We're going to take the seedlings next spring and distribute them to research centers and botanical gardens around south and central Florida," he said. "We'll give some very good care and let others fend for themselves. We want to see how well they'll adapt."

But Donselman said that under the best circumstances, the Maypan won't be available to the general public for at least five years.

Lethal yellowing first was found in the Florida Keys in the 1950s. In 1972, it reached the Miami suburb of Coral Gables and quickly spread throughout the region.

"So far, it's killed 90 per cent of the coconut palms in Dade County (Miami) and 50 per cent on the whole East Coast," he said. "And it's not just killing coconut palms, it's getting 18 different varieties."

He said injections of the anitbiotic tentracycline help prevent the disease, but is recommended only for use as a delaying tactic until new trees are grown.

"We're still working on lethal yellowing because coconuts are listed in the top five economic plants around the world," Donselman said. "Anything we find here will be of terrific importance elsewhere."

Methodists

In 1729, John and Charles Wesley, Oxford students, started the Methodist Church. The name was derived from their resolution to conduct their lives and religious study "by rule and method."

Displaced by center of art, culture

Refugees: 'We're luckier than some older people—we found a place...'

By DAVE ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Living above the three-story public baths was like presiding over a chateau for custodian Maurice Noyelle, his 71-year-old widowed mother, their pet fox, a dog and 12 birds. Now they have to vacate, joining a stream of families displaced by The Georges Pompidou National Center of Art and Culture.

The center, to cost $180 million, is nearing completion in one of Paris' most prized old neighborhoods, the Marais, once home of French kings and the sprawling Paris food market of Les Halles, torn down several years ago and now little more than a crater. Yearly operating costs for the center are an estimated $26 million.

It has found few defenders, and even the local church is upset.

"We've been here seven years and we're used to the neighborhood," Noyelle, 37, said in an interview in his two-bedroom apartment above the baths, where in return for keeping the water hot and the 55 showers in good running order he lived rent-free.

"Where else could you have all this," he said with a gesture meant to encompass the entire 46-year-old red-brick building just across the street from the cultural center. "It was like having a chateau.

"But if you have to move, then you have to. We were luckier than some of the older people, though. We found a place and we're getting ready to move. Some of the others haven't found anything."

Hundreds of families have been uprooted by the building program, which began five years ago and covers five acres, including a vast vehicle-free pedestrian mall. But official figures on the precise number of those displaced are not available.

The baths are to be transformed into auxiliary offices for the cultural center, which itself will have a library, an art gallery, a theater, an industrial design center, a music research institute and exhibit halls.

Other buildings surrounding the center are either being knocked down or renovated as studios for artists whose works will be displayed in the center's modern art gallery.

The center is 540 feet long, 195 feet wide and has six floors, each 23 feet high. The architects, Renzo Piano of Italy and Richard Rogers of Britain, deliberately left parts of the heating, plumbing and air conditioning systems visible and had them painted bright red, blue, green, yellow and orange to accentuate the building's functional design.

There are also white enameled steel struts crisscrossing the outside of the building and a staircase snaking up the length of the center's exterior, adding to the utilitarian feeling that the architects tried to evoke. The architects were chosen by a committee in an international competition but without consultation with the local community.

Both Noyelle and his mother said they were not too impressed by the center's looks but recalled philosophically that the Eiffel Tower also had its enemies and that maybe the new building fell into this category. Others in the neighborhood, however, took a stronger view.

"We were never asked about the design of the center," said Father Jean-Claude Thomas of the nearby 16th century Saint Merry Church. "The decision was taken at some remote level, like the operation of some big machine of the state.

"Personally, I think it's well adapted to its function but not to the neighborhood. Many in the parish view it as a monster that has disrupted their lives, something generally negative, aberrant and incongruous."

Pedestrians interviewed on four blocks surrounding the center were not happy about the center.

"It's frightful, completely ridiculous and has horrid colors," one well-tailored woman said. "It's especially absurd in this old quarter."

An old man said he fought in World War I and II and had nothing against the late President Georges Pompidou, the center's prime mover and namesake, "but why did he make it look like an oil refinery?"

Another man said the center "must have been designed by madmen. Everything's exposed and painted those hideous colors. All those millions wasted. It's a scandal."

Still another called it "vulgar and tasteless," than added with nationalistic malice: "The English did it. One of the architects is English, you know."

Glass waste rescue studied

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The glass bottle you throw out today may become the street you drive on or a brick for your new house next year if research into refuse-derived glass pays off.

Every six weeks, a 50-pound sack of ground up rubbish from Washington, D.C., arrives at the University of San Diego, where a scientist puts it through "froth flotation" in search of glass particles.

What Dr. Donald B. Peterson is trying to do is match the way nature separates the original sand crystals that go into glass from other materials.

"Froth flotation has been an important process in the cleaning of naturally occurring glass sands for many years," said Peterson. "More recently, it has been applied to recovery of glass from municipal solid waste."

Peterson's work is a small segment of large-scale national research on how to handle the mountains of refuse generated by Americans and recover metal and other elements which presently get dumped.

His studies so far show it is possible to isolate glass from such items as bone and pebbles which show up in rubbish and to derive a product that can be used in making of new glass, as a substitute for asphalt or in manufacture of bricks.

The investigation by Peterson, a chemist and acting dean of the university's college of arts and sciences, is under auspices of the National Center for Resources Recovery, Inc., in Washington. That's why the ground-up trash comes from there.

Actually, Peterson only receives the glass-pebble-bone residue remaining after the lab in Washington has removed paper, metals and oils by means of other recovery systems.

Some meats, butter

Supermarket shoppers finding a few bargains

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Thanksgiving came early for supermarket shoppers this year. An Associated Press marketbasket survey showed lower prices for some meats and butter caused grocery bills to decline during last month.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed the marketbasket bill dropped in October at the checklist store in 11 cities, down an average 2.5 per cent. The bill increased in only two cities — Los Angeles and Providence, R.I. — with an average rise of 1.9 per cent. Overall, the marketbasket bill at the checklist store decreased 1.8 per cent last month.

The picture contrasted with what happened in September when the marketbasket bill increased at the checklist store in nine cities, for an overall boost of 2 per cent.

Comparing prices at the start of November with those a year earlier, the AP found the marketbasket bill was up at the checklist store in nine cities and down in four, with an overall rise of 2 per cent.

The AP survey covered both food and nonfood items, but seemed to indicate that price increases are in line with government predictions that food costs alone will rise 3 to 4 per cent this year.

Not all the news was good. Coffee drinkers — whether they take it black or with milk — paid higher prices.

The cost of a pound of coffee went up at the checklist store during October in six cities, with increases ranging from five to 19 per cent. The price of coffee was unchanged in four cities and decreased in two. The requested size and brand of coffee was not available at the checklist store in the 13th city.

The coffee price increases were the latest in a series of boosts blamed on a frost in Brazil last summer. Coffee processors have been increasing wholesale prices ever since the news of the frost and the boosts started filtering through to consumers earlier this year.

Milk price increases also stemmed from boosts at the wholesale level. The price of a quart of whole milk increased during October at the checklist store in eight cities and was unchanged in five. Last month, milk went up at the checklist store in nine cities.

On the bright side, pork prices continued to decline, dropping in eight cities, with several special sales that cut the per-pound price by up to $1. Butter prices, which had been rising steadily for several months, also decreased.

The price of a pound of butter declined at the checklist store in eight cities. The price increased in only one city — Los Angeles — and the rise was a small one, from $1.14 to $1.16 a pound. Butter prices were unchanged at the checklist store in four cities.

Beef prices remained fairly steady or decreased in most areas, but the government has said the good news won't last. Retail beef prices are expected to increase again this winter, although there will be no sharp jumps before the spring.

The reason for the expected increase is a decline in the number of cattle now in feedlots being fattened for market. On Oct. 1, there were 25 per cent fewer cattle being fed on grain than there were on Jan. 1. The statistics also show that in the third quarter of 1976, marketings exceeded placements by 9 per cent. That means that the number of grain-fed animals being sold for slaughter was greater than the number of young cows and calves being sent to feedlots.

The cattlemen have been complaining that they are losing money because large supplies drove down prices. They also claimed that retailers were not passing on all of the savings to consumers.

A look at the over-all number of items in the AP survey showed about fewer increases during October than in September. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

	Sep.	Oct.
Up	30.3	25.6
Down	22.6	21.5
Unchanged	44.6	50.3
Unavailable	2.5	2.6

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what per cent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

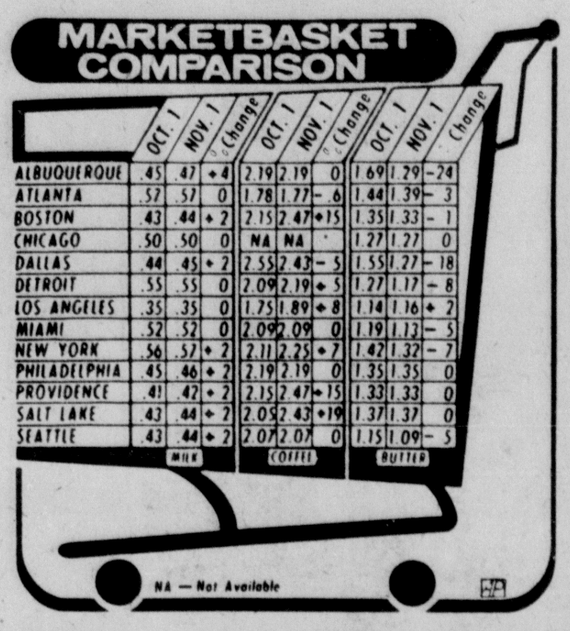
The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not attempt to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that cookies cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 per cent in one city and 6 per cent in another.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. It includes 65 retail items of U.S. farm-produced foods in amounts that theoretically could supply a household of 3.2 persons for one year. The department, which draws on information from 1,500 supermarkets in compiling its report, says the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in costs.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.



Record heat

The highest recorded temperature in the world, 136.4 degrees, was recorded in 1922 in Azizia, Libya.

Thailand military tough on Vietnamese

NONG KHAI, Thailand (AP) — The new martial law regime is cracking down on the large Vietnamese community in Thailand. It claims the actions are designed to control areas of potential Communist subversion.

"It looks like we Vietnamese will have no more freedom in this country," said one of the nearly 100 Vietnamese arrested in Nong Khai. "The government is getting tougher and tougher on us."

Police here say they have seized about 3,000 documents they describe as Communist in nature, pictures of the late President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam and private correspondence between Vietnamese in Thailand and Vietnam.

Nong Khai, a town of about 50,000 people, is stirring with border patrol police, special forces units and troops of the Thai army's 3rd division. Searches of Vietnamese homes are every day occurrences.

With more than 4,000 to 5,000 old-time Vietnamese residents and 16,000 refugees from Communist-governed Laos across the Mekong River from here, the area is considered by Thai authorities a potential hotbed of Communist subversion.

There is another reason for increased police and army surveillance in Nong Khai, a Mekong River crossing point into Laos. The provincial governor says that more than 300 leftist Thai students, politicians and Vietnamese subversives have fled to Laos since the military took power in Thailand in a coup Oct. 6.

Some Thais and Vietnamese confided that a few of their friends either had swum the half-mile-wide Mekong or crossed the swift currents in small boats since the military seized power and began a sweep of what it considers potential subversives.

"I was sitting in my house. Suddenly three policemen came in and began searching through every room," said the Vietnamese prisoner, Tran Van Linh, in an interview in jail. "They took portraits of Ho Chi Minh from the wall and private correspondence with friends of mine in Hanoi. Of course I have friends in Vietnam, but I'm not a subversive."

Linh, a merchant who has lived in Thailand for 19 years, said he is ready to return to Vietnam if Hanoi and Bangkok reached an agreement.

Thailand's Vietnamese minority, living chiefly in the northeast and numbering some 60,000, has been a source of tension between Vietnam and Thailand since the early 1950s, when thousands fled their homeland in the wake of the French-Indochina war.

Numerous efforts at repatriation have proved fruitless. With the growth of Thailand's Communist insurgency, the economically influential Vietnamese community has been regarded by many as a breeding ground for guerrillas and a channel for Hanoi's support of the rebellion.

One of the first announcements of the new government was to accuse "Vietnamese Communists" of agitating student demonstrations in Bangkok which led to bloody street

Official Vietnamese media responded with propaganda blasts at Bangkok, accusing the new regime of persecuting the Vietnamese minority.

Opinions vary whether the anti-Vietnamese mood will escalate into real persecutions. Some knowledgeable observers say the leaders in Bangkok know that violence against the Vietnamese could bring a confrontation with Hanoi, something Thailand wishes to avoid. There also are indications that some of the tough talk and police actions are designed partly for "home consumption."

Linh and others protest that hanging up portraits of Ho Chi Minh shows only respect for the man and not an allegiance to Communism.

There is also fear among the Vietnamese that their considerable economic power in northeastern Thailand could be shattered by the military regime. The community, which includes large numbers of merchants and shopkeepers, controls much of the movement, distribution and pricing of food and other commodities in many areas.

In the past, most Vietnamese were little inclined to return home. This could change, or Laos might become a haven.

One international refugee official recently remarked, "Soon we may be taking care of both refugees from Laotian communism in Thailand and refugees from the Thai military in Laos."

Fire in closet near chief's office

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A woman employe thought she smelled smoke when she walked by a closet outside Fire Chief Marvin Drake's office. She opened the closet door and smoke poured out.

"Fire!" she screamed.

Drake and another department employe quickly found the problem: an overheated amplifier on fire radio equipment in the closet.

They carried the apparatus to an open window and let it cool off.

It happened during fire prevention week.

Black degree

Gondolas once glided along the canals of Venice in colorful trappings as nobles vied in display. But edicts in 1562 and later decreed: "Henceforth one color for all," and to this day the craft cruise unadorned, hulls painted black.

Acupuncture for sterility:

It's no bull, but pins treating old No. 154 to new pregnancy

By LYNDA FILLMORE
Associated Press Writer

CITY OF INDUSTRY, Calif. (AP) — Forget that smug old service bull, placidly chewing grass out in Alta-Dena Dairy pastureland.

It's Rob Elson's injured ankle that gets credit for making Cow No. 154, previously sterile, pregnant.

Two years ago, Rob, a former running back at Corona del Mar High School, suffered severe pain in one of his ankles every time he did any brokenfield running. Normal treatments didn't help and doctors ruled out surgery.

As a last resort, the youth went to UCLA's Acupuncture Research Clinic and started taking twice-weekly treatments at $25 a shot. After five treatments, he came home and told his veterinarian father that the ankle no longer hurt.

Dr. Berton E. Elson immediately signed up for a continuing education course at UCLA in veterinary acupuncture, and later for another one at the National Association for Veterinary Acupuncture in Anaheim.

Today, Elson, 61, says he is the only veterinarian in the country using acupuncture to treat cows for sterility. So far, he says, he's had good success.

"Dairy cows," said Elson, "have a tendency to become sterile because of lack of exercise."

This creates problems for multi-million-dollar dairies such as Alta-Dena. Cows without calfs give much less milk than pregnant ones, so dairies prefer to keep their cows with calf for one nine-month gestation period out of every year, if possible.

"The milk production of a cow without a calf tapers off from the optimum 6-to-10 tons per year and she becomes just a hayburner," said Elson, Alta-Dena's chief veterinarian. "Eats almost 1,000 pounds of hay a month and hay costs almost $100 a ton."

Elson began sticking needles in sterile cows.

He said that he inserts the needles almost an inch into the upper part of what's called the bladder meridian of a sterile cow, which runs from the front of the face along the spinal cord and down the rear leg. He then gently twists the needle and leaves it in about 10 minutes.

"The cow doesn't feel a thing," Elson claimed. "And that's where my books tell me to treat sterility."

Elson first tried his acupuncture method on a cow last March and she conceived — via the normal dairy method of artificial insemination — the following month.

"Cows, like humans — like the earth — have meridians," he says. "Meridians are — how should I say it — pathways of energy. It has to do with autonomic nerves. Heck, why does your heart beat? I can't explain it — all I can do is say it works.

"I guarantee it doesn't hurt the cow," he adds with a laugh. "Some of my best friends are cows and I wouldn't hurt any of them..."

The veterinarian glanced at Cow No. 176 and explained that she had dislocated her left femur, or thigh bone, and that he was contemplating treating it by acupuncture. He has never before used the ancient Chinese art for treating anything but bovine sterility.

"Face it," he said. "She's probably headed for where all good cows eventually go. You just can't be bothered wasting time and money on a dairy cow. If it was a $30,000 racehorse, you'd try X-rays or traction."

Probe for power to focus on hydrogen

By Alton Blakeslee
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — John H. Perry, Jr. is an inventor who developed a small fleet of two-man and four-man submarines now helping to draw oil from beneath ocean floors. Now he has turned his attention to another source of fuel.

The little subs can make onsite inspections of drilling equipment thrusting into hidden pools of oil. They can send out divers to work on pipelines, join parts together, or perform other tasks. Some now are at work in the North Sea.

But one day all the oil in the world will run out. So, in time, will the coal.

People will need other sources of energy to run their machines and factories, light and heat their homes, help grow their food, propel their trains and cars and airplanes and buses.

Such alternate sources may be developed long before the end of the coal and oil and natural gas. The sun is one such potential source. So is wind power. And nuclear energy. And a scheme to tap energy from temperature differences in ocean water.

And another is simple hydrogen, the lightest of all the chemical elements, and one of the most abundant To Perry, it now is one of the most inviting candidates for energy.

Hydrogen can be produced from water, by an electrical process that separates the hydrogen (two atoms) from oxygen (one atom) in the water molecule of H2-0. And water covers 70 per cent of all the earth's surface.

Hydrogen burns to provide heat or energy with no residue of pollutants, unlike coal or oil, and can produce energy at higher efficiency.

The federal Energy Research and Development Administration is sponsoring wide research into hydrogen energy. Perry is one of many researchers looking into applications and techniques on his own.

In one such beginning step, Perry says Perry Oceanographics, Inc., of Riviera Beach, Fla., and Hydrogen Research, Inc., of Stillwater Okla., have used hydrogen gas to operate a diesel engine under high compression, at an efficiency 50 to 100 per cent higher than that achieved with diesel fuel.

"The engine complements our work toward developing a hydrogen economy — which in effect means a renewable, nonpolluting energy system," Perry says. "It opens options to using hydrogen for power, while the oxygen from electrolysis can be used as a life support medium in our submarines and diving chambers."

The new tests used an aircooled, single cylinder diesel which is part of an engine-generator set that can deliver 2.5 kilowatts of electricity. Hydrogen Research, Inc., used its patented direct cylinder injection process to convert the stock diesel engine to burn hydrogen gas.

Perry plans to use it on a 600-acre island in the Bahamas in further development of the "hydrogen economy."

Peso devaluation hurts cities along the border

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Two peso devaluations in the midst of Mexico's worst monetary crisis in decades have brought deep hardship to an estimated 10 million Americans and Mexicans who live and trade on both sides of the border.

Official figures show retail sales from Brownsville and Matamorros to Chula Vista and Tijuana have dropped 5 to 26 per cent, depending on the area. Merchants in dozens of border communities in Mexico and the United States either went broke or are about to fold. Enrique Moreno Alvarez, general manager of the Ciudad Juarez Chamber of Commerce, predicts unemployment here will rise another 25-30 per cent if remedies are not found. Presently one of every five of this city's 100,000-member labor force is out of work.

Since Aug. 31, President Luis Echeverria's administration has been forced to devalue the peso 100 per cent from 12.50 to 25 to $1 in an attempt to halt the flight of capital.

About the only thing the devaluations did was to break a huge smuggling industry from the United States to Mexico, estimated by Mexican banking sources at $1 billion to $3

The negative effects all along the 1,966-mile border are so acute that President Ford last week promised federal assistance to 36 counties on the U.S. side. Ford told reporters on the campaign trail in San Diego, Calif., last Monday that he is moving to designate the counties in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas as the Southwest border Economic Region — a move that merchants catering to the Mexican trade have been demanding for weeks.

For many years, Mexicans shopped American because the goods were cheaper and better. The devaluations suddenly reversed that, making American goods twice as expensive for the peso-earning Mexican and many Mexican goods twice as cheap for American visitors with dollars to spend.

This killed smuggling but also the daily shopping that hundreds of thousands of Mexicans did legally in the United States. Now hundreds of thousands of Americans cross the border daily to take advantage of the lower prices in Mexico. They go to get a haircut, to the beauty parlor, to get their dental work done, buy eyeglasses, beef, cooking oil, sugar, some types of canned goods, rum and tequila.

But Mexican community leaders claim the influx of American shoppers is not enough to offset the depression brought by the devaluations Aug. 31 and last Wednesday.

They say many Mexican merchants with dollar debts and Mexican currency income are going broke, and point out that since goods are cheap in dollar terms they do not bring in enough dollars to compensate.

A typical example of how the devaluation hit people is El Paso, a city of nearly half a million with an economy closely tied to Ciudad Juarez. About a million Mexicans used to do a fifth of their shopping in El Paso, mostly for furniture, home appliances, TV and radio sets, automobiles, clothing, toys, milk and groceries. Much of it was done through dollar instalment plans.

"Now we don't go anymore," said Rosalia Hernandez, a Ciudad Juarez divorcee. "It's twice as expensive, even though Mexican goods have also gone up in price but not as much. My teenage son and I used to go on weekends and have dinner and see a movie too."

The El Paso Chamber of Commerce reported a 5 per cent drop in retail sales after the first devaluation — a loss to merchants of $5 million a month out of $100 million average. But firms catering to the Mexican trade lost 60 to 90 per cent, it said. The chamber doesn't have figures on how much sales dropped since the second devaluation.

"But no doubt about it, it has dropped," says the chamber's general manager, Mark T. Miles.

El Paso's Plaza Hotel reported bookings down by more than a third. An Italian restaurant across the street said its business dropped more than 40 per cent. Herbert Schartz of the Popular, a three-outlet department store, said sales are down 18 to 25 per cent. Working hours were reduced and overtime was cut after the first devaluation.

The number of persons crossing the Rio Grande from Ciudad Juarez to El Paso dropped 50 per cent to a million in September, while crossings the other way increased 30 to 40 per cent, according to the local Mexican tourism director, Jose Quevedo Treviso. But Moreno Alvarez says the money tourists and American shoppers are spending is not half enough to cover losses suffered by Ciudad Juarez merchants as the result of the devaluations.

Stores are reporting sales are up 40 to 50 per cent but many still have dollar debts to pay for their American merchandise. In addition they have new salary increases and higher costs to meet.

"The first devaluation — although it shook us like nothing before — was probably beneficial," said one of the score or so of merchants who went out of business here. "The second just sent us under."

"For a whole year Juarez banks fearing devaluation refused people credits in pesos," Moreno Alvarez said. "They made only dollar loans."

"When the devaluation hit, a lot of merchants who had sold only in pesos and many on instalment got caught with terrible debts in dollars. Others sold in dollars, but customers now just cannot meet their monthly payments."

The average monthly wage in Ciudad Juarez is 4,000 pesos, which was the equivalent of $320 before the first devaluation, and $245 after it. With last Wednesday's devaluation, it dwindled to $160.

"It's the same all along the border, more or less," Moreno Alvarez said.

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 3, the 308th day of 1976. There are 58 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal got a vote of confidence at the polls. Republican presidential candidate Alf Landon carried only Maine and Vermont.

On this date —

In 561, Julian became Emperor of Rome on the death of Emperor Constantine.

In 1796, John Adams was elected the second President of the United States.

In 1868, the Republican candidate for President, General Ulysses S. Grant, was elected over Horatio Seymour.

In 1903, the Republic of Panama was proclaimed.

In 1964, President Lyndon B. Johnson swamped Republican Barry Goldwater in a presidential election.

In 1970, a Marxist, Salvador Allende, became president of Chile.

Ten years ago: The United Nations Command in South Korea charged that a North Korean "killer group" had murdered and mutilated six Americans in an ambush near the truce line.

Five years ago: Roman Catholic bishops meeting in Rome overwhelmingly upheld the Church rule that priests could not be permitted to marry and remain in the ministry.

One year ago: President Ford named Donald Rumsfeld as Secretary of Defense, Elliot Richardson as Secretary of Commerce and George Bush as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Senator Russell Long of Louisiana is 58. Former French Culture Minister Andre Malraux is 75.

Thought for today: You know how it is in an election year. They pick a President and then for four years they pick on him. — Adlai Stevenson, 1900-1965.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, General George Washington, facing British forces north of New York City, issued stern orders against American army desertions, which had become widespread.

Deviled Ham Frittata wizardry conjures snacks

Progress Bulletin
Food
Pomona, California ■ Wednesday, November 3, 1976

One of the trickiest situations in your busy fall schedule is that occasion when you and your guests arrive home at the same time. Returning from a long day spent working on a political campaign, a late night movie or that important football game, you all squeeze through the front door together. If you are groping for elegant but relatively effortless food ideas, don't fret! Dazzle your guests with a last minute wizardry of these mouth-watering snacks. They are very simple to prepare, requiring about 15-20 minutes from start to finish. And they make imaginative use of many ingredients a good cook keeps handy-eggs, cheese, onions, and convenient canned meat spreads.

Don't be afraid to tackle an omelet in front of guests. Try this version of a classic Italian dish, Deviled Ham Frittata. It's a scrumptious, thick omelet that literally cooks itself. No delicate folding is required-a last five minutes in the oven sets the eggs. This fluffy mixture is seasoned with onion, green pepper, Mozzarella cheese and spoonfuls of deviled ham. The lovely thing about omelets is that last minute additions of whatever you may have on hand serves to make them that much more creative! Add a tossed salad with a wine vinegar dressing and crusty Italian bread (a loaf kept in the freezer will defrost deliciously in the oven in a few minutes). Suddenly, you have a fancy late-night supper with a minimum of fuss.

On a more casual note, try Hot Chicken-Berry Wiches. Spread one slice of bread with a crunchy filling of chopped celery, walnuts and chunky chicken spread and the other with whole cranberry sauce. Put together and dip the whole thing in an egg mixture. Grill for a flavorful French toast finish. Or surprise guests with the hearty taste of Beef 'n Cheese Biscuits. Hot baked biscuits (the refrigerator type) are split and filled with sliced tomato and roast beef spread, then sauced with Cheddar cheese soup.

DEVILED HAM FRITTATA

6 eggs
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (4½ ounces) deviled ham
½ cup grated Mozzarella cheese

Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. In a bowl, beat together eggs and milk. Stir in onion and green pepper. Melt butter in an 8-inch skillet over low heat. Tilt pan to coat bottom and sides evenly. Pour in egg mixture. Drop deviled ham by teaspoonfuls into egg mixture. Cook 10 minutes. Sprinkle cheese on top and place in oven 4-5 minutes until cheese is melted and egg mixture is set.

Makes: 4-6 servings.

HOT CHICKEN BERRY WICHES

1 can (4¾ ounces) chunky chicken spread
2 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped walnuts
8 slices white bread
1 can (8 ounces) whole berry cranberry sauce
2 beaten eggs
3 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

In a bowl, mix together chicken spread, celery, onion and walnuts. Spread evenly on four slices bread. Spread cranberry sauce on four remaining slices bread and close sandwiches fitting sides together. In a shallow bowl beat eggs and milk together. In a skillet, melt butter over medium high heat. Dip sandwiches in egg mixture. Brown 6-8 minutes turning once.

Makes: 4 sandwiches.

BEEF 'N CHEESE BISCUITS

1 package (10 ounces) refrigerated buttermilk biscuits
2 cans (4¾ ounces each) roast beef spread
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
10 slices tomato
1 can (11 ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
1/3 cup milk

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Bake biscuits according to package directions. Meanwhile in a bowl, mix together roast beef spread, onion and green pepper. Split hot biscuits in half horizontally. Place a slice of tomato on each bottom half. Spread with roast beef mixture. Place in oven for 5 minutes. In a saucepan, mix together soup and milk. Heat 5 minutes. Pour over sandwiches.

Makes: 10 sandwiches.

Turkey roast mapped

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Turkey for Thanksgiving has been a favorite of Americans since the Colonials first savored the native wild turkey 200 years ago. This is one tradition that stirs memories in those of all ages. There is nothing like the impatient waiting as the head of the household skillfully carves slice after slice from the handsomely browned bird. Soon the plates are heaped with Thanksgiving specialties — perhaps a favorite family stuffing or a variation combining dry bread cubes, coarse corn bread crumbs, raisins and ham. A quick gravy made from the drippings and browned bits in the roasting pan tops off the biscuits and whipped potatoes.

In saucepan, brown ham and cook onion with poultry seasoning and sage in butter until onion is tender. Add one-half cup gravy. Toss lightly with bread cubes, corn bread crumbs, egg and raisins. Fill body and neck cavities of turkey with stuffing; secure with skewers. Fasten legs by tying with string. Tuck wings behind shoulders. Place in roasting pan, cover loosely with foil. Roast at 325 degrees for about 4 hours (25 minutes per pound or until internal temperature reaches 185 degrees and leg moves easily). Uncover last hour to brown. Baste occasionally. Remove turkey from pan. Spoon off fat, saving 6 tablespoons drippings. On top of range, in roasting pan, combine remaining gravy and drippings. Heat, stirring to loosen browned bits. Serve with turkey and stuffing. Makes 8 to 10 servings, about 2 cups gravy.

In saucepan, cook celery and onion with allspice in butter until tender. Blend in cornstarch, cocktail vegetable juice, water and marmalade. Cook, stirring until thickened. Add carrots; heat. Makes about two and one-half cups, 4 servings.

Cookies

Crisp, colorful autumn weather perks up appetites — especially after school. Keep the cookie jar filled, and let the kids help themselves. Make the batter before time and let the children help with the baking, or let them mix up a quick and easy bar cookie in a matter of minutes.

Cranberry mincemeat cake tasteful creation

With fresh cranberries crimson-ripe and abundant, it is timely indeed to consider the variety of ways one can preserve this piquant fruit so that you and your family may have the pleasures of its unique flavor for months to come. Beyond that, homemade preserves make splendidly thoughtful gifts at holiday time. So don't wait, preserve those berries now!

Here are a number of ideas for preserving cranberries. All are easy to do, and each will carry that special, country kitchen goodness that only can be created at home. Everyone will be worthy for you to boast about. And, if you do give some as presents, wrap them gaily and attach your "secret" recipe along with your season's greetings. They'll be doubly appreciated by the recipients.

"Cranberry Mincemeat Cake" is a decidedly tasteful creation made in a mold. The ingredients combine quickly and baking time takes only an hour. After it's cooled simply wrap well and store in a cool, dry place. The flavor essence of this cake mellows with aging, and will be simply delicious when you're ready to serve it.

The delights of old-fashioned cooking know-how are truly found in "Mini Berry Steamed Puddings." Rather than one large pudding, these are made in individual cup size molds and then steam baked. Bake a quantity, and serve some to your family that evening. The remainder can be wrapped and placed in your freezer. Whenever you plan to serve them again, simply thaw and steam for thirty minutes. As with the cake, these are even more flavorsome when kept in reserve for some time.

Both pretty, pink "Cranberry Hard Sauce" or "Candied Cranberries" are perfect toppings for both the cranberry cake and steamed puddings. It's a snap to prepare the hard sauce days ahead of time by blending confectioners' sugar, butter, rum flavoring and fresh cranberries. Make a large amount and keep it refrigerated. "Candied Cranberries" can also be made ahead of time and reheated.

Sweet 'n tart "Cranberry Fruitful Conserve" is a perfect accompaniment to serve with poultry, game hens, duckling, spareribs, pork and lamb. It's a marvelous mix of fresh cranberries, apricots, figs, lemon, orange, raisins, sugar, cinnamon and almonds. Fill up as many jars as you can as you are sure to enjoy having this treat on hand even when summer barbecues beckon again.

Delectably spicy, "Pickled Cranberries" will add dash to many a meal. Serve it along with potted, stewed, or roasted beef, steaks, and chops, as well as game and even fish. For a simple sandwich or hamburger lunch, it will bring both color and zest to your menu.

Lastly, "Cranberry Wine Jelly" with its subtly savory taste can be served not only with meats, poultry and game, but will add a flavor highlight to many a breakfast and brunch when topped on toast, muffins, pancakes and such.

The pleasures of preserving as you see are certainly many, but perhaps most of all is that particular sense of accomplishment when one fills their pantry shelves with a variety of good foods produced in their very own kitchen.

CRANBERRY MINCEMEAT CAKE

CRANBERRY MINCEMEAT CAKE

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1½ cups sugar
- 3 eggs
- ¾ cup milk
- 1½ cups prepared mincemeat
- 1½ cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
- 3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt

In a bowl, cream butter until fluffy. Beat in sugar and eggs. Stir in milk, mincemeat and cranberries. Stir in remaining ingredients. Stir until well blended. Spoon dough into a greased and floured 1½ quart mold. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour or 1 hour and 20 minutes, tap to loosen and unmold on a rack. Cool thoroughly. Wrap and store in a cool dry place until needed.

MINI BERRY STEAMED PUDDINGS

- 2 cups ground suet (8 ounces)
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 2 cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
- 3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg
- 2 eggs
- 1½ cups milk
- 1½ cups molasses
- Topped with Hard Sauce or Candied Cranberries for garnish

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl and stir until well blended. Pour mixture into 10 greased individual 1 cup molds. Cover molds with greased foil. Place molds into a large pan and add enough water to the depth of 1 inch. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 to 45 minutes or until firm to the touch in the center. Cool, in pans for 5 minutes. Serve unmolded and hot with Cranberry Hard Sauce spooned over each serving. If desired, keep puddings in molds and freeze covered. When ready to serve, place molds, thawed, covered into a pan with simmering water and simmer for 30 minutes or until hot again.

CRANBERRY HARD SAUCE

- 1 pound confectioners' sugar
- ½ pound sweet butter, softened
- 1 tablespoon rum flavoring
- ½ cup Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, coarsely chopped

In a bowl, mix confectioners' sugar with sweet butter, rum flavoring and cranberries. Chill until ready to serve. May be made several days ahead and refrigerated.

CANDIED CRANBERRIES

- 2 cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Dash of ground cloves

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Spread cranberries in a single layer in a shallow baking pan. Combine sugar and spices; sprinkle mixture evenly over the top of the cranberries. Cover with foil or a lid and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 to 50 minutes. Shake pan occasionally to coat berries in sugar syrup. Chill before serving.

CRANBERRY WINE JELLY

- 2 pounds Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
- 2 cups water
- 2 cups port wine
- 7 cups sugar
- 1 bottle liquid pectin (6 ounces)

In a large saucepan, or Dutch oven mix cranberries and water. Bring to a boil and boil for 10 minutes. Press mixture through a strainer. Replace strained juice in saucepan and stir in wine and sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil. Stir in pectin and bring to a full rolling boil again. Boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon. Pour quickly while hot into sterilized jars. Seal and cool. Store in a cool dry place until needed.

Shrimp cocktail calla romana from Mamma's menu

A Festival of Liqueurs, held at Mamma Leone's, New York's most famous Italian restaurant, marked the recent introduction of two new Italian cordials, Leroux Sambuca and Chocolate Amaretto.

A wide variety of food and drink ranging from pastas to pastries and ice cold aperitivos to hot spiked coffee was offered at tables decorated to resemble the traditional carts and stands of Italian street fairs.

Even if you don't have strolling musicians to entertain your guests, the next time you are planning a special occasion you may care to try some of these recipes, created by Tina Bellusci of Mamma Leone's for the Festival of Luqueurs:

SHRIMP COCKTAIL ALLA ROMANA

3 egg yolks, hard boiled
1 tsp. brown mustard
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. black pepper, freshly ground
½ tsp. paprika
3 tbsp. olive oil
2 tbsp. minced parsley
Juice of 1 lemon
4 tbsp. tomato ketchup
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
3 tbsp. Leroux Sambuca (a liquorice flavor combined with the freshness of elderbush)
2 tbsp. heavy cream
1 head romaine lettuce
1/4 lbs. shrimp, chilled

Mash egg yolks in bowl, add mustard, salt, pepper, paprika, parsley, olive oil and ¼ of the lemon juice. Mix well, then add ketchup, Worcestershire sauce, Leroux Sambuca, heavy cream and the remaining lemon juice. Mix well. Discard outer romaine leaves then wash remaining lettuce, pat dry and use to line serving bowl. Add shrimp and top with sauce.

RAGU ALL'ANICE

Sambuca flavored meat sauce to serve over pasta or rice:

1½ oz. white raisins
½ cup Leroux Sambuca
½ stick salted butter
¼ cup olive oil
1 large onion, minced
1 celery heart, chopped
½ pound ground beef
1 lb. canned, peeled, tomatoes packed in heavy puree
Salt to taste
1 tsp. fennel seeds

Steep raisins in Leroux Sambuca at least 2 hours before using.

Melt butter and oil in large, heavy saucepan. Brown onion and celery, stirring often. Add ground beef and brown. Drain raisins, reserving the Sambuca, then add to beef mixture and cook for 5 minutes. Add tomatoes and puree. Cook until sauce is reduced and the tomatoes look glazed. Add water to saucepan until an inch from the top. Bring to a boil, lower flame, cover and simmer until the water has reduced considerably and the sauce is thick. Add salt and stir. Add Sambuca and fennel seeds. Cook for another 10 minutes, remove from heat and stand ½ hour before serving.

CHOCOLATE ALMOND CREAM

5½ oz. sugar
3¾ oz. almond macarrons, crushed
5½ oz. blanched almonds, chopped
5½ oz. butter, softened at room temperature
1¾ oz. cocoa
4 egg yolks
4 oz. Leroux Chocolate Amaretto (the flavor of freshly ground almonds enhanced with a hint of chocolate)
Grated chocolate, for decoration

Place all ingredients, except the grated chocolate, in an electric blender. Mix at medium speed for two minutes, then at high speed for another 3 or 4 minutes. Distribute equally between four large wine glasses, decorate with grated chocolate and serve.

GIOVANNINO

1/3 heavy cream
1/3 brandy
1/3 Leroux Chocolate Amaretto

Shake with ice, strain and serve in cocktail glass.

NEGRONI AL CIOCCOLATO

1/3 bitter Campari
1/3 vodka
1/3 Leroux Chocolate Amaretto

Pour over ice in tall glass. Fill with soda water and stir. Garnish with ½ slice of orange and serve.

SAMBUCA DORATA

1/3 Leroux Sambuca
2/3 vodka

Pour over ice in tall glass. Fill with chilled grapefruit juice. Stir and serve.

Cranberry mincemeat cake—

Jelly can also be covered with a ¼ inch deep layer of melted paraffin and cooled.

CRANBERRY FRUITFUL CONSERVE

1½ pounds Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
1 pound dried apricots, chopped
1½ pounds figs, chopped
1 package (15 ounces) raisins
1 lemon, chopped
1 orange, chopped
4 cups sugar
6 cups water
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 can (4 ounces) slivered almonds

Combine all ingredients in a large saucepan or Dutch oven and simmer for 20 to 25 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. Spoon while hot into sterilized jars. Seal and cool. Store in a cool dry place. A conserve is a preserve made with the addition of nuts and raisins.

PICKLED CRANBERRIES

2 cinnamon sticks
2 tablespoons whole cloves
2 tablespoons whole allspice
6 cups sugar
3 cups white vinegar
3 cups water
2 pounds fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
1 bag (20 ounces) frozen baby whole onions, thawed

In a large saucepan, or Dutch oven combine cinnamon, cloves, allspice, sugar, vinegar and water and boil for 5 minutes. Layer cranberries and onion in sterilized jars. Fill jars to the top with hot vinegar mixture, adding some of whole spices to each jar. Seal and cool. Store in a cool dry place.

Poultry consumption

Consumers in 1975 spent about five per cent of their total $159 billion food budget ($7.652 billion) on poultry, according to economists in the United States Department of Agriculture.

This was 10 per cent above the $6.945 billion spent on poultry in 1974 and only slightly below the record $7.763 billion expended in 1973.

About four-fifths of the poultry consumed in 1975 was estimated to be broiler-fryer, amounting to some $6.16 billion in sales.

Cheese casseroles highly rated, distinctive flavor

When it comes to convenience, cheese filled oven casseroles are the greatest! For little effort and expense, the busy consumer can turn out entrees that practically make, cook and serve themselves in less than an hour. Distinctive taste and outstanding flavor is assured in main dishes that feature wholesome natural cheeses. Every kind of natural cheese has its own special merits and attractions. In the delicious recipes given here, two or more varieties are used together with doubly delicious results.

Fans of mexican cooking will appreciate a tasty one step casserole that's a snap to mix up. Simply combine canned corn, green chiles and corn meal with dairy sour cream, monterey jack and mozzarella. During baking the diary ingredients melt and blend together adding mellow smoothness to the spicier additions. The other hearty dish is on the italian side. It combines pasta, ground beef, tomatoes, italian seasonings and appropriate cheeses — ricotta, mozzarella and romano. It's practically a whole meal in itself. Simply accompany either of these cheese entrees with salad and bread for a balanced easy do menu.

Natural cheeses make excellent cooking ingredients as well as fabulous slicing and eating cheeses. Note that the cheeses used here are either diced or grated for smooth and easy blending with other ingredients. Besides the jack and italian varieties mentioned above, provolone, parmesan, brie and camembert are also available for your cooking and eating pleasure. All kinds should be kept well wrapped and refrigerated. Except for the soft varieties, cheese should be served at room temperature for fullest flavor. Odds and ends of cheese can be put to good use by grating and storing in a covered jar. Place near the front of the refrigerator as a reminder to use as soon as possible.

SPECIAL MOSTACCIOLI DINNER

½ pound lean ground beef
1 small onion, chopped
1 large clove garlic, minced
1 (1 pound) can stewed tomatoes
1 (6 ounce) can tomato paste
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon fennel seed, crushed
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups mostaccioli
1 cup ricotta cheese
2 cups grated mozzarella cheese (8 ounces)
½ cup grated romano cheese

Saute beef, onion and garlic, stirring often, until browned. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, parsley, oregano, fennel seed, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Simmer uncovered 15 minutes, stirring often. Meanwhile, drop mostaccioli into boiling salted water. Return to boil and cook 9 minutes. Drain. Spoon a little sauce into bottom of wide, shallow 2-quart baking dish to coat lightly. Turn mostaccioli into dish. Top with half of tomato sauce. Dollop with ricotta and half the mozzarella and romano cheeses. Add remaining sauce then remaining cheese. Bake uncovered in 400 degree oven 40 minutes or until hot in center. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CHILI CHEESE AND CORN CASSEROLE

1 (17 ounce) can cream style corn
1 (4 ounce) can diced green chiles
1 (4 ounce) jar diced pimiento, drained
½ cup butter, melted
2 eggs
½ cup yellow corn meal
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 cups diced monterey jack cheese

Combine all ingredients. Turn into buttered shallow 1½ quart baking dish. Bake uncovered in 375 degree oven 40 minutes or until set in center. Makes 4 servings.

Or 1 cup EACH diced monterey jack cheese and mozzarella cheese.

Peanut bundt cake rated high by cooks

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

If you have a bundt cake pan tucked away in a cupboard and use it only with cake mixes, dig it out. Here is a start - from - scratch recipe using wholesome, old-fashioned ingredients such as peanut butter, buttermilk and apple butter.

These ingredients make a moist cake and it requires no frosting. You may dust it with confectioners' sugar for eye-appeal and an added touch of sweetness. This recipe also turns out well when baked in a tube pan.

Another treat to try and one that school children will enjoy is a french toasted peanut butter sandwich. This variation also has sliced fruit as part of the filling. It makes a complete meal when served with milk.

In a bowl mix peanut butter and butter until fluffy. Stir in sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in apple butter and buttermilk. Stir in remaining ingredients. Beat until well blended. Pour mixture into a greased and floured bundt cake pan or 10x4-inch tube pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour and 15 to 20 minutes.

Cool in pan for 5 minutes, tap to loosen and unmold onto a cake rack. Cool thoroughly before slicing. Serve dusted with confectioners' sugar.

Makes one bundt cake or one 10x4-inch tube cake.

Cut bread with a serrated knife into three-fourth-inch thick diagonal slices. Spread half of the slices with peanut butter. Top peanut butter with fruit. Top with remaining bread slices. In a bowl, beat eggs with milk, sugar and vanilla. Dip sandwiches into egg mixture using slotted spoon or spatula. Heat butter and oil in a large skillet or griddle and fry sandwiches until golden brown on both sides. Serve warm. Makes 6 servings.

Canned ham

You'll need to leave a three-pound canned ham in a moderate oven for about an hour if you want to heat it thoroughly.

For work-a-day psyche

Irresistible smell of home baked bread continues to rise

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Baking of breads at home continues on the rise, so to speak. There are many reasons given for this. Recipes are easier and results more reliable. Men, especially, find kneading dough on weekends and presenting something they have created a boost to their work-a-day psyche and control of ingredients used such as whole grain cereals and less sugar and salt interests those into "health" foods and better nutrition.

Overriding all these reasons for baking bread is the basic fact that good, homemade bread wafts an aroma through the kitchen which one never forgets and few persons can resist. As the holidays approach, everyone looks for something special to prepare. Here is a recipe for a marzipan brioche that is as satisfying to make as it is to serve and eat.

In a large bowl thoroughly mix three-fourths cup flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and undissolved active dry yeast.

Combine one-fourth cup milk, water and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120-130 degrees). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover, let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Meanwhile beat together almond paste, one-fourth cup sugar, 1 egg and 1 tablespoon milk; set aside.

Punch dough down, turn out onto lightly floured board. Roll out into 9 by 16-inch rectangle. Cut into 3 strips 16 inches long. Spread almond paste mixture along center of each strip. Roll each up from long side as for jelly roll. Punch seams to seal. Braid rolls together; pinch ends to seal. Place on large greased baking sheet.

Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Beat together egg yolk and 1 tablespoon milk. Brush over braid. Sprinkle with almonds and sugar. Bake at 375 degrees 20 to 25 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheet and cool on wire rack. Makes 1 coffee cake.

Holiday 'Party Starters' classes slated Nov. 9-11

Appetizers and hors d'oeuvers . . . plus eye-dazzling ways to serve them for the holidays will be featured in the eighth annual "Holiday Party Starters" cooking class at Los Angeles based Lawry's California Center on Avenue 26 at San Fernando Road. Two very talented instructors, Ann Lett Graham and Hillary Guild, will unfold their portfolios of truly festive recipes for holiday entertaining in their November class.

The three-hour demonstration will be presented on November 8 at 7:00 p.m., then repeated on November 9 and 10 with sessions offered at 1:00 or 7:00 p.m. and again on November 11 at 1:00 p.m.

After each session, appetizer sampling and wine sipping will be enjoyed in an adjoining courtyard. Fee for class, including sampling, is $8.00 per person.

Worldly and wise is Ann Graham's brand of cooking. She's a native of Czechoslovakia, a graduate of the Cordon Bleu in Paris and former resident of Hong Kong, B.C.C. where she presented television cooking shows and authored many articles on cookery.

Since moving to the U.S., Ann has taught at universities, served as Executive Chef for a large corporation, and is presently serving as Supervisor of Catering for the Sunshine Spirits and Food Co. of Valencia. But Ann's travel bug still persists, and she'll bring to class many new recipes she collected on a recent trip to Europe. Some of these worldly favorites will be Crab Canapes from Austria and Caviar Delight from Russia.

Hillary Guild is an accomplished woman who was Equipment Home Economist for the So. Cal. Edison Co. prior to initiating her own kitchen consulting firm. She also founded The Test Kitchen, which develops and tests recipes for equipment and food accounts. Hillary is a frequent guest lecturer to colleges, civic and professional groups, as well as a popular demonstrator of easy-to-prepare and prepare-ahead foods. Hillary's recipes are geared for the host or hostess who wants to enjoy the party along with the guests. Two of the many recipes she will be sharing are Mushroom Quiche and a Hearty Vegetable Dip and Spread.

A sell-out class every year, the public is urged to enroll early in "Holiday Party Starters." Make check payable and mail to Lawry's Foods, Inc., c/o Public Programs Dept., P.O. Box 2983, Los Angeles 90051. Specify date and class time selected. Class enrollment is limited and confirmed in order of paid reservations received.

Reservation payments refundable until November 5. For further information, telephone (213) 225-2491, ext. 299.

Slim trim baked potatoes make good diet food

Potatoes, when you're on a weight-reducing diet? They're well worth the consideration. Versatile Idaho potatoes can be plenty delicious even without the high-calorie butter or dairy sour cream. Our versions, Slim-Trim Baked Potato Coeur D'Alene have all the flavor goodness a dieter wants with a sensible amount of calories. Just one five-ounce potato, baked in its own skin, costs only 90 calories and in return you get a hearty, satisfying food that's nutritious too.

Start with Idaho potatoes, grown in the state Nature fortified for top quality potato production. The dark, rich volcanic soil, clear mountain streams, pure air and cool nights are the ingredients that go into the cultivation of the world famous Idaho potato, known for its light, mealy texture and distinctive earthy taste.

These two simple dieter's baked potatoes are so delicious you'll be enjoying them long after the scale stops at the weight you want to be. The flavor secrets are in the toppings. Slim-Trim Baked Potatoes at 180 calories per serving, are topped with a seasoned, tomato, onion and vegetable mixture that can be made while potatoes are baking. And Baked Potato Coeur D'Alene, with a creamy, rich tasting topping that's simply whirred in an electric blender, will have even non-dieters raving over the snappy blue cheese taste. It's a flavor feast at a mere 125 calories per serving.

Dieting or not, take advantage of the good supplies of fresh Idaho potatoes in your market now. They're easy to prepare, easy to serve, and welcome by most everybody.

SLIM-TRIM BAKED POTATOES

4 Idaho potatoes
1 teaspoon butter or margarine
1 cup chopped peeled tomato
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dried leaf oregano
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Scrub potatoes, dry and prick with a fork. Bake in 425 degree F. oven 55 to 65 minutes, until soft. While potatoes are baking, melt butter in a small saucepan, add onion and cook until tender. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 10 minutes. Keep warm until potatoes are cooked. When potatoes are cooked, remove from oven and cut an "X" in the top with a fork. Then push some of the potato up with slight pressure of the fingers on the side of the potato. Spoon 2 tablespoons topping over each potato.

YIELD: 4 servings. 108 calories per serving, 18 calories for topping.

BAKED POTATO COEUR D'ALENE

4 Idaho potatoes
½ cup creamed cottage cheese
1½ teaspoons blue cheese
1½ teaspoons chopped parsley
1½ teaspoons chopped chives
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Scrub potatoes, dry and prick with a fork. Bake in 425 degree F. oven 55 to 65 minutes, until soft. While potatoes are baking, place remaining ingredients in container of electric blender. Cover and process until smooth. When potatoes are cooked, remove from oven and cut an "X" in the top with a fork. Then push some of the potato up with slight pressure of the fingers on the side of the potato. Spoon 2 tablespoons topping over each potato.

YIELD: 4 servings. 125 calories per serving, 35 calories for topping.

Instant soup to debut

The Nestle Company, Inc. announces its entry into the instant soup market by introducing Souptime, a ten second instant soup. Nestle's Souptime is a full-flavored instant soup containing unique home style soupstock. The soupstock brings out the true flavor of all the meat and vegetable ingredients which one will taste in Souptime.

Nestle's Souptime flavors are Chicken Noodle, Beef Noodle, Cream of Chicken, Cream of Mushroom, Tomato, Green Pea and French Onion. As an instant soup, the seven flavors of Souptime will be available in distinctive flip-top box containing one 6 oz. serving. Each package shows a different person enjoying Souptime, and the reverse side shows a picture of the soup itself.

Prune the Pie

Apples in the fall means pies! There's nothing quite the same as the fragrance of an apple pie fresh from the oven. Add a special treat to your next deep-dish apple pie. Sprinkle snippets of sun-sweetened prunes over the top of the apples; then, season and bake as usual. The naturally sweet flavor and moistness of the prunes combines so well with the tangy apples and spices.

Because of the special process which results in Nestle's unique home style soupstock, each package carries a patent number. Souptime mixes quickly and completely so that the flavor does not get lost in the bottom of the cup.

Souptime flavors are excellent as cooking ingredients. Inside each of the seven packages is one of the 21 recipes utilizing Souptime. In addition, Cream of Chicken, Cream of Mushroom and French Onion have recipes for gravy, sauces and dips on the reverse side of the package.

Souptime is now available in the soup section of local food stores.

Eight varieties of English cheese imported locally

The English have never been modest about their cheese. And they can't keep such a good thing to themselves. Therefore, here in Southern California, we're now importing eight varieties of some of the world's finest cheeses from England.

They are by name (Farmer's Wife) Caerphilly, Cheshire, Derby, Double Gloucester, Lancashire, Leicester, Stilton and Wensleydale.

There are other varieties, but these are the most representative. The English cheese family goes back to the 12 century. And the various cheeses have developed individual characters as traditional.

All of these new English cheese varieties may be found in the cheese section of delicatessen cases in the markets that handle them as well as the service delicatessen department in those markets that have such a feature. There is one exception, the Stilton cheese, which comes only in seven pound wheels and cut to order only in service delicatessens. All of the other cheeses are hygenically vacuum packaged in smaller bricks.

All the cheeses described are natural cheeses and made from cow's milk.

CAERPHILLY: Not actually an English cheese, as any loyal Welshman will tell you, gentle Caerphilly was born in the little Glamorgan village that gives it its name. Originally a miner's cheese, taken down to the coalface by pitmen and enjoyed for its moistness, Caerphilly is now produced in many neighboring English counties. Creamy and white, Caerphilly has a mild, delicate falvor, especially popular with children, excellent for sandwiches, good with wine and beer, makes a delicate fondue and a fine celery stuffing.

CHESHIRE: Renowned as the oldest of English cheeses, Cheshire was first produced in the 12th century and found favor under Elizabeth Tudor. Its mild, salty flavor is said to derive from the salty deposits in the Cheshire pastures. This mellow, crumbly, open textured cheese may be enjoyed in cooking such as in Welsh rarebit. It is also delicious as snacks and with beer or wine.

DERBY: They breed a stalwart, close knit rather secretive people in Derbyshire and, not surprisingly, Derby cheese has the same qualities. With a pale honey color, Derby starts life mild, but develops a distinctive, rich flavor when mature, that can only be described as delicious. Like all English cheeses, Derby was for centuries a farmhouse product. But, when cheese was produced on a larger scale, more than a century ago, the first English cheesemaking plant was established at Derby. Its yellow body is mild and pleasant, especially good as a dessert when served with wine and fruit. Also excellent for salads and snacks.

DOUBLE GLOUCESTER: A close relative of Cheddar, but with a slightly sharper flavor Double Gloucester is a smooth, velvety, mature cheese. It used to be garlanded with flowers and carried in May Day festivities in Gloucestershire. The famous essayist, Charles Lamb, considered it without rival as a supper cheese. A gorgeous harvest gold in color, Double Gloucester combines well with beer, or surprisingly, as well with fresh fruit salad or fruit pies.

LANCASHIRE: Unique among English cheese, with its soft texture, Lancashire is a mild cheese when young, but a full flavor develops as it matures. Splendid with crackers or biscuits or for topping soups, Lancashire, because of its consistency, proves an ideal cheese for toasting. Its flavor is similar to Cheddar, but it has a white body and stronger flavor. Excellent for sauces, rerebits, spreading for canapes or sandwiches.

LEICESTER: When young Leicester has an exceptionally light, flaky texture. When you prepare a cheese board, be sure and include Leicester with its handsome russet coloring. You'll find Leicester tastes as good as it looks. With its mild, mellow flavor, Leicester makes the perfect dessert cheese. It melts well, so try it in sauces, rerebits and other cooking.

STILTON: Not without good reason is Stilton renowned as the King of cheese. This connoisseur's cheese, with its close texture, blue veins and rich tangy flavor, has perhaps been more praised than any other English cheese. It comes from the area around Melton Mowbray, where even experts confess it is not easy to make. You'll find though that this blue cheese is only too easy to enjoy! It took its name from the Bell Inn in Stilton in Huntingdonshire in the early 1800's. Serve on crackers with Port.

WENSLEYDALE: The monks of Jervaulx Abbey in Yorkshire long ago invented the recipe for Wensleydale. After persecution, they fled, leaving the precious recipe in the hands of the local farmer's wives. This creamy cheese, of pale parchment color, has a flaky texture and a most subtle nippy flavor. It leaves a delicious honeyed after-taste redolent of the lush pastureland that produces it. Wensleydale is a great favorite of Northerners in England, who love it with apple pie. An ideal dessert cheese with fruit, delicious as an appetizer with beverages.

FAMILY DINNER
Barbecued Brisket
Noodles Green Beans
Fruit Salad Beverage

BARBECUED BRISKET

3½ pound boneless lean beef brisket, thick cut
½ cup catchup
½ cup water
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1½ teaspoons bottled white horseradish
1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Place beef, fat side up, in a heavy 4-quart casserole. Stir together the remaining ingredients and pour over beef. Bake in a 300-degree oven, tightly covered, until tender — 3 to 3½ hours. Chill beef and sauce separately. Thinly slice as much of the beef as you want to serve. Remove hardened fat from sauce. Heat sliced beef in a generous amount of the sauce.

COMPANY SUPPER
Fish a la King
Rice Bacon Sprouts
Apple Pie with Cheese

BACON SPROUTS

Interesting and unusual.

8 or 10-ounce package frozen Brussels sprouts
Bacon

Cook sprouts according to package directions; drain. Wrap a piece of bacon (½ of a slice cut crosswise) around each sprout; fasten each with a toothpick. Arrange on a rack in a broiler pan and broil about 4 inches from high heat, turning once, until bacon is cooked — about 4 minutes on each side. Remove picks. (Cut any very large sprouts in half lengthwise before wrapping). Makes 1 dozen or more.

FAMILY DINNER
Fish Steaks Potatoes
Peas and Carrots
Brown Rice Pudding

BROWN RICE PUDDING

My sister Phyllis' version of a creamy dessert.

½ cup brown rice
1 quart milk
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

In the top of a double boiler, over boiling water that is replenished as necessary, cook together all the ingredients until rice is tender and milk is almost absorbed — 2½ to 3 hours. Serve hot or at room temperature. Makes 6 servings.

SURPRISE

New Orleans star Pete Maravich appears startled to come up with the ball between Boston's Jo Jo White (10) and Charlie Scott as Jazz won, 115-97, in Superdome Tuesday.

Oakland A's ready for self-destruction

NEW YORK (AP) — The Oakland A's, winners of consecutive world championships in 1972, 1973 and 1974 and five straight American League West Division titles from 1971-1975, are about to self-destruct.

The process will take place Thursday when 24 players who won free-agent status by playing the 1976 season without signed contracts will be selected in baseball's first re-entry draft.

Eight of them come from Oakland, and six of those eight—catcher Gene Tenace, outfielders Joe Rudi and Don Baylor, infielders Sal Bando and Bert Campaneris, and relief pitcher Rollie Fingers— form the heart and soul of the A's. All are expected to be chosen early and often in the draft.

The other two Oakland free agents are veteran first basemen Nate Colbert and Willie McCovey, who figure to be in somewhat less demand.

The Oakland eight form the largest single club contribution to the draft pool. Baltimore has four players available and three of them—slugging outfielder Reggie Jackson, second baseman Bobby Grich and 20-game winner Wayne Garland— are among the top names. The other available Oriole is minor league outfielder Royle Stillman.

Also up for grabs are the opposing starting pitchers in the opening game of the 1976 World Series—Don Gullett of the Cincinnati Reds and Doyle Alexander of the New York Yankees.

Others on the list of eligibles are regulars like Pittsburgh third baseman Richie Hebner, outfielder Gary Matthews of San Francisco, second baseman Dave Cash of Philadelphia, and second baseman Tito Fuentes of San Diego. Starter Steve Stone of the Chicago Cubs and relief ace Bill Campbell of the Minnesota Twins complete the list of pitchers available.

The Twins also have infielder Eric Soderholm in the pool. California has contributed three minor league infielders—Billy Smith, Tim Nordbrook and Paul Dade.

Each player may be drafted by 12 teams. His old team then would join that dozen to negotiate with him. Jackson is expected to carry the biggest price but some of the others, including Rudi, Fingers, Gullett and Grich, should bring bids close to the top figure.

The re-entry draft will last a maximum of 12 rounds. Then National League clubs will begin pursuit of the free agent picks. Meanwhile, the American League teams will spend another day in town, conducting the expansion draft to stock the new Toronto and Seattle franchises.

The expansion draft will supply each of the new teams with 30 players, each carrying a price tag of $175,000. That's considerably less than the free agents will cost, but the talent available in this draft is not as awesome as the re-entry superstars.

Each of the 12 AL teams has been allowed to protect 15 players from Seattle and Toronto. The balance of their 40-man rosters plus most minor leaguers under control of the major league teams are eligible. The exceptions are minor leaguers who signed their first professional contracts in either 1975 or 1976.

Seattle has the opening selection in the first and third rounds and Toronto gets the first pick in the second and fourth rounds. The opening pick in the fifth round will be determined by lot.

Each expansion team will pick six players in each of the five rounds and each established club will lose five players. After the first three rounds, the established teams will be permitted to add three more players to their protected lists. After the fourth round, they will each remove two more players from the draft list.

Jones to seek new contract

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Randy Jones says now that he's won the Cy Young Award, he ought to be the highest paid San Diego Padre and intends to bargain for a three-year contract.

"It's like a boyhood dream come true. It shows I'm for real. It hasn't really sunk in yet," said Jones, 26, at a news conference Tuesday shortly after learning he was the winner of baseball's highest award for a pitcher.

"I felt all along that I would win, but I thought it would be very close," said the left-handed hurler who received 15 of the 24 first-place votes in this year's balloting.

Jones, who won 22 games for the Padres this season, narrowly lost the Cy Young award to Tom Seaver last year.

"Last year, I knew I had to beat Tom Seaver. This year, I felt they (other candidates) had to beat Randy Jones," he said.

Jones was named somewhere on all 24 ballots cast by a committee composed of two baseball writers from each of the 12 National League cities. Six second-place votes and three for third gave him a total of 96 points. The writers cast 69½ points for New York Mets lefthander Jerry Koosman and 25½ points for Don Sutton, the Los Angeles Dodgers righthander.

Penguins get well at Kings' expense

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Penguins have their first victory in eight games and the National Hockey League club figures it finally is putting things together.

"Tonight we got off on top with two first-period goals and then we didn't make any mistakes the rest of the way," said Syl Apps, after contributing two goals and an assist in a 7-1 triumph over the Los Angeles Kings Tuesday night. "We were skating very well and the defense was very good."

The Penguins, who had three losses and four ties in their previous seven games, were helped in their victory by strong goaltending by Dunc Wilson.

"When Wilson had to make saves, he stopped everything they could throw at him," said Pittsburgh Coach Ken Schinkel. "He made several key saves in the first period which might have turned the game around had he been unable to handle them."

Rick Kehoe added two goals and an assist, as the Penguins moved within seven points of the second-place Kings in the Norris Division.

Pierre Larouche scored in the first 15 seconds and Pittsburgh dominated the game thereafter. The Penguins scored one shorthanded goal and four power play goals, the latter tying a team record.

Bengals scaring Knox

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — At the start of this 1976 National Football League season, the Los Angeles Rams were known as a running team and the Cincinnati Bengals as a passing outfit.

Don't count on that Monday night when the two divisional leaders meet in Cincinnati in the nationally televised game.

"They have been a team that relied on passing," Rams' coach Chuck Knox said of the Bengals. "But now they're running a lot more. They've come back to a more balanced attack.

"We're gone up to passing more."

Knox said that with Archie Griffin and Boobie Clark in the backfield, the Bengals have a dangerous running attack to augment the passing of Ken Anderson to such speeders as Isaac Curtis and Billy Brooks.

Knox is happy that quarterback James Harris has recovered from the shoulder injury that sidelined him two games. The No. 1 signal caller returned to action last Sunday and hit 14 of 25 passes for 208 yards and two first-half touchdowns.

The Rams beat Seattle 45-6 but Knox said he told his team, "We're not as good as we looked and the Seahawks are not as bad."

As for Harris returning, the coach commented, "Any time our quarterbacks plays in there and stays in there, we have more stability."

Knox said Ron Jaworski had talked with him on Monday, but hadn't expressed unhappiness that he hadn't played against Seattle. After that game, Jaworski had said, "It's like going from the penthouse to the basement" since he had started the previous week.

When Harris came out in the fourth quarter, it was Rookie Pat Haden who took over.

"Fortunately, we've got three quarterbacks we've been able to play with and win with," said Knox of his triumverate. Each has been a starter in a league game and each has been benched with injuries.

Running backs Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti also have been hurt but Knox told the newsmen at his Tuesday breaksfast session that both were expected to start at Cincinnati.

The Rams go into that game with a 6-1-1 record and the lead in the National Football Conference West while Cincinnati at 62 heads the American Football Conference Central division.

Asked what being in first place means, Knox replied in characteristic style, "It's always nice to be in first place, but the thing to be in first place when the season is over."

San Francisco, which whipped Los Angeles 16-0, is one-half game behind them in the West. Knox says Cincinnati could present as great a problem as did the 49ers.

USC expects exciting game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The fourth-ranked Southern California Trojans are, as is usually the case, favored to whip Stanford when the two Pacific-8 foes clash Saturday.

The annual battle between the Trojans and Cardinals more often than not, however, turns out to be a cliff-hanging donnybrook.

"It always seems like it's a big game up there," Trojans Coach John Robinson said Tuesday in anticipation of his team's trip north this weekend.

"The Stanford-USC game is one of the big games in college football and is always one of the most exciting games of the year," said the Trojans' first-year coach.

"Stanford's chances for the Rose Bowl are remote, but that doesn't affect this game. They're playing very well now. Guy Benjamin (Cardinal quarterback) is very hot right now," Robinson continued.

"He is not as precise a thrower as is Joe Roth of Cal, but he is more of a scrambler. We tried to force Roth off his mark when he was setting up, but Benjamin does well throwing off-balance.

"He will be more difficult to defense and we'll have to try to contain him."

The Trojans did a good job on Roth in last Saturday's victory over the olden Bears, holding Cal to two field goals in the 20-6 USC Triumph.

The Trojans take a 4-0 Pac-8 record — good for a share of the lead with UCLA — and a 61 overall mark into the fray against the Cardinals, who are 3-1 in conference play and 4-4 including non-league play.

Robinson obviously is most concerned with Stanford's passing game, although he's not overlooking the Cardinals' running attack.

"Stanford has a better running attack than does California," the USC coach said. "But it is still supplemental to their passing game.

"Stanford is capable of scoring 35 points on us. We must keep constant pressure on Benjamin. No one is looking past Stanford. It will be an extremely exciting game played with great emotion.

Saints, Braves ready for Hacienda League crucial

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

The Hacienda League's game of the year is coming up this Friday night, when San Dimas High clashes with Alta Loma High at Chaffey College.

The fact that those two schools should be playing to decide the Hacienda title has to be regarded as something of a surprise.

Going into the season, last year's tri-champions and traditional Hacienda powers, Walnut, Bonita and Royal Oak, were rated as the favorites to win the loop's title.

However, San Dimas will be taking a perfect 5-0 league mark into Friday's clash, with Alta Loma right behind with a 4-1 loop ledger. Both teams stand at 6-1 for the year and have been rated among the top ten squads in the CIF 2A Division.

San Dimas could virtually wrap up the title with a win Friday. The Saints have only one game remaining in league after Friday, that one with also-ran Ontario.

However, a Brave victory Friday evening could really throw things into chaos. An Alta Loma win, coupled with a Walnut triumph over Ontario, would result in a three-way tie at the top of the Hacienda standings going into the final week of the regular season.

"Yes, this game appears to be for the championship," noted Saint skipper Bob Baiz. "We have a slight advantage, being a game in front of Alta Loma, but I still look on it as a must-win situation for us.

"We played and beat three fine teams already in Walnut, Bonita and Royal Oak, but I feel that Alta Loma will be as fine a team as we will face all year. The have some outstanding kids."

Baiz is particularly concerned with stopping the Brave Power "I" offense.

"They have been getting good quarterbacking and have four or five very good running backs they can throw at you," the veteran S.D. mentor said. "They also have good size up front, and have the best depth in our league."

The two teams are quite similar statistically and in other departments. Both prefer to run the ball, and throw only when necessary. Both have aggressive defensive units which pursue well.

"We are both basically running teams but they go about it somewhat differently from us," Baiz said. "Our quarterback, Don Hargett, hasn't thrown the ball quite as much as theirs (Dave Silva), but he's still made us go on offense. If a team has the outside shut off, Hargett has been very good about turning the play upfield. If they try to key on him, he pitches to one of our backs. He's really done a great job.

"Even with Fred Carter out, our running game has been just as effective. Bob Pleasant has done a super job, he rushed for 117 yards on only five carries against Sierra Vista last week, we did not play him the second half of the game so he would be fresh and ready to go against Alta Loma.

"Perry Aris has also done real well, he's a super athlete.

"On defense, we have been strong up the middle all year, with Sonny LaFargue on the line and linebackers Doug Gates and Mike Nunley. Our defensive ends, Keith Smith and John Seltun, are also standouts.

"We have 26 quarterback sacks on the year, and 16 pass interceptions, which I think is exceptional for a high school team. We just hope we can keep it up against Alta Loma."

Statistics on the two teams are indeed most impressive.

San Dimas, in seven games, has rushed for 1,867 yards on 255 carries, an average of over eight yards per pop. Fullback Pleasant leads that ground game with 717 yards on 73 carries and 10 touchdowns, and is averaging an amazing 9.8 yards per attempt.

The stat which best sums up the S.D. defense is the fact that that unit has allowed only 15 points in five league outings.

Garey, Ganesha to renew grid rivalry

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Football games between any two of the three Pomona high schools — Ganesha, Garey and Pomona — are seldom dull. The intracity rivalries involved serve to make such games spirited regardless of the teams' positions in the league standings.

But Friday night's game between Ganesha and Garey at Mt. San Antonio College will have an added dash of significance — the Giants and Vikings are two of the three squads in the running for the San Antonio League championship.

Garey is currently tied with Damien for the league lead with four wins in four league outings. But Ganesha is right behind with a 4-1 mark.

It's been a while since any of the leaders lost. Ganesha has won four straight since dropping its first three games. Garey has won four in a row since tying La Sierra and is the valley's only undefeated team (5-0-1). And Damien has captured five straight since losing its opener to San Dimas.

"But," said coach Lawson Bush of Garey, "the records don't mean anything in a game like this. It'll be a donnybrook, I'm sure."

Though the Vikings' offense is sound, the primary reason for their success thus far has been the defensive unit, which is extremely quick at just about every position.

"We used a lot of misdirection plays against Garey," said Claremont coach Esper Keiser, whose Wolfpack lost to the Vikings last week, 20-6. "It worked in the sense that we'd have them starting the wrong way. But they're so quick that they'd recover and come over and tackle us anyway."

But the Viking defenders will be up against the league's best rushing duo in Ganesha halfbacks Floyd Eddings and Bennie Gooden. Eddings has carried 104 times this year for 664 yards, tops in the SAL, and Gooden, only a junior, has 411 yards on 74 tries.

Garey employs a more varied running attack, with senior Ralph Dixon (351 yards) and juniors Elijah Turner (279), Roosevelt Lett (178) and Doug Brissette (125) all seeing action in the backfield.

The Vikings throw more, though both teams have highly capable quarterbacks. Garey's Al Clay has 676 yards passing and seven touchdowns while Ganesha's Joe Madrigal has 435 yards and two TDs.

"We'll throw a lot," said Bush. "They've got a good defense, but if they move up close to stop our run like most teams have, we'll be throwing."

Ganesha coach Garry Norvell knows his strength lies in his running game. "We're going to try to make it a very dull game and win it," he said. "We're primarily interested in avoiding mistakes."

Will he do anything special to counteract Garey's speed on defense? "We'll just have to do everything a little faster," he quipped.

"Ganesha has three outstanding defensive ballplayers," said Bush. "They have two fine halfbacks and a fine quarterback. But they don't scare me. They get most of their yardage when the other team misses tackles, and we don't miss many tackles."

One thing is clear: since Ganesha has scored 14 touchdowns by the run in its five SAL games and Garey has surrendered just one TD on the ground in its four league contests, something's got to give!

In the other three SAL games this week, Damien will host Chino, Claremont will celebrate its Homecoming against Upland at Citrus College and Pomona will visit Montclair. All four SAL games are scheduled for Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The Damien-Chino contest will be a rematch of the game last year in which the Cowboys knocked off a previously unbeaten Spartan team for a share of the league championship. This time, however, Damien (4-0, 5-1) is a clear favorite over Chino (2-3, 2-4-1).

"But they've won two in a row," said Damien coach Dick Larson, "so they must be getting better. And they'll probably play their best game against us like just about everybody else has. It's traditional to try to knock off the leader, but if they've been giving it their best shot and we've been taking it, I guess we're doing okay."

Chino coach Jim Rawls was quite pleased with his Cowboys'

"Now the Vikings have lost one like everyone else in the league." — Chicago Coach Jack Pardee, after the Bears upset Minnesota 14-13.

Hoople picks Ganesha

By AMOS B. HOOPLE
Wizard of Odds

Har-rumph! Does your favorite pigskin prophet have some stunners for you this week? You'd better believe I do!

A number of league titles go squarely on the line this weekend, and our local teams will be right in the middle of the excitement. However, the news is mixed for valley grid squads.

Taking that exciting San Antonio League chase first, look for Damien to stay atop the heap with a hard-fought 16-12 victory over Chino. However, Garey will find itself in a real dogfight with cross-town rival Ganesha, and the net result will find the Giants scoring a 23-21 upset of the unbeaten Vikings. Remember — kaff-kaff — anything can happen when the three Pomona high schools tangle with one another!

Other SAL results among the also-rans will see Claremont best Upland 13-7 and Montclair down Pomona 18-14.

In that "biggie" in the Hacienda League, the Hoople method has tabbed San Dimas a winner over Alta Loma 21-13 in what should decide the H.L. title once and for all.

Walnut will keep its CIF playoff hopes very much alive with a 21-14 win over surprisingly tough Ontario, while Bonita will also have to struggle to beat winless Gladstone, 17-14.

Chaffey High and Ontario Christian will continue on their successful courses to prep titles. Chaffey will near the Citrus Belt League crown with a 42-6 belting of hapless Pacific, while OCHS will remain atop the Olympic League with a 24-12 win at Bell-Jeff.

Onward to the colleges. In a crucial in the SCIAC, look for Claremont-Mudd's Stags to run out of magic, as the locals will just miss another upset, falling to mighty Redlands by a 26-23 count in a game which figures to decide that conference's title.

Cal Poly will continue its modest winning steak with a narrow 21-16 win over host Cal State Northridge, while also in the four-year ranks locally look for La Verne to take care of poor Pomona-Pitzer by a 44-14 tally.

Among the local JCs, Citrus will remain the team to beat in the Mission Conference, downing Southwestern 20-13. However, Mt. San Antonio College will fall by the wayside in South Coast Conference action, dropping a high-scoring 30-24 affair to the potent Fullerton Hornets. Egad, sorry 'bout that, Mounties!

On the national scene, here we are with a whole month of the season to go and undefeated and untied teams are as scarce as the proverbial chicken's teeth. And, truth to tell, by the end of the Thanksgiving weekend we may not have a single team with a clean record — har-rumph!

This Saturday all of the top 20 teams will see action with several of the games having important bearing on the final outcome of conference races. The Southern California Trojans — Stanford encounter at the Cardinals Stadium is the major attraction on the West Coast. The Cardinals have shown flashes of brilliance but they will be no match for Ricky Bell and Co., and we look for a Trojan triumph, 35 — 18, in the 54th repeat of this California classic.

A couple of big ones in the Southwestern Conference will find Texas and Houston butting heads in Austin and when it's all over the Texas Longhorns will own a narrow 23 — 21 victory over the Cougars. Also in the Southwestern

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — In a roundabout way, Coach Jack Christiansen calls Guy Benjamin the key to Stanford's hopes of upsetting fourth-ranked Southern California.

"If I had to pick the one player who has to have a great game, I'd say the quarterback," the coach said Tuesday.

"If Benjamin has a great game, it will mean that the offensive line did a good job blocking, giving him time to throw, and that our runners had a good game, breaking some tackles and gaining yards to keep the pressure off the passing game," he explained.

Benjamin, the junior from Los Angeles who is college football's second-ranking passer, had one of his better games last Saturday when he threw three touchdown passes in the 24-3 victory over Oregon State which kept Stanford alive in the Pacific-8 race.

But he said later, "If we could just stop making mental errors, we'd have an awesome attack. We should have scored 50 or 60 points."

Stanford's best receiver, Tony Hill, feels the same way.

"I think, to beat USC, it's more important that our offense have a great day," he said. "That's because my philosophy is that whoever outscores the other team is going to win."

Christiansen expects the Trojans' defensive backs to put double coverage on Hill and other wide receivers most of the time when the Cards' pass-oriented offense tries to outscore the USC ground game featuring Ricky Bell.

"Against Missouri in their opener they used a lot of single coverage. I haven't seen them use it since," the Stanford coach reported from his film reviewing.

Since losing 46-25 to Missouri, the Trojans have won six straight games and allowed a total of 33 points.

"We've seen a lot of double coverage the past few weeks, and that's why we've thrown so much to our running backs," added Christiansen.

"I almost expect double coverage in every game we play," said Hill.

On the first of two touchdown catches last Saturday, Hill broke away from two defenders and had almost 10 yards of empty space around him when he caught a Benjamin pass in the end zone. Since recovering from a sprained ankle, the receiver from Long Beach has caught 22 passes in four games.

"I hope I'm not just a decoy Saturday," said Hill.

Although the Cards' offense may show a conservative look early, the big-gain plays will be up Benjamin's sleeves, Hill added.

"But it's a matter of strategy," he said. "We'd better call those plays at the right time because if they don't work, we probably won't get second chances."

Cal Poly harriers run in CCAA meet

Cal Poly's cross country team will be running in the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) Championships at 11 a.m. Saturday at Cal State Northridge.

The championship meet should mark the return of the Broncos' top runner, Mark Lotich, who has been suffering with a strained left foot.

Last Saturday, the Broncos finished third in the Biola College Invitational Meet with 112 total points, one behind second-place University of Nevada-Las Vegas with 111.

The top squad was Point Loma College with 48 points. The third place Poly finish was impressive, considering that a total of 15 teams were participating in the highly competitive meet.

Poly's leading harrier was freshman David Edds, Who placed 14th in the NCAA Division II section of the race. The Broncos' second man across the line was Bill Avila, who finished 17th.

"I was tremendously pleased and excited with David Edds' performance," said Broncos' head cross country coach Jim George. "He gets better and better every week. I really feel that his future is unlimited."

George commented on the team's success at Biola by saying, "I thought Avila ran very well. Naturally I was pleased to beat UC Riverside (the Highlanders had 120 points) and I thought that we had the University of Nevada, Las Vegas beat, but we lost only a point to them."

Volleyball win for Pomona

The Pomona High girls volleyball team won its first match of the San Antonio League season Tuesday afternoon, downing host Montclair by scores of 15-3, 15-2.

Sabina Davila, with nine straight points in the first game, paced the win for Pomona.

In other SAL volleyball matches, Upland bested Ganesha in varsity 10-15, 15-3, 15-9 and in junior varsity, 15-4, 15-3. Claremont defeated Pomona Catholic on the varsity level, 15-3, 17-15, and also won the J.V. contest, 17-15, 15-8.

Pomona is now 1-4 in varsity action while Montclair is 0-5. Upland continues to lead the varsity standings with a perfect 5-0 mark, while Claremont and Pomona Catholic are second with identical 4-1 records.

In a girls volleyball tilt in the Hacienda League, Bonita took rival San Dimas by scores of 10-15, 15-13, 15-6 on the varsity level and also won in J.V.s, 15-2, 15-5. Bonita is now 4-2 in league on both levels.

SAL matches on tap for Thursday have Claremont visiting league-leading Upland, Ganesha at Montclair, and Chino at Pomona. H.L. match on Thursday has Bonita visiting Gladstone.

Kickers take 7-0 shutout

The Diamond Bar Kickers extended their unbeaten record in the Pacific Soccer League Juniors last week by blanking the South Bay Arsenals, 7-0, in Torrance.

Paul Caligiuri and Henry Gonzales scored two goals apiece for the Kickers while Alan Pitts, Guy Pagan and Rusty Lansford tallied one apiece. Mike Spurrier, Rocky Crisp and Jeff Ratajczak were the top defensive players.

Diamond Bar will host the West Covina Royals at 1 p.m. Saturday at El Roble Intermediate School in Claremont.

Haase takes triple win

Kathie Haase was the top placer for the Mt. Baldy Aquatics Club with a triple win at the East Los Angeles Aquatics Invitational.

Haase placed third in the 100-yard individual medley with a 1:30.4, added a third place finish in the butterfly with a time of 17.1 and took a fourth in the 25-yard freestyle with 15.9.

Jacki Easton also won a ribbon with her time of 38.6 in the 50-yard backstroke.

Area swimmers interested in joining the club may contact Delores Weck at 982-3430 or Carolyn Easton at 987-2886.

Upland nabs net victory

The Upland High girls' tennis team scored a 6-0 win over Ganesha Tuesday afternoon in San Antonio League varsity net action.

The Scot girls also won the J.V. match, 5-0. Upland is now 8-1 on the season.

In a Hacienda League match, Bonita downed San Dimas 17½-5 in varsity action and 19½-3 in J.V.s. Bonita is now 6-0 in Hacienda League outings.

Upland's doubles team of Beth Bracey and Nan Fowler scored a narrow 10-8 win over Ganesha's Sue Halderman and Linda Jobbins to spark that win. Bonita singles player Mary Boyd and the doubles team of Sherry Branam and Marsha Huss pepped the Bearkitten girls past San Dimas.

Upland will host Claremont in a SAL match on Thursday, while on the same day the Bonita netters will be at home vs. Gladstone (also 6-0) in a key Hacienda League affair.

Lakers pick up two forwards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forwards Marvin Roberts and Tom Abernethy were added to the Los Angeles Lakers roster Tuesday with forward Connie Warner and forward-guard Allen Murphy placed on waivers.

Roberts, a 6-8 former American Basketball Association player, was signed while Abernethy, 6-7, was activated from the injured list. He had missed the first six games with a groin pull.

Saints, Braves to meet

Alta Loma's defense has been equally strong, as the Braves have permitted only 345 yards on the ground in seven outings, limiting opponents to less than two yards per rushing attempt.

A fleet of four running backs have done most of the offensive damage for the Braves. Leading that group is senior Bill Pisciurno with 416 yards on the ground. Super swift halfback Rob Ward has added 265 yards rushing, while Mike Munoz has 336 yards. Mike Sloan hasn't played as extensively as the other three Brave runners but still has 190 ground yards.

Quarterback Silva has not done a great deal of running or passing this season, but has passed for 317 yards and two touchdowns, with Mark Anderson hauling in 12 of those completions good for 259 yards.

"Monster Man" Jerry Barba has led the Brave defense, which has surrendered only five TDs in seven games. Barba has been especially effective stopping the run.

Vikings, Giants ready for clash

defensive efforts in last week's 14-0 blanking of Pomona. "We're the only team to shut out Pomona this year," he said. "Pat Krzysiak, Alton Rivera and Steve Erlanson were all outstanding, but Rivera hurt his neck (strain) and I don't know if he'll play this week."

Sophomore running back Ferrell Johnson was the offensive spark for the Cowboys with touchdown runs of 77 and 60 yards.

"We'd like to do what we did to Damien last year," Rawls said, "but we'd have to play over our heads to do it. Damien is an impressive team. They're very big, which we're not."

For example, Chino's starting fullback in an offensive backfield that consists entirely of juniors and sophomores is Bill Young, a junior who stands 5-foot-7 and weighs 148 pounds.

Damien's outstanding junior running back, Jason Wight, gained 115 yards on 15 carries last week after missing two weeks with a bruised thigh.

Claremont's Keiser expressed concern over the prospects of playing Upland (1-4, 1-6). "They did better than we did against Montclair and Garey," he said.

Upland turned in its first big ground game of the year last week against Damien, with Kelly Reifel rushing for 96 yards and Paul Lindsey adding 86.

Keiser has been pleased with the play of Robbie Poling, Robert Villanueva Grant Villanueva, Grant Warhurst and Chris Pruitt.

Claremont (2-3, 2-5), Chino (2-3, 2-4-1) and Montclair (2-3, 3-4), which will meet winless Pomona Friday, are all tied for fourth place. Mathematically, any of the three could finish the league season as high as tied for second place, but the prospect seems unlikely.

AN OPEN LETTER
TO THE CITIZENS OF
POMONA UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT:

Members of the Board of Education of the Pomona Unified School District are elected to represent you and your neighbors in the governing of the District. We are accountable to you to guarantee that the educational program and the security of our students are maintained. We are accountable to you to be fiscally responsible and to spend within the limits of our income.

It is true that the Board wishes to negotiate a contract that:

- provides a 7.2% salary increase, one of the highest to date in Los Angeles County — the average teachers' salary will be increased from $15,000 to $16,500.
- provides that no class can exceed a set number of students — one of the few districts in California to do this. (In Elementary, the average will be 30 or less, but in no case more than 32 in any one class.)
- requires teachers to be available to children and parents at least 20 minutes before and 30 minutes after school.
- provides for a safety program that protects the students and employees.
- limits the number of people who can go on sabbatical (leave for travel or study at half pay)
- provides released time for Association members to engage in association activities.
- gives the teachers an opportunity to appeal to the Board or to an outside binding arbitrator.
- specifies that teachers will not go on strike.

It is true that the Board will not:

- pay time-and-a-half to teachers for attending parent conferences, PTA meetings and the like.
- require teachers to join the Association or pay a fee as a condition of employment.
- allows the Association to make the decisions which are the right and responsibility, by law, of an elected Board to make.
- take away the rights of the individual employee to take a grievance to arbitration.
- give away the Board's legal responsibility to direct, manage and control the District to the full extent of the law.

All other provisions of the California law relative to tenure, safety, personnel files, paid sick leave, paid maternity leave, paid bereavement leave, paid personal necessity leave, the right to consult on curriculum, textbooks, course content and educational objectives are still in full force and effect. They are not in any way reduced or changed by the Board's proposals.

Dean refused library card—had no friends

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — Watergate figure John Dean was turned down the first time he applied for a library card in this well-to-do suburb because he said he had no friends to list as references, according to a librarian who didn't recognize him.

Gladys Zweiback, head librarian in Beverly Hills, said Dean came into the library shortly after moving to the city about a year ago and filled out forms for a card.

But when the clerk checked the application, she noticed that he had left blank the line asking for a personal reference.

Told that he must list a personal reference or a card could not be issued, Dean reportedly replied:

"But I don't have any friends."

Pressed by the clerk to think of just one friend, Dean said:

"I don't have a friend. If I ever get one, I'll come back."

He then tore up the form and walked away.

After he had left, another librarian who thought she recognized Dean mentioned it to the card clerk, and they pieced the application back together. The name on it was John Wesley Dean III.

Mrs. Zweiback said the clerk, who was standing nearby during a telephone interview with The Associated Press Monday, did not want her name revealed to the press.

Asked if she were embarrassed because she had failed to recognize Dean, the clerk replied, "That doesn't help."

Dean did return a few weeks later with the name of a friend and was issued a library card.

Carmaker announces record stock dividend

DETROIT (AP) — A prospering General Motors Corp. has announced a record year-end common stock dividend of $3 per share.

The payout, which will total about $859 million, brings the year's total dividend to $5.55, also the largest in the firm's 68-year history.

In 1975, GM common stock dividends totaled $2.40. It was the first time since 1946 that dividends were down from the year before. The other big auto makers, also hit by sales slumps, had similar declines.

The latest GM dividend is payable Dec. 10 to about 1.25 million common stock holders.

GM common stock closed at $74.87½ on the New York Stock Exchange Monday, a new high for the year. Earlier this year it was available at $57.75.

"The dividends declared by General Motors in 1976 reflect the improvement in the over-all economic situation and GM's improved earnings and capital position," said Thomas Murphy, GM's board chairman, and GM President Elliott M. Estes in a joint statement.

The dividend was announced at a meeting of the board of directors in New York.

The nation's largest auto maker has had a profitable year, including record-breaking earnings in the second and third quarters. In the year's first nine months, GM profits totaled $2.1 billion — more than three times the amount it made in all of 1975.

Exec panel says corporations should do more to aid cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of top business executives says corporations should do more to rescue the nation's cities.

The proposal, the product of a year-long study, was welcomed by Mayor Kenneth Gibson, head of the U.S. Conference of Mayors. Gibson said it was "a significant step forward" and represented a new commitment from the business community.

The executive group, called the Business Roundtable, said Monday that corporate aid could include the direct loan of personnel, as well as technical advice on city projects.

The Roundtable, comprised of many of the nation's top corporate officers, recommended creation of local economic growth commissions, as well as a federal commission to study welfare reform and revenue-sharing.

"It is simply good business to maintain and strengthen the essential infrastructure and the mass markets that exist in the metropolitan areas of our country," the organization said.

The Roundtable said corporate assistance might be able to boost productivity in city government, streamline services and reduce costs.

Citing key trouble areas such as declining tax bases, crime, mass transit, limited job opportunities, deteriorating schools and budget deficits, the Roundtable said corporations have the expertise and competence to help.

A report by the Roundtable's Task Force on Municipalities headed by General Motors Chairman Thomas Murphy concludes that because the "troubles of the cities have multiplied and become more evident," corporations must offer more "widespread and sophisticated" expertise to city governments than ever before.

Bridge by Jacobys

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

West's club opening is the sort of psychic that is still tried by some bridge players. This time it caused South, instead of North to be declarer at the good heart slam, but also alerted South to the danger of a bad club break.

West opened the seven of spades and South went right up with dummy's ace. Then he looked around for the safest way to make his slam and found one that just about was ironclad.

At trick two he led a diamond to his ace. Then he came back to dummy with a trump and cashed the king of diamonds in order to get rid of one losing spade. Then he led dummy's last diamond and ruffed in his hand. Next he led his last spade to dummy's queen.

East won and led a trump which was won in dummy. The last spade was led and ruffed by his ace of trumps, and South had to lead a club to get back to dummy.

He was a trifle nervous. West might have held six clubs for his psychic opening, but when East had to follow all was sunshine. He drew the remaining trumps and the dummy was good.

Public may get chance to hear Nixon tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon's Watergate conversations with his associates were quoted extensively in print and made headlines during the 1974 cover-up trial. Now, the public may be allowed to hear those incriminating and sometimes-earthy tapes.

A court ruling recently to allow copying, broadcast and sale of 30 White House tapes used as trial evidence displeased Nixon's lawyer.

"The effect of the (U.S. Circuit) Court of Appeals decision is to permit the commercial exploitation of the recordings of presidential conversations subpoenaed for use in a criminal trial," Herbert J. Miller said. "Accordingly, we will appeal that decision."

The court noted that "the tapes already have been played in a public forum" and said Nixon's claim of "intrusion on the sensibilities of those whose voices appear on the tapes" is groundless.

"The tapes at issue are not recordings of bedroom or other intimate conversations," the court said. "The embarrassment Mr. Nixon fears is not republication of highly personal matters. Rather, we deal with conversations between business associates admitted into evidence as proof of criminal misconduct.

"The embarrassment Mr. Nixon anticipates is largely that which results whenever misconduct or questionable conduct is exposed."

The tapes involved cover 18 to 22 hours of conversations in the Oval Office and Nixon's Executive Office Building hideaway, including the June 23, 1972, presidential order to derail the FBI's investigation of the Watergate break-in that occurred six days earlier.

Nixon had fought through the courts to withhold that tape and 63 others from Watergate prosecutors. When the Supreme Court finally ordered him to provide them as evidence, Nixon made the contents of several June 23 conversations public and resigned three days later.

Also among the recordings is a Sept. 15, 1972 conversation among Nixon, counsel John Dean and others, involving instructions to be given to then-House Minority Leader Gerald Ford to curtail an early Watergate investigation. Ford was not there.

"Jerry's really got to lead on this. He's really got to lead," Nixon is heard to say. Later in the conversation he tells his aides "this is big, big play. I'm getting into this, so that he — he's got to know that it comes from the top."

Ford has denied he ever talked to Nixon or his principal aides about the investigation proposed by committee Chairman Wright Patman. Ford said he was approached by Republican members of Patman's Banking and Currency Committee to discuss how to deal with the Democratic majority's plans to investigate the Watergate break-in.

The appeals court ruled 2 to 1 that the common-law right to inspect and copy judicial records extends to exhibits, such as the tapes.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who presided over the Watergate cover-up trial, had blocked public release of the tapes until the convicted defendants had gone through the appeals process.

The appeals court recently upheld the convictions of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman and former domestic counselor John D. Ehrlichman. Their convictions, however, are being appealed to the Supreme Court.

Sirica was told by the appeals court to work out a plan for releasing the tapes and that "distribution should be prompt, and on an equal basis to all persons desiring copies."

Broadcasting networks, a broadcast-news directors group and a maker of phonograph records had sued for the right to copy the tapes.

Celebrating 40 Years Service to the Valley.

Remember way back in 1936? That's the year Adolf Hitler started his campaign of conquest, Lou Gehrig helped the Yankees win the World Series and First Federal Savings and Loan Association of San Gabriel Valley was established. Our office was modest and total assets amounted to only $11,904.50. But we offered a safe, convenient place for Valley people to save and made home ownership possible.

During the past 40 years, we have continued to encourage thrift and to re-invest in the Valley, helping it grow and prosper. In the process, we too have grown and now have assets over $70 million. We want to thank all of our Valley friends who have made this growth possible and look forward to the next 40 years of service to our home community.

Consumer Affairs veto sustained

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The city council has failed to override Mayor Tom Bradley's veto of funds for the city's 4-year-old Bureau of Consumer Affairs, thereby assuring an end to its operations.

With 10 votes required to override the veto, the council's vote Monday was six to six.

Bradley had vetoed a $356,556 appropriation that would have kept the bureau functioning until the end of the fiscal year. The office closed last Friday.

Bradley said he had been assured by Shirley Goldinger, director of the new county Department of Consumer Affairs, that her staff would provide consumer protection for city residents after the the BCA offices were closed.

Iran intends to buy 160 F16 fighters

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Iran has signed a letter of intent to purchase up to 160 F16 combat fighter planes from General Dynamics Corp., the firm says.

The letter, delivered to U.S. government representatives in Tehran, makes Iran the sixth country to add the planes to its arsenal.

The F16 is a single-engine, high performance, air-to-surface plane. It was selected by the U.S. Air Force for purchase in January 1975.

Initial deliveries of the aircraft will be in the early 1980s and will conclude about four years later, the firm said.

Memories of flood still haunt children

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — Eleven-year-old Rory Adams weeps at night for his dad. Schoolmate Kevin Bray still thinks about his dead girl friend. Doug Nolde can't forget carrying out the bodies.

For the children of the Big Thompson Elementary School, the flood that crushed many of their homes last July 31 is a nightmare.

At least 139 persons died when rain swelled the normally placid Big Thompson River and forced a wall of water as high as 19 feet through the canyon. Millions of dollars in property was destroyed.

Heavy rains still spook the children of this Rocky Mountain community, said the elementary school principal, Dr. Dave Mathias. "When it clouds up, I have several little kids come running in here," he said.

The school — called Big T — lost seven children to the water, Mathias said. The other 360 remember their dead classmates, but they don't say a lot about them. "I heard one kid say, 'Ricky used to sit there,' but that's about it," Mathias said. Ricky Mares and his family drowned. Mathias is emotional when he remembers his first meeting with young Adams, who lost his father in the flood:

"He came in to register himself. He came up to me, stuck out his hand and said, 'I'm Rory Adams. I lost my dad.' He put his arms around me and said: 'Would you be my dad.'"

Even with Mathias' help, it has been a tough adjustment for Rory. "Me, my Mom and brother, we cry a lot for him at night," the blond fifth-grader said, clutching a battered saxophone case. "We sometimes think we aren't going to make it without him."

The chunky youngster lived in the flatlands just outside the mouth of the Big Thompson Canyon.

"We had just got back from seeing the movie 'Noah's Ark,'" he recalled. "We heard the police cars warning everybody to get out. He was trying to herd our cow and cattle back. I didn't know it would be the last time I'd see him.

"It's been pretty bad. My mom's just had an operation. We're Christians. I guess it was what God wanted."

Kevin Bray lost his girl friend, Theresa Graham, to the floodwaters.

"She was my girl friend all last year," the thin fourth-grader said. "I think about her when it rains. I found a new girl friend, but I still think about her."

Doug Nolde's tale is different.

"Me and my dad helped carry out bodies," the 9-year-old Cub Scout recounted. "I had to be a brace underneath one. It was a nightmare.

"I think about it. One time it rained here, I thought it would flood again. But it doesn't bother me anymore."

The youngster's brave tones were undermined by nervous fidgeting with the silver wolf badge on his blue uniform.

The experience has matured many of the children beyond their years, Mathias said, and their emotional needs have rubbed off on one another. The kids are visibly close, whether romping on the playground or walking through halls. Hands hold hands. Arms drape affectionately around shoulders.

"Our kids need a lot of love," Mathias said.

Two get life for attempted murder

REDDING (AP) — Two young men have been sentenced to life imprisonment without possibility of parole for attempted murder of four college students.

Steven Caswell, 19, of Anaheim, and David Englund, 21, of Central Point, Ore., were sentenced Monday by Superior Court Judge Curtis Wetter in connection with the incident May 20 near Shasta Lake.

The two defendants, also convicted of kidnaping and robbing the four college students, were tried and convicted of shooting three of them and pushing a fourth over a cliff.

Neither man said anything when the judge announced his sentence. They have 60 days to appeal the judge's decision.

The college students have recovered from their wounds.

Nuclear plant sites sought in Mexico

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego Gas & Electric says it is even looking at Baja California and Mexico's Coronado Islands for sites for nuclear power plants.

The information was revealed recently by Harold F. Perla, a nuclear consultant for the utility, who said efforts were being made to set up meetings with Mexican officials on the possible construction of SDG&E nuclear plants in that country.

The state Energy Commission has been conducting hearings this week on plans by the utility for the controversial Sundesert plant near Blythe.

Officials from both Imperial and Riverside counties have protested against granting a permit for the Sundesert project and SDG&E has revealed it does have other sites under consideration.

The hearings brought out that the utility has been seeking an inland site at Camp Pendleton for a plant.

We give the boss more space for her carry-on luggage.
So when we land, the boss takes off.

Overhead compartments.
Right above your seat. It's a place to put your hat, or leave your carry-on bag. Handy for articles you might need during the flight. Helpful for the quick getaway.

Garment bag closets.
United has plenty of room for hang-up bags. Because bags that contain the boss' clothes shouldn't be thrown into a corner.

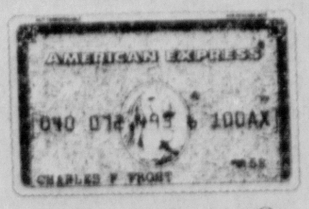
You're the boss.

New baggage shelves.
United is adding more space for carry-on baggage on their 727's, just to accommodate the boss. If you're traveling light, you might not have to check any baggage at all.

In plain business terms, business people are a big part of our bread and butter at United Airlines. So we'd better treat you like what you are: Our Boss.

That's why United offers you more carry-on space on 727's than any other airline. We know if we can't make you comfortable, someone else will. We go all out to make you happy—because at United, you're the boss.

Don't leave home without the American Express card.® Use it for your United tickets, hotels, meals, and rental cars. If you don't have an American Express card, call (800) 528-8000 for an application.



For reservations; call your Travel Agent. Or call United at 983-1721.

Holiday bazaar planned

Theme for the annual Christmas bazaar, "Holiday Magic," to be presented by Westmont United Methodist Women on Friday and Saturday will be carried out in all decorating.

Handcrafted items suitable for holiday giving will be offered, as well as homemade foods and plants. There will be a dessert and coffee booth.

Hours on Friday will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the church social hall at 1781 W 9th St., Pomona. Proceeds will go for church-related projects.

LEANN MOSLEY

Mosley and Clark rites set

Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Mosley of Chino announce the engagement of their daughter Leann Marie to Robert L. Clark of Riverside.

The bride-to-be will graduate in March from the University of California at Riverside. She is a 1973 graduate of Chaffey High School.

Mr. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip N. Clark of Walnut Creek, is employed at Pomona Valley Community Hospital in the physical therapy department. He is a 1974 graduate of UC Riverside with a BA in biology.

The couple will be married in April at Pomona First Baptist Church in Pomona.

Lutheran women will meet

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Pomona will meet at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, in the church hall.

Pastor Thomas Hendry will present a program of slides taken when he was serving several congregations in Brazil. Pastor Hendry served in Brazil for two years as a mission project financed by Concordia Seminary students. He is currently minister at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

The program and devotions have been arranged by Mrs. William Koch, Mrs. Wilford Binder and Mrs. Carl Halverson. In charge of the social hour will be Mrs. Carwyn Singleton, Mrs. Dale Reeves and Miss Hannah Tyndall.

MRS. BARBARA PRICE

President named by Lutherans

Mrs. Barbara Price, a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Pomona, was elected president of the Pacific Southwest Lutheran Church Women at their 15th annual convention held last week at the Asilomar Conference Grounds, Pacific Grove.

Pacific Southwest Lutheran Church Women is the official auxiliary of the Lutheran Church in America. Elected to the unit's executive board was Mrs. Diane M. Nelson, a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, also.

Over 250 congregations make up the Pacific Southwest unit which encompasses all of the states of California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and Hawaii. By virtue of her position as president of Lutheran Church Women Mrs. Price also becomes a regent of California Lutheran College in Thousand Oaks.

Mrs. Price has served as secretary of the Pacific Southwest Lutheran Church Women for the past three years. Prior to that time she was a member of the executive board for four years. She is employed locally as an accountant with Garey Penfield Corporation.

Mrs. Price is the widow of the Rev. Harold C. Price who was pastor for eight years at Trinity Lutheran Church, 787 S. Hamilton Blvd., Pomona. Pastor Price, who died of a heart attack one year ago, was very active in civic and community affairs. He was chairman of the Community Life Commission at the time of his death. Mrs. Price has three sons, Richard of Claremont, Robert of La Verne and Mark of Pomona.

Parish guild dance set

The Harvest Moon Ball is the name chosen for the parish dance to be sponsored by the St. Anthony's Guild of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Upland.

The affair will be held from 9 p.m. Saturday to 1 a.m. Sunday at the Father Joseph Mackey Memorial Hall of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Montclair. The hall is located at 5303 Orchard St., Montclair.

Music for the event will be presented by the Berger Brothers.

Mrs. John Sulluvan is dance chairman, assisted by Mmes. Ben DeFrank, tickets; Wallace Paprocki and William Ziese, decorations; Jack Firestone and Howard Moran, refreshments; Robert Tsuchiyama, arrangements; and Robert Monroe, publicity.

All parishioners and their friends are invited. Tickets will be sold at the door.

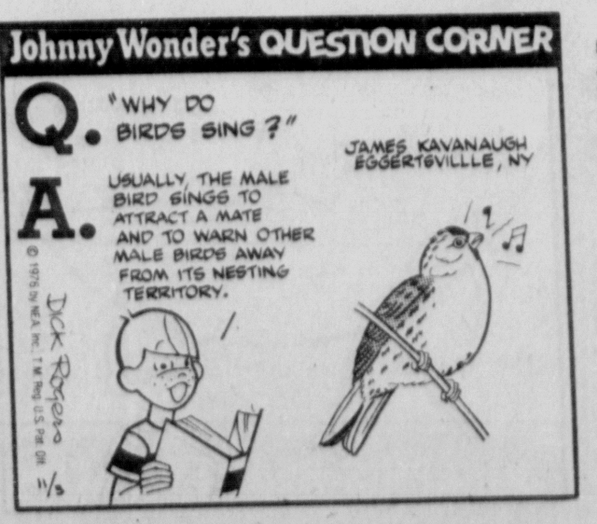
Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHY DO BIRDS SING?"

JAMES KAVANAUGH
EGGERTSVILLE, NY

A. USUALLY, THE MALE BIRD SINGS TO ATTRACT A MATE AND TO WARN OTHER MALE BIRDS AWAY FROM ITS NESTING TERRITORY.



People who know about birds tell us that birds sing as a way of communicating with other birds.

Birds do most of their singing during the mating and nesting season. Male birds do almost all of the singing.

Usually, the male bird sings to warn other male birds to stay away from his nesting territory. The same song may be used in courtship to attract the attention of the female bird.

Sometimes birds seem to sing just for the joy of making music. Each kind of singing bird has its own song.

Thrushes and song sparrows are among the best singers, and many other birds also have beautiful songs.

Not all birds sing well. Crows, loons, and blue jays, for examples, have unpleasant voices.

Birds often make sounds other than singing. A mother hen clucks to keep her chicks from scattering. She gives another call that warns them of danger.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

PURTY TALK — Ali Hakim (Tyler Learned) tries to sweet talk Ado Annie (Dee Dee Jernigan) in the Gallery Theater production of "Oklahoma!" The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical plays at the theater, C Street and Lemon Avenue, Ontario, at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays. Reservations can be made by calling 982-5357.

Players to offer 'Electra'

The Four Colleges Players of Claremont will present an unusual contemporary version of Euripides' "Electra" in Balch Auditorium, Scripps College, at 8 p.m. Nov. 17-21. Tickets are $3, general, $1 for students and senior citizens.

Starring in the Greek tragedy are Dey Young, Electra; Michael Mareneck, Orestes; Victoria Podesta, Clytemnestra; Jim Murtha, Messenger, and Ted Shay, Old Man.

Michael Bloom of the Scripps drama faculty is directing from an original translation by John Chioles of Stanford University. The abstract style, carried out through stark properties and costuming, stresses the psychological compulsiveness of the characters.

The choral odes will be in Greek. Bloom said, "It fits the abstraction of the play."

ERIC CLAPTON will headline a show at the Forum in Inglewood at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 22. Clapton's new album for RSO Records, "No Reason To Cry," was released last month.

Cal Poly to present original play with music

The Cal Poly drama department will present "In and Out," an original play with music, in the University Theater at 8 p.m. Nov. 12, 13, 18, 19 and 20 and Dec. 2, 3 and 4.

"In and Out" was conceived and directed by Robert L. Gilbert and Robert Ernst. It employs sound, music, vocal effects and movement, all integrated into a theatrical concept. Gilbert says, "It's like an experimental musical, with emphasis on experiment."

Bob Wilson, guest designer from Pomona College, has designed the sets, costumes and lighting, and Steve Morris has contributed dialogue.

Gilbert is chairman of the drama department, and Ernst is guest faculty member. They were founding members of the Center for New Performing Arts which was funded by Rockefeller grants.

Members of the cast are Diana Hamblin, Scott Hawkins, Kathryn Burns, Lucinda Dronberger, Jeffry Harrison and Jane Kellogg.

Tickets are $2.50 general admission, $2 for students.

Marble bust

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bust of Louis XVI has been acquired by the National Gallery of Art.

'Coal Miner's Daughter'

C-W star looks back

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — It's a long way from Butcher Holler, in Eastern Kentucky, to a suite in the Century Plaza Hotel here, but Loretta Lynn has made it. As the uncrowned queen of country music, she's made a lot more, too.

But there's still a lot of the backwoods girl in Loretta Lynn, and chances are that's the way she'll stay. She paddles around her room barefoot (although her toenails are polished) and she peppers her speech with a lot of Kentucky phrases.

She's short, dark-haired, stocky. She's unpretentious and friendly. And, on the strength of her way with a country ballad, she's also very rich.

She even owns a whole town — Hurricane Mills, in Tennessee. That's far from all. Being the uncrowned queen of country music is a financially rewarding position.

"I have a chain of western stores in Tennessee," she says. "A dude ranch. I own some of Memphis' electricity and Knoxville's water. Oh, Lordy, I can't remember what all."

Besides her home in Tennessee, Lynn has a "place" in Mexico, about 80 miles from Mazatlan. But she rarely sees either home. Most of her life is spent travelling around in her $200,000 bus, going from engagement to engagement.

The back part of the bus has been converted into a room for her, but most nights she sleeps in motels. She only sleeps in the bus when they have to travel at night to make the next engagement.

She's been doing this for years, averaging a few nights a month at home, the rest of the time out on the road. The pace is beginning to tell.

"I think," she says, "that I can only take it another two, three years. The pace is too much, being away from home and from my kids. I'd like to quit now, but I feel an obligation to keep at it some more."

There are, she explains, two obligations. One is to her fans, who want to see her in person. The other is to the people who booked her in her early years, when she was struggling up the country music ladder. They helped her when she needed help. She figures now, when she can return the favor, she owes them a debt.

So Lynn keeps on singing, keeps on travelling around in her bus, keeps on making millions. Strangely, she spends very little on herself.

"I deny myself things," she says. "I'll go into a dress shop with a girl, one of the back-up singers on my show. The girl will spend a lot of money on her gowns, but I'll buy the cheaper ones. The girl will buy $10 eyelashes and I'll buy $1.50 eyelashes.

"That's just the way I am. When you're dirt poor as a child, it comes hard to spend money later on, even when you have it."

But, she says, she denies her family nothing. She'll buy her husband, Doo, expensive gifts and the same for her children.

She tells the story of her impoverished childhood in graphic terms in her autobiography (with George Vecsey) called "Loretta Lynn: Coal Miner's Daughter."

She married at 14, quickly had the first four of her six children. At 16, she was picking strawberries in Washington state. And it was there, a few years later, that she first sang professionally — for $12.

"I had no education," she says. "A lot of horse sense but no book learning. I wish now that I had gone to school some more. I liked what little schooling I had."

Perhaps her biggest disappointment is that her children, who could have gone on to higher education, never did. She could have afforded to send them anywhere.

"I'm very disappointed in my kids," she says, "because of that. Only one of them — Cissy — finished high school. If I'd of had their chance, I would have studied. But when I was young, there was no high school in Butcher Holler — the nearest one was 12 miles away and there were no cars in Butcher Holler then."

She always sang, as a child, but never thought to turn professional until her husband pushed her into it. She likes all kinds of music, even opera, and believes maybe, if she'd grown up in another world, a world removed from Butcher Holler, she might have studied classical voice.

"I've sung duets with Roberta Peters of the Metropolitan Opera," she says. "We sang together at the Grand Ole Opry — she sang grand opera and I sang grand ole opry."

But country music is, of course, Lynn's first love. And she believes it is stronger now than it ever has been. It is spreading, too, she says.

"Me and Conway (Twitty) just broke a record in Washington, D.C.," she says. "And I was in a place in Pennsylvania and they had to turn people away. I've sung four times in Madison Square Garden in Manhattan and I always did well.

"And there are always teen-agers in the crowd, everywhere. I think today's kids like all kinds of music, not just rock. They're like me, in that. I enjoy music as long as it's good — country, rock, pop, opera."

Even though she's thinking of retiring, it's not from any disenchantment with singing. She enjoys singing as much today as she ever has.

"The only time I don't enjoy it," she says, "is when I have a cold and I know I won't be at my best.

"When you get to the top, it's hard. The folks always expect you to be the best. So I try and I'm disappointed when I'm not. I just can't understand people who get on drugs and sometimes can't even go on."

There's some talk of making a movie based on her book, a biographical film of her life.

"The fellows in my band tease me," she says. "They say that when they make that movie, my role ought to be played by Phyllis Diller."

Brink's guard robbed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police are searching for a gunman who robbed a Brink's guard of $51,000 in front of a Hollywood store, then ran through a crowd of shoppers, out a side door, and escaped in a waiting car.

Police said the guard was just leaving the Sears and Roebuck store after making a Monday afternoon cash pickup when he was robbed by the waiting bandit, armed with an automatic pistol.

Eyewitnesses to the robbery described the man as between 25 and 30 years old, about 5-feet-9, with blond hair and wearing a burgundy-colored shirt.

Doctor says 'toss coin' for flu shot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dr. Erwin Braff, director of disease control for the city Department of Health, says it's a 50-50 decision whether healthy persons under 60 should get inoculations against swine flu.

"You can toss a coin as well as I," Dr. Braff responded recently at a news conference when asked if such persons should get swine flu shots when they won't protect against Victoria flu.

Braff said earlier that recent Victoria flu epidemics of "significant proportions" have occurred in the southern hemisphere, making it "almost certain" that the Victoria-type of flu will hit California in winter.

Swine flu broke out in Ft. Dix, N.J., last winter. Epidemic experts decided that virus was a great threat for the coming winter.

Man booked for slaying

GOLETA (AP) — Santa Barbara County Sheriff's deputies have arrested a 21-year-old male wanted for questioning in connection with the bludgeoning death of a 71-year-old Las Vegas woman.

Sheriff's deputies said they arrested Brian Scott Pickworth for allegedly being under the influence of drugs, and then found jewelry in the young man's pocket believed to have belonged to the slain woman.

Pickworth was being held for Las Vegas police.

Tire picker

VIENNA (AP) — A mobile device that roams the streets picking up and recycling some of the 500,000 tires discarded annually in and around Vienna was purchased recently by the city administration.

Griswold's, LVC plan eight-week film fete

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
T.S. No. 76-28398

On November 23, 1976, at 10:00 A.M., FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION, as duly appointed Trustee under and pursuant to Deed of Trust June 10, 1975 recorded June 12, 1975, as inst. No. 1521, in book T-9453, page 396, of Official Records in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, State of California, will sell at public auction to highest bidder for cash (payable at time of sale in lawful money of the United States) at the entrance of the Los Angeles County Court-house, at 501 West First Street in the City of Los Angeles, California, all right, title and interest conveyed to and now held by it under said Deed of Trust in the property situated in said County and State described as:

Lot 21, Tract 19874, in the City of Pomona, as per map recorded in Book 510 Pages 3 to 7 inclusive of Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of said County.

The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 2498 Leebe Avenue, Pomona, Calif. 91766.

The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein.

Said sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest as in said note provided, advances, if any, under the terms of said Deed of Trust, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust.

The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and a written Notice of Default and Election to Sell. The undersigned caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located.
